THE MAYOR'S OFFICE.

The Tribune finds itself in an embarrassing position with reference to the selection of a candidate for mayor of Thief River Falls, first because one of the candidates happens to be J. S. Arneson, publisher and editor of this newspaper, and second because his opponent, Norman J. Silk, well known Soo Line conductor, is an honorable and well qualified candidate for the position he seeks. The ethics of the case seem to dictate, therefore, that the arguments to be advanced in favor or against either candidate be made by the citizens' committee in charge of the opposing camps.

Just this word in our last issue before election: J. S. Arneson will be extremely happy to be selected as mayor of Thief River Falls, but pledges himself to give his unstinted support to every good civic move inaugurated by Mr. Silk should he be the one favored by the voters next Tuesday.

We hope the voters of Thief River Falls will not overlook the fact that one of the candidates for mayor is "finer than Silk."

If you cannot see that Thief River Falls with its immense rich trade territory is destined to be the biggest and best town in northwestern Minnesota, then we say, you are in urgent need of the services of an oculist.

ELECTING A COUNCIL.

The Tribune will not presume to suggest to the voters of the city whom they should select for council members in the coming city election, but this newspaper has some notions as to the proper qualifications which should be outstanding in those who run the affairs of the municipality for the next two years.

To begin with, a member of the council should be one who will give to the economic affairs of the city the same careful thought and consideration that he would give to his own business. In other words it must be his constant endeavor to get a dollar's worth of value for every dollar of the tax payer's money expended.

If he has not the time and the inclination to study and inform himself upon matters which come before him for judgement and criticism, then he is unfit for the job. If his purpose to serve on the council is not based upon a sincere desire to serve all the people of the city, friend and foe alike, then he is decidedly out of place on the council.

The voters should see to it that men are selected who are capable of thinking and acting at all times for the best interests of the city, men who are big enough and broad enough to stand on their own bottoms. As we see it the demand should be for real men, not pawns.

This is a time when the publis purse strings must be drawn tight to the end that not a single penny be spent unwisely, and we believe it to be the honest judgement of all that men should be selected who will be extremely chary of any expansion of city improvements which will further embarrass the tax payers at least until such time as the people are in better position to pay the bills—and then only when public assent has been given in a way which cannot be misunderstood by any public servant.

To sum up, the matter is up to the voters, and if every voter will exercise his or her best judgement we have no doubt the city's affairs will be placed in safe hands.

COOLIDGE SELECTS KELLOGG.

We hope there is no mistake about the reported selection of Frank B. Kellogg to be ambassador to Great Britain. In this capacity Mr. Kellogg will be at his very best. He never was cut out for United States senator for the very good reason that the art of practical politics is beyond him. He failed to grasp the essentials of office holding, which calls for acrobatics rather than statesmanship.

In Mr. Kellogg we observe the ideal ambassador to a foreign court. Mr. Kellogg's knowledge of this country is not confined to the effete east, but has been broadened by extensive traveling over every state in the Union. Upon all state occasions he will shine with real western lustre and in the council of nations involving the interests of America he will be able to bring into play his encyclopedia of practical knowledge concerning our home conditions.

In his selection of Mr. Kellogg the President of the United States has honored himself and the great Northwest.

If Roger Babson could have seen the big meeting of farmers and business men at Goodridge last Wednesday night, and a still larger meeting of similar character at Holt Saturday night, when the topic of conversation was optimism, alfalfa and sweet clover, he would have received the best tonic for shattered business nerves he ever got in his system. When town and country combine in a friendly spirit of co-operation along helpful lines, then the business of the agitator disappears like the morning dew.

Our friend Mussey, of the Grygla Eagle, apparently failed to enthuse over The Tribune's attempt to get better roads for Grygla to Goodridge. He hands the Electric Line a verbal slap on the wrist for its failure to grasp the potential possibilities of the Grygla country as a shipping point. In order to save transfer charges the Grygla folks are now going to favor Holt as a shipping point. ((Attention, Mr. Protzeller.)

The greatest single factor in the upbuilding of this community is the Farmers Co-operative creamery which is located in this city. Therefore it is the bounden duty and should be the pleasure of every citizen to boost for it. It is the sheet anchor of future prosperity and unfriendly action against this valuable institution is a blow at our very foundation.

Go down to Hazel and see old Tom Sumpter if you think there is anythinng the matter with this country. He has 240 acres of alfalfa, sweet clover and corn. To say nothing of a herd of contented cows and a drove of hogs who grunt with satisfaction. Sumpter's mission in life seems to be handing out pink pills to pale people.

We wish to correct the impression that we had in mind the organization of political cliques in the community when we dropped a hint concerning the formation of a number of local bull associations.

Old man gloom is sick unto death in this community. Peace be to his ashes and plenty of green alfalfa to mark his resting place.

The defeated candidates for office next Tuesday may reflect that the troubles of their successful opponents are just about to begin.

The man who gives his own business the attention it requires seldom has time to talk very much about his neighbors.

GREAT PHOTO PLAY COMING

"Brass" Reveals Very Absorbing Story of Marriage and Divorce.

A picture of unusual strength and quality is promised patrons of the Princess theatre next Sunday and Monday, when "Brass" is scheduled as the attraction. Manager Brumund feels confident that this picture will prove one of the best shown in a long time.

Marriage, as practiced nowadays by the cynical and careless, gets an awful body blow in "Brass," a powerful Warner Brothers classic of the screen adapted from the novel by Charles G. Norris, with Monte Blue and Marie Prevost in the featured roles.

Not only the silliness of people going into marriage without knowing each other well, but their readiness in exiting and bee-lining for the divorce court is shown, in a way unforgettable indeed. It must not be supposed that there is any sober preachment in the picture; far from it. "Brass" tells a corking good story, a story that moves every minute of the time it is projected on the screen, and that delights the big audiences that behold it. Absorbing as few pictures can be, with a plot crammed with action, "Brass" should be seen by everybody in need of genuine enjoyment.

Northern Minnesota Gets Touch of Winter Weather But No Snow to Speak Of

People in this section of the state have during the past few days been treated to a sample of the kind of weather which will within a few weeks no doubt be handed out pretty liberally hereabouts. The temperature has gone down to several degrees below the freezing point, which puts a pleasing twang into the air and makes a red blooded man feel like a million dollars. A few slight flurries of snow have appeared at different times but not enough of the beautiful has yet fallen to cover the ground.

Garages have been doing a thriving business in wood alcohol and other preparations to keep automobile radiators from freezing, and a few who have neglected such precautions are now experiencing considerable grief because of bursted radiators and water jackets in their cars. Most folks have worked overtime during the week in putting on storm windows and making other arrangements in anticipation of a long cold spell. Old timers predict this section still has several weeks of "Indian summer" coming and refuse to get excited just because the mornings happen to be a little chilly.

Real Convicts Escape in Jail Deliverv of Movies But Are Soon Unearthed

Make Believe Scene Taken Advantage of by Honest-to-Goodness Jail Birds in Effort to Escape.

Once in a rare while things go wrong in the movies in quite a surprising manner but rarely if ever does a jail delivery take place in which real honest-to-goodness convicts escape.

This is what actually happened, however, in the filming of some prison scenes in "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" the picture that is said to be one of the biggest heart punch pictures of many years and which comes to the Princess theatre Friday and Saturday.

Scenes were being shot of the hero of the picture helping the warden escape severe punishment at the hands of a gang of supposedly escaping convicts. The escaping convicts were motion picture actors dressed as convicts. During the filming of this big punch escape scene two real convicts got mixed up with the actors portraying the parts and beat their way to safety. Not knowing that these two real convicts were among the actors no one paid any attention to them and they made good their escape. Half an hour later they were missed and an alarm sounded. They were recaptured under a railroad bridge where they had hidden themselves and were led back to their cells. They seemed to enjoy their experience hugely. The escape scenes and railroad locomotive smash-up in "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" constitute some of the biggest punch scenes ever registered in the movies.

To The Voters

Our city is in dire need of a council that will cut out all waste of money and all unnecessary improvements. The tax rate has increased under the present council from 31.6 mills in 1920 to 38.3 mills in 1922, with chances of still higher in 1923. This must be stopped before all home-owners are driven from the city.

The filtration plant is a striking monument to the inefficiency and poor judgment of the present city administration. Every voter should examine this building before election day.

The candidates whose names appear in this advertisement are common workers, home-owners and taxpayers. They feel the burden of high taxes as no other class and will practice economy and work for lower taxes. If you are interested in the welfare of this city, vote for them, otherwise our votes will be scattered, and the old members will slip in on a plurality vote.

LIFE INSURANCE

Funny Stories and Sad Pictures

Mark Twain once said, "The weather—the weather, everybody is always talking about it—but nobody does anything."

Many men — husbands, fathers and sons—are the same way. They talk about their responsibilities, but few of them do anything.

They will look at the picture above and admit that they do not want their wives—their children those dependent upon them—left penniless, alone and unequipped to meet the stern struggles of the world.

These men should all know that life insurance is an inexpensive guarantee against this very situation.

I would like the opportunity of explaining in detail the various forms of protection—one of which will be sure to fit your particular responsibilities.

Think it over. I shall see you soon.

(This space is to be paid for at regular advertising rates by Arneson for Mayor Committee, F. F. Haynes, Chairman.)

Some Reasons Why We Believe J. S. Arneson Should Be Elected Mayor of Thief River Falls

A voluntary committee of voters of the city submit the following observations as to the candidacy of Mr. Arneson for Mayor:

FIRST: One of the matters in which every taxpayer is vitally interested at the present juncture, is that of economy in the expenditure of the city's money.

In this connection, we know where Mr. Arneson stands. He is a taxpayer; every dollar he possesses is invested in the city. He believes that a strict check should be maintained on the expenditures of the city's funds; that the burden on the taxpayer should be lessened, rather than increased by undertaking new improvements at this time; that strict economy in the conduct of the affairs of the city is essential; that its various departments be conducted on a business-like and economical plan.

He is on record in this regard, and most earnestly pledges himself to do what may be done by him, if elected Mayor, to bring about an economical and efficient administration.

SECOND: Another vital matter, no less important, is that of law enforcement.

The vast majority of the citizens of the city are for the enforcement of the law. No self-respecting citizen can have any sympathy for the moonshiner or bootlegger. In this connection, we not only want officials who are in favor of law enforcement, but who know how to bring it about. Mr. Arneson is on record in this regard. During the past two years he has consistently and steadily interested himself, personally and through the columns of his paper, in the enforcement and observance of the law. If elected Mayor, he will know exactly how to proceed with his law enforcement policy.

His principles on the subject and his experience and qualifications, are such that we believe he is a man, who, as Mayor of the city, would bring about results in this vital matter of enforcing the law.

THIRD: A third persuasive reason for Mr. Arneson's election we believe, is found when the duties and functions of the Mayor are considered.

One of the Mayor's chief functions is to act as spokesman for the city. When we elect a spokesman, we most decidedly want a man who will, under all conditions, and at all times, speak well of the city, and surrounding community. We need hardly call attention to Mr. Arneson's record in this regard. Through the columns of his newspaper, in his personal activity, as member of various committees and organizations, he has been one of the most outstanding boosters for Thief River Falls and the country surrounding it, that the city has ever had. He has spent cheerfully of his time and energy in every undertaking that has been of benefit to the community. He has interested himself particularly in movements whose objective has been the betterment of farming conditions in this vicinity. He is now, in conjunction with farmers and business men of the city, working strenuously to further the alfalfa and sweet clover campaign.

He believes that what benefits the farmer, benefits the city; that the city's function and reason for existence, is its ability to serve the entire community. Only so far as it renders such service is it entitled to grow and prosper.

To have a booster in the position of Mayor is, therefore, of most vital concern to the city. The community is just emerging from a period of depression. Many people are despondent. Optimism is at a premium. Yet it is the optimists to whom we must look for better times. It is just in times like these that the booster can do the most good. Farming conditions must be improved; business conditions in the city must be improved; the booster and the booster spirit alone can bring about this improvement.

Better and more business in the city means reduced taxes, because the tax spread will be greater. We are, therefore, vitally concerned in putting into office, men who are interested in the city's and community's welfare. Mr. Arneson is such a man.

Furthermore, we believe he is a man who can, as Mayor, do more effective boosting for the community than perhaps any other man in the city. As editor of his paper, he speaks to a large circle of listeners. With a wide acquaintance in the cities, and throughout the state, he is in a position to give the city most desirable publicity.

We believe his election would, in no small measure, help to liven up business, help to bring in settlers, help to improve agricultural conditions, help to produce more jobs and work for those who depend upon their labor for a living, help in all these things, because he is, has been and always will be, as Mayor or as a private citizen, a consistent booster, and an effective worker for the welfare of the community.

These observations we offer in the hope that they may be of assistance to the voter, in coming to a decision on the important question: "For whom shall I vote?" We hope that that decision will be, to vote for J. S. Arneson for Mayor.

Respectfully submitted,
Campaign Committee.
By F. F. HAYNES, Chairman.

We are all anxious to get a taste of the first game of the hunting season and the first Lutefisk should have an equal charm. Expert chefs will be imported for the occasion but all other workers will be drafted from among the natives. The ladies will no doubt welcome this opportunity to secure momentary respite from their household duties and will be keen to watch the culinary abilities of their other halves. Remember the time and place: Thief Lake church, Saturday, November 3 from 5 until 11 p. m. The roads are in the pink of condition.

Home Talent Play to Be Presented Here Nov. 10

The three-act play, "Back to the Farm" will be presented by an all home talent cast Saturday, November 10 at the high school auditorium. Regular rehearsals are being conducted under the direction of Miss Dena Eikness of the high school faculty. "Back to the Farm" has a record of being a sure-to-hit play wherever it has been presented and considerable local interest has been created in the presentation of this well known comedy-drama. Replete with humor and pathos, "Back to the Farm" promises an evening of keen amusement and entertainment.

Rose Meade, the pretty and vivacious school ma'am of the story, is played by Martha Anderson. Merton Merril, who demonstrates that to be a farmer does not necessarily mean to be a "hayseed" is played by Elmer Tandberg. The part of Mr. Ashley, the attorney, is played by Anton Yngve. Mr. Allen, typical Yankee and chronic weather prophet, will be impersonated by Bertil Sollem. Mr. and Mrs. Merrill will be played by J. Nystul and Bergit Anderson. Cultivate Cheerful Thoughts.

No one can do work when the mind is clouded with unhappy or vicious thoughts. The mental sky must be clear or there can be no enthusiasm, no brightness, clearness, or efficiency in our work. To do the maximum of which you are capable, you must keep your mind filled with cheerful, uplifting thoughts.

Thought for the Day.

It is vastly better to get a man to work with you than merely to work for you.

Arneson Defeats Silk in Mayoralty Race

NEXT CITY COUNCIL TO BE NEW MATERIAL WITH ONE EXCEPTION; CAMPAIGN CLEAN AND SPIRITED

Total Vote More Than 500 Below Record; Many-Sided Contests Made Results Uncertain in Many Cases.

After a campaign which in many instances became quite strenuous, a new city administration was chosen by the voters of Thief River Falls at the election held on Tuesday. As a result of the balloting the following will occupy positions in the city government for the next two years:

Mayor—J. S. Arneson.

Treasurer—Ed. Evenson.

Municipal Judge—N. W. Tarrant.

Special Municipal Judge—Scott Laird.

Alderman, First Ward—T. A. Fossum.

Alderman, Second Ward—Chris Porter.

Alderman, Fourth Ward—O. A. Rambeck.

A total of 1,399 votes were cast in the election, which is more than 500 below the record vote cast in a national campaign. Mr. Arneson, mayor-elect, carrier every ward in the city over his opponent, N. J. Silk, and came out with a majority of 211 votes. Treasurer Evenson had no opposition for re-election and received practically a solid vote.

Judge Tarrant proved the best vote getter, winning out by a vote of 899 against a total of 460 for his two opponents. Chris Porter also made a good run in the second, getting exacly half the votes cast in a three cornered contest. M. V. Evenson and Oscar Paulson led the field by comfortable margins in a field of six candidates for aldermen-at-large. In the Third ward, where there were but two candidates, H. A. Brumund, present member of the council, defeated his opponent, Carsten Christensen, by 30 votes. In the First ward the three cornered fight resulted in the defeat of the present alderman, Carl Froseth and the election of T. A. Fossum.

The Fourth ward brought out the closest contest of the day. Here Andrew Ness, present member of the council running for re-election, lacked just three votes of having enough to tie his successful opponent, O. A. Rambeck. There were four candidates in this ward but the other two were left far in the rear.

Library Board Asks for Better Use of Magazines and Other Publications

In order to increase the efficiency of the library and to make of it a clearing house for desirable reading matter, the library board is working on a plan which should receive the hearty support of every resident of the city.

It is the intention of the board to offer to those who desire them a large number of copies of magazines and periodicals, gathered from homes and other sources. Some of these periodicals may be slightly out of date but the reading matter is of such character that this should make but little difference.

Anyone having copies of magazines which have been read and are of no more use, will confer a favor by donating them to the library board to be used for the purpose above stated. These publications can be made to serve a much better purpose by being passed on to other readers as soon as the original buyer is through with them. The long winter evenings are approaching and this class of reading matter will no doubt find a ready demand at the library.

COUNTY BUDGET FOR SALVATION ARMY IS $2,000

Home Service Campaign to Be Carried on November 12 to 17 Inclusive.

No Difficulty Anticipated in Raising the Entire Sum Required By Army.

The annual Salvation Army Home Service campaign in Pennington county is set for the week of November 12 to November 17, inclusive. The county budget is $2,000.

At the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls Commercial club last week the Salvation Army campaign was endorsed and the following committee was appointed to sponsor the campaign: Theo. Quale, county chairman; Albert Lonson, treasurer; G. W. Connell, W. W. Prichard, Jr., and Emil Zeh. A house to house canvass will be made in the residential section of Thief River Falls by women, each ward having a chairman who will appoint the required number of solicitors. The ward chairmen are as follows: First ward, Mrs. Geo. Biddick; Second ward, Mrs. O. G. Storholm; Third ward, Mrs. J. M. Bishop; Fourth ward, Mrs. Ted Hunt.

A statement from Captain Christina Larson shows that the local Salvation Army Corps for the year ending September 30, 1923, gave relief to 367 persons. This item in itself should appeal to the public spirited people of this community to the extent of raising the budget for this most worthy cause for humanity. The local corps held 350 meetings throughout the county with a total attendance of 4,355, indoor meetings, 176, attendance 893; poor families visited 259, and relief given to 57. A girl from Thief River Falls was recently sent to the Salvaton Army Rescue Home at St. Paul.

Two More Skeletons Are Found in Gravel Pit on Farm West of This City

Workmen removing gravel from the pit near the Funnesdahl farm west of Thief River Falls this week unearthed two more skeletons, which were discovered at a depth of only a few feet. It will be recalled that another skeleton was found in this pit about ten days ago.

The two skeletons found were situated close together, side by side, in a reclining position. In this they differed from the first one found there as this indicated that the dead person had been buried in a sitting posture. The skeletons are in a fair state of preservation and unmistakable evidence in the form of bear claws and other trinkets was discovered to prove the skeletons of Indian origin. This leads to the belief that the first skeleton discovered was also that of an Indian, and that the Funnesdahl gravel pit at some time in the distant past was used by the red men as a burying ground.

Thief River's Golf Club to Open Party Series at Norway Sons Hall Friday

Arrangements have been made by the Thief River Golf club to hold a series of combination dance and card parties at the Sons of Norway hall, the first to be given next Friday evening, November 9. The ladies will be in charge of refreshments. At least four and possibly five of these parties will be held during the season. to take place on the second Friday evening of each month. The proceeds, above expenses, are to be used toward the construction of a screened-in building on the golf course, with ladies' and men's retiring room, of sufficient size so that dances can be held.

It has been decided that those who are not members of the golf club and wish to attend these parties, may do so upon the payment of $5 for the season, with a definite understanding that they are to become members of the club the coming year. Many new members have already been secured under this arrangement, and it is the desire of the club to increase its membership as much as possible.

A number of the older golf players, who are competent to give lessons, have promised to come to the assistance of new members in learning the details of the game.

Campaign Started by Bankers Spreads Over County Like Wildfire.

The alfalfa campaign for Pennington county recently inaugurated under the auspices of the Bankers' association, is coming along in fine shape and rapid progress is being made in putting the program into operation. Last week questionnaires were sent to the farmers of the county requesting information about the farmer's alfalfa plans, asking him whether he is a grower of alfalfa, if he has seed for sale, if he wishes to plant alfalfa next year, and other information concerning the subject. Up to date more than three hundred answers have been received, which indicates that keen interest is felt among the farmers in the subject of alfalfa. Without exception those answering the questionnaires express a desire to put in more alfalfa next year than ever before, and the seed promises to be in lively demand here.

The question of seed has been cared for by the committee and no difficulty is anticipated in filling all orders with good seed at a reasonable figure. Local seed will be used first, according to Chairman Thronson having the matter in charge, and all of it will be of the certified Grimm variety. When such a step becomes necessary it is planned to form an alfalfa growers' association in order to handle seed and other questions in a more efficient manner.

Genuine interest has been aroused among the farmers of Penington county in the alfalfa program and present indications are that no trouble will be experienced by the Bankers association in securing the ten thousand additional acres of alfalfa in the county as originally planned when the campaign was started.

CROP SHOW SET IN ALMOST ALL SMALL DETAILS

Success of First Annual Exhibition Seems Absolutely Assured.

Things look bright indeed for the success of the Annual Crop and Poultry Shows to be held in Thief River Falls for four days, December 4, 5, 6 and 7. The shows are to be held under the combined auspices of the Thief River Falls Commercial club, the Pennington County Poultry association and the Pennington County Farm Bureau, and all of these organizations are actively engaged in the task of putting the project across in A No. 1 style.

In a general way the show will be divided into four distinct days with a particular feature for each. The first will be Poultry Day, the second Sugar Beet and Potato Day, the third Corn and Dairy Day, while the fourth will be Alfalfa Day.

In the crop division competition will be open to farmers of Pennington county and the following townships in Marshall county: Viking, New Solum, Excel, Adger, Grand Plain, Moylan and Esplee. No entry fees are charged in this division, but application for space should reach the general manager, secretary or the department superintendent not later than November 28, with statement as to number and kind of exhibits. All first and second prize entries will be entered at the Crookston Winter Show, both as individual exhibits and as a county exhibit.

The speaking program will be exceptionally strong. In addition to the speakers heretofore mentioned, negociations are now under way by which it is hoped to secure Governor Nestos of North Dakota and Dr. Prosser of Dunwoody Institute. A variety of high class musical numbers will also be presented each day during the show. The program is now rapidly taking shape and will be definitely announced within a few days.

Crowd Thrilled When Lloyd Performed Climb

Wherever "Safety Last," Harold Lloyd's latest feature comedy for Pathe is shown, it unquestionably will win the applause of the entire audience. But even the most enthusiastic applause can't compare with the cheering of the crowd that witnessed the filming of the climb in "Safety Last." This picture will be shown at the Princess next Sunday and Monday.

Somehow the news got about that the famous comedian was to use the Bank of Italy building at the corner of First and Spring streets in Los Angeles to film a scene for one of his forthcoming productions. Three hours before the comedian arrived, the streets around the tall building were crowded with admirers of the star. When Harold appeared on the scene, he was noisily welcomed, and as the directors and cameramen made their preparations, the crowd settled down, expecting to see the filming of a comic street scene.

They saw, instead, one of the most daring stunts ever performed for the camera. As Harold continued his climb, the huge audience showed its appreciation by breathless interest, applauding now and then at some especially reckelss performance by the star, but, on the whole, watching the comedian in tense admiration.

FOLKS OBSERVE KIDS IN ACTION IN SCHOOL ROOM

Meeting of Parent-Teachers on Tuesday Evening Largely Attended.

Seventh and Eighth Grades Put Through Paces For Visitors' Benefit.

Monday evening's meeting of the Parent-Teachers association was in many respects the most interesting and instructive of any held since the organization of that body. Following the recent trip of a Tribune representative through the schools, an account of which appeared in these columns last week, it evidently occurred to others that they would like to enjoy the same privilege, and therefore a part of the program Monday evening consisted of showing the seventh and eighth grades in session. The meeting was held at the Central school building and was very largely attended.

The children did not seem to be in the least embarrassed because of the fact that they were being closely watched by their elders. They recited clearly and with precision, showing close attention to the subject at hand and the effects of careful training. Many expressions of commendation were heard from the visitors who crowded the rooms and corridors of the building.

At the close of the school sessions the meeting adjourned to the assembly room, where a very enjoyable program was rendered. Principal Morris Bye gave a strong talk to the parents, pleading for closer co-operation in the matter of getting pupils to do the most effective work possible. Coach Thune followed with a very interesting talk concerning athletic activities in the school. Other very entertaining numbers on the program were a vocal duet by Misses Vistaunet and Richter, a piano solo by Lucille Hermanson, and a piano and violin number by Eileen and Henry Arneson. After the close of the program delicious refreshments were served.

The next meeting of the association will be held on the first Monday evening in December in the Lincoln high school building, at which time another good program wll be arranged.

WARREN COMING FOR GRID FIGHT

Last Game of Season for Locals to Be Played Next Saturday.

The football season isn't over yet in Thief River Falls. The weather is altogether too nice to pass up a chance for another game and for this reason Coach Thune of the high school team grabbed at the opportunity offered him of putting his proteges against the Warren high school team on the local grounds next Saturday afternoon. The game has been called for 2:45.

While the local team has been unable to win any games this season, the boys are now getting in such shape that any team which defeats them will have reason to know that it has been in a battle. Last Saturday the locals lost to the Crookston Aggie team by the close score of 6 to 9, and in many respects they had it over their opponents. They feel confident that they can turn the last game of the season into a win.

A good bunch of rooters always help a team to win and it is up to the Thief River Falls friends of the high school boys to do their share next Saturday by turning out to the game in large numbers.

ARMISTICE

Back of the security and freedom of our great nation stand those silent sentinels who made the supreme sacrifice that it might be so. We can never repay that debt save through lives of consecration to Freedom, Liberty and Peace.

As America's power was felt in the greatest war of history, then was victory assured. Suffering humanity knows why we pay perpetual homage to those brave souls and is ever entreating us to push on. In proportion as we maintain those ideals, we need have no fear.

We welcome Armistice Day and all of the noble resolves it stirs within the breasts of our fellow countrymen. We want to join you in paying tribute to our nation's heros.

Annual Poultry Show to Be Held at Plummer Soon

The fourth annual Red Lake County Poultry show will be held at Plummer December 14 to 17 according to G. A. Krueger, president of the Red Lake County Poultry association.

This year's show promises to be one of the big poultry expositions in Northern Minnesota and will receive the hearty support of all poultry fanciers in Red Lake county. Mr. Krueger is arranging for the printing of the premium lists for the show and was in the city to ascertain the amount of advertising that could be expected for the book.

At a meeting of the Red Lake Falls Commercial club held Monday evening the president of the club was given the authority to appoint a local committee to solicit the advertising from the business houses. This will no doubt be accomplished within the next few days.

He laughed at first—

But the Japanese Disaster Changed his Mind.

"Why should I join the Red Cross?" he asked. But three days later he picked up a newspaper chronicling the story of the Japanese earthquake and the immediate relief furnished by the American Red Cross.

It completely changed his mind. Today he is not only a member of the Red Cross, but one of its most ardent supporters in this city.

Since 1881, the American Red Cross has spent $20,000,000 in disaster relief. In six years it has spent $163,000,000 in service to America's disabled veterans of the World War and their families. Daily the activities of the Red Cross Public Health Nurse are being extended to rural communities throughout the United States where proper health facilities are inadequate. Daily the Red Cross is preparing four million children in American schools for a better citizenship.

Low Earnings of the Western Railroads

The Interstate Commerce Commission made the following statements in its Report of October 11, 1923, in the case which was brought to secure lower freight rates on grain, grain products and hay. The words enclosed thus ( ) are inserted by us:

> "The (fair) rate of return as fixed by us is shown as 5.75 per cent, and the 1922 return of carriers in the Western Group averages less than 4 per cent. For the first four months of 1923, the average was about 4.1 % (on a yearly basis). (Later figures show that for the first eight months ending August 31, 1923, the earnings of the Western Railroads were at the rate of 4¼ per cent per year.)"
> "Carriers in the Western Group have been and are now earning considerably less than the presrcibed return, and apparently less than the fair return to which they are entitled under their constitutional rights entirely independent of Section 15 a ((Transportation Act, 1920)."
> "Seemingly, from the record, it is improbable that a reduction in the present rates on the commodities in issue would so increase the movement of commodities as to enable the carriers to make up to any appreciable extent the loss in revenue should a general reduction in these rates be ordered."
> "Of prime importance to the agricultural industry and to the country in general, is an adequate and efficient transportation service. The extent to which a market rate reduction would disable the carriers generally or particular carriers in the performance of this service is of great consequence.

The above statements by the Interstate Commerce Commission show that the present earnings of the grain carrying railroads of the West are low, and that these roads are not prospering at the expense of the farmer.

G. R. HUNTINGTON,
President.

GREAT NORTHERN URGES SAFETY

Be Careful at Grade Crossings

Almost daily there is reported a very large loss of life through preventable accidents, and many people who are not killed outright are maimed and crippled in such accidents.

Carelessness in crossing railroad tracks was responsible for more of these accidents than any other one cause. They are public as well as individual misfortunes. Your turn may come next if you too are not careful. Recklessness on your part will menace those on the train as well as yourself.

There is always a train coming; it may be nearer than you think. A track ahead always means great danger.

About eighty per cent of all automobile drivers do not stop or look in either direction before crossing a railroad track; in about twenty per cent of automobile crossing accidents the automobile is run into the side of a train. No such accidents could happen if automobile and other drivers were careful at every grade crossing.

The train cannot turn out for the automobile, and must cross the highways at its usual speed in order to maintain the service that the people need and demand.

Railroad employees and railroad companies are showing praiseworthy zeal and making rapid progress in the adoption of safety precautions and the liberal use of safety appliances in shops and switching yards as well as on the line. What is being done along this line will be more fully developed in another talk.

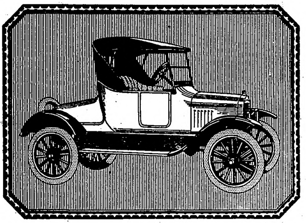
THE UNIVERSAL CAR



New Roadster

Business men—with whom the runabout has always been very popular—are well pleased with the changes embodied in this model.

Always rugged, the car has been made decidedly trimmer and more comfortable.

This result is obtained by raising the radiator and enlarging the cowl; making a decided improvement in looks and providing more leg room.

A well designed top and slanting windshield do their share toward adding a finished, clean-cut appearance.

Make it a point to see the other new models also on display in the nearest Ford dealer's show room.

Copper Contributions.

Editor Lee in the last issue of the Lutheran Church Herald, in speaking of the stringent financial condition among the farmers of the Northwest, says that the money asked for by the church has not bankrupted any one. He says the copper cent is church money; that the little boy is given 10, 15 or 25 cents when going to the movie but the copper cent is enough when he goes to Sunday school, and even that is sometimes forgotten, because admission is free. The nickel goes into the contribution box, but the quarter is passed over the counter for a couple of cigars after service.—Glenwood Herald.

Armistice Day

FIVE Years after the world's great catastrophe, America pays homage to men who fell upon the field of honor. Today this great nation, dedicated to the principles of liberty, celebrates this momentous event of the greatest victory at arms in history. Five years have passed, and wounds of the bitterest struggle of all mankind are gradually healing. Since that eventful day of 1918 the nations of the earth have taken a decided step toward universal peace by naval disarmament. Let us rejoice and and give blessing.

THE ELECTION.

It goes without saying that The Tribune is pleased with the outcome of the city election. The most gratifying feature of all is the fact that the election passed off without personalities of any kind. That is as it should be. We are all members of a common municipal family, all aiming to do our level best towards the upbuilding of the community, and the friendly rivalry which characterized the voting yesterday augurs well for the future of the city.

Thief River Falls is a great little city, destined to be one of the best in northwestern Minnesota, and the men who will guide the business affairs of the city for the ensuing two years are men of character and ability. This is a good time to forget our petty differences and to set ourselves firmly to the task of making this city one of service to the community, remembering that in unity and harmony there is strength. Many important matters will come up for consideration during the next two years but there is every reason to believe that the council elected will tackle the work before it with full regard for the future of the city and the rights of the tax payers.

A representative of the Minneapolis Trust company who visited Thief River Falls last week whispered this in the ear of the editor of The Tribune: "Your section is so much better off than other communities in the Northwest that there is no basis for comparison. Your indebtedness is comparatively smaller, your farms are better kept and you have made a real start in diversified farming. We have had no delinquent loans in your section and no foreclosures." This is not a new story so far as this newspaper is concerned, but it is the gospel truth and we desire to broadcast it so that every gloomy individual who sees red at all times may read it as he runs.

The reason mother never finds fault with the Volstead law is that it does not interfere with home serving of Holstein highballs or Guernsey cocktails.

Those unfortunate individuals who are putting in their winter's supply of coal these days are not wearing Governor Pinchot's picture in their watch charms.

It seems that Knut Wefald and Rev. Kvale are to be relieved of the selection of postmasters in their respective congressional districts. For which they are no doubt duly grateful.

The boys who wear their hair in a hairnet may be pretty to look at but when it comes to electing United States senators the people seem to prefer men who have manure on their boots and milk spots scattered over heir bell bottomed overalls.

They say Waldje Christenson arouses his hens to action by using an alarm clock which goes off at 4:30 these chilly mornings. It is to be hoped that the roosters who belong to the union and like to sleep will take action against such unseemly open shop methods.

The Great Northern could not have found a more ideal hiding place for their new depot if they had fine combed all the recesses east of the reservation line. But they have a way out. They can buy up the surrounding property and add to the general appearance of this end of town by establishing a nice little park which will make the depot loom up like a yoke of oxen on the main street.

The editor of The Tribune is deeply indebted to the voters of the city for the splendid manner in which they rallied to his support in yesterday's election and is not unmindful of the fine consideration shown him by the opposition. To live in a city like Thief River Falls, surrounded by loyal friends, is a priceless concession which should bring out the best there is in any man, and th sole ambtion of the new mayor is to merit the confidence of the people of the city.

An Iowa man who bought a quarter section of land near St. Hilaire some years ago, expecting to reap a rich harvest from the labor of those who had improved the soil, emits a howl in Sunday's issue of the Minneapolis Journal which would almost provoke a laughing hyena to tears. He complains bitterly over taxes in the community. He does not want roads, schools or other improvements. This speculator is only looking for profits, and, having failed, he seeks revenge upon Pennington county by delivering an attack upon the community which is as unjust and unreasonable as it is damnably false.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1923. THE THIEF RIVER FALLS TRIBUNE

BOOSTERS MEET HERE SATURDAY

To increase interest in diversified farming and to promote a greater acreage of alfalfa and sweet clover in this section, the Middle River Commercial club has arranged a general get-to-gether of business men and farmers at the M. W. A. hall for Saturday evening, November 10 at 8:00 o'clock. Alfalfa and sweet clover have been grown with excellent success by a number of farmers in this vicinity and it is the intention of the Commercial club to bring together at this meeting the farmers and the business men in an effort to stimulate a closer co-operation and a more general interest in making alfalfa and sweet clover the leading crops in this section.

A very good program has been worked out for this meeting. Chas. H. Hutcheson, alfalfa expert on the staff of the Northwest Farmstead, who has been making an extensive investigation of the alfalfa situation in this territory, will be one of the principal speakers. J. S. Arneson of The Thief River Falls Tribune and County Agent J. J. McCann of Thief River Falls will also speak. In addition to the visitors, a number of the successful alfalfa and sweet clover growers of the community will appear on the program and discuss their experiences along this line.

Free lunch and cigars will be available to all those who attend. This meeting is of vital importance to the development of the community and all farmers and business men are urged to be present.

Basketball Prospects Are Bright for Winter Season

With "Taft" Gullikson,, "Bill" Kramer and Clarence Nordlum of last years regulars as a nucleus, and with Henry Johnson, left guard of the 1920-'21 team, high school basketball prospects look highly promising. To date basketball work has been delayed somewhat owing to the difficulty of securing a hall for practice. Negotiations, however, are under way for the lease of the M. W. A. hall and as soon as arrangements are completed the team will buckle down to the serious routine of regular work-outs. The first regular game will be played with Stephen November 28.

Armistice Day Will Be Observed Monday, Nov. 12

Armistice Day will be observed at Middle River on Monday, November 12 in view of the fact that November 11 falls on Sunday this year. The local schools will give a program at 2:30 Monday afternoon at which time A. Yngve, district commander, will deliver the address.

The local post of the American Legion has arranged for a feed and dance at the M. W. A. hall in the evening to which the general public is invited. A committee of Legion men are working on the details of the banquet and they promise an honest-to-goodness feed at the nominal charge of 25 cents per plate. This will be followed by a dance at which an orchestra from Thief River Falls will provide the music. The feed will be served at seven o'clock.

Boosters of Pennington County Adopt New Song With Alfalfa as Subject

At the banquet and booster meeting held in Thief River Falls last week by the Pennington County Bankers association, an official alfalfa song was adopted. The piece was introduced as part of the program at the banquet and made a decided hit. It was written by Miss Maude L. Johnson of the Thief River Falls schools and is sung to the fune of the old familiar melody of "Solomon Levi." Here is the song:

Home of Alfalfa.

We hail the home of alfalfa,
In Pennington county;
It is the best of all the crops
That ever there could be.
We live in the alfalfa zone,
Of Minnesota State,
And every farmer ought to be
A grower up to date.

Chorus:
Oh! Pennington county,
Tra la la la la la la,
Home of alfala,
Tra la la la la la la,
la la la la la la.
We hail the home of alfalfa,
In Pennington county;
It is the best of all the crops,
That ever there could be.
And there is Peter Engelstad,
Of Pennington county,
The pioneer of alfalfa;
Of him we must take heed.
He raises Guernsey cattle,
And feeds alfalfa hay,
Which makes the cream checks grow and swell,
And thereby saves the day.

Chorus:
We have the limestone in our soil,
Which makes alfalfa grow,
From two to four to six tons
Per acre you must know;
It is the food for dairy cows
That makes good butter and cream,
And lines the pockets of the man
With dollars and cents that gleam.

Chorus:
And here comes Pennington bankers,
Who woke up to the fact
That every farmer in the rank
Was making lots of Jack.
They got behind the movement
To boost alfalfa hay,
And help with the improvements,
To raise and pave the way.

Boosters of Pennington County Adopt New Song With Alfalfa as Subject

At the banquet and booster meeting held in Thief River Falls last week by the Pennington County Bankers association, an official alfalfa song was adopted. The piece was introduced as part of the program at the banquet and made a decided hit. It was written by Miss Maude L. Johnson of the Thief River Falls schools and is sung to the tune of the old familiar melody of "Solomon Levi." Here is the song:

Home of Alfalfa.

We hail the home of alfalfa,
In Pennington county;
It is the best of all the crops
That ever there could be.
We live in the alfalfa zone.
Of Minnesota State,
And every farmer ought to be
A grower up to date.

Chorus:

Oh! Pennington county,
Tra la la la la la la,
Home of alfala,
Tra la la la la la la,
la la la la la la.
We hail the home of alfalfa,
In Pennington county;
It is the best of all the crops,
That ever there could be.
And there is Peter Engelstad,
Of Pennington county,
The pioneer of alfalfa;
Of him we must take heed.
He raises Guernsey cattle,
And feeds alfalfa hay,
Which makes the cream checks grow and swell,
And thereby saves the day.

Chorus:

We have the limestone in our soil,
Which makes alfalfa grow,
From two to four to six tons
Per acre you must know;
It is the food for dairy cows
That makes good butter and cream,
And lines the pockets of the man
With dollars and cents that gleam.

Chorus:

And here comes Pennington bankers,
Who woke up to the fact
That every farmer in the rank
Was making lots of Jack.
They got behind the movement
To boost alfalfa hay,
And help with the improvements,
To raise and pave the way.

Aladdin Gasoline is Quick explosive power

Each cylinder in your motor is just like a big gun. It will not shoot efficiently if it is not loaded properly. Load your motor with High Power Aladdin Gasoline that is refined exclusively for car owners who want the best. Aladdin gasoline insures quick starting and full volumed lusty explosions that provide tons of power—right when you need it. Every charge explodes completely thereby eliminating so-called dilution of lubricating oil in crank case. Each explosion follows through the full length of piston stroke insuring unfaltering vigorous power. Use Aladdin to prevent that jerky motion. When you buy "just gasoline" you are paying for the privilege of wearing out your motor.

Tribune Launches Better Sires Campaign

PLANS TO PLACE NUMBER OF HIGH QUALITY ANIMALS ON FARMS OF THIS TERRITORY

GREATEST BOOST BETTER FARMING EVER GIVEN HERE

Twenty-Six Farmer Boys and Girls Agree to Take Active Part.

One Animal to Be Placed in Each Township of Pennington County.

This weeks' issue of The Tribune carries an announcement which should prove of interest to every resident of Pennington county and several counties surrounding. Reference is made to the "Better Sires" campaign, which is fully explained on page three of today's paper. The Tribune has had this matter under consideration for some time but has thought best not to make the plan public until all details had been arranged. That all of this has been taken care of may be ascertained by turning to pages four and five, where a list of the campaigners may be found.

The plan, briefly, is this: The Tribune fully realizes the value of purebred sires, both to the individual owner and to the country in general. This paper struck upon the plan of offering a number of purebred animals and poultry to boys and girls on the farms in exchange for a little work in helping to increase its subscription list and in collecting back subscriptions. Pennington county has been divided into four districts, outlined in the advertisement, and one campaigner has been chosen for each township. Each one of the districts will be awarded a purebred bull as first prize, a purebred boar as second prize, a purebred ram as third prize, a purebred turkey tom as fourth, and a purebred cockerel as fifth. The breed of each animal or bird is left to the choice of the winner. County Agent J. J. McCann will assist the winners in making their choice, if so desired and he may also be consulted in the matter of pedigrees and registration papers. Every boy and girl in the campaign will be awarded a purebred animal or bird. There will be enough to go all the way around. A district is also being formed in Marshall county, but organization work has not reached a point where the campaigners can be announced in this issue.

The campaign opens Thursday morning, November 15. During the first week of the campaign, each worker will be required to confine his efforts to canvassing his own township. After the first week the campaign will be a free-for-all, with every solicitor allowed the whole world in which to operate. There are no campaigners residing in Thief River Falls, St. Hilaire or Goodridge and no work will be done in any of these places until after the first week of the campaign. Present plans are to continue for three weeks, but if bad weather should set in or if for any reason a majority of the campaigners should so desire, the period will be extended for one or two weeks. It will be up to the campaigners to decide this point.

This is a campaign which should prove of real value to the section and one which has none of the objectionable features of the ordinary automobile contest, where one contestant wins a capital prize and the rmainder must be disappointed. Here each campaigner has only his own district competitors to worry about, and every township in the county has an equal chance of winning a purebred bull. The fairness of this arrangement and the value of the prizes to the farms of Pennington county should appeal to everyone. Everybody should get behind his favorite campaigner and help him win.

Prof. Cochran Pleases.

A crowded house greeted Prof. I. M. Cochram of Northfield last Friday evening, when he delivered his reading, "The Man of the Hour," at the Lincoln high school auditorium. Prof. Cochran told this highly interesting story in a manner which could not be improved upon. He is in a class by himself as a reader and everyone who heard him last Friday evening hopes he may fill a return engagement here in the near future.

DeParcq Awarded Amount Claimed From Insurance Concern for Son's Injury

In an award filed on November 13, the State Industrial Commission has given H. W. DeParcq the full amount asked for in the suit filed against the Fidelity Casualty Company on September 28, namely $350 medical fees, $434.50 hospital expenses, and $12.56 weekly allowance, the same to continue during the term of his disability.

It will be remembered that young DeParcq sustained a broken back when the car in which he was riding turned turtle near Strandquist early in June. He has been confined to the hospital ever since and it will be pleasing news to his many friends that his claim for damages has been recognized by the State Industrial Commission. Notice of the award came this week to Attorney H. O. Chommie, who represented Mr. DeParcq.

TALK TOMORROW ABOUT PORKERS

Hog Breeders to Hold Down Boards at Commercial Club Meeting.

No matter what else may be said about the Thief River Falls Commercial club, it cannot truthfully be stated that the organization is not taking interest in a great variety of subjects. Tomorrow's meeting is to be alittle out of the ordinary in many respects, but the chief difference lies in the fact that upon this occasion the hog will occupy the center of the stage. The hog will not be the road variety, or the well known end seat brand so common in city street cars. The animal to receive attention tomorrow is an honest-to-goodness Poland China porker raised on a Pennington county farm, and the animal will be presented to the assemblage in the form of steaks and chops to be served at the luncheon.

C. H. Fuller of Mavie, who has the reputation of raising more and better Poland China hogs than any other man in the county, is donating the hog upon which the club will feast tomorrow. After luncheon Mr. Fuller will give a short talk with hog raising as his subject, and his long experience and pronounced success as a breeder should fit him particularly to speak upon this subject. He has demonstrated that raising hogs can be carried on successfully in this section and offers to tell other farmers how he does it. A number of farmers and hog breeders of the county have been asked to be present at the meeting and some of these also will be called upon for short talks.

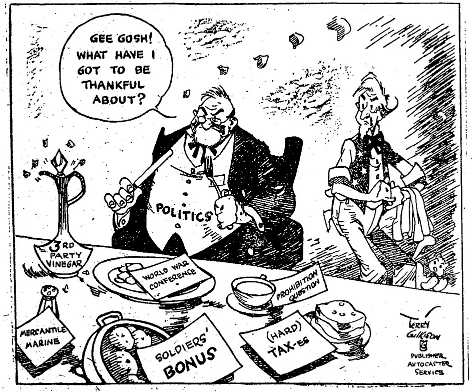
While everybody is busy boosting sugar beets, dairying, alfalfa, sweet clover, etc., hog raising should not be lost sight of. This branch of farming fits in nicely with the general scheme of diversification to which this section of the country is particularly adapted and should be given the attention it deserves. The meeting tomorrow is only a starter, it being the intention of the club to get behind increased hog production in the county in an earnest effort to build up the general prosperity of the section.

Sneak Thieves Take Spare Tires From Parked Autos

According to reports from several automobile owners in Thief River Falls, the city evidently contains a sneak thief with a well developed taste for spare tires. During the past two or three weeks a number have reported the loss of spare tires from their machines while these were parked on the streets in different sections of the city.

The boldest of these robberies which has come to attention occurred last Tuesday evening in front of the auditorium. This was election night and a steady stream of people was entering and leaving the building, but this did not prevent someone from "swiping" a spare tire from the Ford car of Morris Laselle while it was parked at the curb within a few feet of the building for about fifteen minutes. The thief pried off the lock, tore the tire from its moorings and succeeded in making a clean getaway.

HIS 1923 THANKSGIVING DINNER



EDUCATION WEEK TO BE OBSERVED IN ALL SCHOOLS

Schools of Thief River Falls Making Preparations for Event.

Patrons Are Requested to Visit Schools During Week, Nov. 18-24.

The schools are very busy in preparation for Education Week which is to be celebrated throughout the nation the coming week. Posters are being made for distribution throughout the city and for use in the all-school parade which is to be held either on Monday or Tuesday.

Neither the preparatory work nor the celebration itself will take time from the regular school activities. The week is to be set aside as a visiting week and it is hoped that every parent and every other person in town who is interested in education will visit the schools at some time between November 18 and 24. The regular work is to be carried on. The only deviation will be the convening for ten or fifteen minutes each day of each department for the purpose of stressing the theme that has been assigned for special consideration to that day. Visitors will be welcome at any time during the week, but should it suit the patrons' convenience, they will be particularly welcomed on Monday at the Knox, on Tuesday at the Central, on Wednesday at the Washington, on Thursday at the Northrop and on Friday at the high school.

The week is sponsored by the American Legion, the National Education association and the United States Department of Education. Sunday has been designated as the "For God and Country day;" Monday "Constitution day"; Tuesday, "Patriotism day"; Wednesday, "School and Teacher day"; Thursday, "Illiteracy day"; Friday, "Community day"; Saturday, "Physical Education day."

All ministers have been invited to touch upon the importance of education in one of their sermons on Sunday.

Manager Brumund, of the Princess theatre, has kindly consented to the appearance of four-minute speakers at the show each evening during the week. On Monday evening Mrs. Shaw will represent the Woman's club, while Glendon Larson of the eighth grade will represent the schools. On Tuesday Dave Robinson will appear for the American Legion, while Eunice Carlson, of the sixth grade, will speak for the children of the grades. On Wednesday I. T. Simley, superintendent of the city schools and Morris Owen of the seventh grade will be speakers. On Thursday E. O. Mogensen, president of the school board and Hilda Peterson of the high school are scheduled for talks. On Friday Dr. Froehlich, president of the Commercial club and Melvin Engelstad of the Senior class will appear, while on Saturday L. M. Rayson, president of the Parent-Teacher association, and Math Barzen, captain of the football team will speak..

Some time as early in the week as possible an all-school parade will be held. Invitations will be sent in due time asking the parents to be on hand to view this parade. It will terminate at the Lincoln and Washington grounds where a flag retreat will be held.

SEVENTH ANNUAL RED CROSS ROLL CALL THIS WEEK

Inclement Weather Prevents Opening of Drive on Day Scheduled.

Country Branches Give Evidence of Doing Share Without Delay.

Due to the rainy weather prevailing the first part of this week, the annual Red Cross Roll Call in Pennington county has not yet been startetd in earnest, according to Mrs. J. N. Nesse, in charge of the drive. Branches thruout the county have been doing well and many have already reached their quotas. Work in the city will be started as soon as the weather makes it possible and a house-to-house canvass of every ward in the city will be made. Pennington county has never failed to go over the top in coming to the aid of the Red Cross and does not propose to do so this year.

"It isn't a question of money—one who buys a membership in the Red Cross buys not because of the condition of his pocketbook but that of his heart," said John Leslie,state director of the roll call in Minnesota, in a communication from state headquarters at Minneapolis. "Minnesota was the first state in the union to recruit a full regiment when it sent the First Minnesota in response to the call to Lincoln. With the record that Minnesota holds as one of the outstanding states in the union in its response to every appeal of a worthwhile nature I am confident in the belief that the seventh annual roll call of the Red Cross will find the North Star state in the "First Division."

With the proclamation of President Coolidge who is also president of the American Red Cross calling upon the nation to exercise the "privilege to hold membership in this truly American organization" the national campaign swings into action.

"I regard membership in the Red Cross as one of the most sacred obligations and one of the most blessed privileges of the American citizen," said Bishop W. Blair Roberts of the Episcopal church of South Dakota, in a letter addressed to his clergymen of his diocese.

NESS CONTESTS BALLOT RESULT ON NOVEMBER 6

Appeal Is Made From Decision by City Council as Canvassing Board.

Asks District Court to Act Upon Several Claims of Irregularities.

A second chapter is about to be added to the story of the recent municipal election in Thief River Falls. Today a notice of appeal and contest was filed by Andrew Ness against O. A. Rambeck, by whom he was defeated for alderman of the fourth ward by the narrow margin of three votes. Mr. Ness appeals to the district court and asks for a recount over the findings of the city canvassing board. The court is asked to set a time and place for recounting the votes.

Among the grounds upon which the contest is made are the following: It is claimed that the election judges rejected four ballots which were properly voted for Ness; that many of the ballots cast for Ness were erroneously counted for Rambeck. The contestant is unable to allege specifically the number and detail of such ballots because, he states, during the progress of the election the judges of election unlawfully and arbitrarily prevented watchers or challengers from remaining near enough to the judges' table to watch the counting and tally of such ballots. It is also alleged that several voters who were unable to read English offered to vote and requested help from the judges, but were refused. Ness claims these persons intended to vote for him.

Four candidates were in the field for alderman from the Fourth ward at the recent election. There was a total of 376 votes cast, of which, according to the count of the canvassing board, O. A. Rambeck received 139, Andrew Ness 136, Knute Melby 59, and O. L. Bakken 33. This was the only instance in the municipal election where the vote was sufficiently close to leave room for a contest.

"Til Saeters" at Gully.

"Til Saeters," the Norwegian home talent play given in Thief River Falls and Crookston some time ago by players from this city, was put on at Gully last Saturday evening to a crowded house. The Norwegians of Gully and vicinity recently organized a Sons of Norway lodge in that village and the new organization is starting out strong, with a good membership and every indication of success.

The play given Saturday evening was presentted by the usual able manner and met with much favor from the audience. The trip to Gully and return was made in automobiles.

DR. M. G. MILAN RESIGNS JOB AS OAKLAND HEAD

Resignation Accepted by Board Will Become Effective January 1.

Dr. M. Geo. Milan, who for the past four and a half years has been the medical director at Oak Park Sanatorium in this city, last week tendered his resignation to the borad of directors, and announced his intention of joining the Drs. Bratrud ad Maland office at Warren about January 1st. The board met on Monday at the Sanatorium and accepted the resignation, expressing at the same time regret over the decision of Dr. Milan to leave the institution

The removal of Dr Milan from this city will occasion a general feeling of regret. Not only is the doctor a great favor with the patients under his care, but the public impression is that few men in the country are as capable as he in the particular work in which he is engaged

Dr Milan came to this state about five and a half years ago from New York state, and became assistant secretary of the State Advisory Commission. He did some medical work at the State Sanatorium at Walker and attracted so much favorable attention in that institution as to highly recommend him for the Thief River Falls institution upon its opening. During the past year and a half he has been the superintendent of the local institution in addition to his position as medical director, and has accomplished a great deal in the way of placing the Sanatorium on a good economic basis. He has also done much in the way of beautifying the grounds and providing for the comfort of the patients.

As a lung specialist Dr. Milan has few equals in the country and he has long attracted the attention of Dr. Theodore Bratrud who considers him one of the best men to come under his observation. It naturally follows that Dr. Milan will specialize in diseases of the lungs in the Bratrud organization. Dr. Milan has been an active member of the social and civic organizations of the city and is the finest kind of a booster. Besides, he is a prince of good fellows, and we don't mind telling the people of Warren that we hope to win him back some time.

In the meantime they will find him a mighty loyal citizen whose friendship is worth 100 cents on the dollar.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR CROPS SHOW

Farmers of Pennington county and those who reside in southern tiers of townships in Marshall county are urged to make preparations for exhibits at the Annual Crop and Poultry show which will be staged in Thief River Falls December 4, 5, 6 and 7. This will be the seventh annual poultry show held in Pennington county, although it is the first time that a crop division has been a part of the event. It is the intention to secure as large a display of products grown in this community as possible, and to that end numerous liberal awards will be given for the winners in the various departments. If every farmer in the county brings in a display of something, it will be easy to determine what can be raised here just by visiting the show.

The shows are to be held under the joint auspices of the Pennington County Poultry Association, the Thief River Falls Commercial club and the Pennington County Farm Bureau, and all of these organizations are now actively engaged in making the necessary preparations for the big exhibitions. Committees in charge of the various departments report indications of a most successful event, as far as displays and entertainment features are concerned.

The show will be divided into four distinct days, special features being arranged for each. There will be a Poultry Day, Sugar Beet and Potato Day, Corn and Dairy Day and Alfalfa Day. Experts in these various subjects have been secured to speak at the sessions given over to these certain divisions.

In order to be eligible for first prize, a contestant must score a total of two hundred points during the campaign.

The dates for the township campaign are from November 15 to November 22. Following the last date mentioned the contest is declared open for Pennington county and all adjacent territory in Marshall, Red Lake, Polk and Beltrami counties, and any other place in the world where a contestant may line up a prospect. In other words, it will be a free-for-all after the first week. Every contestant is then at liberty to enter any township village or city in any county for the purpose of securing subscriptions. The campaign will close by request of the majority of the contestants.

A GROUP OF PENNINGTON COUNTY FARM BOYS AND GIRLS WHO WILL BOOST FOR PUREBRED LIVESTOCK

Hilda Bugge
Numedal Township

Miss Hilda is a graduate of the eighth grade of the Roosevelt school. She was born and raised on her father's farm. This is one of the best improved farms in Numedal. Hilda has numerous friends in her township, in Thief River Falls and Viking—just across the county line. Numedal, with its exquisite plains, is the right place for livestock. Hilda looks far enough into the future to see this and people in Numedal should not discourage nor disappoint her in her efforts to better the conditions of her township. There are several well stocked poultry farms in the immediate neighborhood of Hilda's home, but she is interested in "better stock." Numedal and surrounding country will see to it that she gets it.

William Newman
Sanders Township

William resides on a farm near the center of Sanders township. He is an eighth grade graduate of the Austin, Minn. schools. He practically manages the affairs of his father's farm and for this reason knows good stock when he sees it. His father's farm is partly stocked with Shorthorns, William is determined to have a purebred Shorthorn. He generally gets what he goes after and is not likely to fail to do so in this contest. William has a large number of purebred stock boosters in his township and The Tribune feels certain they will want the honor to go to Sanders.

Anna Rindahl
Hickory Township

Anna is an eighth grade graduate of the Little Oak school, District No. 65. She was selected to represent her section of the county as leader in the 1922 county spelling contest. She is the possessor of several first prize awards on raffia work, won at the fair. She lives on a farm in northern Hickory where wolves, bears and Indians still roam—at certain times. This township is mostly noted for its hunters and trappers—some of these having the appearance of Daniel Boone of Kentucky. Here and there the countryside is dotted with some real, well improved farms. These farms are stocked with grade cattle. Anna is trying to improve the dairy farming industry of her section by entering the contest. She merits the support of all of the residents of her township. When the contest opens for the county, subscribers should encourage Anna in her efforts. She is one of the leading young citizens of her township, county and state, and starts out in the right direction as Hickory is an ideal dairy cattle country. Holsteins are her favorites.

Zella Huddleson
Wyandotte Township

Zella is an eighth grade graduate of the Red Lake Falls schools, having done a certain amount of high school work at this place. Together with her parents, she formerly resided on a farm in Hickory township, but has now for the past six or seven years been a resident of Wyandotte. The people of Wyandotte are all boosters of purebred dairy cattle, several farms being stocked with excellent herds. There boosters will look for Zella to win the honors for her township and if they co-operate there is little danger of her not winning. If Zella gets all the Petersons on her subscription list, The Tribune predicts she will win hands down.

Jul. Kilen
Kratka Township

Jul is the son of Joe Kilen, who was one of the men selected by the Thief River Falls Commercial club as a delegate to attend the Northwest Dairy show and state fair. Jul has nearly completed the eighth grade, having only one credit to earn. He attends the Green Meadow school, Dist. 68. He says he wants a purebred Holstein sire for his prize in this campaign. We believe with his backing from the progressive farmers of his township, and the spirit of optimism that provails therein, that Jul is not so badly mistaken. The farmers of Kratka know purebred stock when they see it and do not think for a moment that they are not going to back Jul in this campaign.

Edith Malmquist
River Falls Township

Edith is a graduate of the St. Hilaire high school, graduating in 1922. She won two subscriptions to papers in an essay contest, this being the first prize offered. The only trouble with Edith, she claims, is that she can't talk to prospective subscribers. The writer thinks differently. He learned that he was the one who had to squeeze in his words when Edith was not talking. The Tribune does not see how Miss Edith's prospects are going to be given a chance to refuse to take a subscription. It will not happen when Edith is the solicitor. Her sister, who now attends high school, has won so many free trips to the state fair that she has lost count of them. She is the possessor of a registered Poland China drove of hogs and there isn't a better lot to be found anywhere. Edith is interested in Shorthorns. The Tribune does not worry about her winning first prize in her section. Following the contest we will take out an expert stenographer and have her tell us how she did it. We are willing listeners, Edith.

Emil Singer
Deer Park Township

Emil has been a resident of Deer Park since birth. He received his education in Pleasant View school. His father has one of the best improved farms in this township. Emil's brothers have in the past won automobiles in subscription contests, therefore we are not worrying about Emil's success in this campaign.

Gilman Homme
Highlanding Township

Gilman is an eighth grade graduate of the Quinton school, District 47. He plans on attending the Northwest School of Agriculture following the holidays. One of his brothers is a graduate of this institution. Gilman is interested in Shorthorns. He stands high in the esteem of his friends and neighbors and they are going to see to it that he wins honors in this campaign. His father's farm is located on the banks of the Red Lake river—an ideal place for a purebred Shorthorn.

Lewis B. Hruby
Star Township

Lewis is known as Star's "Peck's Bad Boy." He is not bad at all— people just think so. He was born and raised in Star township. At the time of naming the township, Lewis' father suggested its present name, which was adopted. Lewis won first prize in manual training exhibits at the county fair in 1921. This is not "bad" at all, is it? He received his educational training in School District No. 59. Part of this training did not agree with Lewis and this is how he was nick-named. He is a "live wire." If you do not believe it, ask some of his previous teachers.

Arnold Aakre
Reiner Township

Arnold is born and raised in Reiner. He is an eighth grade graduate of the Lundwood school, graduating the past year. He won county honors in an English essay contest in 1921. Two of his brothers are graduates of the Northwest School of Agriculture and we understand Arnold aims to attend this school. He resides on one of the best stocked farms of his township. Several sheep are to be found on his father's farm. Arnold has considerable experience in caring for stock and we know that the purebred sire he wins will receieve proper care.

Alpha Vedum
Polk Center Township.

Alpha is at present a part-time student in School District No. 99, having completed all but two credits for graduation. She resides on a fine farm in the southern part of her township. This is one of the richest townships in Pennington county and Alpha should experience no trouble whatever as far as cash subscriptions are concerned. She is well acquainted in Thief River Falls and western Polk county. When the campaign opens for outside territory, Alpha will "wade in." Another warning boys.

Edna Nelson
Mayfield Township

Edna's home is in the center of this township. She lives on a well improved farm, on which she was born and raised. She possesses nearly all of the requirements for an eighth grade graduate, having attended the Rosewood school, District 39, of her township. She is of a pleasing personality and has a large number of friends who are vitally interested in her success in this campaign. Shorthorns are her favorite cattle. Her father's farm is at present stocked with a number of Poland China hogs; therefore she knows the value of purebred animals.

Victor F. Johnson
Bray Township

Victor is born and raised on a farm in Bray. He is an eighth grade graduate of Blooming Bray school and is noted for his prize winning in manual training ehibits at four of Pennington county's fairs. In 1920 he won two firsts and one second prize; in 1921 one second; in 1922, two seconds, and this year two firsts. We predict he will win another first prize in this campaign. Victor thinks he would rather listen to a lamb's bleat than a mule's bray in Bray township. We are inclined to believe the residents of this township will have a purebred bull browsing in Victor's pasture when the campaign is over.

Hildegard Kitzrow
Black River Township

Hildegard resides two miles east of Wylie on a farm in the above named township. She is an eighth grade graduate of the Wylie school, finishing in 1922. She has a large circle of friends and acquaintances among the residents of Black River township, Wylie and the northern part of Red Lake county. When the campaign is declared open for a wider range, Hildgard will cross the line and go to the top. Watch out, boys; the girls are winners of prizes in nearly all contests.

Lawrence Letnes
Silverton Township

Lawrence is an eighth grade graduate of the Elwell school. He has been engaged in county work following his graduation. This year he was a participant in the poultry and dairy calf club contest, winning a free trip to the Minnesota state fair. During the time he attended school he was a leading contestant in the Minnesota Spring Wheat association's essay contest, winning first prize in the county. Lawrence's past contest winning record will be a large factor in this campaign.

Kettyl Rynestad
North Township

Kettil received his education in School District No. 29. He resides with his parents on one of Pennington county's most modern and up-to-date farms. His home is equipped with an electric light and sewage system, and a complete radio receiving set is installed. Kettil is interested in Holsteins and possesses some very good specimens of this breed of cattle. He regrets that The Tribune building is not equipped with a broadcasting station, as he could then "tune in" and learn daily of the "Better Sires campaign," in which he will be an active participant.

Martin Wiken
Smiley Township

Martin has had previous experience in campaign work, having taken part in the Farm Life Ford contest. He is born and raised in Smiley township, knowing practically everyone within its confines. He receieved his education at the local school in District No. 221. He is full of "pep" and Smiley township may well feel proud of Martin for trying to win his purebred Jersey sire in The Tribune's Better Sires campaign.

Arnold Gunderson
Rocksbury Township

A nice young man. An eighth grade graduate with two years of high school work to his credit. His interest is chiefly in poultry, his favorite breed being White Leghorns. He owns a large flock of these birds, and we understand he takes special pride in caring for them. He plans on winning a Holstein sire in this contest but will not be dissatisfied with a purebred cockerel.

Albert Holmen
Cloverleaf Township

Albert is an eighth grade graduate of the Goodridge schools, graduating in 1922. He has partaken in one of the county's spelling contest, representing the live village of Mavie. Albert is interested in purebred Holsteins and will try very hard for the honors for his township in this contest. He enjoys the acquaintance of a large circle of neighbors and friends who are all known as boosters for better livestock.

Norden Township

Delbert is a winner in last year's county spelling contest. He ras just about completed his eighth grade education, having only a few credits to earn. His father is completing a fine new barn and we are sure Delbert's purebred sire will look well in one of the stalls. He has a Ford at his disposal and chances are good for getting anywhere and everywhere with a machine of this kind in a campaign. Delbert has a host of friends in his township, at Rosewood and Thief River Falls. They will all welcome him in this campaign and will help him fill that vacant stall in the new barn.

Noble Urdahl

Goodridge Township

Noble is another eighth grade graduate of the Goodridge schools. He is also credited with two years of high school work. He resides on a farm near the enterprising village of Goodridge, which has one of the best consolidated schools of the county. This school turns out winners, which is noted by the fact that Noble, through the County Calf club, won a free trip to the state fair. Noble's father's farm is stocked with a herd of Guernsey cattle. He is a successful raiser of sweet clover and alfalfa and Noble is well experienced in the care of dairy cattle. We are of the notion that Goodridge township and the village of Goodridge will be awake in this campaign and will give their representative, young Mr. Urdahl, all assistance possible.

In the Middle of a Desert!

These are the days we seem to hear a good deal about being in the middle of a great desert. But it isn't very serious.

It is nothing compared to the real thing. It is nothing to being overwhelmed with real, pressing obligations and nothing with which to meet them.

The man who keeps a well tended savings account is never financially stranded. He has no debts he can't meet and he is on the way to independence.

Today is the time for you to start!

PURE BRED SIRES

This is the opening week of the "Pure Bred Sires Campaign" of this newspaper, announcement of which appears in the advertising pages and in the news section of this issue of The Tribune. The campaign is not to be confused with automobile contests or similar schemes to get new subscribers. The Tribune simply adopts this method of getting its subscription accounts paid through the efforts of its friends in the territory.

If we succeed, as we hope to do, in thus creating widespread interest in better breeding, to the end that this particular section may have reason to feel proud of its dairy and beef herds, then our efforts will be well worth while. This newspaper has given liberally of its space and money in the past to improve agricultural conditions and the sires campaign is only one of the many things in this plan of improvement.

We trust our readers will greet our campaign managers with the consideration and courtesy which they deserve. Tell the boys and girls what you think of The Tribune. If our news and editorial sections do not pelase, we will be glad to have you tell us where we can improve the paper, for it is our intention to make this newspaper the spokesman of the farmrers of the section.

Therefore, to our farmer subscribers, upon whom the entire population depends for its living, do we dedicate the coming "Pure Bred Sires Campaign."

There is room for 10,000 silos in Pennington county.

It is estimated that $200,000 will be paid to the farmers of this section for turkeys alone this year.

Even the knockers are satisfied with the brand of weather we have been having.

Any man who can make two blades of grass grow where one grew before is a benefactor of men and cows.

Sweet clover may be hard to get rid of but so are some of the weeds which sweet clover crowds out of existence.

They say the hen alone can sit still and produce good dividends on her efforts. But then who wants to be a hen?

If you want someone to give you a dirty look go out and try to buy for $100 per acre, some of the land planted to alfalfa.

Every farm in Pennington and adjoining counties will be worth more money when all men in town and country speak well of them.

Speaking of hen parties, do not overlook the aristocratic gathering of hens in Thief River Falls during the coming crop and poultry show.

If you want to know where the banana belt really is to be found, remember that a farmer near town has been digging his sweet potatoes this week.

Don't worry about the man who whistles as he works. The man to look out for is the one who sighs every time he is spoken to.

Only when the little tax payer and the big fat tax payer are viewed alike by the authorities will the people have absolute faith in our government institutions.

Martin Jarshaw raised some Whitecap corn north of Thief River Falls this year which would make those Iowa corn raisers green with envy could they but see it.

The esteemed Minneapolis Journal did not add to its popularity in this neck of the woods by publishing that lying tirade which appeared in its Sunday issue ovet the name of a speculator with the bellyache.

Will wonders never cease. Here comes the St. Paul Dispatch and prints the picture of a polite traffic cop. And we were under the impression, gained from painful experience, that there was no such animal.

At an auction sale near Hazel last Saturday a bunch of grade cows sold for an average of $75 apiece. One cow brought $101. That looks like bossy was appreciated at her true value as a mortgage lifter.

Henry Ford may not run for President of the United States next year, but whether he does or not his influence for or against the candidates in the field will have to be rekoned with.

Thief River Falls will have a beet sugar factory inside of three years just as sure as the sun rises and sets. This is no idle prediction but is based upon the opinion of men well acquainted with conditions in the Northwest.

Frank Day takes quite a fall out of the editor of The Tribune for his failure to attend church after importuning others to do so. Fact of the matter is, Frank, that the persuasive powers of The Tribune are so great that it is difficult for one so fat to find room.

If the next governor of Minnesota could be selected by the editors of the state we should say no man would have a chance against Theodore Christianson, of Dawson. He has a fine legislative record and has ability of a high order.

Picture, if you can, anything in this or any other community that was constructed by a knocker.

The state of Oklahoma looks to us like an ideal place of abode for the dissatisfied man who likes to find fault with the sun, moon and stars above and the mundane sphere upon which we live.

There are twenty-seven herds of pure bred Holsteins in the vicinity of Thief River Falls, and almost that many of the Guernsey breed. Which means that within a short space of time the best breeders will be looking for foundation stock in this county.

We are proud of the young men and women whose faces adorn the pages of The Tribune this week—the pure bred sires campaign managers. They are a fair sample of the folks who live upon the farms of Pennington county and The Tribune hereby claims the state championship for good looking boys and girls.

In another year or two Thief River Falls will have a direct gravelled road to the famous Red Lakes. Thousands of tourists will be attracted in this direction and a city of summer homes will spring up at the famous resort east of this city which will rival any colony of its kind in the United States.

In order to get things started in the right direction The Tribune will give away five pure bred bulls, five pure bred boars, five pure bred rams, five pure bred gobblers and six pure bred cockerels. This is not a subscription campaign, but merely an effort on our part to get the people of this section to talking about better animals in every division.

Every county in Minnesota ought to have a citizens tax league whose purpose it should be to study the matter of increasing taxes. If such organizations had been in existence the past twenty years we should not now have been confronted with the sorry spectacle of good agricultural land going back to the state for taxes.

The matter of compelling the Steel Trust to pay tht penalty due the state as a result of their failure to pay the tonnage tax should not be made a political issue in this state. They should simply be made to pay it. Otherwise why should it not be just as fair for the ordinary tax payer to fight his taxes in the courts to the last ditch and, failing to beat the state, take advantage of the precedent established to avoid payment of the penalty.

The South Dakota bankers have appointed a committee of which former Governor Herreid is the chairman to promote the welfare of the wheat growers of that state. This commission will also co-operate with the President's representatives, Mondell and Meyer, in working out the solution of the wheat problem. A similar move by the bankers of Minnesota would help some. Up to date the bankers of this state have been followers rather than leaders in the various movements to assist agriculture.

This territory was formerly among the finest grain producing areas in the northwest, and small attention has been paid to the raising of feed, but these conditions have been changed and our farmers are realizing more and more thata their future prosperity depends upon the diversified plan of farming. More feed, such as alfalfa and sweet clover, means more and better cattle, improvement of the soil, and a steady income in place of uncertainty and despair which has always characterized the grain producing section.

REVOLTING CHARGES AGAINST FORBES

Just what the American Legion, and particularly friends of invalid and crippled soldiers, think of some of the disclosures made before the Senate sub-committee, is not pleasant to consider. It is probable that Col. Forbes, former head of the Veterans' Bureau, will be compelled to answer more serious charges than mere mismanagement.

There are in Government hospitals men with five-year clinical records who have been tossed from pillar to post since the armistice hospitals have been built and there dismantled, others commandeered or rented, and many centers of hospitalization changed, and to no apparent purpose. Throughout all the human salvage of the war has been carted and hawked about until life for the bed-ridden has become mainly an effort to overcome a smoldering resentment against an indifferent government. And now they are compelled to listen toi serious charges against officials of dealing in profits in drugs, spirits, materials, and hospital construction.

The accusations are too terrible to be placed on any human being without convincing proof, and it is hoped that every man connected with these dirty graft charges will be brought to bar and full justice meted out.

ARMISTICE DAY

Five years have passed since that memorable day, November 11, 1918, brought an end to the greatest war in the world's history by the signing of the armistice, and this day is appropriately observed as a legal holiday in nearly every nation in the world, and particularly by the American Legion of the United States.

It is a day set aside to recall the flame of patriotism which swept over the whole land, consuming the dross of all past differences and fusing the people into one national unity. This gave a new meaning to the life of our country, a new meaning which found its finest expression in a new nationalism, deeper and more fervid than ever before.

Peace has brought with it many difficult problems that must be solved. These problems do not alone confront the people of this country, but they are world-wide. They are national and international. The great cost of the war has brought bankruptcy to the nations of Europe, unrest and discontent to their people. It has produced the necessity for the reconstruction of national and international policies. Those that obtained before the war will not serve to meet the new situations and condltions produced by it.

Let us resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain and put that resolution into practice, with the result that we will be better neighbors, truer friends, more loyal citizens, and thereby add to the sum of human happiness here and everywhere. Let every citizen stand by the American Legion in amintaining the true national spirit.

Let's Talk About the Power of Money

For it has more power than any other single thing—except the human mind.

Why?

Because money is a token that representes work or food or machinery—things that are useful and have power to create and satisfy.

That's why your money here in a savings account earns for you. The things back of the money are working and the profits are credited to your account in terms of dollars.

Wouldn't you be foolish not to take advantage of this power of your dollars?

Mary Pickford, always a favorite with Thief River Falls screen fans, will be shown at the Princess theatre next Sunday and Monday in her new play, "Tess of the Storm Country." This is a United Artists release and is Mary Pickford's own version.

It is truly a combination of a favorite artist in a favorite play and the amusement-seekers of this city are displaying a marked avidity in embracing the opportunity offered for genuine diversion of a rare variety. Few photoplay classics have ever elicited such unstinted and universal applause as this one and if Miss Pickford could only look in on the capacity audience at any performance here, she would undoubtedly feel highly complimented, for she would see her art wielding a powerful influence in lightening the cares of the masses of people. Judging from the initial popularity of this release, it is destined to enjoy many runs at various houses and times in this section, and it deserves this success.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17

On account of the fluctuations in the market at this season we are not quoting a figure, but will assure you liberal grading and the top market price.

The mild weather has placed a damper on shipments and with little arriving on the market we expect the very top price will exist when this car of dressed poultry is loaded.

We believe that a higher price will be paid in Thief River Falls than in any of the surrounding towns.

Familiarity With Good Music Develops Good Taste

When a child "simply will not practice," usually it means that his appreciation of music has outstripped the faculty of his fingers. His own playing bores him because it does not express feelings.

Many a music-loving adult is in this predicament. A Modello would permit his musical appreciation to go on developing and give him, not just the temporary novelty of operating a mechanical player piano, but the soul satisfaction of expressing himself freely and completely in music.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1923 THE THIEF RIVER FALLS TRIBUNE

GREAT MEETING

More than four hundred business men and farmers were in attendance at the alfalfa and sweet clover boosters' meeting which was held at the M. W. A. hall Saturday evening under the auspices of the Middle River Commercial club. This is the largest gathering of its kind this year and the large number who were present as well as the enthusiasm that prevailed point to a new interest in alfalfa and sweet clover as the basic crops for this community.

Interesting talks were given by J. S. Arneson of the Thief River Falls Tribune and Charles R. Hutcheson, alfalfa expert on the staff of the Northwest Farmstead. Mr. Arneson discussed the need for more businesslike methods on the part of the farmers. Farming, he declared is a business proposition and our community has no room for the haphazard sort of farmer. The speaker made a strong plea for a sane and sensible attitude to proposed legislation for the relief of farming communities and pointed out that self-help through the use of the opportunities we enjoy in this section is a surer way to economic independence than to expect an amelioration of financial conditions through legislation. Alfalfa and sweet clover, declared the speaker, have been tried out in this section and every indication points to the fact that the introduction of these two crops will completely change farming conditions in this community, raise the price of land, and bring permanent prosperity to the farmers. Mr. Arneson's speech was enthusiastically received.

Mr. Hutcheson gave a thorough discussion on the raising of alfalfa and sweet clover and pointed out the natural advantages to be found here for the culture of these two crops. Mr. Hurcheson has spent a number of weeks in this section investigating the alfalfa and sweet clover situation and he declared himself firmly convinced that the land here is second to none in its suitability for raising sweet clover and alfalfa.

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM

The fiifth anniversary of the signing of the armistice was observed in a program given by the pupils of the local school Monday afternoon. A number of suitable numbers were presented by the pupils and addresses were given by Rev. Davenport and A. Yngve, district commander of the American Legion. Rev. Davenport delivered a very interesting address on the significance of Armistice day and called attention to the value of education in the work of Americanization. Mr. Yngve discussed the work of the American Legion and pleaded for respect and loyalty to the institutions of government. The program closed with a flag salute by the pupils and the singing of America.

In the evening the local post of the American Legion served a supper at the M. W. A. hall which was followed by a dance.

Ford
Four-Door Sedan

$685 f. o. b. Detroit fully equipped.

Inside and out, the new Ford Four-door Sedan shows improvements of far more than usual importance.

It is lower and sturdier in appearance. New cowl, hood, radiator and apron add size and finish to the front. Sun visor, and wide, well-finished aluminum doors with bar handles perfect the design of the body.

The lasting lustre of the exterior finish is equalled in richness by the soft brown shades of the silk window curtains and the deep broadcloth upholstery.

Dome light, door locks, window regulators and handles, all finished in nickel, complete a refinement you would expect only at a far higher price Convenience, utility and economy have established Ford supremacy. The Four Door Sedan adds to these factors greater Ford prestige.

CO-OPERATIVES NAMED AS HOPE FOR MARKETING

Report Opposes Price Fixing on Wheat by Government Agencies.

Solution of the wheat problem lies along two lines, the adjustment of production to American needs if the world's market is over-supplied from other producing countries at lower prices than are satisfactory to the American producer under prevailing conditions and the development of an improved marketing system.

These suggestions were made in a report to the president, made public by Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director, and Frank W. Mondell, director of the War Finance corporation, who have returned to Washington after completing an investigation under instructions of the president of conditions in certain wheat growing areas, including the Northwest.

The development of an improved marketing system, in the opinion of Mr. Meyer and Mr. Mondell, can be brought about by the producers of the country for the purpose of marketing their wheat under the co-operative plan, making it unnecessary to rely so completely upon the uncertain functioning of the speculative contract market.

The report expresses strong reasoning against the various proposals looking to an increase in the tariff on wheat, government price fixing and government purchase of "surplus" wheat. It comments on but does not go on record regarding proposed distributing of $58,000,000 said to have been made as profit by the United States Grain corporation, and modification of the present immigration laws so as to provide for selective immigration of a larger supply of labor.

On the matter of returning the socalled profit of the grain corporation the report says that it has no accurate information on the subject and with respect to modification of the immigration laws the report says that sentiment in this direction is almost universal among the agricultural communities visited.

Government price fixing, it is fair to state, says the report, met with more opposition than support.

Considerable sentiment was found in favor of having the government buy the socalled "surplus wheat" with a view to exporting it to foreign markets, but on the other hand there was a clear understanding in certain quarters of the practical difficulties of such a plan.

"The domestic speculator was said to be relatively active and as a result the public contract wheat market has not been fulfilling in a satisfactory way its supposed functions as regulator and distributor of flow of wheat. It is asserted that it is not big enough for the task, nor dependable enough to be the wheat trade's sole reliance.

"The marketing of wheat, it is pointed out, is essentially a problem in commercial engineering. The flow of wheat must be so guided and controlled that our great commercial machinery of distribution will operate more evenly and efficiently, without the fluctuations and wasted effort that has characterized it, especially during the past few years. With the changed conditions in Europe, with the European dealers and millers carrying only a small percentage of their normal prewar stocks and with the speculator unable or unwilling to carry wheat in sufficient volume, the producer must organize to carry it himself."

Touching Scenes in "Penrod and Sam"

"Penrod and Sam," a First National picture which is to be featured at the Princess theatre next Friday and Saturday, contains a scene that for pathos has never been exceeded on the screen.

Penrod Schofield for years had been monarch of the domain embraced by the boundaries of the lot adjoining his home. He was the master of its contents, consisting of shacks, caves, tunnels and other mysterious hiding places so dear to the average boy's heart. And in that lot he had buried his best friend—his dog—when a automobile had crushed out his life. Around the grave he had constructed a picket fence and at the head was a crude cross bearing the name, "Duke."

When Penrod's father sold the lot to the town's miser, Penrod was heartbroken. He was denied the privilege of entering upon the ground. One evening his father found him sitting on his bed, looking through tear-dimmed eyes at the little grave. Tenderly the father tried to console him.

"I didn't know it meant so much to you, son," he said.

An hour later he had re-purchased the plot of ground and he presented Penrod with a deed conveying the lot to the boy "down as far as China."

William Beaudine directed "Penrod and Sam" from the story by Booth Tarkington. Rockliffe Fellows plays the part of the father and Benny Alexander that of Penrod.

The members of the Do-Dad club were last Monday evening entertained at the home of Miss Bessie Elofson. A businss meeting was held, after which a delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

PRICHARD GIVEN CULVERT AWARD

Local Concern Gets Contract on New St. Hilaire Trunk Highway.

Sixty miles of grading, twelve of graveling, twelve of paving and seventeen bridges on different sections of the Minnesota trunk highway system were placed under control this week by Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner. The projects mainly are held public necessities, such as to reduce congestion on some routes and to serve extra heavy traffic on others. A part of the total will be paid with county reimbursement funds.

Among the jobs let at this time was a number of culverts which are to be installed in the new road from Thief River Falls to St. Hilaire. The Prichard company of this city was the successful bidder for this work and secured the contract at $1,486. Seven miles of grading is also included in this job but this will be awarded later, according to announcement by the state highway department. Just why this part of the work was not let at this time is not made clear.

Officials of the highway department said that prices were satisfactory and on levels with low figures at earlier 1923 lettings. The stretch of road between Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire was the only project in this section of the state considered at this bidding. Eight other jobs were let, but most of these are in the southern and central parts of the state, with one or two in the extreme northeastern section.

According to present prospects, it is likely that work on the new road between this city and St. Hilaire will be started next spring as soon as the weather will permit. The original intention was to have the work done this year but due to an error in the law passed by the recent legislature it was found impossible for Pennington county to issue the reimbursement bonds necessary to cover the cost of the road. He threw the whole matter up in the air until recently, when the state highway department placed the work in the list of projects urgently necessary and proceeded to let the contracts. When the work is completed this stretch will be one of the best and safest links in this important trunk highway.

CITY DADS HOLD SHORT SESSION

The city council held its regular meeting last evening at the council chambers in the auditorium. No business of particular interest occupied the attention of the council and after attending to routine matters the aldermen adjourned at an early hour.

The fire department was given a permit to use the auditorium for a dance to be given Friday evening, November 16. A resolution was passed assessing the cost of a quantity of sidewalk construction, and the usual batch of bills was audited and allowed.

Reports from the various departments were received and passed upon. The municipal court showed receipts for October of $17.60. and the auditorium fund was enriched $130. The city clerk's statement showed receipts of $7,113.52 and disbursements of $7,714.08. Light earnings were $4,884.86 and water earning $253.16.

BETTER SIRES CAMPAIGNERS BUSY GATHERING CREDITS IN EFFORT TO BEST COMPETITORS EARLY IN RACE

Interest in Campaign Increases as Farmers Come to a Realization of the Benefits Which Will Result From the Placing of Purebred Sires Upon Farms of This Section. Boys and Girls Appeal to Friends For Help.

The Tribune's "Better Sires" campaign is now in progress and campaigners are busy in every part of the county among their neighbors and friends gathering credits in an effort to place themselves well to the head of the column when the awards are made. The weather has been ideal and the campaigners have taken advantage of this by devoting every moment of their time to the work.

A district has been organized in Marshall county, taking in five townships north from Holt to Middle River and east to Gatzke. This district is located in the best section of Marshall county and the large list of subscribers and friends already possessed by The Tribune in that section should make it a comparatively easy matter for the campaigners to roll up a nice bunch of credits. The campaign in Marshall county is wholly within itself and has nothing to do with Pennington. Each of the five townships is entitled to the same awards as each district in Pennington and the campaigner working the hardest will be awarded the purebred bull, the second a boar, and so on down the line to the fifth. By common consent it has been agreed to open the Marshall county campaign one week later, or Thursday morning, November 22. Due to the inclement weather and consequent bad roads it was found impossible to complete the organization of the Marshall county district in time for the campaigners to begin simultaneously with the Pennington county boys and girls.

Reports from every part of Pennington county are most encouraging. Some of the campaigners were a little timid at first but this will soon wear off. Each one is putting in the first week in his own township where he is well acquainted and this makes it easier for him to become accustomed to the work than if he were to venture out among strangers right from the start. After the first week is completed, each campaigner is permitted to go where he will. Boundary lines are wiped out and all restrictions removed. A prospect is a prospect, regardless of place of residence, race, color, creed, sex or previous condition of servitude. They will all be made welcome in the big family of Tribune readers.

It must be admitted that every boy or girl who takes part in the "Better Sires" campaign is impelled by a worthy motive. That motive is improving the livestock of the county by the introduction of purebred sires. These young folks have all been raised on farms in this section and expect to live upon these farms in the future. They have sufficient intelligence and vision to appreciate the importance of better livestock as a means of bringing about permanent prosperity for every resident of the district, and possess sufficient ambition and initiative to grasp this opportunity of securing the sires with which the quality of the county's livestock may be improved. It is a laudable ambition and the campaigners deserve encouragement.

Every resident of the district has a favorite among the campaigners. Each township should stand solidly behind its own boy or girl until the race is over. Just a few points may make all the difference in the world, and when the battle is over and the awards made it will be too late to come to the assistance of the one whom you would like to see announced as the winner.

MORE HOGS FOR EVERY FARM IN COUNTY NEEDED

Fuller's Poland China Roast Enjoyed at Commercial Club Luncheon.

That the raising of hogs is destined to play a very important part in the program of progressive Pennington county farmers in the near future seems a certainty. At least such an opinion would appear justified after hearing the talks given last Thursday at the Commercial club noonday luncheon. A number of farmers and breeders were on the speaking program on this occasion, which had been designated as "hog day" by the club management, and many interesting facts concerning the raising of porkers were brought out during the talks and the discussions which followed.

The principal speaker was C. H. Fuller of Mavie, who furnished the roast Poland China pork which constituted the main item on the bill of fare at the luncheon. Mr. Fuller was for several years engaged in operating a farm in Iowa before coming to Pennington county and has had years of experience in raising high grade porkers. He asserted that the hog is a very important factor to be considered in connection with diversified farming and stated that good hogs can be produced profitably in Pennington county, citing facts and figures from his own experience in support of his argument.

Some of Mr. Fuller's statements were questioned by other farmers present, which resulted in much valuable information coming to light in the discussions which followed. Most of the arguments concerned the good qualities of the different breeds and methods of feeding. All were agreed that the hog is a profitable side line for farmers in this section and agreed that more attention should be paid to raising the porker.

Other farmers at the meeting who made short talks and took part in the proceedings were Albert Johnson, V. C. Noper, E. N. Mayhew and others.

Oen Department Store Is Reducing Stock by Means of Great Bargain Event

The Oen Mercantile company on Tuesday morning opened a stock reduction sale which should prove of interest to the buying public. This big store finds it necessary to raise a large amount of money within a short time and has decided upon a gigantic price reduction sale to accomplish this purpose. The sale will continue for ten days and closes on Saturday, December 1.

The management announces that prices in every department have been cut to the bone, and it is doubtful if another such money saving opportunity will present itself to the buying public in a long time. If the crowds visiting the store during the first two days of the sale can be taken as an indication, it seems that people are awake to the importance of this sale and propose to take full advantage of it.

DEC. 20 DATE OF ELECTION COUNT

Ness Contest to Be Aired Before Judge Grindeland in District Court.

December 20 has been set by Judge Andrew Grindeland of the district court as the date for hearing in the Andrew Ness vs. O. A. Rambeck election case, and the hearing will take place in the court house in this city.

As stated in last week's issue of The Tribune, Mr. Ness is contesting the election of Mr. Rambeck as alderman from the Fourth ward two weeks ago, when the canvassing board found that Mr. Rambeck had been chosen by the small majority of three votes. A number of irregularities are claimed by the contestant as grounds for the appeal from the findings of the canvassing board.

The case has created considerable interest in Thief River Falls and vicinity and the outcome will be watched with a great deal of interest.

"Vet" Pennington County Breeder of Poland China Hogs Purchases New Sire

James Dreelan, well known breeder of Poland China hogs, informs The Tribune that he has recently purchased a new sire to head his herd. The animal is sired by the world champion "Monarch," which weighed 1,035 pounds and was the largest boar at the national swine show this year. Mr. Dreelan's herd has won a lot of ribbons at the Red River Valley Winter Shows at Crookston, and his herd is considered one of the best in the valley. Fuller & Mayhew, noted Poland China breeders, have bought some of their best stock from Mr. Dreelan.

Four of the best Poland China herds in southern Minnesota were visited before the new sire was purchased, and Mr. Dreelan considers that he has an animal which will be hard to beat when exhibited at fairs in this section. Mr. Dreelan has the pioneer herd of big type Poland Chinas in Pennington county and has been very successful as a breeder for many years.

TRIAL SOON FOR SLAYER OF FOUR

Portano Case to Be Considered by Beltrami Grand Jury Dec. 11.

Preparations were made yesterday for the drawing of panels for a special grand jury, to assemble at Bemidji December 11, to consider the case against Leonard Portano, Italian, charged with the murder of four persons because, he claims, his troth with Myrtle Sanders, 15 year old farm girl, was broken.

Portano is specifically charged with murder in the first degree in the shooting of A. J. Wilson, deputy sheriff, and indictments will be asked on this charge alone.

While the undersized slayor, who declares he does not remember shooting the parents of Myrtle Sanders and Arthur Timmy, his successful rival, but admits shooting Wilson, was protesting that shooting the deputy was an accident, the funerals of the four victims were conducted in Kelliher Sunday.

The funerals of Mr. and Mrs. John Sanders and Arthur Timmy were conducted by the pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church at Kelliher. Practically the entire village attended. Myrtle Sanders was carried from the church after the services and taken to a hotel.

Services for Deputy Sheriff Wilson, one of the best known men in the county, were conducted by the Bemidji Masonic lodge and was so largely attended that Rev. A. McLean, pastor of the Presbyterian church, read the service at the Pastime theatre, the largest auditorium in the village.

Mr. Wilson is survived by his wife and a son, Leonard, age 18.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL SUPPORTED

Satisfactory Progress Is Reported by City and County Campaigners.

Mrs. J. N. Nesse, chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call, reports memberships are being taken at a satisfactory rate among people of Thief River Falls, the villages and country districts of Pennington county. While many rural districts yet remain to be heard from, campaigners in all sections are active and no doubt will send in good reports at the conclusion of the campaign on November 29.

Some personal canvassing has been done in the city and the response was entirely up to expectations, according to the chairman. The work will be finished locally within a few days, according to present plans, and it is expected that all of the county will be completed well within the time limit set by the national body.

It is a worthy movement and should receive the undivided support of every citizen.

Among the services performed by the organization in the state is home service work among the former service men. In this service the workers have labored to establish worthy claims and secure for disabled men, compensation, hospitalization or vocational training.

Rebekahs to Meet.

The regular meeting of the Rebekah lodge will be held this week Thursday evening. Election of officers will be held and also a large class initiated, after which lunch will be served. Every member is urged to be present.

First Feature of Education Week Program Creates Deep Impression.

Education week, which is being celebrated this week throughout the country, was properly ushered in on Monday in Thief River Falls. In the afternoon at 2:45 the all-school parade was staged and to say that it was a complete success is putting it very mildly. More than fifteen hundred school children, ranging in age from first graders to seniors in the high school, marched through the principal business streets of the city finally passing in review at the entrance of the Lincoln high school building. The line of marchers, considerably more than three blocks in length and four pupils deep, formed at the Central building and was headed by a brass band.

The line was formed in sections, one for each of the five school buildings in the city, and each section in turn was subdivided into the various grades. The children had, during the noon hour, apprised their parents of what was about to take place and this brought out a large number of citizens to view the parade. The city took on the appearance of a Fourth of July celebration or something on that order and the sidewalks were literally jammed with people along the entire line of march.

A number of the children carried banners, many of which bore very appropriate and significant messages. Some of these were: "Children Today, Citizens Tomorrow," "See Us at Work," "Visit Your Schools," "What Are We Worth?" and several others equally appropriate. The children of the Northrop school added a pleasing touch of color to the parade with a large number of bright colored paper streamers.

Upon arriving at the high school grounds, the paraders gathered in formation strictly according to military rules and remained in this position during the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and the sounding of "retreat." W. B. Fuller acted as commanding officer and his orders were quickly and accurately carried out by the school children. Upon command of the officer the marchers again formed a line and passed two abreast before the reviewing stand, where members of the school board, Superintendent I. T. Simley and a number of others were stationed. Following this maneuver the children were dismissed and excused for the day. While all of the schools made an excellent showing in marching, those in the reviewing stand agreed that the Central pupils were entitled to honors as being just a little better than the rest.

Visiting the schools is being stressed as part of the Education week program. Monday was visiting day at the Knox, Tuesday at the Central, while today the Washington school is prepared to entertain guests. Thursday is Northrop's day and Friday has been reserved for the high school. Four minute talks touching on school matters are being given by members of the school boards, pupils and others at the Princess theatre every evening during the week.

If education week serves no other purpose, it will bring home to the people of Thief River Falls the importance of the city's schools and the part these play in the development of the community. People get into the habit of taking too many things for granted and need to be stirred up occasionally to a true realization of things as they really are.

Woman's Club Will Hold Next Meeting on Nov. 26

The next regular meeting of the Woman's club will be held on Monday, November 26, in the Commercial club rooms at 3 o'clock. Following is the program: Social hour, Mrs. Simley, hostess. REGISTERED HOG SALE ON DEC. 5

To Be Held in Connection With Annual Crops and Poultry Show.

As a result of a decision arrived at last Thursday by members of the Thief River Falls Commercial culb, a sale of registered hogs will be held in this city on December 5, in connection with the Farm Crops and Poultry shows. The following committee has been appointed by the president of the club to have charge of all arrangements for the sale: M. T. McFarland, superintendent; C. H. Fuller, assistant superintendent; Emil Griebstein, Hans Anton, Roy Lambert, V. C. Noper and James Dreelan.

A considerable number of farmers in Pennington county and in adjacent districts have for some time raised purebred hogs of different breeds and their farms are stocked with breeding stock of high quality. The purpose of the sale is to give other farmers an opportunity to add purebred animals to their herds and to give these farmers their choice of a large number of high grade hogs at a reasonable figure.

Every farmer in this section who is interested in improving his herd of swine should make it a point to attend this sale. It will be an excellent opportunity for him to secure first class stock without the necessity of traveling to distant points or spending much time and money in making the selection.

SALVATION ARMY CALL IS HEEDED

Thief River Falls Contributes Liberally to Home Service Campaign.

The annual Salvation Army Home Service campaign in Pennington county is progressing very satisfactorily. The business men of Thief River Falls have contributed more liberally than last year, and while the residential districts of the city have not yet completed the canvass the returns indicate success at least equal to last year. Quite a number of townships have already reported and the results are satisfactory. Theo. Quale, county campaign chairman, states that he has been in touch with all of the township chairmen and thinks they will all turn in substantial amounts.

It is the plan of the committee in charge of the campaign to hold a "Doughnut Tag Day" on Saturday, November 24, and Mrs. Geo. Biddick has been appointed tag day chairman. The Elks have donated the use of the front room of their club headquarters, which will be very accessible for the girls participating. It is planned to ask a number of high school girls to sell tags, and four prizes will be given to the girls bringing in the largest amounts. The prizes are as follows: First, a beautiful vanity case; second, choice of $5 oxfords, donated by Froseth's shoe store; third, No. 2 Brownie camera, donated by Lambert's drug store; fourth, three-pound box of candy.

One of the finest attractions of the season will appear at the auditorium on Monday evening, November 26. The classic drama, "Smilin' Through," will at that time be presented by a cast of artists. Make your plans now to attend.

Poultry Display Promises to Be Best Ever Shown in Pennington.

Every person connected with the forthcoming crops and poultry show to be held in Thief River Falls is busy as a bee attending to details and getting everything in readiness for the opening of the big show on the morning of December 4. Only two weeks remain until the opening of the big four-day exhibition, and the general plans are pretty well decided upon in a general way, but in a proposition of this kind there are a million details requiring attention, and a large amount of work on the part of those in charge is necessary.

December 7 at 1:00, standard bred poultry, including all breeds of chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese, will be offered for sale at auction. Sale is open to all who have standard bred stock for sale and entries close at noon, December 4. Northwestern Telephone Company Fixes Things Up

In anticipation of future development and in keeping with the Northwestern Bell Telephone company's aim of rendering efficient telephone service, extensive changes and rearrangements are being made on the switchboard at the Thief River Falls exchange. A good deal of the work is being done at night so that no interruption of service will be noticed by the subscribers.

Added testing facilities are being installed and the position of rural lines on the board changed. These alterations are scientifically worked out to save unnecessary motions, which means faster and more satisfactory service.

Woodcuts.

The art of wood engraving is very old. When it was rare to find a prince who could write, little woodcuts for attesting documents were in use in Europe. But before that the Chinese had invented the art. In modern times the woodcut has been submerged beneath other methods of reproducing drawings and photographs, but the art is now being kept delightfully alive by the Society of Wood Engravers of London.

A THOUGHT FOR EDUCATION WEEK.

Many years ago the Japanese government sent to this country a commission whose duty it was to study the methods of western civilization. This commission happened to arrive on our shores at the time an election was in progress.

The visitors saw the masses of people going to the polls. Not merely were the aristocrats and the wise men able to vote, but everybody could participate—Tom, Dick and Harry. The Japanese, accustomed to an autocratic government administered by a small privileged class, could not understand such a phenomenon.

They asked how it was possible to run the country successfully when a multitude of people who had never been trained for government were permittd to select their rulers. The Orientals were informed that these people were prepared for self government in the public schools.

The commissioners in due time went home and advised their government to promote popular education. The advice was accepted, and as a result Japan has, during the past fifty years, made remarkable progress.

This almost forgotten episode suggests a thought for American citizens in our "Education Week," named for the seven days beginning November 18. The success of our government, its ability to bring prosperity and contentment to the average home, depends in the last analysis on the public schools.

If these schools fail to do their work, government will be costly and inefficient. But if they can send out a generation of young people who have practical ideas, standards of honesty, and something of discriminating intelligence, they can make our government a greater force for human welfare in the future than it has been at any time in the past.

WHAT MAKES A COMMUNITY?

The word "community" has come into general use of late. Where does this word come from and what does it mean? It has an inner meaning that may be hidden from some.

Country towns often fail to realize the meaning of the It is a place where people realize that they have common interests which all share, and where people generally take hold to work for these common interests.

Country towns oftn fail to realize the meaning of the word, with the result that a distinct line develops to divide the village or city from its rural neighbors. Where this condition exists, a real community is not possible. Every man goes about his own business and cares little about what his neighbor does. It does not occur to the people to pool their interests, join forces and get things done. They just drift along and make little progress.

A country town begins to go ahead on the date that it wakes up from being just a town and becomes a community.

If every resident of Pennington county will but keep this fact in mind, it won't be long until Thief River Falls is the center of the best community in the state of Minnesota.

Common problems, in order to be solved properly, demand community spirit and co-operative action on the part of all citizens. Don't be simply a farmer or a business man. Be a resident of the community, and with all your strength boost every undertaking which in your opinion will prove of benefit to the community as a whole.

The biggest and most important crop in Pennington county at this moment is its school children. The parade of children in Thief River Falls on Monday afternoon must have inspired with its importance everyone who viewed it. An institution which can successfully educate and develop into useful men and women the hordes of young folks of all ages who took part in the parade—and the corps of capable instructors who have the work in charge—should receive the whole-hearted backing and unstinted support of every citizen. The school system is not an accident, nor is its present efficiency brought about through a miracle. What we have in the way of a school system is the result of hard labor and efficient management on the part of those in charge. Every citizen of Thief River Falls should take pride in the city's schools and should take a personal interest in their welfare.

A judge in New Haven has hit upon the only real means of enforcing the prohibition law—he has begun sending bootleggers to jail. That is the way the prohibition law will ever be made effective. A bootlegger does not mind a fine of a few hundred dollars any more than the rest of us mind paying a $2 fine for parking an auto near a fire plug. But going to jail gets the bootlegger's goat. It interferes with his business—a sharer in the nefarious profits. If the New Haven judge had jurisdiction throughout the entire United States, there would be a quick end to the controversy over responsibility for non-enforcement of the law. There would be no non-enforcement. The amount of liquor a bootlegger can distribute while he is in jail won't make anybody drunk.—Warren Register.

Those good people who are worrying over the political future of Governor Preus may rest perfectly easy. Our guess is that the governor is all through running for office in this state and in good time will make the fact known.

Shipstead and Johnson have now reached the National Capital. We sincerely hope they did not have that lost feeling when they stepped off the train—and that they are still imbued with a desire to do something for the relief of their constituents.

THE FUTURE IS FAR FROM DARK.

That The Tribune is in good company when it asserts week after week that the farmers of the Northwest are most assuredly not headed for ruin, is borne out by a statement issued this week by Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern railroad. The following excerpts from Mr. Budd's statement are published, not because their author happens to be the president of a great railroad system, but because The Tribune believes he speaks the truth:

"The pessimism which teaches that farmers of the Northwest are destined to become peons is based on untruth and has resulted in impaired credit for the producers of the Northwest.

"The farmers of the Northwest have a very bright and promising future. Their present problems are due to the fact that the Northwest is going through a period of natural transition from vacant public domain to settled communities. As its communities progress, its agriculture changes from wheat, the first crop, to all of the phases of diversified farming which mean prosperity and wealth to farmers everywhere.

"The Northwest farmer will realize the fulfillment of this further sooner if he will develop the great and varied resources offered to him and cease to follow vain promisers of impossible remedies.

"Prosperity for the farmer depends upon diversification of crops and that Minnesota is already largely diversified, the process having been in operation for more than a quarter century.

"The value of Minnesota's dairy products in a 23-year period has increased from 7 per cent to 20 per cent of the total.

"The 1922 value of Minnesota dairy products was $130,000,000.

"North Dakota and Montana are rapidly following Minnesota's lead of diversifying.

"The need of dairy products is revealed in the fact that the United States actually imports more butter than it exports.

"In Minnesota and North Dakota from 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels of potatoes are grown annually. Improved methods of marketing, including sorting, grading, packing, branding, storing and shipping will do much to assure a good profit from the potato crop.

"Culture of sugar beets, an important crop, is in its infancy in the Northwest and sugar beet factories will soon spring up like magic.

"Growing of sweet clover for seed is just beginning and will yield enormous profits because the country is adapted for it.

"Because alfalfa grows naturally in the Northwets, feed for hogs, cattle and sheep will make livestock growing more and more important.

"Income for the individual farmer can easily be increased by from $100 to 500 annually by raising poultry.

With crop rotation in practice, and the allied industry of stock raising accompanying it, the future of our agricultural interest is bright.

"One of the commonest remedies for the farmers' troubles is the reduction of freight rates on grain. This suggestion is based on the theory that the railroads are taking from the farmer an undue proportion of the value of his crop as their pay for transporting it to market.

The real fact is that the railroads of the Northwest have shared the distress of the farmer to a surprising extent by refraining from making such large rate increases as were made elsewhere."

We are holding our breath till that man Bowen gets down to Washington to present his petition for a guaranteed price upon wheat. He ought to take Washington by storm—to hear him tell it.

Bootleggers in the twin cities are losing their customers. Three more have died during the past week or two from drinking poisoned liquor dispensed by the unscrupulous beasts.

Education week has been appointed and the kids of Thief River Falls will not object to having the schools adjourn so it can be thoroughly celebrated.

Pennington county is destined to become known as the alfalfa county of northern Minnesota. That kind of advertising will bring plenty of settlers.

People are talking about The Tribune "Pure Bred Sires" campaign all over Minnesota. They all say it was the finest stunt ever pulled by a newspaper.

In the last analysis, farming is a business. And the farmer who applies business sense and business methods in his work is the one who will succeed.

There are still some men who believe the world is flat—and once in a blue moon you will run across a fellow who does not believe in advertising.

The time will come when knockers will find this the unhealthiest climate in the world. We suggest they all be sent to Siberia.

If you think this is a cold and cruel world, take stock of yourself and see what you are doing to make it better.

Many girls in Thief River Falls have come to the conclusion that housework is excellent exercise for their mothers.

In hunting for ivory, why kill so many elephants that work and leave so many heads that do not work?

There are two ways of spelling prosperity. One is the old way and the other way is this:a-l-f-a-l-f-a.

In addition to being thankful ourselves, we should try to give others something to be thankful for.

So far no photographer has succeeded in catching President Coolidge with his mouth open.

We still insist that no man ever achieved success by knocking the other fellow.

AS OTHERS THINK

A Pioneer Gone To Rest

Editor Tribune:

A short time ago we were informed of the sudden departure of one of your early pioneer settlers of Rocksbury, namely Mr. Lars G. Netteland. Knowing him as we have for years past, it perhaps would not be out of place to gently touch upon the little things in life in which this sturdy old person acted or played his part.

Mr. Netteland was a native of Norway, and emigrated to America in 1881. Like many others of his time, be brought with him the little inheritances of his old mother land. It was not a matter of money—far from it. It was simply the old, old teaching of a Christian parentage handed down from father to son for generations past. "Have faith in God, have faith in your fellowmen, and live your life for God." Those were the lessons learned at his dear old mother's knee and that was the foundation upon which he built his life's career as an American citizen. He landed in St. Hilaire and was also united in marriage the same year to Anna Skeie, of Kandiyohi county, Minn. The following year he settled on his homestead where he has since resided up to the time of his death. He endured all the hardships of pioneer life and took an active part in the upbuilding of his community through all these years. He also served some twenty years or more as town clerk.

Yes, Mr. Netteland was a kind old man, liberal and sociable at all times. He was a man with a heart, a man who believed that through the spirit of kindness he could best serve his fellowmen. This sturdy old pioneer got to the end of his trail at last, realizing that the end was approaching fast, he called his loved ones to his bedside and told them how glad he was to die a peaceful death. His last request to his loved ones was, "Sing for me. Praise God." These were his dying words.

Thus the ranks of the old pioneers is broken from year to year leaving us one by one.

We will miss him in the home, we will miss him in every turn of the road along life's highway. We will return his love with sad hearts, but the trail that he helped blaze through the wilderness will remain and will become a part of pioneer history. His many acts and deeds of kindness will long be remembered by those who shared in his friendship and knew as a friend and neighbor through all these years.

Children's Book Week Observed

Last week was officially observed in Thief River Falls as "Children's Book week." The schools, in conjunction with the library board, each performed an essential part in properly bringing to public notice the objectives of those who sponsor the movement. These objectives consist principally in giving children a desire for better books, and bringing to parents a realization of the value of good reading matter for their boys and girls.

The public library was the center of most activities connected with the event, although much valuable work among the children was done by instructors in the school rooms. Many beautiful and cleverly executed posters were submitted by pupils in the various grades and placed on display at the library, where they were judged on Friday aftetrnoon. Prizes were awarderd as follows: Clifford Froehlich, primary; Yvonne Vaudrin, intermediate and Robert Biederman, grammar grades. All of the posters submitted were works of art and it was with great difficulty the judges were finally able to agree upon the prize winners. The writer was honored in being selected as one of the judges and knows whereof he speaks when he states that it was a very exacting task.

The grade schools of the city rendered programs at the library during the first four evenings of the week. The Knox school opened the series Monday evening, followed by the Washington on Tuesday, the Central on Wednesday and the Northrop on Thursday evenings.

The following pupils took part in the program presented by the Knox school: Margaret Dillon, Geraldine Connell, Luella Battleson, Harold Anderson, Jean Melby, Agnes Simley, Sylvia Backlund, Geraldine Howe, Lucinda Kuecks, Helen Johnson, Edna Alexander, Harriet Dillon, John Ward, Charles Syverson, Lowell Ralston, Melvin Johnson, Harry Rhodes, Robert Gray, Elinor Bottelson, Dorothy Dalton, Ruby Thompson, Alice Larson, Dorothy Tyrer, Linnea Backlund, Millicent Arnold and Eugene Erickson.

In the Washington program the following children were given parts: Bernadette Waldorf, Miss Byler's pupils, Marion Holzknecht, Sidney Lieberman, Ruby Ystesund, Bessie Carlson, Violet Jacobson, Rose Sheedy, Miss Porten's pupils, Harvey McCarty, Donald Snyder, Eunice Carlson and Ruth Jacobson.

The Central pupils were: Harriet Mattison, Elaine Evenson. Carl Swedenburg, Clara Lund, Richard Mabey, Harriet Fuller, Katherine Bickley, Harold Will and Gladys Elofson.

Those from the Northrop who took part were: Marcella McGinn, Warren Quale, Frances Storholm, Theodore Quale, Miss Trogen's second graders, Helen Hermanson, Coyla Clausen, Della Gibson, Ruth Wassgren, Jessie Bickley, Rhodell Angell, George Lambert, Lucille Bowers, Vandla Johnson, Gordon Overland, Harry Robinson and Ithiel Sweger.

Mrs. Gretel Lowe Arnold added interest and value to several of the programs by rendering in her inimitable style a number of readings which were very much enjoyed.

A display of books at the library graded in primary, intermediate and grammar sections and chosen with a view to supplying proper reading matter for children of these grades, was viewed with much interest by visitors. This was intended as a guide for parents in assisting them choose the right kind of reading matter for their children, something which is of vital importance in the proper education and development of every child.

The Woman's club also did its part in helping to place emphasis on "Children's Book Week." Following is a summary of the program rendered at the Monday afternoon meeting of the club. A paper was read on "The Relations of the Public Library," by Miss Frissell; Mrs. Emil Zeh talked on "Books of Special Interest at Our Library," enumerating many books which are of special value to farmers, merchants, bankers and others. Mrs. T. L. Melgaard gave a number of interesting facts concerning magazines and other publications which are regularly received at the library, while Mrs. L. G. Larson read a paper on "Interesting Children in Good Books." Mrs. Daniel Shaw gave a talk on Hibbing's traveling library. A dialogue, written and directed by Miss Sarah E. Vaughn and having for its subject "Choosing a Good Book," was rendered by Alice Lonson and Dorothy Tyrer. Another interesting number was a talk on "Book Week," by Eugene Erickson, sixth grade student.

Little Jackie Coogan Gives Lesson in Courage

The little seven year old artist plays the role of an orpan who is adopted by the wife of a brutal plumber. The man not only will not work but he beats his beautiful young wife and the little waif who has come into his home. When Jackie sees his foster mother in tears and realizes there is no food in the house, he undertakes with disastrous results, to substitute on a plumbing job for the good-for-nothing husband. Though he is a miserable failure as a plumber, the tiny artisan is given five dollars for trying. And when the ruffian tries to take it away the frail mother Jackie starts a battle that winds up with the brute going to jail for a year.

This particular scene in the picture is one that will appeal to children and parents, too; because it is a fine example of child courage and shows more forcibly than any other picture that has been presented here a child's sense of justice and duty.

New County Agent Here

Henry Werner arrived Thursday by car from St. Cloud to fill out the unexpired term of L. B. Bond, county agent, who removed to Crookston to take up co-operative potato association work. Mr. Werner is well and favorably known in the state for his agricultural work and the directors of the Red Lake County Farm Bureau association are exceptionally fortunate in getting a hold of a man of his calibre, who has been a success not only as a theoretical but also a practical farmer. Mr. Werner graduated from the College of Agriculture at the Unicersity of Minnesota in 1912 and for the next five years was instructor in agriculture at the Thief River Falls high school. In 1917 he went to Quebec to take charge of a cattle exporting project and when this was completed he returned to Minnesota and for two years he was county agent of Lac Qui Parie county. In 1918 he went to St. Cloud to manage the stock farm of Leslie Smith & Co., one of the most noted farms in central Minnesota and for the past five years he has been so engaged. Mr. Werner will maintain his office in the basement of the court house. He will be glad to render any services in his power to the farmers of the county, and they are urged to consult him freely.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

Boosting Alfalfa

Pennington and Red Lake counties are boosting alfalfa growing to beat the band these days and it is a good thing to boost. Alfalfa can be grown just as well in Roseau county as in the counties to the south of us and we hope to see one acre or more of alfalfa on every farm in this end of the county before the end of next year. There will be no trouble to obtain alfalfa seed so far as money is concerned, we are sure. With a small start each farmer can soon have his own alfalfa seed. Sweet clover is a good crop and we hope to see more of it grown but a little alfalfa will help still more. Nothing like having a variety.—Greenbush Tribune.

Homesteader Called

Job was a patient man—but he never had to listen to a couple of long-winded enthusiasts debate about "the crime of '73."

The best time in a man's life is when he is young enough to make a fool out of himself without knowing it.

Noble Urdahl

Goodridge Township.

Noble is another eighth grade graduate of the Goodridge schools. He is also credited with two years of high school work. He resides on a farm near the enterprising village of Goodridge, which has one of the best consolidated schools of the county. This school turns out winners, which is noted by the fact that Noble, through the County Calf club, won a free trip to the state fair. Noble's father's farm is stocked with a herd of Guernsey cattle. He is a successful raiser of sweet clover and alfalfa and Noble is well experienced in the care of dairy cattle. We are of the notion that Goodridge township and the village of Goodridge will be awake in this campaign and will give their representative, young Mr. Urdahl, all assistance possible.

Albert Holmen

Cloverleaf Township.

Albert is an eighth grade graduate of the Goodridge schools, graduating in 1922. He has partaken in one of the county's spelling contests, representing the live village of Mavie. Albert is interested in purebred Holsteins and will try very hard for the honors for his township in this contest. He enjoys the acquaintance of a large circle of neighbors and friends who are all known as boosters for better livestock.

John Loven

Rollis Township

John resides with his parents on the farm where he was born and raised. He received his education in Pleasant View school, Dist. No. 82. He stands high in the esteem of his neighbors and friends. His circle of acquaintance extends over his own township, Grygla and all of eastern Marshall county. His brother won a free trip to the state fair in a county club work project. John has a herd of milk strain Shorthorns which he intends to add to by entering this campaign. We know he is going to win because Herman is going to help him for unknown reasons.

Oscar T. Anderson

Spruce Valley Township

Oscar has been a resident of Spruce Valley since birth. He is at present in partnership with his brother, operating the Anderson farm. His early education was received in a rural school known as the Anderson school Oscar won county honors in a corn and potato raising project, at the time the above named school was associated with the Thief River Falls schools. Two of his sisters are teachers. One of them, Hattie, was chosen leader of the rural education section of the Northwestern Minnesota Educational association, acting as such in the convention held in Thief River Falls. The Anderson farm is an ideal dairy farm and Oscar plans on stocking it with purebred Shorthorns. We feel satisfied he will get his start with a Tribune campaign animal.

John Olberg, Jr.

Whiteford Township

John completed his education in school district No. 73 of this township. He resides on a farm and is interested in stocking it with purebred Holsteins. He is known by all his friennds to be a hustler and Whiteford township should feel satisfied with his selection and give him united support in this campaign.

Martin Saxberg

Cedar Township

Martin was born and raised in Cedar. He is a product of the Kropp school, Dist. No. 143. His father is interested in more alfalfa and better stock. The old man is going to prohis friends to be a hustler and White-Martin will supply part of the purebred stock. At least these are his intentions upon going into this campaign.

Mabel Ness

Holt Township

Mabel has been a resident of Holt township since her birth. Her father's farm is one of the best improved in the township. Her eighth grade education is just about complete through instruction received at the Pioneer school, Dist. 61. She is interested in adding purebred stock to her father's herd of Holsteins. If she should get low score, which is not her intention, she would not be dissatisfied with a bird of the White Leghorn variety.

Tuesday evening a party was arranged for Mrs. McAndress by a number of her friends, who gathered at her home unannounced to spend the evening. Those present were Mrs. Gertrude Thill, Mrs. M. C. Burns, Mrs. Mary Werstlein, Mrs. Fred Holzknecht, Mrs. H. Holzknecht, Mrs. Wm. Warner, Mrs. John Zavoral and Mrs. Frank Protz. The time was spent socially and a fine lunch, brought by the visitors, was served. Mrs. McAndress was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts in commemoration of the day.

NO BILL BOARDS ON PUBLIC ROADS

No State Land to Be Leased for This Purpose, Says Auditor.

A story was circulated some weeks ago to the effect that after December 1 no advertising signs are to be allowed on the pubilc highways of Minnesota. That this was no idle threat is indicated by the following communication from State Auditor Ray P. Chase to Highway Commissioner Babcock, made public this week:

"Within a few weeks this office has received numerous requests for permits to erect bill boards on state lands. I have ruled today that no state lands shall be leased for bill board purposes. This is in line with legislative intent, as evidenced by Sec. 11, Ch. 429, Laws 1923 which requires that advertisements be removed from public highways prior to December 1, and with the policy of your department as I understand it to be.

"I am certain that this ruling will work no hardship upon advertisers, since the newspapers of the state are entirely adequate to carry their message to the public.

"It will work no hardship upon bill board companies since it will prevent the initial financial outlay for erection of the boards.

"It will operate as a safety measure to the extent that it will prevent the construction of bill boards which obstruct the view and distract the attention at dangerous crossroads and corners.

"It will be another step to preserve the scenic beauties of Northern Minnesota and prevent their disfigurement by commercial advertising. Tourists, in increasing thousands, are coming into our state to admire its beauties, enjoy its climate and partake of its hospitality. Entertainment of these guests will be an increasingly profitable business. You, in your department, are making every effort to produce highways which will make tourists travel in Minnesota a pleasure. So far as this department can, we shall make every effort to preserve our beauty spots, prevent their destruction or disfigurement and conserve our resources in timber, lakes and streams."

Anton Prestby, Owner

W. J. LaBREE, Auctioneer. First National Bank, Clerk.

Dear Ed:—

You have done me several good turns and I have been on the lookout for a way to pay you back. I just found what to do. A few days ago I went to Thief River Falls and while on the street I met John Smith. You remember John—he used to live near us out there. He is living in town now and has a good job. After we talked a while he said come on down the street, I want to get some underwear; so I went with him in to a store and he told the clerk that he wanted an all wool union suit. They showed him some and said they were $6.00. John told him to wrap one up for him, and as I needed one I told him to get one for me. When he gave it to me I gave him the $6.00. John told him to send his up to his house and to charge it. Then we left the store, but I could not help thinking of how I had paid cash and took the underwear with me, while John had his charged and delivered, and will pay for it when he gets ready. He will pay it alright, but there are some fellows that don't. Now, who pays for all of that extra expense of doing business that way? We fellows that go in and pay cash are the ones.

Well, after leaving John I ran across to uncle Frank's and he wanted me to go with him into a store nearby to get a shirt and some overalls. As we entered the store I asked him if this is the store where he did his trading. He said you bet it is. In here they sell only for cash, do not deliver, have cheap rent, and do not spend a lot of money for fancy fixtures. They can, and do sell at much lower prices. You know uncle Frank is worth a bunch of money, and he has gotten it by using his head along with his hands. And would you believe it, in that cash store they showed me all wool union suits (and I didn't have to take their word for it as they were marked by the mills 100 per cent wool) for $4.45, just as good or better than I had just given $6.00 for? If they save me $1.55 on a suit of underwear, what will it be on all I wear?

Now, Ed, I feel it's my duty to tell you where that store is. It's the new SAVE-YOU-MONEY STORE, next to the Lyceum theatre and if you are interested in making your hard-earned cash go as far as possible you will do just what I am going to do from now on—trade at the SAVE-U-MONEY STORE. They have everything in Men's and Boys' wear and guarantee satisfaction.

I will write you again and tell you about some of the things I bought while there.

As ever yours,

JIM

Large Audience Greets Home Talent Thespians

A capacity audience greeted the home talent players Saturday evening when the three-act play, "Back to the Farm" was presented at the high school auditorium. To accommodate the large number who wished to attend a special matinee was given Saturday afternoon for the school children. The cast consisted entirely of local talent, all but three being members of the local school faculty. The players were accorded enthusiastic applause thruout the play and the faculty with which the members of the cast played their parts indicated careful coaching and hard work. A snappy orchestra played during the intermissions and filled the usual boresome hiatus between acts.

It has reached a pass nowadays when if you want a good time you have to buy a watch.

Chances are that the young chap who has been shining at football is the same lad who was too tired last summer to bring in an armful of wood.

MONEY IS CHEAP IN OLD GERMANY

More Than Billion Marks Purchased for $1.45 in American Coin.

That German money is a drug on the market was this week forcibly brought home to Clifford Storholm of this city, when he received from Germany a package of German lucre in exchange for $1.45 which he sent to a dealer in Berlin. Clifford has been busy ever since counting the marks and at last reports had reached a total of considerably over a billion.

He received a letter form the dealer which required 40 million marks to bring it to its destination, and the package containing the German money had stamps on the outside representing a value of 65 million marks.

It is hard for people in this country to understand how the Germans manage things under present conditions. With their money worth less than nothing it is difficult to imagine how business can be carried on. If the German mark ever gets back to normal, Clifford Storholm will be "sitting pretty." He has over a billion in his possession and plans on getting control of more German and Austrian money in the near future. Of course he doesn't expect to get a corner on marks, but he says it feels fine to be a billionaire—even if the value of his possessions is somewhat in doubt.

Included in the shipment of marks were a number of aluminum and iron coins of various denominations, evidently thrown in for good measure.

To the Theatre-Going Public.

I am pleased to be able to present to the people of this city that splendid emotional drama, "Smilin' Through." The play will be presented by a competent company of dramatic artists and will be in keeping with other attractions I have booked. You will be well repaid for your attendance at the auditorium on Monday evening, November 26.—G. Halvorson.

Musical Osbornes Billed For Princess on Nov. 27

Manager H. A. Brumund, of the Princess theatre, announces that he has secured an added attraction for next Tuesday evening, November 27. This attraction is the famous Musical Osborns, a varsatile troupe of four professional vaudeville artists, who come very highly recommended.

The Musical Osbornes' fame has spread so far that this summer they were wired for and sent a thousand miles to fill in a break-down in a big Chautauqua act. Lately this company has completed one week's engagement in Frank Wakefield's Winter Garden Revue, at the New Palace theatre, Minneapolis.

These four musicians are real artistst in several lines. In addition to their singing, acting and comedy work, they are clever exponents of the banjo and Hawaiian instruments. Their high class musical performance is sure to please both young and old.

The musical entertainment is in addition to the regular motion picture program of the Princess, which will be a special feature film thus assuring patrons of this theatre an especially pleasing performance.

Elks Will Stage Turkey Carnival Saturday Night

The Thief River Falls Lodge of Elks has arranged to hold a turkey carnival at the club rooms next Saturday evening, November 24. Everybody is invited to be present, and it is announced that all birds offered are prize stock, thus assuring a first class Thanksgiving dinner for anyone who secures a prize.

A variety of entertainment is planned and the Elks propose to make it a most enjoyable event for all. Don't forget the date—Saturday evening, November 21, at the Elks club rooms.

High Grade Attraction Coming Here Next Week

A company of high class entertainers known as "The Marine Maids" are scheduled to apper next Monday evening at the Sons of Norway hall under the auspices of the lodge. This is a regular lyceum course number and comes very highly recommended.

The company is composed of four young ladies. Their music, both of the instrumental and vocal touches of the nautical airs, their stunts and activities all seem to make it more genuine. It is a unique program, distinctly original, given by a group of capable maids who bring all the fun of a sea voyage without the sea sickness. For those who have tired of a concert program or need something out of the ordinary to stimulate interest, "The Marine Maids" will meet every requirement.

Constance Talmadge Finds Different "Double-Cross"

The double cross of Constance Tal-is a surprising affair and about that runs true to name.
uring the Love Boat se-
'East is West," the big al attraction which comes ess theatre Sunday and

Monday. Constance Talmadge, as Ming Toy, is placed for action. A fat mandarin is her prospective purchaser but behind her fan she prays that Billy Benson, an American, will step forward. When Benson fails her and the mandarin demands that she show her face she works her double cross. The Celestial potentate staggers back from a horror of cross eyes, one looking east, the other west, in the best Ben Turpin fashion.

Her eyes save Ming Toy at that moment, but later, when she is transported to America and installed in Chinatown, San Francisco, her irrepressible orbs cause fresh trouble. She learns to wink. She believes this the customary American salutation. And she winks and winks without stinting at every one she sees. It is a surprising movement. Her right eye twitches up and carries her cheek with it, while her left eye widens and rounds out like a headlight. A most expressive gesture—but misconstrued by the secretary of the Chinatown mission who insists that Ming Toy marry and settle down in the best American fashion. That, however, proves to be one of the western habits which Ming Toy cannot acquire too easily, for she clings to a memory of Billy Benson, the American, and cannot appreciate the attentions of Charlie Yong, "Fifty-fifty Chinaman," whose dress and speech is American but who still clings to his homeland by queue and heart.

Splendid entertainment is promised when Constance Talmadge brings "East is West" in all its eight reels of Oriental glafor and surprise to the Princess theatre.

To Keep Store Open.

C. S. Simonson, proprietor of the Cash Store, announces that in order to make things more convenient for Thanksgiving shoppers, he will keep his store open next week on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Shoppers are asked to keep this fact in mind.

A Correction.

Last week The Tribune in its write-up of the DeParcq compensation insurance matter inadvertently gave the impression that Mr. DeParcq had filed suit against the insurance company. The facts in the case are these: The facts concerning the case were brought before the State Industrial Commission in the usual manner, and an opinion rendered by the commission after the hearing. The insurance company has as yet given no indication of appealing from the ruling of the commission in the matter, in which event the case can be considered settled.

Kenneth Wattam of Fargo, was in this city as a guest of friends for a brief time. Mr. Wattam is at present employed as traveling salesman for the Upjohn company, a wholesale drug and chemical company, leaving yesterday afternoon on his territory throughout North Dakota. Mr. Wattam was formerly employed as bookkeeper for Daniel Shaw's Insurance company until about a year and a half ago.

In Appreciation

"It is well to do good, for it pleaseth the Lord." The president of the local Woman's Christian Temperance union is in receipt of a letter from Vivian Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Olson, who is a student at the Crookston farm school, expressing her thanks for the check she received from the state W. C. T. U. for her essay written on "Scientific Temperance," written while she was a student in the rural schools of Pennington county. Miss Olson was the winner of the local prize of $5.00. Also another state prize was awarded to Gordon Helland, sixth grade student of the Knox school, but who was removed with his parents to Oakland, California. We congratulate these young people and hope the knowledge they gained will be of the greatest importance to them in life. Let others do likewise.—Mrs. J. O. Sether, President.

Pennington Girl Weds.

The following from the Hibbing Tribune will prove of interest to Pennington county friends of the bride: "Miss Thelma Elizabeth Fellman became the bride of Nelson DeWitt Armstrong on Thursday afternoon, November 8, at the Swedish Lutheran church. Rev. Oscar Ebb officiated. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ensch, also of Hibbing. Mr. Armstrong is employed by the Mesaba Transportation company. The young couple will make their home in Hibbing."

Beauty Shop Changes Hands.

The Beauty Shoppe this week was sold by Misses Larson and Doris Foster to Miss Ruth Olson of Crookston, who took immediate possession. Miss Olson is a graduate of the DeGuile College at Minneapolis and has been employed in a beauty shop at Grand Forks for some time. She has a thorough knowledge of the business and several years of experience.

The New York success, "Smilin' Through," will be presented by a full cast at the auditorium on Monday evening, November 26.

Look up Simonson's ad in this issue. The store will be open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings next week. 36

COUNCIL STARTS MOVE FOR QUIZ ON COAL STORY

Will Investigate Charges Involving Alderman John Dahl.

Mr. Dahl Makes Motion to Look Into Ugly Stories Circulated.

It was moved and carried unanimously by the city council at the regular meeting of the aldermen last night

> "That the council investigate the alleged irregularity in the delivery of coal to the city, particularly with reference to the charges made against Alderman John Dahl, and that a hearing thereon be had at the next regular meeting of the council, and that the president of the council be authorized to issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses at such hearing."

The above motion was made by Mr. Dahl himself and was seconded by Mr. Ihle. It came about as the result of an informal quiz two weeks ago at the regular meeting of the council, at which time Mr. Dahl attempted to make a statement exonerating himself of charges circulated about the city previous to election, in which he was accused of having coal hauled to his residence without having it weighed and without paying the city therefor. The coal is alleged to have been a part of a carload sold to the city by a local dealer.

Two weeks ago the meeting was closed before any formal charges had been made and the statements made at that time were only of an informal nature.

Alderman John Dahl has been accused, so the story goes, of having coal delivered to his house without weighing it, it being alleged the coal was part of a car ordered for the city and for which the city paid in full. Mr. Dahl claims that he ordered the coal, that he paid for it, and has a receipt therefor.

Undoubtedly the hearing will attract many to the next council meeting. Both sides to the controversy are sure they are right and only a hearing of the whole matter will satisfy the aldermen.

P. T. MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

Session Scheduled for High School Assembly Room at 8 o'Clock.

The next regular meeting of the Thief River Falls Parent-Teachers association will be held on Monday evening, December 3, at the Lincoln high school assembly room. The proceedings are scheduled to begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Election of officers for the ensuing year will take place at this meeting, and for this reason every member who is able to be there should answer the roll call. Among the interesting numbers on the program are talks by Supt. I. T. Simley, Miss Clara Bauman and Miss Herlickson. Dr. J. N. Nesse will render a vocal solo, while Misses Dorothy Holm and Frances Wengeler are on the program for a piano duet.

Much has been achieved in Thief River Falls as the result of the activities of the Parent-Teachers association, and everyone interested in the welfare of the local schools should make it a point to be present at the meeting next Monday evening.

Returns to St. Paul.

Peter Blaska left last Saturday evening on his return to St. Paul after a short visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blaska, who reside in Rocksbury township. Peter is employed in St. Paul and had been granted a short vacation, which he spent wit hthe old folks on the farm.

Undergoes Operation.

Esther, the nine-year-old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. O. Sabo of Mavie was operated upon this morning at the Physicians hospital. The little girl is suffering from a very severe attack of appendicitis but latest reports are that she is getting along well and that unless something unlooked for happens she will make a satisfactory recovery.

[illegible] River Bank Opens For Business After Being Closed For Many Months

The Security Bank of Middle River, closed several months ago under orders of the state banking department because of depleted reserves, reopened its doors Monday morning and is now doing business at the old stand as usual.

It was through no fault of the management that the bank was forced to close. Due to deflation of farm prices the bank was unable to make collections on a large number of its loans and this made it impossible for the institution to maintain its cash reserve. The bank management has since the closing been able to make satisfactory settlement on most of its outstanding loans and depositors will not lose a cent. The opening of the bank at this time speaks well for Middle River and the community surrounding.

T. R. F. CLUB'S BANQUET DEC. 5

Big Time Planned by Former Thief Riverites at Dinner Party.

Among the important social events to take place in the twin cities during the holiday season is the annual banquet and dance of the Thief River Falls-Twin Cities club, which is to be held at the Minnesota Union on University campus on Friday evening, December 7. Several innovations are promised by the committee on entertainment and no doubt it will be a very successful affair from every standpoint.

Any former resident of Pennington county residing in or in the vicinity of the twin cities is eligible to membership in the club and is urged to join the permanent organization. However, any resident of Pennington county who will be in the twin cities on that date is cordially invited to attend. It is desired that they all come and renew old acquaintances and friends, and make new ones.

The committee in charge requests those expecting to attend to let some member of the committee know before Wednesday, December 5, so that provisions for their entertainment may be made. There will be a dance both between courses and after dinner. The committee gives assurance that an orchestra which will give entire satisfaction has been secured.

Tickets may be arranged and reservations made through the following people: Lee Ihle, 1206 Fourth street southeast; Florence Aalberg, 2651 Elliott avenue southeast; Ann Patterson 703 Delaware street; J. H. Hay, 1623 Selby avenue, St. Paul; D. P. O'Neill, 4553 Zenith avenue or R. M. Barzen, 604 Corn Exchange.

Pyramid Oil Headquarters Now Occupy New Location at 516 Atlantic Avenue

The Pyramid Oil company, which recently took over the holdings of the Northern States Oil company in Thief River Falls, is rapidly improving its facilities for taking care of its trade. This week the company has established permanent headquarters at 516 Atlantic avenue north, where a suitable office building has been secured. This is just a short distance from the warehouses of the company, which makes it a very convenient arrangement.

The company also closed a deal for the purchase of the Peoples Auto company property on Main avenue as announced in The Tribune several weeks ago, and this will be converted into a modern filling station as soon as the weather will permit so as to have it in readiness for business at the earliest possible date after the opening of the season next spring.

Ben Erickson, who has been engaged in the oil business in Thief River Falls for many years, is local manager for the Pyramid company.

Reporter Goes Visiting.

Miss Clara Anderson, local and society reporter for The Tribune, left last night for Hibbing, where she expects to spend the Thanksgiving vacation with Miss Grace Skramstad, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Evenson and other former residents of Thief River Falls who now make their home at Hibbing. She expects to be back on the job next Monday.

Accepts New Position.

Miss Dora Steen returned Saturday evening from Crosby, N. D., where she has been employed, and has accepted a position in the office of Dr. R. Arnold. She has already assumed her duties.

SIRES CAMPAIGN GOING MERRILY AMONG FARMERS

Keen Rivalry Developing Among Several Townships in Different Districts.

While the first week of The Tribune's Better Sires campaign fulfilled all expectations in the matter of interest and in amount of work accomplished by the campaigners, the second week shows indications of far surpassing the first effort.

The first week's reports from the campaigners assures the complete success of the venture. The boys and girls are thoroughly interested, and nearly all of them have succeeded in arousing the interest of their neighbors and friends to a degree which makes it much easier for them to secure subscriptions and renewals for The Tribune.

Over in Marshall county the young folks were a week later in getting started owing to the fact that organization work could not be completed sooner, but this does not make the least bit of difference as the campaigners there are in a district by themselves and it matters not to them what the young folks in Pennington are doing. This dividing the two counties into districts, with a full list of prizes for each, is a feature of the campaign which appeals to all because of its fairness in every way. One district has as good a chance as another, no matter where it is located.

The Tribune had intended to publish a list of standings this week but so many of the campaigners have been too busy to report during the past few days that such a list would necessarily be too incomplete and unreliable to be of any value to the campaigners or to their friends. For this reason the list of standings will be dispensed with until next week.

On the inside pages of The Tribune this week will be found the names and pictures of the young folks taking part in this campaign. Look them over carefully and pick out your favorite. They all deserve to win first prize, and every resident of each township should throw his support to the campaigner representing that township. In the city of Thief River Falls all campaigners have the same chance. Here it depends largely on initiative, friends and acquaintances which of the young folks gets the best support. The campaigners will find the city folks keenly interested however, and more than willing to do their share when called upon.

Next week it is expected the closing date of the campaign will be announced. This date will be decided upon through a majority expression of the boys and girls taking part in the campaign.

Drunks Face Judge.

Two arrests for drunkenness were made in Thief River Falls this week, the first since early in August. Ole Newton, arrested by Chief of Police Ralston, appeared before Judge Tarrant last Friday and drew a fine of $10, which was paid. Today Larry Deboice of Crookston, taken in tow by Night Patrolman Krogstad, was given the same sentence on a similar charge. He also paid his fine and was released.

1923 Christmas Seal Sale to Start on November 30

The sale of Christmas seals is scheduled to start this year on Friday, November 30, according to Dr. C. L. Scofield, president of the Minnesota Public Health association. The proceeds from the sale of these seals is used to assist in the fight against tuberculosis, and the little stickers are sold for one cent each.

The fight against tuberculosis is showing definite and concrete results. In the past twenty years, the death rate in the United States, as a whole, from this disease has been cut in half. In Minnesota, as compared with 1911, the figures show that 1,145 lives were saved in 1922. All who buy Christmas seals will be assisting in this great work.

Daughters of Norway

The local lodge of the Daughters of Norway meet on the first and third Tuesday of each month. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 4, at which time election of officers for the new year will take place. All members are urged to attend this meeting. As usual lunch will be served and a sociable time enjoyed after the meeting.—Mrs. C. F. Erickson, secretary.

Weather Man Favors This Section In Distribution of Snow and Cold Blasts

While the weather in this section of Minnesota cannot be said to be as balmy as six months ago, the brand apportioned during the past week or ten days has been far superior to that endured in other parts of the northwest. So far, there has been very little snow—in fact, there hasn't been enough at any time to cover the ground. While the temperature during the past few days has been somewhat chilly, it has been just right for a healthy circulation of the blood and nobody but a tenderfoot could think of kicking on it.

Here we are with only a few weeks until Christmas and yet no real winter weather. This fact is respectfully called to the attention of those misinformed individuals in other parts of the country who labor under the impression that Pennington county is only about two doors removed from the north pole.

MRS. O. LINSTAD DENIED CITY AID

Wife of Absconded Moonshiner Seeks Help From City Poor Fund.

The routine business appearing before the council at the regular session last night was not voluminous and the aldermen, all of whom were present, disposed of it in quick time.

Following the approval of the minutes of the last meeting, Harry Fry was granted a transfer of the pool and billiard hall license and the refreshment license formerly issued to Dahl & Dahl, proprietors of the Club Cigar store in the Masonic building.

The local creamery was granted use of the auditorium for their annual meeting next month, as were also the high school and the city team given the use of the auditorium for basket ball games.

Dr. L. R. Twete was named city dairy inspector to carry out the provisions of the new milk ordinance.

The application of Mrs. Linstad for poor relief was denied and the poor committee was authorized to have her returned to the town of Sanders, whence she came in September following the disappearance of her husband, who was released without bail following his arrest on the charge of making and having moonshine for sale, one of the biggest stills in the county having been discovered on his premises. He was to appear in court the next day when County Attorney Quale returned to the city, but instead he left for parts unknown. The aldermen did not believe she was entitled to relief as she owns a farm in the town of Sanders.

The only other business transacted was the motion authorizing an investigation into the charges made against Alderman John Dahl, mention of which is made elsewhere in this issue.

Kratka Lad Nearly Loses Eye in Peculiar Accident

An accident which came within a hair of destroying the sight of one of the eyes of the boy involved, occurred on Monday at the farm of Iver Solheim in Kratka township. Mr. Solheim and his 14-year-old son, Arne, were doing some work in the barn and had a team hitched to a wagon in the driveway. Mr. Solheim started the team and the boy stood between the wagon and the wall. The lad turned quickly to see whether the wagon was coming in contact with some harnesses hanging on the wall and in some manner he lunged forward against a protruding nail, which he did not see in time to dodge. The nail struck him squarely in the eye, but fortunately did not penetrate the eyeball although a very ugly wound resulted.

The lad was at once taken to Thief River Falls and placed under the care of a doctor. Although he received a serious wound which is likely to leave a bad scar, all concerned are thankful he will not be deprived of his sight.

About Indian Summer.

A popular belief that what is commonly designated as the "Indian Summer" is a definite period, recurring regularly every autumn, received a rude jar the other day when officials of the weather bureau in Washington declared that it is not a fixed season in the calendar at all. As a matter of fact, it is simply a term applied to a spell of mild fall weather following several unseasonable cold days—the latter constituting what is known in the United States as the "Squaw Winter"—and it varies in date and duration. In other words, the phrase just applies to a type of warm, calm, hazy weather, likely to prevail at any time in the autumn or early winter.

INDICATIONS POINT TO MORE AND BETTER EXHIBITS THAN EVER IN POULTRY SECTION

Turkey Day Tomorrow.

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day and it will be observed by the people of Thief River Falls. All of the business establishments in the city will be closed during the entire day and the postoffice will observe the usual holiday hours. The schools closed yesterday and will enjoy a vacation until Monday. Many of the teachers and pupils from a distance are planning on spending Thanksgiving with the home folks. The weather promises to be the finest enjoyed on Thanksgiving Day for many years.

Mother of Treasurer Dies at Norman County Home Following Lingering Illness

County Treasurer John Gullingsrud on Monday evening received a telegram bearing the sad news of the death of his mother, Mrs. T. O. Gullingsrud, which occurred that day at the family home near Gary, in Norman county. Mrs. Gullingsrud had been in poor health for some time and her death was not entirely unexpected. She was about 65 years of age and had been a resident of Norman county for more than 40 years.

Deceased is survived by her aged husband, four sons, three daughters and several brothers and sisters. John Gullingsrud and A. J. Sanden of this city, a brother of the deceased, left yesterday for Gary to be present at the funeral.

This is the second death to occur in the family within a short time, the other being that of Olaf G. Gullingsrud, a grandson, who succumbed to pneumonia about two weeks ago.

IMPORTANT CLUB MEETING FRIDAY

Woman's Club to Be Guests at Commercial Club Noonday Luncheon.

Members of the Thief River Falls Woman's club have been invited to be present at the noonday luncheon of the Commercial club next Friday. Owing to the fact that Thanksgiving falls on Thursday, the regular meeting day of the club, the luncheon this week has been postponed one day. It is expected in this way to bring a better understanding between the two clubs and to make it possible for the two organizations to co-operate effectively in acting upon questions of a public nature.

Superintendent I. T. Simley of the Thief River Falls schools will be the principal speaker on Friday. Mr. Simley no doubt will have a worthwhile message to deliver concerning a subject which is of vital interest to every resident of the city. This talk is in the nature of a final word to the patrons of the schools as a fitting conclusion to the observance of Education Week, mention of which was made in these columns last week.

Among other interesting things scheduled for Friday's meeting is the report of the committee appointed some time ago to investigate the proposition of securing a tract of land near Red Lake ofr development into a summer resort. It is understood that a thorough study has been made of the subject and that several concrete recommendations will be made with regard to this important question.

THIEF RIVER ODDFELLOWS PUT ON DEGREE WORK

About 35 members of the Oddfellow lodge of Thief River Falls, including the degree staff, motored over on Monday evening to confer the first and second degrees on three new members of the Friendship Oddfellow lodge of Warren. Several members of the Argyle Oddfellow lodge were also present. The work put on by the visitors was given high praise by members of the local lodge.—Warren Sheaf.

Miss Florence Aalberg, a former resident of this city, now with the Northwestern hospital, Minneapolis, was chosen corresponding secretary.

FARM CROPS TO BE IMPORTANT PART OF SHOW

Large Number of Prominent Speakers to Lecture During the Week.

Next week will be a big week in Thief River Falls. Every resident of the city and surrounding community will dress up in his best bib and tucker, forget his work and worries, take his wife and whole family with him to the crops and poultry show which opens at the auditorium on Tuesday morning, December 4, and continues unabated for four full days.

Something of interest will be on the program every minute during the show. It promises to be the biggest undertaking of its kind ever put over in this section of the state, both in the number and quality of exhibits, and the high class of speaking programs arranged.

Two special sales will be held during the week of the show—the purebred hog sale on December 5 and the poultry sale on December 7. These sales are put on for the purpose of giving farmers an opportunity to improve their herds and flocks by offering high grade animals and birds at prices they can afford to pay. A large number of entries have been booked for both sales so as to offer a wide choice to buyers.

This is the seventh annual exhibition of the Pennington County Poultry Association, and the first year in which the farm crops exhibit has been included. Beginning on a small scale seven years ago, the poultry show has grown to a point to where it is considered one of the best in the entire state. Approximately 1,000 entries in all classes are expected this year, and some of the finest specimens of poultry from this section of Minnesota will be placed on exhibit. Everyone interested in the poultry game should make it a point to become exhibitors at this show. Entries may be made either in the farmer or professional classes, as the prizes are to be awarded in each class separately.

The speaking program arranged for the show is exceptionally strong. Talks have been arranged on a variety of subjects, and each day has been set apart for the consideration of one particular topic. December 4 is poultry day, December 5 sugar beet and potato day, as well as the day for the hog sale; December 6 has been set apart as corn and dairy day, while the last day has been set apart for alfalfa and the poultry sale.

Meet of State Sanatorium Association On Dec. 6th

The association has many things of importance to consider at this time and a comprehensive program has been prepared for the occasion. Three sessions will be held, one in the forenoon, one in the afternoon and the third in the evening. The evening session will open with a banquet at the Minnesota club, with Donald Robertson of Argyle as toastmaster. Mr. Robertson is a member of the Oakland park Sanatorium commission.

RURAL COMMUNITY ASSETS

If your ambitions as an individual, are larger than your own business, farm or home and embrace your entire community, regardless of business interest, then there is hope for you. If you believe in good will as an asset in all your efforts at making good and seek it by unselfish giving of your time and enthusiasm to your community affairs, you will find it. It is the narrow, self-centered citizen on the farm and in the town who destroys a community and if many in a community are that way you may count on that community's death. It is this fault finding, irresponsible attitude, the let the "other fellow" do it attitude that ruins the small town and the farm territory. If you want to sell your business and farms to your own children and to outsiders it is plain that it cannot be done by spreading gloom, and depression. It must be done by praise and by boosts. A man does not have to neglect his own affairs in order to live an all around successful life. The rural community is the hope of the nation. When the agriculture and the small town fails, we are on the same road that the fallen nations took.

Let us get together for community betterment. The farmer is a business man and the business man is a farmer. If you want health, happiness and prosperity, learn to be brotherly, give services for the good of all, do everything possible to improve good will and confidence, peace and harmony.—Winnebago City Enterprise.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

The thing that has killed country life for many families has been the routine of women's work. The toils of women have on the whole been harder in the country than in the city.

Yet the problems of country women are not wholly solved even when all the labor saving improvements are put in. The routine of doing the same thing day after day, of long hours of toil, gets on the nerves of many women. City life, with entertainments and more variety looks good to them. If the husband gets discouraged with his own business prospects, a woman who is fretting over those conditions may be ready to urge him to pull stakes and quit the country life.

But if such people live in a neighborhood where the women are well organized, they are likely to get a different point of view. For a host of such women, the regular meeting of the woman's club, the sewing circle or the Ladies' Aid society is a bright spot in their routine and [illegible] their whole lives. The interesting discussions of current [illegible] the talks upon literature and [illegible] the pleasant social life, the [illegible] many women back to the [illegible] and [illegible] with a new [illegible] that the country town is not a [illegible] that it gives [illegible] of life than can be found in the average large city. They discover that they can [illegible] if they want to.

[illegible] have organizations which [illegible] social life [illegible] and offer them a broader [illegible] Thief River Falls [illegible] possible out of the Woman's club and other similar organizations? If not, the organization [illegible]. All of them are making an earnest effort to be of help to every woman in the city.

WHEREIN WE DIFFER

Having had an opportunity while attending the American Legion convention in San Francisco to observe at first hand the assets of which California and other western states boast, Ludvig Roe, state Legion commander, wrote the following editorial for his Montevideo News in which he draws a lesson for Minnesota.

"A fleeting examination reveals to the traveler nothing magical in the soil, the climate, or the opportunities of the far western states. They are good states, very good, worthy members of the Union contributing material wealth and civic energy to it. In other words, they are as good as Minnesota or Wisconsin, or other states that might be named. But many of us think that they must have some treasure resource that our state lacks. They have come to be considered by many as nothing lss than a promised land.

"What is this reason?

"California (to mention one of these states) has mighty resources and advantages. What is fully as important, she has the eyes to see and the judgment to appreciate her advantages, and the voice to tell the world about them all.

"Minnesota has resources and advantages equalling and surpassing those of the far western states. But she refuses to recognize her blessings. In fact she takes a peculiar sort of melancholy satisfaction in telling herself and the world how miserably poverty-stricken she is.

"The difference is in the viewpoint. Can anyone imagine California broadcasting to the nation the oft-repeated declaration that the thousands engaged in her principal industry are a bankrupt lot? It simply isn't done. Confronted by problems fully as trying as are those in Minnesota, the people of the west have faced them with a battle song that rings with faith and triumph. Minnesota's song in facing similar obstacles has been too much a dirge, a lamentation.

"Isn't it time for a change of tune?"

Right now is the time to warn the boys and girls about the danger of going onto the ice which is forming in the river. The covering ice is not yet thick enough to be safe, and anyone venturing out on the glassy surface should be extremely careful.

PROMOTING TRADE.

The advance of a country town depends in a large measure on the activity which its merchants show in holding the trade that naturally belongs to them and in reaching out for more. Many rural centers are the natural trading point for a large territory, yet by the lack of a certain spirit of hustle and enterprise, they may fail to get the retail business that they should have, and the progress of their community is hampered.

Every city and village should do a certain amount of active and co-operative work in pursuit of this end. The fall and winter season is a splendid time to consider this matter and lay plans for the future development of retail trade. Committees should be working on plans here in Thief River Falls by which our retail business men could draw patronage from a wider territory.

A first requisite in any such campaign is of course a rational amount of advertising. When the merchants of a town advertise, they not merely compete with each other in a race to see which shall win the most business. They also work unitedly to push the town ahead.

The man out in the country who reads A's advertisement in The Tribune and is interested sufficiently to come in and buy at that store may also take the time while in Thief River Falls to visit B's store and buy something there. The interests of all are united in this way. Whatever helps one will help the town, and all will profit to some extent.

Plans should be laid to make known to a wider circle of people the advantages of trading in Thief River Falls. Many people who have not been accustomed to come here much for trading would do so if they fully realized what good stores we have and how much effort will be made to please them.

PENNINGTON FORGING AHEAD

There may be people in Pennington county who have not yet come to a realization of the many blessings enjoyed by people living here, and there may be others who realize they are fairly well off but do not make the fact known. To the close observer it must be evident, however, that we in Pennington county and Northwestern Minnesota are much better off than people living in many other sections of the country at the present time. And the fact that conditions here are better than in other agricultural regions is being broadcasted to the world through many sources.

> "Not being dependent upon large crops of wheat that will show a loss to the exclusive grain grower, Pennington county farmers are not in the class of threatened bankrupts 'yelling for help.' They are in a satisfactory condition, brought about by foresight in abandoning the one-crop type of farming and engaging in dairying, raising sugar beets, sweet and other varieties of clover, timothy and alfalfa seed.
> "Farmers in Pennington county are optimistic. They can boast of having one of the largest and most successful farmers' creameries in the state, and the high class of Pennington county Holstein and Guernsey cows has been attested by prizes which were won at the Minnesota state fair. Practically every farmer has some cows, many owning fine herds, and the monthly checks received from the creameries for butterfat make a big item of profit. Corn in Pennington county matured nicely this fall which aided very materially in solving the problem of feeding for stock. Sugar beets have been raised very extensively this season, and one day recently [illegible] carloads of beets were shipped from Thief River Falls. Some of the most successful sugar beet raisers will make a profit of from $65 to $100 per acre on their crop. Sweet clover, timothy and alfalfa seed were abundant crops, and the high prices paid for these seeds this fall enabled the farmers to add very materially to their bank accounts. Pennington county will soon be known as the home of alfalfa. Early in the year there were many Pennington county farms for sale at snap prices. Today, owing to good returns from dairying and the crops raised, with assistance rendered farmers through the new rural credits law, these lands are being withdrawn from the market, and the original owners will stay right on their farms, imbued with a new spirit to go ahead.

> "Writing to the Immigration Bureau, Thomas H. Smith of Mavie states that his neighbors and himself have given up looking away into space at imaginary fields hundreds of miles away and have settled down to a policy of contentment and are attending to the fields that are near at hand. This betokens a wonderful advance for Pennington county in the near future."

Read that again, you who have been led to think that Pennington county isn't holding its own with the rest of the country. Get the booster spirit and forget this calamity stuff.

F. R. Bergh, who has edited the Strandquist Press since it was established about a year ago, has relinquished his connection with that newspaper and left last week for his former home at LaMoure, N. D., where he expects to re-engage in newspaper work. The Strandquist paper will in the future be edited by Messrs, Yngve & Johnson, owners of the plant.

The people who can't afford to take The Tribune, miss many chances to secure bargains that they can't afford to let go by.

When we begin to figure on all of good that has happened to us, we realize that it would take a long time to check up all the things we have to be thankful for.

Among the other benefits of prohibition is the lessening of the number of fellows who think they just have to sing.

If you expect to get ahead in this world, you'll have to use the one you have.

With the energy of the nation going into football as it is, there would seem to be little chance for anarchy.

A Thanksgiving Thought

Three centuries removed from the founding of this nation, we sometimes lose sight of the earnest motive which moved the Pilgrims to declare a day each year to be set apart for offering up sincere thankfulness to a good and just God for his bountiful mercies.

Through all those years that act has been a great leavening force. It removed retrospection from the end of life and brought it to us annually. It has helped make this one of the great nations of the world.

Perhaps it would be best if at the end of every day we would pause to realize our failures to be sincerely grateful for many blessings. Thanksgiving, however, offers us the occasion annually and for this we are all grateful.

We are not unmindful of the good—the kind—and the considerate thoughts and acts of our fellowmen here in Thief River Falls and Pennington county. We are grateful for the part we are permitted to take in the upbuilding of this community. So we join hands with all this Thanksgiving Day in paying honor to whom honor is due.

RURAL COMMUNITY ASSETS.

If your ambitions as an individual, are larger than your own business, farm or home and embrace your entire community, regardless of business interest, then there is hope for you. If you believe in good will as an asset in all your efforts at making good and seek it by unselfish giving of your time and enthusiasm to your community affairs, you will find it. It is the narrow, self-centered citizen on the farm and in the town who destroys a community and if many in a community are that way you may count on that community's death. It is this fault fiinding, irresponsible attitude, the let the "other fellow" do it attitude that ruins the small town and the farm territory. If you want to sell your business and farms to your own children and to outsiders it is plain that it cannot be done by spreading gloom, and depression. It must be done by praise and by boosts. A man does not have to neglect his own affairs in order to live an all around successful life. The rural community is the hope of the nation. When the agriculture and the small town fails, we are on the same road that the fallen nations took.

Let us get together for community betterment. The farmer is a business man and the business man is a farmer. If you want health, happiness and prosperity, learn to be brotherly, give services for the good of all, do everything possible to improve good will and confidence, peace and harmony.—Winnebago City Enterprise.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

The thing that has killed country life for many families has been the routine of women's work. The toils of women have on the whole been harder in the country than in the city.

Yet the problems of country women are not wholly solved even when all the labor saving improvements are put in. The routine of doing the same thing day after day, of long hours of toil, gets on the nerves of many women. City life, with entertainments and more variety looks good to them. If the husband gets discouraged with his own business prospects, a woman who is fretting over those conditions may be ready to urge him to pull stakes and quit the country life.

But if such people live in a neighborhood where the women are well organized, they are likely to get a difrent point of view. For a host of such women, the regular meeting of the woman's club, the sewing circle or the Ladies' Aid society is a bright spot in their routine and it colors their whole lives. The interesting discussions of current themes, the talks upon literature and readings from good books, the pleasant social life, the new friendships formed, send many women back to the labors of sweeping and cooking and mending with a new feeling. They find out that the country town is not a lonely place after all. They can see that it gives better opportunities for friendship, and a broader life than can be found in the average large city. They discover that they can have wide horizons if they want to.

Every country town should have organizations which give the women folks the social life they need to color the monotonous round of toil and offer them a broader vision of life. Are the women of Thief River Falls getting all the good possible out of the Woman's club and other similar organizations? If not, the organizations cannot be blamed. All of them are making an earnest effort to be of help to every woman in the city.

WHEREIN WE DIFFER

Having had an opportunity while attending the American Legion convention in San Francisco to observe at first hand the assets of which California and other western states boast, Ludvig Roe, state Legion commander, wrote the following editorial for his Montevideo News in which he draws a lesson for Minnesota.

"A fleeting examination reveals to the traveler nothing magical in the soil, the climate, or the opportunities of the far western states. They are good states, very good, worthy members of the Union contributing material wealth and civic energy to it. In other words, they are as good as Minnesota or Wisconsin, or other states that might be named. But many of us think that they must have some treasure resource that our state lacks. They have come to be considered by many as nothing lss than a promised land.

"What is this reason?

"California (to mention one of these states) has mighty resources and advantages. What is fully as important, she has the eyes to see and the judgment to appreciate her advantages, and the voice to tell the world about them all.

"Minnesota has resources and advantages equalling and surpassing those of the far western states. But she refuses to recognize her blessings. In fact she takes a peculiar sort of melancholy satisfaction in telling herself and the world how miserably poverty-stricken she is.

"The difference is in the viewpoint. Can anyone imagine California broadcasting to the nation the oft-repeated declaration that the thousands engaged in her principal industry are a bankrupt lot? It simply isn't done. Confronted by problems fully as trying as are those in Minnesota, the people of the west have faced them with a battle song that rings with faith and triumph. Minnesota's song in facing similar obstacles has been too much a dirge, a lamentation.

"Isn't it time for a change of tune?"

Right now is the time to warn the boys and girls about the danger of going onto the ice which is forming in the river. The covering ice is not yet thick enough to be safe, and anyone venturing out on the glassy surface should be extremely careful.

PROMOTING TRADE.

The advance of a country town depends in a large measure on the activity which its merchants show in holding the trade that naturally belongs to them and in reaching out for more. Many rural centers are the natural trading point for a large territory, yet by the lack of a certain spirit of hustle and enterprise, they may fail to get the retail business that they should have, and the progress of their community is hampered.

Every city and village should do a certain amount of active and co-operative work in pursuit of this end. The fall and winter season is a splendid time to consider this matter and lay plans for the future development of retail trade. Committees should be working on plans here in Thief River Falls by which our retail business men could draw patronage from a wider territory.

A first requisite in any such campaign is of course a rational amount of advertising. When the merchants of a town advertise, they not merely compete with each other in a race to see which shall win the most business. They also work unitedly to push the town ahead.

The man out in the ocuntry who reads A's advertisement in The Tribune and is interested sufficiently to come in and buy at that store may also take the time while in Thief River Falls to visit B's store and buy something there. The interests of all are united in this way. Whatever helps one will help the town, and all will profit to some extent.

Plans should be laid to make known to a wider circle of people the advantages of trading in Thief River Falls. Many people who have not been accustomed to come here much for trading would do so if they fully realized what good stores we have and how much effort will be made to please them.

PENNINGTON FORGING AHEAD

There may be people in Pennington county who have not yet come to a realization of the many blessings enjoyed by people living here, and there may be others who realize they are fairly well off but do not make the fact known. To the close observer it must be evident, however, that we in Pennington county and Northwestern Minnesota are much better off than people living in many other sections of the country at the present time. And the fact that conditions here are better than in other agricultural regions is being broadcasted to the world through many sources.

> "Not being dependent upon large crops of wheat that will show a loss to the exclusive grain grower, Pennington county farmers are not in the class of threatened bankrupts 'yelling for help.' They are in a satisfactory condition, brought about by foresight in abandoning the one-crop type of farming and engaging in dairying, raising sugar beets, sweet and other varieties of clover, timothy and alfalfa seed.
> "Farmers in Pennington county are optimistic. They can boast of having one of the largest and most successful farmers' creameries in the state, and the high class of Pennington county Holstein and Guernsey cows has been attested by prizes which were won at the Minnesota state fair. Practically every farmer has some cows, many owning fine herds, and the monthly checks received from the creameries for butterfat make a big item of profit. Corn in Pennington county matured nicely this fall, which assists very materially in solving the problem of feeding for stock. Sugar beets have been raised very extensively this season, and one day recently 16 carloads of beets were shipped from Thief River Falls. Some of the most successful sugar beet reasers will make a profit of from $65 to $100 per acre on their crop. Sweet clover, timothy and alfalfa seed were abundant crops, and the high prices paid for these seeds this fall enabled the farmers to add very materially to their bank accounts. Pennington county will soon be known as the home of alfalfa. Early in the year there were many Pennington county farms for sale at snap prices. Today, owing to good returns from dairying and the crops raised, with assistance rendered farmers through the new rural credits law, these lands are being withdrawn from the market, and the original owners will stay right on their farms, imbued with a new spirit to go ahead.
> "Writing to the Immigration Bureau, Thomas H. Smith of Mavie states that his neighbors and himself have given up looking away into space at imaginary fields hundreds of miles away and have settled down to a policy of contentment and are attending to the fields that are near at hand. This betokens a wonderful advance for Pennington county in the near future."

Read that again, you who have been led to think that Pennington county isn't holding its own with the rest of the country. Get the booster spirit and forget this calamity stuff.

JAFFRAY NAMED SOO PRESIDENT

Minneapolis Banker Chosen as Successor to Geo. B. Huntington.

C. T. Jaffray, president of the First National Bang of Minneapolis, was elected president of the Soo Line at a meeting of the board of directors held last week. He succeeds to the position left vacant by the death of George B. Huntington, who died on November 3 when stricken by a heart attack.

The election of Mr. Jaffray to the presidency of the Soo Line was in line with a suggestion of E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific railway, who attended a directors' meeting recently and urged that a northwest man be named to succeed Mr. Huntington. The Canadian Pacific owns a majority of stock of the Soo Line.

Mr. Jaffray will begin upon his new duties at once, but will not take complete charge, relinquishing other business interests, until January 1, 1924. Mr. Jaffray has been a director of the Wisconsin Central railroad for more than ten years and of the Soo for one year. He came to Minneapolis from Toronto, Canada, in 1887, and went to work as a clerk in the Northwestern Nataional bank. He became assistant cashier of the Northwestern National in 1890. In 1895 he went to the Frst National as cashier, and some six years afterwards was promoted to the vice presidency. He became president of the Frst National bank in 1917. He was born in Berlin, Ont., July 1, 1865.

Land Offer Accepted.

J. A. Conwell of Davenport, Iowa, owner of a quarter section of meadow land in Black River township, three miles southeast of here, wrote an open letter which was published in the Minneapolis Journal, October 28th, stating he had owned the 160 acres for twenty years without getting an offer on it. He quoted the taxes he was compelled to pay, and stated he had offered the land, subject to ditch lien, for $500.00 and still could not sell it even during boom days during and follwing the war. He finished by stating his land was for sale at $500 and that there was evidently something wrong with Minnesota when such conditions existed.

Last Saturday's Journal contains an open letter from H. L. Carpenter of Crookston accepting Mr. Conwell's offer, and stating the amount asked was on deposit at a Crookston bank subject to his order when proper transfer was made.

If Mr. Conwell accepts the offer there is a chance that the quarter section under discussion will be improved to an extent where it will take care of its taxes in the future.—St. Hilaire Spectator.

Road Signs Doomed After Dec. 1 on Trunk Highways

Living up to the spirit of the new law effective Dec. 1, Charles M. Babthis week gave instructions to district maintenance sueprintendents in all parts of the state to arrange to enforce the statute. Patrolmen will be directed in most cases to remove all advertising signs on trunk highway right-of-way. Those back on prrvate property are not to be disturbed now but may receive attention from the next legislature through advocation of taxing billboards for the value they derive from locations with respect to highway travel. Signs on fences generally are to come down under the order. All signs removed will be left at the roadsides a few days to give owners an opportunity to reclaim them if they wish. Then they will be burned to clear the right-of-way.

Yellow star markers, guides and warnings alone will remain close to the roads. County, town and school bulletins, boards and markers on registered trails will be left but must be outside the ditchline so as not to interfere with the official signs. City and village guide signs will be replaced later by standard signs.

In many sections of the state the local officials are planning like clean ups, the law applying to all public roads in Minnesota. The provisions are given in the laws of 1923, section 11, chapter 439.

$35,000,000 Worth of Staple Goods Bought

At the buying conventions of the J. C. Penney company, held consecutively [illegible] at St. Louis, Salt Lake City, Portland, St. Paul and Cleveland, the co-partner managers of the combined [illegible] stores of the organization placed orders for holiday and spring merchandise aggregating $35,000,000.

This undoubtedly is the largest amount of merchandise ever purchased by one interest within a period of one month.

The [illegible] demand upon manufactures to take care of this great volume of business, is illustrated in one contract recently made by the J. C. Penney company for 600,000 nainsook suits of underwear of athletic style, said to be the largest single order of the kind ever placed.

Flaming Screen Romance Proving Record Breaker

A Spanish dancer; an American boy; death in a woman's smile—and as sudden; the intrigue of aristocrats in dark Havana against the red menace of Spain; the sinister languor of Cuba's tropic nights; of it all, Richard Barthelmess has made a pure and flaming romance in that vivid First National picture, "The Bright Shawl." Never before has Barthelmess been seen in anything like it and Dorothy Gish, as La Clavel, the dancer, has the greatest emotional characterization of her career. Story, action, photography and the direction by John S. Robertson are the final word in truly great motion picture production.

"The Bright Shawl," which gives indications of setting new popularity records in hundreds of theatres thruout the country, will be shown on the screen at the Princess theatre next Sunday and Monday. It is said to be one of the best pictures shown here for some time—and that is something of a claim when the general character of the Princess programs is considered.

Mrs. Alfred Aubol of near Erie, who was a guest of her parents near Erie for a brief time, returned to her home last Tuesday. Land Offer Accepted.

J. A. Conwell of Davenport, Iowa, owner of a quarter section of meadow land in Black River township, three miles southeast of here, wrote an open letter which was published in the Minneapolis Journal, October 28th, stating he had owned the 160 acres for twenty years without getting an offef on it. He quoted the taxes he was compelled to pay, and stated he had offered the land, subject to ditch lien, for $500.00 and still could not sell it even during boom days during and follwing the war. He finished by stating his land was for sale at $500 and that there was evidently something wrong with Minnesota when such conditions existed.

Last Saturday's Journal contains an open letter from H. L. Carpenter of Crookston accepting Mr. Conwell's offer, and stating the amount asked was on deposit at a Crookston bank subject to his order when proper transfer was made.

If Mr. Conwell accepts the offer there is a chance that the quarter section under discussion will be improved to an extent where it will take care of its taxes in the future.—St. Hilaire Spectator.

Road Signs Doomed After Dec. 1 on Trunk Highways

Living up to the spirit ot the new law effective Dec. 1, Charles M. Babthis week gave instructions to district maintenance sueprintendents in all parts of the state to arrange to enforce the statute. Patrolmen will be directed in most cases to remove all advertising signs on trunk highway right-of-way. Those back on prrvate property are not to be disturbed now but may receive attention from the next legislature through advocation of taxing billboards for the value they derive from locations with respect to highway travel. Signs on fences generally are to come down under the order. All signs removed will be left at the roadsides a few days to give owners an opportunity to reclaim them if they wish. Then they will be burned to clear the right-of-way.

Yellow star markers, guides, and warnings alone will remain close to the roads. County, town and school bulletins, boards and markers on registered trails will be left but must be outside the ditchline so as not to interfere with the official signs. City and village guide signs will be replaced later by standard signs.

In many sections of the state the local officials are planning like clean ups, the law applying to all public roads in Minnesota. The provisions are given in the laws of 1923, section 11, chapter 430.

$35,000,000 Worth of Staple Goods Bought

At the buying conventions of the J. C. Penney company, held consecutively, last month, at St. Louis, Salt Lake City, Portland, St. Paul and Cleveland, the co-partner managers of the combined 475 stores of the organization placed orders for holiday and spring merchandise aggregating $35,000,000.

This undoubtedly is the largest amount of merchandise ever purchased by one interest within a period of one month.

The large demand upon manufacturers to take care of this great volume of business, is illustrated in one contract recently made by the J. C. Penney company for 660,000 nainsook suits of underwear of athletic style, said to be the largest single order of its kind ever placed.

The total retail sales of this nation-wide institution, will reach near $65,000,000 this year.

Flaming Screen Romance Proving Record Breaker

A Spanish dancer; an American boy; death in a woman's smile—and as sudden; the intrigue of aristocrats in dark Havana against the red menace of Spain; the sinister languor of Cuba's tropic nights; of it all, Richard Barthelmess has made a pure and flaming romance in that vivid First National picture, "The Bright Shawl."

Never before has Barthelmess been seen in anything like it and Dorothy Gish, as La Clavel, the dancer, has the greatest emotional characterization of her career. Story, action, photography and the direction by John S. Robertson are the final word in truly great motion picture production.

"The Bright Shawl," which gives indications of setting new popularity records in hundreds of theatres thruout the country, will be shown on the screen at the Princess theatre next Sunday and Monday. It is said to be one of the best pictures shown here for some time—and that is something of a claim when the general character of the Princess programs is considered.

We Have Many Things To Be Thankful For

Three hundred and three years ago a band of Pilgrims from the Old Country moored their barks on a wild New England shore.

In 1621, the year following their landing, after a good harvest, the Colonists determined on a period of recreation combined with thanksgiving for their many mercies.

This was the original Thanksgiving. Today it is a national custom, the day being observed throughout the United States.

If we of Pennington county look at things from the right viewpoint, we will find that we have many things for which we should feel truly thankful. Therefore, this bank believes that we should make Thursday, the 29th day of November, a real Thanksgiving Day by expressing our gratitude in some practical manner.

If you were to ask a hundred—or a thousand—Ford truckowners why they use Ford trucks, in preference to all others, they would likely say, "Because the Ford stands up."

They know that under the endless grind of daily service the Ford stays on the job month in and month out, with very little mechanical care, and with practically no expense for repairs or replacements.

They would emphasize the work this truck does, not its initial cost.

A Thanksgiving Thought

This bank feels that it cannot do better on this Thanksgiving Day than to repeat and to impress upon its friends the sentiment expressed by President Calvin Coolidge in his Thanksgiving Proclamation.

The President says: "We have been blessed with much of material prosperity. We shall be better able to appreciate it if we remember the privations others have suffered, and we shall be the more worthy of it if we use it for their relief. We will do well, then, to render thanks for the good that has come to us and show by our actions that we have become stronger, wiser and truer by the chastenings which have been imposed upon us. We will thus prepare ourselves for the part we must have in a world which forever needs a full measure of service. We have been a most favored people. We ought to be a most generous people.

BASKETBALLERS ARE WAKING UP

City Council Grants Use of Auditorium to Two Local Teams.

Basket ball will again be much in evidence this winter from present appearances. Two requests for the use of the auditorium were made last night when the city council was in session.

Supt. I. T. Simley appeared before the aldermen early in the evening asking that the high school boys be given free use of the auditorium for a series of games, together with the free use of the building for practice purposes. This had been done a year ago and the aldermen were unanimous in granting the same privilege again this year.

The present tentative schedule calls for four games before the holidays and four after that. The post-holiday dates of a tentative nature are January 11 and 18 and February 22 and 29.

Lawrence Hermanson and Roy Brown later in the evening appeared before the council in behalf of the old city team, composed largely of American Legion boys, and asked for the use of the auditorium for eight or ten games and also for practice purposes. Their request was granted on the same basis as two years ago, namely, a $10 charge for nights when games are held and free use for practice, the team to defray any cost in the moving of the seats.

Mr. Hermanson stated that no definite name had been decided on for the team, nor had any tentative dates been arranged, but the young men are hopeful of staging some good exhibitions of basket ball and affording excellent exercise for the men engaged in the games.

Misses Myrtle and Margaret Williams had as their guests last Thursday evening a group of friends from Grand Forks, who motored here and spent a brief time. They were namely, Misses Irene Jacques, June Bayer and Jim Bayer, Leonard Cassidy, Harold O'Connor and Arthur Westingham.

Gonvick Student Wins Honors at St. Olaf School

Word reaching friends in Gonvick this week confirms newspaper reports from Northfield, Minn. telling of the election of Miss Dorothy Hamery, former Gonvick student, as queen of the 1927 class at St. Olaf's college. Miss Hamery was chosen from a class of 300 students which is the largest freshmen class in the history of the college. Her election took place at the college carnival held in connection with the 49 annual Foundation Day attended by a large gathering of alumni, relatives and friends of the students. As a part of the carnival ceremonies and in honor of her selection, the queen was drawn in a carriage by the student body at the head of a parade through the city of Northfield. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Hamery, parents og Miss Dorothy, and Miss Stella Hamery were among the vast crowd of spectators who witnessed the ceremonies.—Gonvick Banner.

SOME FACTS ON CANCER DANGER

Cure Is Possible If Disease Is Detected In Earliest Stages.

Five hundred and twenty years before the borth of Christ, while Daniel was a captive in Babylon, Democedes, the great Greek physician, cured Atossa, daughter of Darius, King of Persia, of cancer. This fact is set forth by Herodotus, the historian. A thousand years before that, in 1500 B. C., cancer was mentioned in the writings of the times.

Now, about 3,425 years later, we still hear of cancer. We hear more and more of it—and will continue to do so until the fight being waged against it reduces its great mortality. No real cure has yet been seen on the medical horizon, so the battle must be waged along present lines.

In 1920 about 90,000 persons in the United States died of the disease. This year the number will be as great, if not greater. So the necessity of combating cancer is as plain to be seen as are the stars on a clear, cold night. That the disease attacks the rich and poor; that no protection against it can be had by any mode of living; that its cause is unknown and that it destroys the lives of men and women over forty-five more frequently than it appears among those who are younger, are among the few plain facts which are known about this disease.

One naturally asks how so mysterious a malady, so certain to end fatally if not taken in the first stages, and so remorseless in its attack upon those in middle life and beyond, can be successfully fought. The answer is simple. It is contained in the three words:

"Act in time."

But again one asks, "How?"

This answer is simple, also, and is being given by a society consisting of some of the foremost physicians, surgeons and scientists in America. It is contained in the brief sentence:

"Know the danger signals and seek competent treatment when you see them."

If you are not told what these danger signals are you cannot, of course, recognize them. And that is where the American Society for the Control of Cancer comes in. It not only answers all questions, but it broadcasts its information over the entire country. The Society uses, in answering the questions put to it, established facts and the opinions which the mature judgment of the leading members of the medical profession regards as sound.

In many instances, the symptoms can be detected by men and women of ordinary intelligence. The public is informed that cancer often starts from something else—usually something quite inconsequential and easily cured. It is then told to be suspicious:

Of any sore in the mouth that does not readily heal.

Of any wart, mole, ulcer, bruise or sore upon the body that either changes in appearance or does not heal.

Of any irritation, particularly in the mouth, which is constant; for one of the certain things known about cancer is that, in a great majority of cases, irritation is a contributing cause.

Of any lump which does not disappear shortly.

Of continued indigestion and loss of weight.

Cancer in the great majority of cases causes no pain when it first appears. That is unfortunate, for a hurt man seeks help. Many cancers develop at the edge of a scar. Moles and warts which have been dormant for years may suddenly develop cancers. Any irritation, especially in the mouth, should attract immediate attention.

Much care, in fact, should be given to the mouth. "Keep it really clean" is wise advice. See that a tooth, a bridge or poorly placed filling does not irritate the tongue or cheek. Such an irritation can be easily done away with by the dentist. Then, there are so-called "smokers' sores." Many a man has lost his life because he burned his tongue with pipe or cigar and paid insufficient attention to it. Medical history shows it is not safe to "let sores go."

AUTHORITY SAYS ORDINANCE O. K.

Dr. L. R. Twete Chosen Dairy-Inspector of Thief River Falls.

State Bacteriologist Dr. R. W. Archibald addressed the city council last evening, discussing the many advantages of the milk ordinance passed two weeks ago, following which Dr. L. R. Twete of this city was chosen dairy inspector at a monthly salary of $25 and the fees which the city will obtain in having the various herds tested that have not already passed the regular state tuberculin test.

Dr. Archibald stated that for the last two years the state has been very active in having the milk ordinances passed in nearly 60 cities, these ordinances being similar to the one adopted here and drawn under supervision of the state board of health. In some instances the ordinances at first were not very strict and in some cases epidemics later broke out and the measure was materially tightened up.

It so happened that Dr. Archibald was in this vicinity investigating a typhoid fever epidemic and stopped off on his way through the city. He told the aldermen how in this particular case a small milk dealer was a typhoid carrier and that the one cow he was milking became infected and the result was that five distinct and traceable cases resulted therefrom. It is possible that more will develope but the state was watching the situation and believed the danger past.

One out of ten deaths in the state are traceable to tuberculosis and rigid milk ordinances would do much to stop the spread of this dreaded disease, said the doctor. Cows in this part of the state do not appear to be as badly infected as those in the southern part and it is not thought that it will be necessary to kill very many of the animals in the local herds. At Austin ten per cent of the cows were condemned. Where this step becomes necessary the state pays the owner two-thirds of the appraised value of the naimal killed so that the owner does not have to stand a total loss, as many of the milk men have feared.

CITY TURNS OUT TO ACT IN FILM

Officials Declare Holiday So Citizens Can Aid in New Production.

The residents of Visalia, a prosperous northern California town of nine thousand population, assisted in the filming of "A Noise in Newboro," Viola Dana's new Metro starrig picture, to be shown Friday and Saturday at the Princess theatre.

Visalia was selected as the location for many of the exterior scenes of this Edgar Franklin story. Miss Dana and her company of twenty people spent ten days in the town and found everyone so cordial that it was decided to stage the big scenes for the picture there instead of doing them in and about Los Angeles.

One of the main episodes for "A Noise in Newboro" called for a spectacular mob scene. The town officials called a half holiday on Saturday so everyone who cared to do so could appear before the camera.

The mob scenes were to be taken along the main street. Four special cameramen had been rushed from the Metro studios to assist John Arnold in the photographing. The cameramen had platforms constructed along the street.

Long before one o'clock the people of Visalia and of all the towns around that had heard that they would have an opportunity to work in a picture started pouring into the main street.

Mr. Beaumont had secured a magnavox which was set up on an automobile so that he could dash about with instructions. At two o'clock in the afternoon it was estimated that there were more than nine thousand people along the main and side streets to participate and watch the special parade and mob scene which was arranged for the picture.

The only difficulty encountered in handling the people was when Miss Dana appeared on the scene. Immediately there was a grand rush to catch a glimpse of her and the mob scene that was being arranged for the picture came almost to being a reality. She was extracted, however. The necessary scenes for the picture were filmed in less than three hours' time.

LESSON OF LIFE TAUGHT IN FILM

Sex Hygiene Theme of Picture at Lyceum Theatre This Week.

Samuel Cummins, producer of the motion picture, "Some Wild Oats," has made a thorough study of the subject of sex hygiene and he claims that if all the young folks would stop to look and listen before deciding on matrimony, there would be happier homes ahead. The trouble with the younger generation is that they are ignorant of this subject and only learn it when it is too late. Not until the war has the government realized the gross ignorance of the young generation. Men who have been drafted into the army or navy knew very little of the subject and did not even realize the seriousness of sex disease, or its consequences.

The trouble lies mostly in the parents who do not know the subject, or those who do know the subject but do not know how or do not want to teach their children one of the important problems of life; how they have come into this world and how to live as nature has provided for all human beings.

If every father and mother, or son and daughter in the city of Thief River Falls would see the motion picture, "Some Wild Oats," they will have a lesson of life before them which they will never forget. It will relieve the embarassment of the parents of discussing this subject and at the same time it will make an impression on the younger generation which will last for the rest of their lives. This motion picture is coming for a short period and it will be the only showing of the film in this city.

On account of the delicate subject and scenes, men and women will not be admitted together to see "Some Wild Oats." This picture will be shown at the Lyceum theatre on Thursday and Friday, November 29 and 30. There will be special reels for the women each afternoon at the matinee starting at 2:30, and special reels for the men each evening at 7:30 and 9:00. Children under 16 years old will not be admitted at any time.

TWENTIETH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF RED RIVER VALLEY DAIRYMEN AT CROOKSTON VERY SUCCESSFUL

(Crookston Times.)

All officers of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association were re-elected at the final business session of the organization held this morning at the Elks club rooms. Warren extended an invitation for the association to meet there next year and it is considered probable the invitation will be accepted. The officers re-elected are President Stuart McLeod, Goodridge; first vice president, A. R. Knutson, Pelican Rapids; second vice president, Marius Waldal, Plummer; secretary, Leonard Houske, Halstad; treasurer, E. E. Thorson, Hendrum.

Stuart McLeod, re-elected president of the association, said the the big additional effort of the association this year will be placed on better feeding.

"We will try and extend the acreages of alfalfa and sweet clover many times in the valley," he said. "Even the best of our farmers as we judge from their submitted records are not feeding enough alfalfa and clover in their rations. They feed too much wild hay and timothy.

"Better feeding must go hand in hand with the expansion of dairying in the valley. When we have the feed to give a scientific diet, we will find our profits mounting. Poor feeding is holding back the profits as much as any single thing. We want better blood in our herds and more nutritious, milk producing material in their rations."

Following the morning's session of the dairymen, delegates were taken to the Northwest School of Agriculture where an anniversary luncheon was scheduled for one o'clock to be followed by an entertainment program. Announcement of prize winners in the various contests was made at the dinner. These contests created a wide interest over the valley and serve to keep up a good morale and spirit of pride among the creameries' patronage and buttermakers who take part.

Butter from 76 creameries was entered in the butter contest. Of these entries not one scored below 90 per cent and all but eight scored 92 or better. Sixty of the creameries competing in this contest were valley creameries and 16 are located in other parts of the state. The 60 valley creameries are all entitled to a share of a $100 prize which is to be prorated to the creameries whose butter scored over 88 per cent.

The first prize, a silver trophy, went to Henry Werbes, of the Ottertail creamery in Ottertail county. A tub of butter from Dawson scored the highest but inasmuch as this creamery is not located in the valley section it was only given a complimentary score. William Kelzenberg, Verndale, and J. J. Harms, Dent, won second and third prizes, which were also silver trophies.

The following won gold medals for making the highest scoring butter in each of the districts of the Minnesota Creamery Operators and Managers' association: Herold Olson, Thief River Falls, Dist. No. 3; B. J. Ommodt, Flom, Dist. No. 4; L. J. Thompson, Barnesville, Dist. No. 12; C. H. Markuson, Henning, Dist. No. 13; and L. R. Kartak, Menahga, Dist. No. 18.

In the butter judging contest, S. L. Hauge, Bagley, won the first prize, a gold butter trier. O. C. Peterson, Hazel, and second prize, a silver trier; and S. Loveid, Middle River, won third prize, which was a nickel-plated butter trier.

The contests carried on in 1923 by the association have been directed toward inducing the farmers to keep records of their dairy management and to purchase pure bred sires and build silos. Following are the results of these contests:

The prize of $25 to the farmer who kept the best records of his feed and production of his dairy herd in 1923 was awarded to Ingberg Brothers of Hendrum. Second prize of $20 went to Albert Dunham, Pelican Rapids. Other winners in order were J. J. Fosse. Fertile; Myrtle I. Heimrum, Lake Park; Oscar Drotts, Viking; Otto Fosse, Pelican Rapids; C. L. Rude, Viking; Fred Cuno, Grygla, Anton Honer and Floyd Jamieson, both of Dent.

The creamery winning the first prize for having the largest per centage of patrons who keep records is Hendrum with 13.6 per cent. Pelican Rapids was second and Olga third. Other winners were Viking and Grygla creameries.

First prize for the largest per centage of patrons who bought purebred sires went to Pelican Rapids with Halstad second and Hendrum third. Resolutions adopted by the association this forenoon are summarized as follows:

Commend interest in association of creamery operators.

Pledge moral and financial support to national dairy union.

Commend work of Dairy Commissioner Chris Heen and Leonard Houske, a member of his staff and secretary of the association.

Indorse diversified farming especially the growing of sweet clover for pasture, alfalfa for hay and corn and soy beans.

Recommended service of creamery butter at hotels.

Appreciation of testing cattle by livestock sanitary board and bureau of animal industry in curtailing tuberculosis.

At the noonday luncheon of the Crookston association yesterday a number of visiting delegates were guests of honor. Brief talks were given by A. J. McGuire, manager of the Minnesota Co-operative Creamery association, Chris Heen, "Dad" Cort and T. A. Hoverstad who were active in the organization of the association. President McLeod spoke in behalf of the dairymen.

The afternoon session yesterday began with a vocal solo by F. I. Schweppe, music instructor of the Crookston high school. The creamery operators' quartette made a distinct hit with the delegates in a series of appropriate songs. The quartette is composed of J. R. Bloomquist, Waubun; O. Lee, Lake Park; H. Lee, and O. Skare of Gary.

Feeding Dairy Cattle was the topic discussed by Dr. C. H. Eckles, chief of the division of dairy husbandry, University Farm. Dr. Eckles gave some of the essentials of dairying to be first: the right type of cows and secondly, efficient feeding. The points to be considered in the selection of a cow should be breeding but with that should come efficient feeding and management. Best results, said the speaker, are obtained in early summer and for that reason efforts should be made to maintain summer conditions the year around. Dr. Eckles urged the dairymen to provide the proper feeds in their crop rotation especially legumes hay. Prof. Eckles showed that the dairy cattle should be fed in proportion to their milk production. A good ration of grain for Holstein cattle was given as one pound to three and one-half to four pounds of milk, while that of Guernsey and Jersey cattle a proportion of one of three gives best results. In speaking of the efficiency of mineral content in various sections. Dr. Eckles mentioned that the Red River Valley shows this problem to be very slight.

A. J. Kittleson, district club leader of Northwestern Minnesota, member of the Northwest School staff, followed with a discussion of the dairy calf project. The boys and girls of today, said Mr. Kittleson, will be the dairymen of tomorrow, and should, therefore, be given every opportunity to make good. Club work, said the speaker, gives the youngsters a chance to learn the dairy industry from the ground up, by giving them the experience in the care of the calf, the breed heifer, the cow, and milk records. The delegates were urged that the ways to boost the dairy club were to furnish leadership; to invite the best teams to demonstrate at the annual convention, and finally provide means of financing the dairy subject. Mention was made of the methods used in financing the project in Norman county where banks and business men the past year have fostered one of the best dairy clubs in the state.

A. J. McGuire, of the Minnesota Co-operative Creamery association, discussed the problems that confront co-operative creameries. Tribute was paid to Northwestern Minnesota because of the extent of the co-operative movement. Mr. McGuire mentioned that 53 of the 56 co-operative creameries in this territory were also members of the state association. Because of the strong competition from private concerns it is necessary, said the speaker, to have patrons of local creameries sign long term contracts. The state organization is at present engaged in securing such contracts and the work is progressing very satisfactorily.

C. R. Hutcheson of the Northwest Farmstead, Minneaolis, discussed the alfalfa campaign in the Red River Valley. Mr. Hutcheson has had much to do with promoting increased acreage and best results seem to come where every quarter section has at least forty acres of alfalfa. Mr. Hutcheson pointed out the success various farmers are having, especially those in Pennington county. Mention was made of one farmer who had made, last year, $8000 from one hundred acres.

The evening session of the association consisted in attending the pageant. "The Progress of Presperity," held in the armory. A large audience was present for one of the most impressive pageants ever viewed in this part of the state.

The dairymen's formation of the first co-operative creamery near Gary, Norman county, was depicted and later came the organization of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association. Various interesting scenes were given showing the production of varied crops, especially those adapted to dairying.

The forenoon sessions today were opened by a vocal solo by Miss Agnes Bothne, head of the music department of the Northwest School. Addresses were given by M. Sorenson, Pelican Rapids on the advantages and disadvantages of marketing poultry and eggs through the creamery. Some excellent results have been found in this arrangement.

Albert Anderson of Erskine discussed, "Making the creamery building and grounds attractive." H. R. Searles dairy extension specialist, St. Paul, outlined for the dairymen the breeding and grading up of a profitable dairy herd. F. M. Brown of St. Paul pointed out the problems in connection with the selling of convention butter.

O. M. Kiser, livestock specialist at the Northwest School, gave an instructive discussion of the feeding experiments being conducted at the station with growing steers. Results to date, said Mr. Kiser, show that sweet clover compares very favorably with alfalfa as hay. The growing steers require protein ration same as the dairy cows and the same value of sweet clover hay should be evident in dairy feeding. Last year's experiment, said Mr. Kiser, is being continued this year with the exception that first cuttings of each hay will be used and that instead of a limited silage ration, full feeding ration of silage will be included. The feeding value of wild hay will also be included in the test this year. An experiment that will be watched with considerable interest next summer were given as those to determine feeding value of white sweet clover, yellow sweet clover, mixed grasses, and brome grass.

Adjournment was made for the noon luncheon which was held at the Northwest School dining hall at 1:00 o'clock. Superintendent C. G. Selvig who was president of the dairymen's association for nine years, acted as toastmaster. Addresses were given by a number of the early promoters of the association, M. J. Cort, T. A. Hoverstad, first superintendent of the Northwest Experiment Station, Col. R. A. Wilkinson, L. Jensen and others. A little comedy was introduced at the luncheon when a series of telegrams were read which further showed the favorable conditions for dairying in the northwest.

Expert Says Our County Is Ideal Alfalfa Ground

Many people in Pennington county are personally acquainted with F. J. Alway, division of soils, University of Minnesota, who for several years was in charge of the experimental plots at Golden Valley and made investigations in other parts of Pennington and Marshall counties. For this reason his opinion of the soil to be found here should carry considerable weight.

In a letter last week to F. F. Haynes of this city, Mr. Alway makes the following observations:

"On returning to the city I find yours of the 13th inst. awaiting me, and I am pleased to learn of the interest people are taking in alfalfa and sweet clover.

"I have already telephoned our Mr. Drew to send you as many of the desired 200 copies of the Farmer's Institute Annual for 1922 as he can spare.

"You have the great advantage of having in your county an abundance of lime in all your soils, insofar as I am aware, and alfalfa if given a chance may be counted to do well on all of these that have fair drainage."

He's Ever With Us.

It is said that a man who won't take his home paper because he can borrow one has invented a machine by which he can cook his dinner by the smoke of his neighbor's chimney. The same fellow sits in the back pew in church to save interest on his contributions and is always borrowing a ride to town to save the wear and tear on his own "lizzie." Yes, we know him. He is a first cousin of the man who used the wart on the back of his neck for a collar button.

Leaves for Sweden

On Monday morning S. A. Mattson left on his long journey to his old home in Sweden. He drove a Ford touring car, on which he had a home made cab, until he gets to Minneapolis, where he would have a closed model body placed on the chasis. He will drive by auto to New York where he expects to ship the car to Sweden, where he will use it while there. He expects to be gone until some time in January. His trip will no doubt be an interesting one. Asle Asleson will look after the garage business while he is gone.—Karlstad Advocate.

BASKET BALL IS NEXT IN SPORTS

Lincoln High School Expects to Place Strong Team in Field Soon.

Preparation for the basket ball season is already under way at Lincoln high school and Coach Albert Thune is whipping the boys in shape for a season of strenuous controversies with teams representing neighboring schools. Mr. Thune is a man of much experience and recognized ability in basket ball, having been chosen a member of the all-state team in South Dakota for four years before coming to Thief River Falls.

Regular periods have been assigned for basket ball practice, Monday and Wednesday being given over to the Freshmen and Sophomores, while the Juniors and Seniors get their training on Tuesday and Thursday. After he has had an opportunity to see the boys in action is it Mr. Thune's intention to pick a squad which he will put through a period of training on Friday afternoons. The team will be whipped into shape at the earliest possible date as it is likely that two games will be played before the Christmas holidays, one being with Mahnomen and the other with Middle River.

Disabled Soldier Missing

Martin Olson, city commander of Devils Lake, North Dakota, who is the legal guardian of Charles N. Thompson, a disabled soldier, who has been living with his mother at Fordville, North Dakota, has notified the U. S. Veterans' Bureau that he disappeared from Fordville on August 18, 1923, and nothing has been heard of him since.

He is described as follows: Height, five feet eight inches, weight 150 pounds; thin face, red complexion, light hair, blue eyes, age 30 years, no visible marks.

Mr. Thompson was a lieutenant in the army and at one time lived at 2919 Eighteenth avenue north, Minneapolis.

His widowed mother is very anxious to learn where he is and anyone who can give such information is requested to write to Martin Olson, city commissioner. Devils Lake, North Dakota, or the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, Fargo, North Dakota.

Dear Jim:—

I received your letter and was sure glad to hear from you. Your experience in town last week was interesting but really made me ashamed of myself for not telling you about the new Save-U-Money store as I have been trading there since last spring and have been very well pleased with their goods and prices.

You know for a good many years back each fall we would send to one of the mail order houses for a big bill of goods for myself and the boys. Well the other night we got at it and made out our order. Yesterday we went to town and thought while there would mail it but we stepped into the SAVE-U-MONEY STORE and would you believe it, their prices were much less than the mail order house, so we didn't send the order but bought everything there after getting home, I figured it up and on the $42.00 order we saved $6.15 besides the express and not only that but we saw just what were getting, every thing fit and is fine.

There is one thing sure and that is the SAVE-U-MONEY STORE is well named and here after everything I buy for the boys or myself will get there.

As ever,

Ed

THE THIEF RIVER FALLS TRIBUNE

Locals Lose First Game of Basketball This Season to Strong Warren Quint

Scoring the winning tallies in the list few minutes of play, Warren emerged as victor over the Middle River high school basket ball team in the Warren gym last Friday evening. The entire game was hotly contested, both teams running neck and neck in the scoring.

The first score was made by Waino Johnson of Middle River with a close in shot. A foul on an over-anxious Warren player gave Middle River one point making the count 3 to 0 in favor of Middle River. Knutson of Warren evened up matters when he dropped in two baskets in rapid succession. A minute later "Aaft" Gulikson, captain of the local quint, landed a pretty one from the center of the floor. Knutson again sent the ball through the hoop for two more points and Tullar, came in for the warren team added another counter from the middle of the floor. The first half ended 8 to 5 in favor of Warren.

At the opening of the second half Warren played their second team but when Middle River tied the score at 10 all, the first string men were again sent in. Larson added two more points for Warren with a neat close-up shot, while "Bill" Kramer, the outstanding star of the contest, pivoted around Tullar of Warren and dribbled in for a pretty shot under the basket. Warren annexed four more points to their score and the game ended 18 to 12 in favor of Warren.

The line-up was as follows:

Middle River		Warren
Kramer	R.F.	Tullar
Johnson	L.F.	Lindberg
Sandberg	C.	Knutso
Gullikson, capt.	R.G.	Larson
Nordlum	L.G.	Carlson

Field baskets: Warren 9, Middle River 5.

Referee: Quistkrow of Warren.

An exceptionally large number were present and the players received enthusiastic applause throughout the performance. This is the third time the local players have presented the play during the past ten days. A fourth out of town performance is planned sometime after the Thanksgiving vacation.

Security State Bank Is Open For Business

The Security State bank, which was closed some months ago because of depleted reserves was formally opened for business Monday, November 26.

The affairs of the bank have been thoroughly reorganized and the state banking department has sanctioned the reopening of the institution. The opening of the bank at this time is a credit of the management, which has worked unceasingly to get its affairs adjusted, and also shows that financial conditions in this section are improving.

Lignite Freight Rate Protested

The Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission has filed a petition with the interstate commerce commission requesting the suspension and investigation of a new tariff which becomes effective December 6 on the Northern Pacific railway, on lignite coal from the North Dakota fields to stations in South Dakota and Minnesota. The new tariff, which will increase the rate on lignite from 25 to 60 per cent over the present rates, is unjustified and will work an unwarranted hardship on Minnesota consumers, the commission claims in its petition. The railroad commission of both North Dakota and South Dakota are also filing similar petitions protesting against the increased tariff.

MARSHALL COUNTY WORKERS IN "BETTER SIRES CAMPAIGN"

Mabel Ness

Holt Township

Mabel has been a resident of Holt township since her birth. Her father's farm is one of the best improved in the township. Her eighth grade education is just about complete through instruction received at the Pioneer school, Dist. 61. She is interested in adding purebred stock to her father's herd of Holsteins. If she should get low score, which is not her intention, she would not be dissatisfied with a bird of the White Leghorn variety.

Martin Saxberg

Cedar Township

Martin was born and raised in Cedar. He is a product of the Kropp school, Dist. No. 143. His father is interested in more alfalfa and better stock. The old man is going to promote his friends to be a hustler and White-Martin will supply part of the purebred stock. At least these are his intentions upon going into this campaign.

Oscar T. Anderson

Spruce Valley Township

Oscar has been a resident of Spruce Valley since birth. He is at present in partnership with his brother, operating the Anderson farm. His early education was received in a rural school known as the Anderson school Oscar won county honors in a corn and potato raising project, at the time the above named school was associated with the Thief River Falls schools. Two of his sisters are teachers. One of them, Hattie, was chosen leader of the rural education section of the Northwestern Minnesota Educational association, acting as such in the convention held in Thief River Falls. The Anderson farm is an ideal dairy farm and Oscar plans on stocking it with purebred Shorthorns. We feel satisfied he will get his start with a Tribune campaign animal.

John Loven

Rollis Township

John resides with his parents on the farm where he was born and raised. He received his education in Pleasant View school, Dist. No. 82. He stands high in the esteem of his neighbors and friends. His circle of acquaintance extends over his own township, Grygla and all of eastern Marshall county. His brother won a free trip to the state fair in a county club work project. John has a herd of milk strain Shorthorns which he intends to add to by entering this campaign. We know he is going to win because Herman is going to help him for unknown reasons.

John Olberg, Jr.

Whiteford Township

John completed his education in school district No. 73 of this township. He resides on a farm and is interested in stocking it with purebred Holsteins. He is known by all his friennds to be a hustler and Whiteford township should feel satisfied with his selection and give him united support in this campaign.

Local Girl Honored

At the recent election of the literary societies at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, Naomi Forder of Gatzke, was invited to become a member of the Sanford society.

There are three societies for the boys and two for the girls. Membership is limited to 30 students. The groups hold their meetings twice a month at which time public programs are presented. The annual intersociety debate is a feature of the work in debating. A large number are at work for the try-outs. Successful contestants in the inter-society debate have a decided advantage in selection of the teams from Morris and Fargo Agriculaural schools.

Strayed.

Strayed from my farm seven miles east of town, a Shropshire ram. Finder please notify Richard Sjoberg.

The best cereal story seems to be the ads for the breakfast foods.

Helping the Carrier

A newspaper exchange very truthfully says: "If the patrons of the rural mail routes want good mail service this winter, now is the time to prepare for it. Weeds should not be allowed to fringe the public highways and catch the drifting snow making them almost impassable a part of the time. Cut down all the weeds along the highways and much of the unpleasantness of the winter months can be prevented. Every rural mail carrier earns twice as much as he gets during bad winter months and while he is willing to give his patrons the best of service it is asking too much to expect him to cover the route satisfactorily if he must shovel his way through the drifts. Cut down the weeds along the highways now and do your part toward making the roads better during the winter."

United States Mica Production.

Mica mining in the United States started early in the Nineteenth century in New Hampshire, which state supplied all the domestic production until about 1868, when mining was started in North Carolina and other states.

Why Thirteen Is Unlucky.

Thirteen is supposed to be the unluckiest of numbers. In ancient times it was quite the reverse! Men in those days always counted in dozens, and it was customary to add one "for luck." The baker's dozen is a modern survival. The present belief that thirteen has a baleful influence comes from the Last Supper, when Judas Iscariot was the thirteenth at table and the first to rise from the meal.

Fearful to Contemplate.

According to a contemporary Zululand camels became panic-stricken at the scent of a white man. Imagine what will happen to the poor beasts if ever they get a noseful of the white women who immerse themselves in that three-gallons-for-a-dollar perfume that is so much in vogue for street-car riding and the movies.—Buffalo Express.

DUE to the unusually mild weather prevailing this season, I find my stock altogether too large. Mild weather is a fine thing but I find that it interferes seriously with the movement of cold weather goods. Now, to make a long story short, what I propose to do is this: I have decided to move my surplus stock by making prices so low that people who may need winter goods simply cannot afford to pass up this chance of supplying their needs. I simply take this method of unloading my surplus stock, and propose to give the people of Middle River and vicinity some values the like of which they never saw before. The goods offered are all new, of standard make and good quality. I have been in business in Middle River for many years and never had the reputation of dealing in junk.

About thirty couples were present and a very enjoyable evening was spent. Lunch was served at midnight by both the local restaurants.

Office Rooms Ready.

Carpenters have been busy the past week rearranging and preparing the front office rooms in the creamery for Dr. S. O. Werner's hospital equipment. His car of household goods and hospital equipment arrived last week over the Soo at Thief River Falls and was hauled down here by auto trucks from that place last Saturday. This layout is the best that St. Hilaire has ever had and in fact, is one of the finest equipped offices in this part of the state. 254 Thanksgiving Days Until We Had Telephones

A struggling little group of Pilgrim colonists at Plymouth, Massachusetts, founded Thanksgiving Day in 1621. It was 254 years later, in 1875, that the telephone was born.

The Pilgrims led a rigorous life beset with dangers and hardships. Their only means of communication called for tedious journeys on foot over unbeaten trails or along the treacherous waters of an uncharted coast.

Today, we commemorate Thanksgiving with all the conveniences of modern civilization, and the celebration is a much more joyous occasion because of them.

We are now a nation of 110 million people, spread over a land 3,000 miles from coast to coast. But we are all linked together by 36 million miles of wire of the Bell System and connecting companies, so that everyone may talk to anyone, anywhere.

Mrs. John Bergland and son Leonard, left on Tuesday evening for Bemidji after a month's visit with Mrs. Bergland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Mellem and other relatives. Mr. Bergland left for that place about two weeks ago.

Miss Emma Sorenson is home from Thompson, North Dakota, where she has been employed this winter.

Through the courtesy of our friends Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Furan, we had the pleasure last Wednesday evening of "Listening In" to a radio program through their machine. Theirs is the only radio set in this village so far, and while not one of the expensive and elaborate kind, it is a very serviceable little machine capable of rereceieving messages under proper climatic conditions from distances up to 1500 miles. On Wednesday we heard very effectively such stations as Calgary, Can., Denver, Col., Louisville, Ky., Pittsburg, Pa., Cincinatti, Chicago, Minneapolis and others. Radio truly can be said to be one of the solvers of the centuries old problem of bringing the city advantages to the rural population and is daily doing wonders for the education, benefit and amusement of multitudes of the farming and small city population. Mr. Furan is to be complimented on his machine for which he also, by the way, informed us that he is local agent at this place.

John Remmem went to Thief River Falls on Monday evening where he will attend to business matters between trains.

Let Us Reason Together

If I were to offer you an investment that would net you ten per cent you would not hesitate to take advantage of it, if you were well secured. Here is the point—I am going to give you the opportunity to invest that will net you as high as fifty per cent. You receive good, high grade merchandise as security. I fully realize that sales are common throughout the entire country, but, after all, what is a sale if you do not have prices that will move out the goods. The public knows what class of goods is carried here. We have placed prices on them that will appeal to people who enjoy buying regular goods for less than what they are usually asked for them. I have been in the merchandise game for more than twenty years, and I do not hesitate saying that this is the most complete stock of goods that it has ever been my pleasure to work in.

Respectfully yours,
G. A. DARNELL, Merchandise Attorney.

CROPS-POULTRY GREATEST SHOW YET SEEN HERE

First Two Days Exceed All Attendance Expectations of Management.

Poultry and Farm Crops Exhibits Prove Keen Rivals as Attractions.

Favored with the most beautiful weather possible to imagine at this time of year, the Farm Crops and Poultry show opened to the public yesterday morning with both exhibits and attendance far exceeding expectations. All available space in the large auditorium building is taken up by the wonderful array of exhibits the greater part being required by the poultry exhibit. The poultry section of the show is larger and finer than that of any previous exhibition in Thief River Falls. Over one thousand birds are shown, of every known breed and variety. Judge W. E. Stanfield, judge of poultry at the show, made the statement yetserday that the turkey exhibit was the largest and best he had ever seen in the entire state of Minnesota.

For the first effort in this line, the farm crops section of the show is really wonderful. The display is much larger than expected by the promoters and the quality of the exhibits of the very best. In the first section is a large rack containing liberal samples of several varieties of potatoes grawn here, and they are beauties. For the benefit of those who do not believe that corn can be raised here the next section is given over to this staple. It looks more like a booth in an Iowa or Illinois county fair than anything else. The exhibit should prove an eye opener to everyone who views it.

Farther down the line are placed the exhibits of threshed grains and miscellaneous products. Here are also to be found about 20 different samples of ensilage. Greatest of all are the exhibits of legumes, such as clovers, sweet clover and alfalfa. These are shown in seeds, plants and in the form of hay. These exhibits should go a long way in proving that the forage problem in Pennington county is something over which the farmers need not worry.

The auditorium has been beautifully decorated for the occasion and presents a beautiful appearance to the throng of visitors which is steadily pouring through the doors of the large building. The decorations are a work of art and the management is deserving of special commendation for its efforts along this line.

Last evening's meeting was held in the Commercial club rooms and W. E. Stanfield, judge of the poultry division, delivered the principal talk. He gave his hearers many valuable points on good poultry, the score of poultry and the construction of poultry houses. The High School Boys' Glee club rendered some very pleasing selections as part of tihs program.

Judging of poultry and other exhibits has taken place today and has created a great deal of interest. Visitors during the remaining days of the show may see for themselves from the tags attached just how each exhibit is rated.

The sale of registered Poland China hogs was held this afternoon but too late for a complete report to be given in this issue of The Tribune. Another interesting number today is the talk by Prof. T. M. McCall, who spoke on sugar beets at 3 o'clock. An evening program will be given at the Lyceum theatre, with Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture J. H. Hay as the principal speaker.

On Thursday a poultry educational meeting will be held at 10 a.m. W. E. Stanfield will lear the discussion, assisted by local breeders. In the afternoon at the Commercial club rooms, Prof. R. S. Dunham will talk on sweet clover, and W. J. Brown, president of the American Wheat Growers Associated, is scheduled for a talk on co-operative wheat marketing. In the evening L. V. MINORS IN POOL ROOM; $25 FINE

"How old is Ann?" isn't half as hard to determine as the age of the fuzzy-faced youths who make it a practice to frequent the billiard rooms of Thief River Falls, in the opinion of the men who are held responsible for obeying the law which specifies that young men who haven't passed a certain number of birthdays must not be allowed to frequent these places. And the fact that many of the lads do not hesitate in adding several years to their ages when questioned by the proprietors makes it all the harder for the man who is responsible for the proper conduct of a billiard room.

William Sheedy, proprietor of the Hub recreation parlor on LaBree avenue, last Thursday was brought before Judge N. W. Tarrant of the municipal court and after the testimony of Night Patrolman Krogstad, Morlan Strom and Harold Rustad had been taken, he was assessed the minimum fine of $25 under the law, which he paid. Mr. Sheedy was charged with allowing the two lads to play a game of pool and the night patrolman testified that he had caught them in the act. The testimony developed, however, that both boys had on previous occasions lied to Mr. Sheedy concerning their age and that on the evening in question he was at work in the front part of the building and therefore did not have a clear view of the room in which the pool game is alleged to have taken place. But under the law the proprietor is held responsible for what transpires in his place of business and in this instance it meant that he could escape with nothing less than the minimum fine in such cases prescribed by law.

Keeping minors and students out of billiard rooms is a hard problem and the general opinion among these who are in a position to know is that Mr. Sheedy has at all times been doing his best to comply with the requirements of the law. In an unguarded moment two lads with a deep hankering for a game of pool slipped one over on him—and Bill had to dig up twenty-five bucks to pay for the few minutes of fun the kids enjoyed. Such is life.

CHILD WELFARE DISTRICT MEET

Regional Conference Called at Bemidji Thursday of This Week.

Mrs. J. M. Bishop, of this city, chairman for this district of the Child Welfare council, is in Bemidji this week in attendance at a regional conference of that body to be held tomorrow. Mrs. Bishop will take a prominent part in the proceedings and will read a paper on important phases of child welfare work.

The meeting at Bemidji is the third of its kind in the state, the first having been held in Thief River Falls two years ago. The meeting here was largely attended by delegates from all parts of the district and resulted in a great deal of good being accomplished along the line of welfare work among the children of this section of the state. Mrs. Bishop has taken a very keen interest in this problem and has come to be recognized as an authority on all phases of the subject.

An evening program has been arranged at Bemidji in connection with the Kiwanis club of that city, and a very interesting and beneficial conference is anticipated. Ten or more counties are to be represented by delegates at the Bemidji meeting, and it is expected that some of the most prominent social welfare workers in the state will be in attendance.

TRIBUNE CAMPAIGN LEADERS

Jul. Kilen

Edith Malmquist

After carefully canvassing the young folks taking part in The Tribune's Better Sires Campaign, a decision has been reached to close the campaign on Saturday evening, Dec. 22, two weeks from next Saturday. Some thought the 15th would be about right but the majority feared that bad weather might arrive, and in this case they wouldn't be given time to call upon all of their prospects. Saturday, December 22, is the last day of the campaign. The exact hour of closing and other details concerning the counting of credits will be published in these columns next week.

The past week has been a very favorable one for all concerned. With fine weather and good roads, all of the campaigners have been getting in good licks. People in this section are more and more becoming aroused as time passes, and the young folks find this interest to be of much value to them in their work.

The residents of Kratka township are backing him to the limit. They have done a great deal for him so far during the campaign and are planning for future support. His friends in the city and villages are doing their share, and young Kilen feels grateful for what is being done for him. He does not mention the hard work he puts in himself. He sees, acts and dreams success.

Miss Edyth Malmquist of River Falls is a close second. She has had some "up-hill" work in some places but has proven herself equal to the occasion. St. Hilaire and Hazel are giving her very good support. It is understood she is withholding from publication quite a number of points. Her motto, we believe, is, "Do not give up so long as you have no colds to bother you in talking."

Below will be found a report on the various sections of the county. Indications are that everybory works. Father is no eception in this campaign. Brothers and sisters come in handy. Next week may show an unexpected change on scores. Only five so far have voiced a desire to close the campaign without further work. Practically everybody is holding back points with which to bolster up their score at the next report.

Section One.

In this section Victor F. Johnson of Bray township shows up in the lead with 58 points to his credit. Numedal has turned in only one report, and it is presumed the campaigner there is too busy to find time to report. The Tribune has been expecting a report by telephone as the young lady representing this township recently expressed her intention of going to Viking. It is likely this village is giving her good support.

Norden is looking after her interests in good shape, Delbert Kron standing second. Where are the dairy boosters of Sanders? Why don't you let folks hear from you? Polk Center stands third with only one report. Possibly they are awaiting published returns.

Section Two.

Miss Malmquist of River Falls, is in the lead with a credit of 188 points, but there is no way of knowing how many points she is holding back for future credit. Wyandotte's campaigner, Miss Huddleson, is credited in her reports with 102 points. She has every Peterson on her list. Just a moment, please! Give her time to check up the Olsons.

North is in third place, with Rynestad still working like a beaver. Black River has reported only subscribers within the township as yet, but look out for Red Lake county subscription points. From Rocksbury only one point has been received. Possibly this campaigner is too busy looking after his own interests to let other campaigners know the score.

Section Three

Kratka with Jul Kilen is high for the entire county. Jul has done well and is still "going some." His points on record now number 230 and there is no way of knowing how many more he has hidden away about his pockets.

Smiley is a good second, with only four points less. Mr. Aakre wishes to know how he stands before "glutting the market." Mayfield has 32 points with Miss Nelson holding onto a few and awaiting returns. Hickory is making good headway with 26 points for Miss Rindal, and Highlanding is only four behind.

Star is still shining. Mr. Hruby has now "jumped across the line" for more prospects and is preparing for a leap in his number of points.

Marshall County.

Severable favorable reports have been received from Marshall county campaigners, with Miss Mabel Ness of Holt maintaining a comfortable lead. The young folks there were a week late getting started but are now making up for lost time and will no doubt make a good showing when the next report is made.

GREENBUSH LAD WINS STATE ESSAY HONORS

To Lambert Slominski, of Greenbush, goes the honors of winning the county and state American Legion essay contest. The judges in the county contest were appointed by county superintendent E. E. Billberg, while the judges in the state contest were picked by the state department of education. His essay will now compete in the national contest, the winner of which will get a substantial sum of money.

The theme of his essay was whether or not immigration should be restricted.

PIONEER CALLED TO LAST REWARD

Mrs. John Erickson Passes Peacefully Wednesday After Long Illness.

Last Wednesday evening at 6:30, at a local hospital, occurred the death of Mrs. John Erickson, an old and highly respected resident of Thief River Falls. Mrs. Erickson suffered a very severe siege of influenza last winter and since then gradually failed until death came to relieve her suffering, as above stated.

Mrs. Erickson was nearly 67 years of age at the time of her death, having been born in Offerdahl, Sweden, on January 6, 1857. Her maiden name was Ingeborg Olafson, and she was married in Sweden to John Erickson, who survives her. In 1900 Mr. and Mrs. Erickson emigrated to America and settled in Thief River Falls, which has since been the family home. Four children were born to them, all of whom survive. They are Olaf of this city, Nelse of Chicago, Mrs. Chas. Ryan of Orleans, this state, and Mrs. Wm. Fitzgerald, of Craik, Sask., Canada. Owing to illness Mrs. Fitzgerald was unable to join her father, brothers and sister at the bedside of her mother during her last moments. Mrs. Erickson also is survived by a sister, Mrs. Olaf Olson, who resides in this city, and five grandchildren.

Deceased was a member of the Swedish Mission church and had taken an active part in church work all of her life. She was a woman of strong Christian faith, who not only believed in the religion of Jesus Christ but practiced it in her relations with family and friends. Her life was one of service to others and she will be greatly missed in the neighborhood which had been her home for so many years.

The funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Swedish Mission church. Rev. O. J. Lundell of this city and Rev. Person of Crookston being the officiating clergymen. The obsequies were attended by a large number of friends and neighbors, and the floral offerings were beautiful and profuse. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Golf Club Dance Advanced By Reason of School Play To Be Given Friday Night

The next regular dancing party under the auspices of the Thief River Falls Golf club, which was scheduled for Friday evening, December 14, at the Sons of Norway hall, has been advanced one week owing to the fact that Junior class play, "Daddy Long-Legs," will be presented at the auditorium on the evening in question. To avoid a conflict in the two attractions, and club members have decided to hold their dancing party at the Sons of Norway hall on Friday evening of this week instead of on the date originally decided upon.

All those who had planned to attend the club party are asked to keep this change in mind and to govern themselves accordingly.

JUNIORS SLATED FOR GREAT PLAY

Arranged for Presentation at Auditorium Friday Evening, Dec. 14.

The Junior class of the Thief River Falls high school is busy putting the finishing touches on the home talent play "Daddy Long Legs," which will be presented at the city auditorium on Friday evening, December 14. Some of the best actors and actresses in the large class have been drafted to take part in the play, and those in a position to know state that wonderful progress is being made at rehearsals and that something out of the ordinary may be expected by the audience a week from next Friday evening. Miss Elinor Keyes, member of the high school faculty and Junior class advisor, is directing the players.

Following is the cast of characters: "Jervis Pendleton," Arthur Penney; "James McBribe," Thomas Melgaard; "Cyrus Wykoff," Lloyd Bennes; "Griggs," Kenneth Streeter; "Walters," Francis Ohm; "Judy," Luella Roark; "Miss Pritchard," Katherine Barzen; "Mrs. Pendleton," Aeriel Kinghorn; "Julia Pendleton," Faythe Warner; "Sallie McBribe," Lylian Arnold; "Mrs. Semple," Anna Wedul; "Mrs. Lippett," Ersyle Anderson. Orphans: "Sadie Kate," Esther Bennes; "Gladiola," Ruth Melby; "Loretta," Ethel Bickley; "Marrien," Jessie Joyce; "Freddie Perkins," Emmett Shanahan; "Carrie," Evelyn Buringsrud.

The leading parts in the play are taken by Arthur Penney and Lucille Roark. This is said to be one of the best entertainments ever put on in Thief River Falls by home talent, and the Juniors reserve liberal patronage from the public when it is presented.

RAPID PROGRESS OF WHEAT CO-OP.

President American Wheat Growers Says Movement Is Spreading.

Wm. J. Brown, president of the American Wheat Growers Associated, Inc., is home for a few days attending to business matters. It was erroneously stated in The Tribune recently that Mr. Brown had abandoned his residence in Thief River Falls and had removed to Minneapolis. As a matter of fact, Mr. Brown still retains his residence in Thief River Falls and still maintains his law office here, and he states that he will continue to do so. His duties as president of the American necessitates having his headquarters in Minneapolis.

Mr. Brown, in an interview yesterday, stated that in his travels over the country in the interests of the American he has found that the spirit of co-operative marketing is being more and more thoroughly understood by the farmers of the country, and they see that the orderly marketing of their products is simply copying the methods of successful industrial lines. He also states that the growth of membership in the various state wheat growers' associations constituting the American is phenomenal, and it appears now that the membership in the various wheat growers' associations of the country will be sufficient so that in 1924 the American Wheat Growers Associated, the wheat growers of the organization, will be a price factor and will have something to say about the price that will be paid for the farmers' wheat.

Ice in the Red Lake river has, during the past week, frozen to a thickness which makes it safe for skating, and hundreds of Thief River Falls people have been spending their spare time in frolics on the beautiful glassy surface. The fans agree that it is the best skating seen here in many years.

JUVENILE BAND TO BE STARTED WITHOUT DELAY

Preliminary Steps Taken for Launching Musical Organization Here.

Idea Is Good One and Meets With Popular Favor When Proposed.

Thief River Falls is to have a juvenile band. That much was determined upon last Friday evening at a meeting of representatives of different organizations in the city, held in the office of Dr. H. W. Froehlich, president of the Commercial club. Among those present were Dr. Froehlich, representing the club; I. T. Simley, the schools; Mayor John Bratrud, T. J. Carr of the Boy Scouts, Lawrence Hermansn, of the Legion, E. M. Bennes and H. S. Snyder, local musician and former leader of the city band.

An effort is being made to interest a large number of the younger boys of the city in the proposition, and indications are that no trouble will be experienced in securing the necessary abount of material for the new organization. When the preliminary details of the work have been completed, it is planned to engage a competent band leader to give the boys instruction regularly.

In an effort to bring into use all of the second hand band instruments available in this community, a coupon is published on another page of this issue of The Tribune. Anyone having a second hand instrument for sale is asked to fill in this coupon and send it to the band committee, so that proper equipment may be secured for the new band without delay.

With the earnest backing assured the new venture by the boosters who started the ball rolling, together with the support and encouragement which should be forthcoming from the general public, there is no apparent reason why Thief River Falls should not in a few months have one of the best juvenile bands in the entire state.

LOCAL CONCERN LANDS BIG JOB

Minneapolis Bridge Company Gets $300,000 Contract in Dakota.

The contract for the huge wagon bridge over the Missouri river at Mobridge, S. D., has been awarded to the Minneapolis Bridge company of this city, and Isak Helseth, vice president of the company, will act as superintendent of construction.

The bridge will be approximately 1,500 feet in length and will have three big spans. The cost of the new structure will be about $300,000. Mr. Helseth, who will have charge of the work, estimates that a year will be required for the completion of the project.

Mr. Helseth will make his home at Mobridge during the period of construction. He left the city this week, with a crew of men and several carloads of apparatus. He stated to The Tribune that the foundations for the huge pillars which will support the bridge will be laid this winter and a large crew of men will be employed in the work.

Much historic interest attaches to the building of the new bridge. The west end of the structure will rest upon the Standing Rock Indian reservation where still reside many of the warriors who participated in the battle of the Little Big Horn in which Custer and his command were wiped out by the savages. It marks the passing of the busiest ferry on the entire Yellowstone trail and will be a great convenience to the immense number of pleasure seekers who annually go west on that famous thoroughfare. The Minneapolis Bridge company has built some of the largest bridges in the country but have never been awarded a contract which will give them the prestige and publicity as the one of Mobridge.

If newspaper reports are true it would appear that the officers of the Intermediate Credit bank have laid down rules with reference to live stock loans which renders the law inoperative so far as the farmers of the Northwest are concerned. They propose to eliminate loans which are based upon cattle security when such cattle are necessary to the operation of the farm. That effectually leaves out the farmers of the Northwest who are trying to diversify, and the suspicion will gain ground that the bank will only function in the future with reference to the loans of the large cattle companies whose paper is largely held by the big banks in the cities. In other words there is a nigger in the woodpile, and it is high time the President of the United States placed the management of there Intermediate Credit banks in the hands of men friendly to the agricultural interests of the Northwest.

We are surprised to see men like Elmer Adams of Fergus Falls assail the Rural Credit law and similar legislation recently passed for the relief of agriculture. He and others should know that if credit is now denied the farmer the entire Northwest will be paralyzed for some time to come. The question is not one of credit extension as he calls it but is simply a case of how best to get along under the circumstances. Very few people are asking further credit except for the most necessary essentials. We sincerely hope Mr. Adams has not joined ranks with the bankers who are so violently opposed to the idea of lower interest rates for the farmers.

No trouble to get real beer these days say the wise ones. Maybe not, but it is always well to consider what recently happened in St. Paul when one is looking for "real" beer. It seems the Spaulding hotel was selling the real stuff to its patrons who flocked there by the thousands. One or two dropped dead or were carried unconscious from the bar room. Then came the blow-up. The place was raided one day and a lot of this so-called beer was confiscated. Analysis showed the stuff to have no alcohol content, and the concoction was only the cheapest kind of near beer charged with ether. No wonder so many poor fish are dropping dead these days.

A farmer living near Holt still comes to town in a single buggy drawn by an ox. He plows and does all his work by means of oxen. The old man does not owe a dollar, and has heaps of money in the bank. We have often wondered whether the fast tractor had it on the slow moving oxen. Here is a good subject for a winter debate.

Settlers in western Beltrami county say a bunch of beavers are busy damming the drainage ditches. They must have been reading the drainage articles in the Pioneer Press.

The agitation of The Tribune for a fathers and sons banquet has borne fruit. The men of the Presbyterian church have arranged one for the holidays. This will be a great opportunity for some of the fathers of the city to get personally acquainted with their sons. The boys are going to do the talking and pater familias may learn that he has strayed far from the tie that binds.

When the so-called farmers committee of the Northwest asked the discontinuance of the Intermediate Credit bank it showed its unfitness for the job imposed upon it. The bank is a necessity at this time when country banks are unable to care for their farmer customers. Discontinuance is not what we want. What we really crave is honest and intelligent management.

Every day some visitor in Pennington county stops in to tell The Tribune how much he admires the fine farms to be seen here on every hand. Just wait, boys, just wait till waving alfalfa bids you welcome on every cross-road, and sweet clover says adieu and come again. Then will the fame of our commonwealth spread to the four corners of the continent.

Travelers over the famous Yellowstone trail will be pleased to know that at last they are to have a fine bridge to replace the annoying ferry at Mobridge, S. D. Moreover, the structure will be erected by a Thief River Falls man, Isak Helseth, which is a guarantee of its permanent character.

According to reports Knud Wefald fears the state has been buying land in Pennington county under the Rural Credit act. We are hoping the report is untrue, for it will be difficult for even such a good county as Pennington to survive the bad opinion of our august congressman.

Almost every candidate for office is committed to economy and lowering of taxes. But what the public is looking for is an office holder who will live up to his promise.

Governor Nestos of North Dakota took a good sound rap at the knockers the other day. Fortunately we have no knockers in Pennington county. Here conditions are so satisfactory and the weather is so fine that there is really nothing to knock.

One of the exhibitors at the crop show has on display a peck of peanuts raised in Pennington county. Send the news to your friends who are sojourning in chilly California.

It is reported that medical schools prefer the cadavers of people who have died from moonshine. Further process of embalming is made unnecessary, so they say.

There are fools who rush in where Angels fear to tread. For instance, Frank Ellsworth, who has again announced that he will run for governor.

A meeting will be conducted in the auditorium at Thief River Falls next Wednesday, December 12, beginning at 11:30 a. m. The session will be held under the supervision of the Minnesota Co-operative Creameries association, and the general public is invited to attend.

"Signing Up of Local Patrons for a Definite Period," and other things of interest to the industry in general.

Commercial Club Lunch Thursday at the Brumund

Owing to the fact that the auditorium, including the quarters of the Commercial club, is taxed to capacity in housing the crops and poultry show, the regular Thursday noon luncheon of the Commercial club will this week be staged at the Brumund hotel. The lunch will be served promptly at noon and a very interesting meeting of the club is planned. Several of the prominent speakers here to take part in the crops show will be guests of the club and a number of these will be asked to speak.

Dr. Froehlich, president of the club, urges a large attendance at Thursday's meeting as he believes it will prove one of the best sessions held in a long time.

Better Times Around the Corner.

Better times are right around the corner. Agriculture, which has been in the dumps for the past three years, will be the first to profit by the change. The period of readjustment has been a long, slow, discouraging one; the end is not just yet, but it is in sight. Prices for agricultural products are gradually stiffening, and prices for that which the farmer has to buy are gradually lowering. Another encouraging sign, particularly for this section, is the fact that farmers are turning, in ever increasing numbers, from the exclusive raising of wheat to diversified farming. The business of trying to raise something which will not grow and mature, and for which you cannot get a profitable price if it did mature, is rapidly playing out. In its place are coming cows, clover, corn, hogs, with crop rotation and a better system of farming all around. For years the farmers have got nothing but the worst of it; from now on, the intelligent farmer is going to get the best of it. As for the other kind of farmer, there is no place for him, and if he persists, year after year in raising wheat and wheat only, he is going "bust," as he ought to.—Breckenridge Gazette-Telegram.

Pure Alfalfa Seed

When it comes to planting such a profitable crop as Alfalfa the most important thing to consider is the selection of seed. We have before us the example of what happened this year. Those who had home-grown seed of the certified or true Grimm variety have reaped a rich harvest in the sale of the seed, while those who have experimented with unknown varieties have failed to find a ready market. For Alfalfa seed containing Red clover, Sweet clover or noxious weeds, there is practically no market at all.

There is a great deal of mixed seed in the country, so it would be well to have a sample examined before buying. We will be glad to do this for you, or ask your county agent to examine it. If the seed is found to be of a desirable quality, then patronize your neighbor by buying from him.

Alfalfa from properly acclimated seed yields better and is less liable to winter kill. It is a hardier plant. That is the only kind the farmers want. The important thing is to get started right. And the right way to start is to get the right kind of seed.

We have a large quantity of home grown seed which was raised by men who have made a success of Alfalfa, and we are offering this seed in large and small quantities at living prices. We invite you to call and examine samples or write us for quotations and samples. We are greatly interested in the campaign for more Alfalfa and our desire is to assist the farmers in getting the right kind of a start.

Red Lake Falls Man Asks Closer Co-operation For Greater Future Benefits

President Higinbotham of the Red Lake Falls Commercial club was in the city last Friday and was a guest at the noonday meeting of the Thief River Falls club. Mr. Higinbotham gave a short address, in which he urged closer co-operation between the county seats, saying that in everything pertaining to the welfare of this section the interests of the two cities are common. He asserted that in times past Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls were a considerable distance apart, but in this day of good roads and automobiles the distance between the two has been reduced to a matter of only a few minutes.

Mr. Higinbotham said that in the near future the paved highway extending from the Twin cities beyond Little Falls will reach the Canadian border, and he asserted that now is the time for cities in this section to lay plans for having the road routed through Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls. Mr. Higinbotham's remarks were very enthusiastically received by the local club members.

Strongheart, Dog Star, Fights Wolf Pack

In the new Laurence Trimble-Jane Murfin production, "Brawn of the North," a First National attraction starring "Strongheart," the wonder dog, who became the pet of the world by his marvelous portrayal in "The Silent Call," Lawrence Trimble has succeeded again in startling audiences.

Situations that would require the very best artistry from human actors are given to Strongheart in "Brawn of the North," which is shown at the Princess Sunday and Monday, and the manner in which Mr. Trimble has succeeded in having him portray his dole appears a refutation of scientists' contention that dogs cannot think or reason.

In the picture he is a dog of almost dual personality—in one flash savagely fighting attacking wolves, and, in the next, gently caressing a helpless infant lost in the open snows. Strongheart's every mood is shown together with a series of emotions which he expresses with his face and by gesture.

On more than one occasion when a fight between Strongheart and the leader of the pack was being photographed, Mr. Trimble was called upon to use all his persuasive power to convince Strongheart all he wanted for picture purposes was a badly beaten wolf and not a dead one.

Brage Chorus Will Give Hard Time Party at Sons of Norway Hall, Dec. 12

In an effort to raise a little of the coin of the realm to wipe out a deficit in the treasury of the organization created last summer when the Sangerfest was held in Thief River Falls, the Brage Chorus of this city has decided to sponsor a "Hard Time" party to be given at the Sons of Norway hall next Wednesday evening, December 12. Every rule governing an affair of this nature will be strictly adhered to and heavy fines will be levied upon those who appear upon the scene dressed in raiment which to the judges seems too "spiffy." Overalls and bandana handkerchiefs, calicos and ginghams stand the best chance of finding favor with the august personages in charge.

This party should prove to be one of the most enjoyable social affairs of the season, and the Brage Chorus extends a cordial invitation to the general public to attend. Good music is assured and plenty of good eats are promised.

Laird's Specialty Shop Returns to Third Street After Moving Frequently

The fact that Laird's Specialty Shop moved last week without making any advance announcement caused some little surprise but those who have found the store in the new location—Strand's old store on east Third street—are all agreed that the move is the best one made by this business institution in its four years of business.

It is two years this month since Mr. Laird left Third street to try other places but he has reached the conclusion that the old stand is as good as any in the city for a store of his kind—school and office supplies, stationery, magazines, newspapers, etc.

The new store affords a better opportunity for display of the stock carried and the light is of the best, assuring patrons of being able to take advantage of the natural daylight, and at night special lighting makes the store one of the best lighted in the city.

A cordial invitation is extended to all, both old and young. A small fee will be charged and the proceeds will be donated to the Silverton congregation.

City's Fire Department Purchases Splendid Team

The city fire department recently closed a deal for a fine team of young horses which were raised by Jens Letnes, north of this city.

The horses are two year olds and are iron greys, perfectly matched in size and color, weighing approximately 3000 pounds. They are the offspring of "John H," famous stallion owned by the North-Silverton Horse company.

Under the tutelage of Driver Lee, of the fire department, the horses are daily being put through their paces and already they respond quickly to the bell, leaving their stalls and plunging into their collars like old time veterans. They are a handsome pair and are pronounced by horsemen to be as classy a team as ever drew five apparatus.

Municipal Skating Rink Likely For This Winter

A movement has been started in Thief River Falls for the equipment and maintenance of an ice skating rink and present indications are that such a place of recreation will become a reality. Sentiment among the business men is strongly in favor of such a move and many have volunteered financial support.

At Friday's meeting of the Commercial club a resolution was passed asking the citp park board to take action in the matter, and it is likely the question will be taken up at the meeting of the city council next Tuesday evening. All are agreed that a skating rink should be provided but there is considerable difference of opinion as how best to proceed in the matter.

Locals Lose To Stephen In Hard Fought Battle

Forcing Stephen to play their best, Middle River lost the second game of season to Stephen by score of 23-20.

In the initial period the boys were unable to find themselves and Stephen ran the score up to 12 while M. R. only counted 5 points. But in the second half the local boys threw a scare into the hearts of the Stephen fans, when they began their clever passwork, bringing the ball down the floor time and time again for a basket. In the third period the Stephen boys slowed up their offense, while the Middle River team with their accurate shooting and fast floor work seemed to baffle the Stephen players.

The fourth period duplicated the third Captain "Taft" Gullickson and "Bill" Kramer scintillating for Middle River, passed and pivoted around their opponents and shot basket after basket, making the final score 23-20 in favor of Stephen. The local boys scoring 15 points to Stephen's 11 the second half.

The Middle River team showed a decided improvement in their playing since the Warroad game. The passing was better and the offensive did not lag as it did in the first game

If you were to ask a hundred—or a thousand—Ford truck owners why they use Ford trucks, in preference to all others, they would likely say, "Because the Ford stands up."

They know that under the endless grind of daily service the Ford stays on the job month in and month out, with very little mechanical care, and with practically no expense for repairs or replacements.

They would emphasize the work this truck does, not its initial cost.

Ford Trucks can be bought through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

RURAL SCHOOLS AID EDUCATION IN MANY WAYS

Observance of Education Week General Thruout Country Districts.

Minnesota Wheat Growers Association Making Rapid Progress in Big Campaign

MANY MEETINGS HELD; BUSINESS MEN GIVE THE ORGANIZATION SUPPORT

Recent Meetings in Both Northern and Southern Part of the State Bring Out Almost Unanimous Support of Minnesota Farmer and Business Men For Co-operative Marketing of Wheat.

NATIONAL DRIVE ON IN TWELVE STATES TO CONTROL 1924 CROP

The Minnesota Wheat Growers Co-operative Marketing association, a unit of the American Wheat Growers Associated, Inc., and one of the organizations which has a drive on to control the 1924 wheat crop, is making rapid progress in Minnesota as evidenced by the marketing agreements which are arriving at Thief River Falls, the home office of the associataion.

Minnesota, with eleven other states, is organizing the grain growers under the new co-operative marketing law, and along the lines of the successful tobacco, cotton and other national commodity marketing associations, with the end in view of signing up enough marketing agreements among the growers to control the 1924 wheat crop. The states in which the associations are organized and lined up in the national drive are Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Colorado, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Minnesota Leading.

Minnesota is leading the other states a fast pace, and at the present rate the farmers are joining, this state will have control of the next year's crop in the hands of its association before a bushel of Minnesota wheat is harvested. It is the aim of the association in each state to secure at least 50 per cent of the acreage before the next harvest, enough to control the price. This will put the wheat grower on an equal footing in marketing of his wheat, J. W. Brinton declared in a recent growers' meeting in Lac Qui Parle county, with the Standard Oil company in marketing oil, the U. S. Steel company in marketing steel and the American Federation of Labor in marketing labor.

"It is not necessary to have all the wheat of the country pooled in order to control the market," said Mr. Brinton who is doing field work for the Minnesota unit. The Dawson Sentinel, of which Theodore Christianson is editor, further quoted Mr. Brinton as saying that, "The Standard Oil company, controlling about one half the production, fixes the price of all oil. When the Standard raises the price the independents follow because they want to; when the Standard reduces the price the independents follow because they have to."

Price To Be Set By Grower.

The man in charge of the national drive, as well as those in charge in Minnesota, expect to dominate the market in a like manner within a year. "Those who do not sign up with the association and dump their wheat on the market will receive only the speculators' price as heretofore, but later on when the national organization sets a fair price, all the speculators and others holding wheat will demand the price asked by the association, just as the small oil dealers ask the same price set by the Standard, and thus a price on wheat will be set by the growers for the first time in the history of wheat growing." said a prominent official of the Minnesota association.

Many Meetings Held.

According to reports from newspapers over the state the men in charge of the Minnesota drive have recently held meetings at St. Vincent, Argyle, Hallock, Lancaster, Fisher, Clearbrook, Twin Valley, Flom, Beltrami, Halstead, Ada, Campbell, Wheaton, Graceville, Chokio, Morris, Clinton, Ortonville, Odessa, Madison, Dawson, Monteviedo, Watson, Appleton, Milan, Kerkhaven, Benson, Roseau and Greenbush.

At the meeting in Greenbush, Mr. Brinton, who is the principal speaker for the Minnesota drive, presented a resolution to the meeting carrying the endorsement of the association by every business man and bank in Greenbush, which was unanimously passed by the farmers present.

Wheat a Necessity.

At the meeting, according to the Greenbush Tribune, Mr. Brinton said in part:

"There are two fundamental products needed throughout the world, in every human activity—needed by the old and the babe of the human family—they are steel and wheat."

"These products," he said, "are needed in time of war and peace. "The first thing that the Red Cross asks for in time of famine is flour and it is carried to the needy over steel rails, on steel trains, and in steel boats. These products are the foundation of all our activities."

Mr. Brinton pointed out that all iron and metal products are priced and influenced by the price of steel and all grains are influenced by the price of wheat. High priced steel means high priced tin spoons, dishpans, pitchforks and tractors and high priced wheat means higher priced corn, rye, oats and other grain foods.

Wheat Cheaper Food.

"Wheat is the cheapest food to give to the poor, when it is $3.00 per bushel and whole wheat bread will sustain the human body, without other food, longer than any other food known to man. There is only one other necessity which we must buy or give in furnishing the steel and wheat to the world, aside from the land which produces both, and that is labor."

Steel Organized.

"Steel is organized, both as to production and distribution, and the price has been stabilized from time to time by the big men who represent steel at boards of director's meetings and the price has been raised from time to time, and binders, plows, tractors and other equipment needed to produce wheat have gone up in proportion. Even in time of war, the steel men made their demands and secured more profit in a national crisis because they knew that the world must have steel, and, being organized, they set the price to give them more profit."

Labor Organized.

Labor is organized and the price of labor is set by the big men who represent labor; the price of labor is stabilized from time to time by the meeting of labor boards, paid representatives of the different classes of labor and the wages have been raised from time to time. Even in time of war, labor made its demands, raised the price and had congress pass a law—the eight hour law on railroads—in a national crisis when labor was necessary, and the farmers are now compelled to pay a higher wage for labor on the farm.

Farmer Unorganized

"But what happened to wheat?" Mr. Brinton queried. Answering it, he said: "Each farmer is going it alone, unorganized, depending upon his friends, and dumping his wheat upon the market and crying 'what will you give me, what will you give me; protesting, complaining, and calling upon his friends for help while wheat speculators and dealers represented the farmer for 'a dollar a day' at Washington when the price of wheat was knocked down from over $3.00 a bushel to nearly $2.00 a bushel while everything else was going up. That's what your 'friends' did for you."

Help Yourself.

"God helps those who help themselves, as the saying goes, and if you wait for your friends to help you, while you continue to cry, 'what will you give me, what will you give me,' you will soon be down on a level with the peasant farmer of Europe. There are only two roads open to you—one to prosperity, through the 'I will' spirit, organization, taking hold of your own market and price fixing and independence with power on a level with organized labor and organized steel, with $2.00 wheat and at that price producting the cheapest food in the world—or take the other road."

Business Men Assist.

"For a recent meeting at Montevideo," said W. H. Frederick, secretary of the Minnesota association, the business men and banks donated the opera house, three pages of advertising in their newspapers and large posters to get a crowd out, and when our representative spoke there in the evening, following the big afternoon meeting, before the business men's association every business man present signed a resolution endorsing co-operative marketing. The resolution also carried the name of a representative of each of the four banks of Montevideo."

Halls and Advertising Donated.

"This gives you," continued Mr. Frederick, "a good idea how the business men of Minnesota are backing the organization of the wheat co-operatives and what I have just said regarding Montevideo applies to practically to every town in which meetings have been held. Halls and newspaper advertising to get crowds out to hear the gospel of co-operative marketing are freely donated by the townspeople who see the benefit that will come to their respective communities through proper marketing of farm products and higher price for farmers' crops."

1000 Contracts in Polk.

"We have a thousand contracts signed in Polk county," continued Mr. Frederick, "which is the largest wheat producing county in the state. Big Stone, one of the smallest counties in the state, has sent in about 300 marketing agreements and more are coming in every week. Stevens county, where the drive is still on, is nearing 400 members, Swift county about the same as Lac Qui Parle, with half the county canvassed, sent in over 400."

From Canadian Line South.

The organization, according to Mr. Frederick, commensed in Kittson, Marshall and Polk, and every county to the south through the western part of the state to Chippewa and Lac Qui Parle, where field men are now working south, have responded wonderfully, and the farmers are showing less hesitency as the work progresses. In most cases local farmers are taking the work into their own hands and assisting in getting their neighbors to sign marketing agreements. They see the necessity of getting the work

NATIONAL BANKERS ASSOCIATION ENDORSE COOPERATIVE MARKETING

On October 30th, in national convention, the agricultural commission of the American Bankers Association, after two hours of spirited debate, passed by a unanimous vote, a resolution endorsing the "orderly marketing of crops and the cooperative marketing idea. The resolution was presented and supported by bankers from the southern states where cotton, rice and other southern crops are successfully marketed cooperatively.

"Biggest Farmer in the World" Joins Wheat Pool

Believing that the co-operative pooling movement now developing to the point of obtaining control of the wheat market is the greatest movement now before the American farmers, Thomas D. Campbell, of Hardin, Montana, sends in a letter of commendation and cordial good will to the management of the Montana Wheat Growers' Association. Mr. Campbell is president of the Campbell Farming Corporation of Hardin, and is actively engaged in farming 110,000 acres—with a crop this season of approximately 500,000 bushels of wheat. He is an enthusiastic member of the advisory committee of business men and bankers who will help direct the big drive for control of the wheat market. His letter is as follows:

"Mr. Dwight R. Cresap, president,
"Montana Wheat Growers' Association,
"Lewiston, Montana.

"Dear Mr. Cresap:

"I have given considerable thought to the things we discussed at your joint meeting of the Board of Directors and the members of the Advisory Committee and 'am more pleased than ever that you asked me to serve on this committee.

I feel certain it has given me an opportunity to help in the greatest movement now before the American farmer and my trip to Lewiston has convinced me that the Wheat Growers are nearer to a successful national pool than they have ever been before.

"It pleases me to meet your associates and I came home satisfied. There is absolutely no question in my mind as to the integrity and character of the men responsible for the pool operations in this state. Your selling cost of less than 1-2c per bushel is about one-third of the regular commission charge and your total operating expenses of .018c for administration, selling, etc., is very low under present operating conditions and this cost will automatically be reduced as you handle more bushels. I can easily see where you will reduce your direct charges by following out your plan of more terminal storage and better loading facilities, but all members must realize that it costs to store wheat no matter who stores it. I learned a great deal at your meeting, but what pleased me more than anything else was the sincerity of the men and the fair and the reasonable way in which each man expressed himself. By no stretch of imagination could any of them be called a radical. I think this fair attitude toward the other fellow is one of the reasons of your success and will be one great reason why the national pool will succeed.

The more I think of a national pool the more I become impressed that it will not only mean better prices for the farmer, but it will also simplify the marketing of grain and be of equal advantage to teh grain buyers.

"With very good wishes for your success, I am, with a great deal of appreciation and sincerity.

Cordially yours,
"THOMAS D. CAMPBELL."

NO REAL SURPLUS

Wheat will keep. Up to date there has never been such a thing as a real surplus of wheat in the world.—Country Gentleman.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS SET PRICE

The Minneapolis Journal recently carried an associated press dispatch stating that the board of directors of the California Peach and Apricot Growers association held a meeting in Fresno, Cal., and raised the price of peaches on all classes three-quarters of a cent a pound, or 18 cents per 25 pound box. Peaches are raised in many states but the Peach Growers association set the price on peaches. In the near future the board of directors of the American Wheat Growers will be doing what the peach growers are now doing—putting a price tag on wheat. The wheat buyer is now doing it. The peach buyer did it once, but not any more.

ST. HILAIRE

Noted Flier Passes Away.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Wilson Monday received the sad news that their son, James J. Ward, had passed away Sunday at his home in Florida. Mr. Ward had been ill for some time, but his death came as a great shock to his family and his many friends.

A few years ago when aviation was a great curiosity and only a very few had mastered the art of flying, Mr. Ward won nation-wide fame and was rated as one of America's noted fliers. He was one of the contestants in the first transcontinental flight attempted in the United States, and has given exhibition flights in all parts of the United States. During the recent war Mr. Ward was an instructor in aviation in one of the southern camps, and has since that time made his home in the south.

His family has numerous silver loving cups and medals and other trophies which were awarded him for his famous flights. Several of these cups have been on display at Pennington county fairs.

At the time of his death Mr. Ward was 39 years of age. He leaves to survive him, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Wilson, and three sisters, Mrs. Duncan McAllister of Grand Forks, Mrs. Joe LaPlante of Crookston and Mrs. Fred Hanson of St. Hilaire.

Community Club.

The regular meeting of the St. Hilaire Community club was held in the school house auditorium Wednesday evening, November 28. One of the largest crowds ever gathered at St. Hilaire was in attendance and even standing room was at a premium. The program, which consisted of selections entirely by the school children, was well rendered and equally as well appreciated by those who were present. A. J. Hed, mayor of the village, presided as chairman of the meeting. Chas. Anderson was elected to act as chairman for the December meeting. At the conclusion of the business session and program, the senior class of the high school served lunch in the domestic science room. The money taken in at this time was more than at any previous meeting due to the unusually large crowd. This meeting was an exceedingly pleasant one due to the fact that so many of our young people who are engaged in various enterprises elsewhere were home for the Thanksgiving holidays, and it afforded an opportunity to meet old friends. It is very evident that the community spirit in St. Hilaire is growing.

Birthday Party.

A number of friends of Dorothy Olson pleasantly surprised her last Thursday evening at her home, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. The evening was very pleasantly spent in dancing and music, and a dainty lunch was served by the girls. Dorothy received a number of very pretty and appropriate gifts. All present enjoyed the evening thoroughly.

A good deal of spirit was shown in this contest and the school benefitted a great deal by the number of subscriptions taken.

Do Not Swear.

Young man, don't swear. There is no occasion for it outside of a printing office where it is useful when the paper is behind time. It also comes in handy in proofreading and is "indispensible" when the ink works bad and the press begins to "buck." It is sometimes brought into use when the foreman is mad; and it has been known to entirely remove the tired feeling of the editor when he looks over the paper after it has been printed. Outside of the printing office it is a foolish habit.—Gibbon Gazette.

Jewett Goes to Washington; On the Job for the Wheat Growers

Has Plan To Present To President and Congress to Assist Wheat Growers of United States In Securing Price For American Wheat.

George C. Jewett, general manager of the American Wheat Growers Associated, representing nine wheat co-operative marketing associations and the biggest figure in wheat co-operative marketing in America, is at Washington on the job in the interests of the American wheat and grain grower.

He is not only the general manager of the biggest co-operative selling agency in America but is also a member of the national or so called Lowden committee which is assisting in the national drive to organize and control the 1924 wheat crop in the hands of the wheat grower.

Millions of bushels of Canadian wheat are pouring into the United States, the American farmer is losing money on his wheat, the Liverpool price, the price set by the biggest wheat speculators in the world is dominating the American market while the organized business industry and organized labor are selling their products on the American market without regard to world prices.

This is the situation which Mr. Jewett has to deal with at Washington and which is bringing forth the protestations of the entire farm population of America. The American Wheat Growers have a plan which will be presented to the president and the congress to put the American farmer on an equal basis with labor and business, and give the wheat grower an American price for wheat, based on an American standard of living, an American cost of production, and an American market without regard to Liverpool.

If Mr. Jewett had back of him 4,000,000 organized American farmers his demands would be met without debate. 100,000 wheat growers are back of Mr. Jewett and if the present congress does not give the assistance to co-operative marketing, Mr. Jewett will be at the next congress as the representative of the majority of the wheat growers of the nation. It is up to the farmers to perfect such an organization as backs up Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor when he appears before congress for legislation to protect American labor. There the 4,000,000 laboring men back of Gompers.

The farmers have still fresh in their mind the demands of Mr. Gompers at Washington which brought to the working man immigration laws which kept out of this country the cheap laborshrdtashrd shrdl shrdl hrd cheap labor of Europe, which prevents farm and other labor from coming into this country from the countries of the old world.

The farmer is entitled to the same consideration the business industry and organized labor has secured. The only way the farmer can secure this consideration is to organize and take charge of his own business and back up his own representatives. He must employ his own representatives as other organizations do, as the steel industry does, as the clothing industry does, as the labor organization does and as the packing industry and the milling industry do.

Steel has its high prices and Pittsburgh Plus. Clothing has its organization and high tariff. Labor has its high wages and immigration law. The packers have organization and profits. The milling industry have their milling in transit and milling in bond privileges.

The grain farmer is going to have his organization, the control of his product and a profit on his production. And he is going to have the American government give him the assistance and protection that it has given to other groups.

Mr. Jewett is on the job at Washington for that purpose. More power to him and more farmers behind him. The American farmer is going to do the job as the other fellows have done it, and secure a decent American market for his products—which the other fellows have done—without regard to Liverpool, Hong Kong or Argentine.

The grain trade to the contrary nothwithstanding.

Businessmen and Bankers Endorse Minnesota Wheat Growers After Long Inquiry and Investigation

About two months ago a committee was organized at Kerkhoven, Minnesota, to investigate all farm organizations entering that county. When the Minnesota Wheat Growers Cooperative Marketing association entered Swift county, the committee called before it a representative of this association with a view of learning first hand the plans and methods of pooling and marketing wheat.

The committee also investigated other cooperative associations organized along the same lines, and after nearly two months' inquiry it made public its report on this and other farm organizations.

"The interests of the farmer, businessman and banker are common and co-ordinate, therefore we recommend that bankers and businessmen encourage and give their active, and if necessary, financial support to the cause of promotion of co-operative marketing enterprises," says the report in part.

And in speaking of the Minnesota wheat association, the report says: "The plan of the Minnesota Wheat Growers Co-Operative Marketing Association is worthy of our support and encouragement, because it fully embodies the sound and practical fundamental principle of co-operative marketing," and to this the committee adds recommendations wherein they believe the association could be made stronger and have a more material influence on the market.

In speaking of the binding agreement which the grower signs, this committee says in part on this feature of co-operative marketing:

In order that a co-operative marketing association may function effectively, it must be governed by iron clad rules and regulations and no wheat grower should hesitate to join such association because of such existing rigid rules and regulations. It is the essential method for a successful co-operative marketing system. It is not a new experiment. The compulsory pooling contract is the one that has proven so successful in California. The wheat growers have merely patterned their organization after those of previous existence for other farm commodities and which organizations have proven successful.

Such recommendations as the committee made regarding the contract and other matters of interest to members of the association will no doubt be a subject of discussion and a matter to be decided by the members themselves, as all matters of fundamental differences of opinion must be settled.

The committee also commended all organizations encouraging and promoting co-operative marketing.

Missouri Farmers Launch Campaign

The state wide campaign of the Missouri Farmers' association to sign up 120,000 Missouri farmers to sell all their products for the "Producers' Contract' co-operative marketing plan, will begin at Union, Mo.

The drive will be made in each county separately. The first to be organized will be Franklin county. However, the drive will be in progress in different counties at the same time, according to present plans. Other counties to be organized first are: Cole, Worth, Nodaway, Cooper, Osage, Sullivan and Moniteau. In many cases Secretary Cowden said Farm clubs have voted unanimously to sign the Producers' contract.

The opening of the "Sign 'Tm Up" campaign in Franklin county will be held in connection with the annual convention of the Franklin County Farmers' association, a county branch of the Missouri Farmers' association.

"We intend to take the gospel of co-operation into every farm home in the state," said Secretary Cowden. "That can be done only by a thorough campaign of education showing what co-operation actually has done for farmers in Denmark, California and American cotton and tobacco growers. —Kansas Wheat Growers' Journal.

WHAT THE COURTS SAY

Milwaukee Journal.

The unanimous decision of the Wisconsin supreme court upholding the validity of the Northern Wisconsin tobacco pool will be read with interest throughout farming communities. For the decision not only sustains the principle of co-operative marketing by farmers, but it goes farther and by permanent injunction restrains a campaign that the court declared was aimed to create discontent and dissatisfaction among members of the pool and bring about the marketing agency's dissolution.

A court in Illionis has held that a voluntary co-operation association may recover damages from an individual member who jumps the contract he has signed to deliver his commodity to the pool for group selling. Secretary Mellon a few days ago ruled that an association or corporation without capital stock, organized by a group of farmers for the purpose of selling co-operatively, is a separate entity and stands in the same contractual relationship with the grower as any other dealer in leaf tobacco In other words, a co-operative association is like any other business capable of suing members who do not fulfill contracts, and of being sued for failure to live up to its contracts.

So the Wisconsin court now applies the established rule of law that "one who maliciously induces another to breach of contract of these laws, if co-operative agencies are to be more than debating forums.

Sen. Magnus Johnson Demands Protective Cooperative Laws

In a recent interview given to the Minneapolis Journal representative at Washington, Senator Magnus Johnson of Minnesota said:

"The farmers expect the government to give them the protection they need from those who are trying to exploit them. I see a good many people down here are promising to give the farmers more credit. We don't need more credit. With the federal farm loan board and the joint stock land banks and the war finance corporation and the credit machinery established by the congress and the state rural credit systems the farmers have more credit than they can use. What we need is a price for what we produce. Give us a fair price and we won't need anything else."

"Do you mean a price fixed by the government?" the senator was asked.

"No", replied Mr. Johnson. "We want to make the price ourselves. What we want is the right to pool our products and hold them for a higher price."

"Co-ops." Need Protection.

The senator was reminded that agricultural co-operatives are enabled to pool products now without violation of the Sherman antitrust act, under the terms of an act of the last congress, and he was asked whether he thought additional legislation necessary.

"Well, perhaps not for that purpose," said Mr. Johnson. "The legislation the co-operatives need is for their protection from their enemies. The grain companies and dairy companies are trying to ruin the farmers' co-operatives right now. They go out and offer the farmers more for their grain and milk than the co-operatives can pay until they can put the co-operatives out of business and have it their own way, when they put the price down to rock bottom again and screw up profits sky high.

"These grain exchange speculators who are swindling the farmers and grabbing off unreasonable profits had better look out," said the Senator.

A Question to Answer

The Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce in a paid advertisement printed in many Minnesota papers says the state cooperative wheat marketing association DOES NOT AGREE TO PAY ANY DEFINITE PRICE for thfie farmers wheat. Therefore, Mr. Farmer, don't sign a cooperative marketing agreement. A pretty good reason for not joining your wheat association. But, let's ask the Chamber of Commerce a question.

QUESTION: What DIFINITE PRICE DO YOU AGREE TO PAY THE FARMER FOR NEXT YEAR'S WHEAT CROP? OR THE NEXT FIVE YEARS?

Please publish the answer in a page advertisement in the same papers that published your "Questions and Answers" against co-operative marketing.

—Farmer Wheat Grower.

Senator Ladd Pledges Support to Cooperative

"My recent visit to Europe showed me that Denmark is the most prosperous and substantial country in Europe today, and I am convinced that it is due to the system of co-operative marketing, which has been reduced to an exact science in that country." This statement was made by the Honorable Senator E. F. Ladd, in a recent address in Grand Forks, held under the auspices of the local Trades and Labor Assembly.

Senator Ladd had a limited time in which to speak, and he told his audience that the purpose of his visit was not primarily to boost co-operative marketing, but that he would do that first and rather let the rest of his address suffer.

Geo. E. Duis, president of the North Dakota Wheat Growers Association, was also called upon to speak, and when he left the floor, Senator Ladd pledged himself to do everything in his power to promote legislation at the coming session of congress in behalf of the wheat co-operatives.

No Partisan Politics

All farm organizations have endorsed cooperative marketing. Judge Bingham, of Louisville, Ky., who assisted in the organization of the tobacco growers, is a prominent democrat. Governor Lowden, of Illionis, is a prominent republican. It is endorsed by Hiram Johnson, of California, and Magnus Johnson, of Minnesota. It is endorsed by Senator Ladd, of North Dakota, and Senator Shipstead, of Minnesota. It is endorsed by Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and Senator Brockhart, of Iowa. It is endorsed by Governor Sweet, of Colorado, and Governor Preus, of Minnesota. It is endorsed by Governor Nestos, of North Dakota, and Governor Davis, of Kansas. It is endorsed by the President of the United States, and by the president of the Farm Bureau. It is endorsed by the head of the War Finance Corporation, and the head of the Farmers Union.

The cooperative market act has been passed in 32 states, and voted for almost unanimously by republicans, democrats, farmer-labor and independents. It is a business proposition, proven successful by actual experience. And as a business proposition it is opposed by the grain trade and grain dealers generally.

Directors of Minnesota Wheat Growers Meet and Elect Directors

Two Directors Resign To Make Room For Representation On Board For Southern Counties.—Ed. Hagen and Bert Huse Selected.

The directors of the Minnesota Wheat Growers' Co-operative Marketing association held a meeting in the Thief River Falls office on December 4, for the purpose of electing two directors and transacting such other business as was necessary in the conduct of the association's regular business. Wm. J. Brown, president of the American Wheat Growers and general counsel for the Minnesota association was present at the meeting which was presided over by Jorgen Eide, president of the association.

When the association was organized it was understood that some of the incorporators acting as directors would resign as soon as the membership warranted the selecting of men to represent all territory organized. With this understanding A. P .Bengtson of Warren, and A. E. Blilie of Comstock, sent in their resignations to make room for men from territory not represented on the board.

Bert Huse, of Campbell, and Edward Hagen, of Milan, were elected directors to fill these vacancies and the board of directors now represent all sections of the state where organization work has been done. The present board are:

Jorgen Eide, Thief River Falls.
D. Surprenant, E. Grand Forks.
Ole O. Sageng, Dalton.
F. Derosier, Red Lake Falls.
W. B. Bosworth, Ada.
J. A. Sorum, Holt.
Edward Hagen, Milan.
Bert Huse, Campbell.

These men are all actual or "dirt" farmers. Mr. Hagen, one of the new men selected is a life long farmer of Chippewa county, the owner of 240 acres of land which he farms and resides upon, and is highly recommender to the association by the farmers of his county who have signed marketing agreements. Mr. Huse, the other new man selected as a director is the owner and operator of 700 acres in Wilkin county; he is a county commissioner and director of consolidated school in his county, and during the war was employed by the government as a grain inspector.

After the first annual meeting of the members of the association next June the directors will be elected by the members themselves. The state, or territory organized, will be divided into eight districts and each district will select one director as required under the co-operative market act. In this way the members, or units as they are called under the law, have control over the association, and if any district dislikes the acts of their director after he has been selected, the members therein may circulate a petition and if 20 per cent of the members ask, a special election is held in that district and a new man may be selected or the old director retained, according to the majority wish of the members. Thus the farmers control the association and no outside party or groups have any voice in the affairs of the growers' organization.

The control of the national selling agency is in the hands of two men from each state association, selected by the board of directors of the state organization, thus the selling of the growers' wheat, and the grading and price fixing, is entirely in the hands of the grower—dirt farmers, who in turn hire or fire the grain experts who actually handle the grain.

The immense amount of grain handled by the various associations thru one sales agency enables the farmer, at less cost than he is now paying to private concerns, to employ the best wheat experts in America. And their continued employment depends only upon giving satisfaction to the grower—just as other big men serve other big organizations who pay them.

Greenbush Business Men Join With Farmers In Boosting Pool

At a meeting held at Greenbush on Nov. 16, the following resolution was unanimously passed. The resolution speaks for itself and shows the solid support given the farmers of that community by the businessmen of Greenbush who see the prosperity that co-operative marketing of wheat and other farm products will bring to the rural towns of Minnesota and other states. The resoultion was signed for publicity purposes by the businessmen and farmers whose names appear so that other communities may know how Greenbush feels toward the great national drive that is now being made to control the wheat crop of 1914.

Resolution

Be it Resolved, that we, the farmers and business men here assembled, do endorse the plans and the organization of the American Wheat Growers' association and the state association, and endorse the method of financing the pooling of wheat thru the Intermediate Credit bank, to the end that the farmers of this community, state and nation, may control their product from the time of harvest until sold by them at a price which will give to the grower a fair profit above cost, without paying tribute to unnecessary middlemen who now set the price because of the unorganized method of dumping products upon the market without regard to the demand, at home and abroad.

Unanimously passed at Greenbush, Minn., Nov. 16, 1923, and signed by volunteer resolution committee for the purpose of publication.

Millionaire Wheat Grower Signs Up

Frank C. Robertson, who owns 22,000 acres of wheat land in the Shields Valley, at Wilsall, Montana, besides many scattered holdings in various parts of the state, has signed the control pooling agreement and become a member of the Montana Wheat Growers' association.

Mr. Robertson is an enthusiastic believer in the future of the control movement, and he backs his enthusiasm with his signature. He believes that when the growers of wheat have gained control of their own market they will be able to "put a price tag" on their own wheat that will net them enough to make a responsible profit out of wheat raising. And he believes, also, in doing his part to bring this about.—Montana Wheat Grower.

Endorsed at Wheaton

WHEREAS, In order that the producers of farm products may secure a fair price for their crops, the farmers must control not only their production but their marketing as well to the end that they may control the selling, and place upon the market in an orderly manner, an equal amount each month, as the domestic market demands, and at a fair profit, and,

WHEREAS, All business organizations set the price of their products, based on an American standard and an American market, selling their surplus abroad at the end of the season at whatever the world price may be and at a lower price than is secured for the domestic consumption, and,

WHEREAS, The farmer has been selling his wheat at a price fixed by the purchaser, regardless of the cost of production, the domestic market, or the tariff, and,

WHEREAS, The farmer must, if he is to secure a price for his grain that will give him cost plus a profit, not only market his product orderly but must control his product and set the price on that which he produces, instead of dumping his crop into the hands of speculators and allowing them to set the price far below cost:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, By farmers in mass meeting at WHEATON, Minn., after hearing a discussion of the new Minnesota Cooperative Market Act, and the plans and the method of pooling wheat by the American Wheat Growers Associated, of which Minnesota is now a part, do hereby endorse the Co-operative law, the method of financing the holding of wheat in the hands of the growers, and endorse the association organized by the farmers under the co-operative law, know and operating as the Minnesota Wheat Growers Co-Operative Marketing Association, and recommend that this association, and the national association, take on the pooling and marketing of other grains as soon as the American wheat crop is organized;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That this resolution be published in the papers of Traverse county.

Contract Dodgers Must Face Court

Plans are under way to file suits against violators of the pooling contract of the North Dakota Wheat Growers association, according to George E. Duis, president of that organization. The first suit will be in the nature of a test case to establish the validity of the contract in court, and to show good faith to those members who have delivered wheat to the association, and who expect the other members to do likewise.

"There have been a few violations of the contract by members who had sold wheat outside the association," Mr. Duis stated. "In order to show good faith to our local members we must enforce the membership agreement, even to the extent of bringing offenders into court and there demanding the liquidated damages of 25 cents per bushel for all wheat sold outside of the association.

All Members Are Interested.

"The agreement entered into by the members to deliver all their saleable wheat to the association, is a mutual contract among members that they would stick together, and provide fuel for the marketing machine which they have built. If a member fails to fulfill his agreement in this respect, he is a traitor to his fellow members, and the machinery of the law will be brought into play to see that he fulfills his legal and moral obligations.

"Courts in all the states where test cases have been tried, have upheld the cooperative pooling contract and rendered decisions requiring the defendants to pay the liquidated damages provided for. The supreme court in Kansas upheld the Kansas Wheat Growers association contract in a case this fall; the Tobacco Growers Cooperative association of North Carolina won a signal victory in circuit court, when the association was awarded liquidated damages for failure to two members to deliver their product to the association.

Tobacco Growers Also Win.

"The Burley Tobacco Growers association of Kentucky have a similar case pending. The California Bean Growers Association recently won a case against a member failing to deliver his produce, the association being allowed damages amounting to $21,000.

"The experience of nearly all organizations has been that only one suit is necessary to bring violators of the contract into line. The members of the North Dakota Wheat Growers association were in dead earnest when they joined. Those few members who failed to keep in step will quickly realize their responsibilities and fall in line."

$5 Wheat Wanted McCumber Asserts

Declaring that the wheat farmer of the Northwest, to put him on a plane of equality with the semi-skilled laborer of the cities, must obtain a price of $5 a bushel for his product, said mer Senator Porter J. McCumber of North Dakota, in a letter today to President Coolidge.

Prologue to Letter.

As a prologue to his letter setting forth the reasons for the present condition of the farmer and his suggestion for alleviating his distress, Mr. McCumber says:

> "I observe that the problem of relieving the wheat growers of the Northwest is again pressing itself on you and you are asking for some way to alleviate their distress. The matter presented to you is a most difficult one and, judging from the quack remedies that have been applied in the past —remedies that are no more effective than a mustard plaster as a cure for an internal cancer—I am quite certain that other equally impotent remedies will be suggested. If press reports are correct they already are being proposed."

Mr. McCumber then enumerates the "fundamental causes of the wheat raiser's distress," the enormous increase in labor cost, the increased cost of transportation, the immense increase in his taxes and the inability of his old customers in Europe to purchase his wheat and flour, resulting in a greater surplus in his home market."

$5 Price Held Needed.

"It would require at least $3.50 per bushel for wheat on the farm to give the farmer, after paying his taxes, the same comforts he had ten years ago," the letter continues after enlarging on the causes for the distress and it would require a $5 per bushel price to place him where he ought to be—on a plane of equality with the semi-skilled labor of our great cities.

"How can he increase the value of his product? There is but one way —combined withholding of his crop from the markets until he can receive his price. How may this be done? It can be done only through an organization that will enable him to withhold from the market every bushel of his grain until he can get a living price for it."

Atlanta, Ga.—Co-operative cotton marketing associations in the southern states have added 69,005 members during the past two months, according to a report given out by the American Cotton Growers' exchange in Dallas.

The report by the states shows that in members signed but since July of this year Georgia leads with 6,625. Texas ranks next to Georgia in the campaign which began on that date with 6,571. Oklahoma ranks third with 6,082.

Leaders of the organization express the optimistic view that this is only the beginning of a campaign that will engulf almost every cotton state in the southland.

CO-OPERATION ON SOUND BASIS

The California Fruit Growers' exchange is an example of successful co-operative marketing. Its methods have brought larger returns to the orange growers than under the old system of hit-or-miss selling. But it has not tried to limit production below the point of normal consumption, so as to force extravagant prices, although that state produces nearly three-fourths of all American oranges. In 1899 the total production of oranges in the United States was 6,167,891 boxes. California producers at that time had been grouping for six years in the direction of co-operative marketing. The present method was perfected about 1905. The output of California and Florida in 1909 rose to 19,487,481 boxes. There has been an irregular and gradual increase since then, until in 1921 California alone produced 22,500,000 boxes and Florida 8,200,000.

In 1909 the price of oranges to growers was a little less than a doller a box. It was increased in 1915 to $2.39 and after various wartime fluctuations it was $2.10 in 1921, with the bumper crop up to that time.

The orange growers have not starver the consumers into paying fancy prices, but have practiced supplying the market only as fast as it could absorb oranges at a fair price. The enormous waste of the old dumping system thus has been avoided, to the great gain of the growers and without loss to the public.

Some twenty years ago the orange growers complained that the commission men charged them 5 to 10 per cent for marketing the goods but took no care in distributing the product, which was dumped in a few Eastern markets. The low prices received sometimes did not pay the cost of production and transportation or even freight charges alone. The commission men simply were not earning their pay as agents of the producers. They were hired for a service that was not performed. The co-operattive plan is chiefly a new means of obtaining the service which was needed all the time. In other cases the commission men bought from the growers outright, at prices which gave little or no profit to the latter, who had developed no other customers for their goods.—Farmers Dispatch.

Big Stone Man Swallows Grain Trade Propaganda

Some time ago the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce published a page advertisement in the Ortonville Journal advising farmers not to sign up their wheat, nor pool it through co-operative marketing associations. In this advertisement the grain trade publicity man stated that the farmer was contracting his grain and turning it over to the control of others.

Now came a man in a communication in the Ortonville Star, making the same statement, having swallowed the grain trade argument, in which he says: "I am abainst any organization that takes complete control of the growers' crop without so much as giving him a voice and vote in what is supposed to be a farm organization. I am openly against such a contract that binds one so firm for a five year period." And thus he agrees with the Minneapolis grain trade and the page ad in the Ortonville paper, paid for by the Minneapolis grain men, has at least gained one supporter for them in Big Stone county.

But the facts are that both this supporter of the grain dealers and the grain men themselves are wrong. The Minnesota association elects the men who control their grain, each district electing one director, and the directors so selected by the members having charge of the affairs of the association. Outsiders have nothing to say what the farmers shall do with their wheat. The farmers sign marketing agreements, binding themselves together to sell their wheat themselves. That's plain enough. The grain dealers understand. That's why they spend money for page advertisements to mislead men like the poor fellow who wrote the communication in the Ortonville Star.

Don't Expect Too Much From Your Association the First Year

The Minnesota Wheat Growers Co-operative Marketing association signed its first member May 1st, this year. It was two months before field organization work got under way. It did not get as big a percentage of this year's wheat as some may be led to believe because of the inability to get the field organization into enough counties before the wheat began to move to market.

The organization work in Minnesota could not have been started sooner, as the co-operative law was not passed until the late spring. Other states have been in operation for two and three years, so Minnesota will not be able to make as good a showing until next year when the association expects to handle at least half the wheat put out on the market. For this reason, members should not expect the association to have an influence on the market this year, nor expect a big return over the market price. Remember the grain buyers still control the market and we must have the state fully organized to make a big showing, and the nation organized to set a seller's price on wheat.

So, we repeat, don't expect too much of your organization the first year.

Notice to Co-operators

If you want a speawer in your community to speak on co-operative marketing, write to Secretary W. H. Frederick, of the Minnesota Association, at Thief River Falls. Whenever pssible, they furnish speakers t addresses community clubs, conventions, annual stockholders' meetings of elevators or creameries, or other farmer gatherings.

Collects Damages for Outside Sales

Damages to the extent of 25 cents a bushel as provided in the marketing contract of the Washington Wheat Growers association have been collected from a member of the association who sold his 1921 crop on the outside. The payment was nearly $300, the sale having amounted to something over 1000 bushels.

The payment of these damages was a voluntary action on the part of the grower after he had been informed by the association that suit would be started. Upon advice of counsel he immediately made payment, thus avoiding the cost of suit which also would have been charged against him.

Who Says Failure

Some of our members get cold feet and listen to dire prophecies that their association is doomed to failure. Who and who only make these predictions? The men who see the handwriting on the wall. The spoilers, who have lived in luxury by merchandising the farmer's products, and see in co-operative

Speaking of operations, what we would all like to see would be our fuel bills cut.

A Matter of Control

CONTROL is the magic word of modern business; the U. S. Steel Corporation CONTROLS the output and sale of steel and fix a price; the Standard Oil company CONTROLS 40 percent of the oil output and fix the price on all oils. The farmers will soon control the bulk of the wheat raised in this country, and when they do— they will fix a price. Just good business that's all. A big job, but Americans have never been afraid to tackle big jobs, and they generally succeed in a big way. —North Dakota Wheat Grower.

Kansas Farmer Gets 22 Neighbors To Join

Down in Sumner county, Kansas, R. E. Taylor, a member who had wheat in the pool last year, wanted his neighbors to enjoy the benefits of cooperative marketing so he started off with a bundle of blank contracts under his arm.

He had only his spare time to devote to the work but during the first week in November he secured 14 contracts.

During the second week of the month he added 8 more. It is hard to find the wheat growers in Sumner county who have not already joined the association but those who have not yet gotten in are as a rule ready and willing to join when they are solicited.—Kansas Wheat Growers Journal.

Market Contract Held Enferceable

The marketing contract of the Pacific Cooperative Wool Growers was held enforcible by the decision just rendered by Judge Kelly in the Circuit court of Linn county in the case of the Pacific Cooperative Wool Growers against J. T. Woody, a member who violated his contract.

The decision in this case is of great importance to the wool and mohair growers of the northwest, as it is the first time that their association contract has been passed upon by the courts.

What Senator Thinks

I belong to the Kansas Wheat Growers' Association and I am well pleased with the results so far. I think the association has done well, considering it being new in this part of the country and having the opposition it had to combat. I would like to see the membership doubled this fall. I belong to the Farmers' Union.

Very truly yours,
R. C. GATES,
StateSenator, 35th Dist.

Two New Decisions

Two court decisions definitely upholding the standard marketing agreement, similar to that upon which the wheat growers associations are organized have been recently rendered. One case was concerning the delivery of eggs and poultry by a member of the Washington Cooperative Egg and Poultry association. The other case dealt with the breach of control by a cotton grower in Arizona.

The contract upon which the egg and poultry association is organized is practically identical in all essential details to the wheat grower association contract. It requires, in case of failure to deliver eggs and poultry in accordance with provisions of the contract, that the defaulting member should pay to the association 5 cents per dozen eggs and $1 per dozen on commercial poultry.

The egg and poultry association recently instituted suit to recover damages from one of its members on the basis of these provisions in the contract. Judgment was rendered in the supreme court of the state of Washington in favor of the association and the member was required to pay $150 as liquidated damages. In addition to that an injunction was issued against him to prevent him from selling outside the association in the future.

A similar decision was rendered in a superior court of the state of Arizona in favor of the Arizona Cotton Growers against one of its members who had violated the contract and sold cotton outside of the association. An injunction was granted the association preventing the member from any further sales outside the association. In the decision rendered it was definitely established that the contract was valid and binding on all of the members.

These two decisions are in line with almost a hundred others that have been handed down during the past year in favor of commodity marketing associations. In all of these cases the decisions were looked upon as unqualified proof of the work of the cooperative marketing contract.

Selling What the Market Wants Best Way To Make Money, Says One Farmer

W. W. Brooks in Long Prairie Leader: I happened to hear a man ask another the other day if he thought times were going to be good next year and the answer was "sure thing, they will be if you have anything to sell that the market wants." There is a good deal in that answer. Even right now when there is much complaint as to conditions and much basis for complaint, the man who has the right thing to sell knows little or nothing about hard times. The farmer with two or three hundred turkeys to sell or a big lot of poultry is not worrying about the market or his not at the bank. The farmer with butterfat to sell is not worrying. There is money in hogs at present prices if the farm factory has the feed problem settled. The farmer with a lot of hay to sell finds a good market at a good price and so does the farmer with oats and corn, even if he has a couple of hundred cords of wood, he is better off than he is most years when his potatoes are selling at 50c or 60c per bushel. Times are hard only for the man who has nothing to sell that the market wants. We know right now what the market is going to need next fall. Let's try and get ready for it. A farmer cannot get his farm on a basis to supply the market entirely with one year's efforts, but he can make a start. The poultry crop is a better and a safer one than the potato crop every time. The egg market is invariably good. The butterfat market is dependable. There is always an outlet for feed at a profitable price. As the man said to the inquirer, "Times are going to be good if you have something to sell that the market wants."

President's Commission Declare for Wheat Cooperatives

CRITISIZE GRAIN DEALERS AND OPTION MARKET—SPECULATOR NOW HOLDS KEY TO SITUATION

Make a Trip Into All Wheat States. Attend National Meeting of Wheat Co-operatives at Denver. Interview Grain Dealers. Make Report to President Coolidge.

The much talked about, praised and condemned presidential wheat missionaries sent to the Northwest to investigate the wheat situation by President Coolidge have made their report. It is a frank statement on the wheat situation and the present system of wheat marketing. It frankly condemns the present option market or speculative system. It says it cannot be relied upon. It says the speculator often sells on a falling market and makes the situation worse. It disputes the grain trade who say that wheat cannot be marketed through cooperative associations. It says wheat should and can be marketed co-operatively. It says the grain dealers are prejudiced and the information they give out unreliable. It says the speculator is now the key to the present system of wheat distribution. It says he does not observe the rules laid down in books. It says when the speculator is needed most he is never on the job. It says, however, he is often on the job when he is not wanted, selling wheat when the price is declining. It says grain trade in Minneapolis is practically opposed to co-operative wheat marketing. And it particularly says that wheat growers should enlarge the wheat co-operatives and market their own crop and not depend upon the uncertain speculative market.

Eugene Meyers, Jr., managing director of the War Fnance corporation, and Frank W. Mondell, one of the directors of the corporation, were the men appointed by the president who made the investigation and report. They visited every wheat state and every grain market and interviewed farmers, business men, bankers, grain dealers, boards of trade and officials of the wheat co-operative marketing associations. They attended the national meeting of the wheat co-operatives in Denver. They met with special committees and commercial clubs of the larger cities and the smaller towns. They heard all sides. They held conferences in Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Sioux Falls, Fargo, Billings, Helena, Spokane, Portland, Pocatello and Denver. They also visited Pacific coast states, stopping at San Francisco to investigate co-operatitves there, and also at Salt Lake City and Cheyenne.

Report Now Printed.

The report is now printed and a public document and can be secured by writing to your senator or congressman at Washington. We print below etracts from the report which will be of interest to everyone interested in the drive now being made to get the control of the American wheat crop into the hands of the growers through their co-operative marketing associations. Where the report refers to the "contract market" it means option market as the contract market is known throughout the northwest among both farmers and grain dealers:

Speculator Now the Key.

"The key man in the present system of distribution is the speculator. He is the man who is supposed to buy the wheat at harvest time as it comes into the market in volume greater than the current consumption demand, and sell it again after the flood is over and when the consumer is gradually calling for his needs. The speculator is supposed to be the master mind, directing and distributing the flow of wheat, adjusting supply and demand, stabilizing and steadying prices.

Does Not Observe Rules.

"The trouble is that the speculator does not observe the rules laid down in books on political economy. No one can foretell whether in time of need, he will be there or not. When he is most needed, he is often least in evidence and, in fact, on a declining market, is as likely as not making matters worse by selling wheat rather than buying.

"Especially since the war, the speculative wheat market has been too narrow and too unreliable to meet the situations.

System Not Satisfactory.

"The European buyer, formerly a factor of great importance, does not place large buying orders in the contract market, because he cannot afford the risk of a fluctuating paper currency. The domestic speculator also has been relatively inactive. As a result the public contract wheat market has not been fulfilling, in a satisfactory way its supposed functions as regulator and distributor of the flow of wheat.

"It undoubtedly has a legitimate field of usefulness. But as the principal piece of machinery for adjusting the price of the great American wheat crop it is, under present conditions, entirely inadequate. It may be good as it goes, but it is not big enough for the task, nor is it dependable enough to be the wheat trades sole reliance.

Co-operative Marketing Best Aid.

"Co-operative marketing associations, organized along sound lines and with competent management and business guidance offer at the present time in our opinion, more promise of helpful results than any other plan or program that has been suggested. They can do what the speculator cannot with safety be relied upon to do. They can by orderly marketing regulate the flow of wheat so that supply is adjusted from time to time by the consumptive demand.

"The cotton grower, the tobacco grower, the rice grower, and the California fruit grower, through co-operative marketing associations soundly organized and properly managed, have been able to achieve favorable results, and there is no reason why the wheat grower, if properly organized, should not be able to obtain similar results by applying the principle of co-operative marketing, on a sufficiently large scale, to the sale of his product.

Business Men Support Plan.

"There is a growing appreciation among business men and bankers in the wheat states, as well as among the farmers themselves, of the soundness and value of the principle of co-operaeive marketing as applied to wheat. In fact, a number of the meetings we attended concluded by appointing committees of leading business men and bankers specifically for the purpose of encouraging the co-operative marketing of wheat on a larger scale, and of co-operating with the National Wheat Growers' Advisory committee, of which former Governor Lowden, of Illinois, is chairman. Its purpose is to promote the more rapid growth of the co-operative movement in the various wheat-growing states through co-operation with existing agencies.

No Politics Allowed.

"The committee comprises men who have a record of demonstrated success in the practical administration of co-operative marketing organizations. It is entirely nonpartisan, including, as it does, men of both political parties. This committee is capable of great usefulness at this time, and there is every reason to believe that its activities will be exceedingly helpful in promoting the rapid extention of the wheat co-operative movement.

"In Denver we conferred with the representatives of the wheat co-operative marketing associations, who were meeting there for the purpose of formulating plans for the development of their organizations. Members of the Lowden committee were also present, and a basis for harmonious and effective co operation between the committee and the associations was established.

Grain Dealers Oppose Plan.

"A well-defined opposition to the co-operative marketing movement was evinced by the grain trade in Minneapolis. Their opposition is based on the broad statement, (1) that the present method of marketing wheat is the most economical that can be devised and that it is a demonstrated success; (2) that the statistical records of wheat prices in terminal markets over a long series of years indicate that gradual, orderly marketing of wheat would result in no benefit to the producer; (3) that while the principles of co-operative marketing may be successfully applied to fruits in California, to cotton and tobacco in the south, and to other products in other sections, it can not be applied, in a practical way, to wheat and (4) that the cost of handling by co-operative marketing associations is excessive in comparison with the cost of handling by the regular marketing machinery.

Prejudiced and Misleading.

"These statements, it may be said without questioning the honesty of opinion and purpose of those who make them, proceed from a somewhat prejudiced point of view. Furthermore, the statistics of prices over a period of 20 years, or 50 years, or 70 years, which have been assembled for the purpose of proving that the farmer who hastens his grain to an immediate market fares no better than those who market their products in what is termed an orderly way, have little to do with the vital and fundamental changes that have been taking place in very recent years as the result of changes in international markets, exchange, and finance. Not only that, but these statistics usually are based upon the contract market prices and not upon the actual cash prices, ignoring completely the premiums paid for special grades of wheat. Conclusions drawn from statistics of wheat prices which disregard the very large amount of wheat that commands premiums are bound to be misleading.

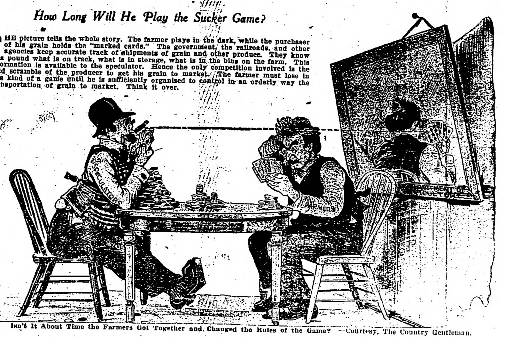
Dealers Unsupported by Evidence.

"A number of gentlemen in the grain trade appear to believe, very sincerely, that wheat can not be organized for co-operative marketing as have other commodities. Some of them have gone to considerable trouble to investigate the matter. Their reports are to the effect that it can not be done, but the verdict is unsupported by convincing evidence. So far as we are able to determine, they merely mean that the production of wheat is carried on in so many different states, under so many different conditions, and involves so many different types, that they can not conceive of successful organization on the scale required. The plain fact of the matter is that the principle of co-operative marketing is being applied to wheat. The scale of operations at present, however, is too small to be an important factor in the situation.

Speculative Market vs. Co-operation.

"We feel, as a result of our trip, that the solution of the wheat problem lies along two lines: First, the adjustment of production to American needs if the world market is oversupplied from other producing countries at lower prices than are satisfactory to the American producer under prevailing conditions; and second, the development of an imprived marketing system such as we believe can be brought about by the organization of the producers of the country for the purpose of marketing their wheat under the co-operative marketing plan making it unnecessary to rely so completely upon the uncertain functioning of the speculative public contract market."

How Long Will He Play the Sucker Game?



THE picture tells the whole story. The farmer plays in the dark, while the purchaser of his grain holds the "marked cards." The government, the railroads, and other agencies keep accurate track of shipments of grain and other produce. They know to a pound what is on track, what is in storage, what is in the bins on the farm. This information is available to the speculator. Hence the only competition involved is the wild scramble of the producer to get his grain to market. The farmer must lose in this kind of a game until he is sufficiently organized to control in an orderly way the transportation of grain to market. Think it over.

Isn't It About Time the Farmers Got Together and Changed the Rules of the Game? —Courtesy, The Country Gentleman.

"Does Not Observe the Rules."

"The key man in the present system of distribution," says the report, "is the speculator. "The speculator, "continues the report, "is supposed to be the master mind. The trouble is that the speculator does not observe the rules laid down in the books on political economy."

Dawson Farmers and Business Men Endorse Cooperative Marketing

Success of Pool in Cotton, Tobacco, Rice and Fruit Cited to Show That Co-operative Marketing on Sapiro Plan Offers Only Solution of Agricultural Problem Now Confronting the Country.

(Dawson Sentinel, Nov. 19th, 1923.)

Farmers and business men of the Dawson community listened to a very interesting discussion of cooperative marketing at Torgerson's hall last Saturday afternoon, by J. W. Brinton, formerly of North Dakota, organizer and lecturer for the Wheat Growers association.

Mr. Brinton proved to be a very interesting and forceful speaker. He proceeded to explain the effects of dumping on the market.

If the merchants were to pile their shoes up in the street and ask how much people would pay for them, shoes would be very cheap. The buyers would determine the price. And that is exactly the way most agricultural products are sold. And not only do the buyers determine the price but they determine it under conditions which create the opportunity to beat the price down.

Agricultural products are placed on the market at certain times of the year, far in excess of the capacity of the public to consume. Consequently somebody must buy and hold for speculation until the public is ready to consume. Those buying for speculation, buy as cheaply as possible, and sell at as high a price as possible, creating a spread between what the producer gets and what the consumer pays, that is largely responsible for the plight of the farmer. The speaker proceeded to show that a protective tariff on agricultural products will do very little good unless the farmers are organized to take advantage of the tariff. So long as the farmers sell as individuals for what they can get, the mills and packing plants will buy at a lower price in spite of the tariff wall. If the wheat of the country was pooled, the millers would have to pay the foreign prices plus the duty, because the wheat raisers would be in a position to compel it.

It is not necessary to have all the wheat of the country pooled in order to control the market. The Standard Oil company, controlling about one-half of the production, fixes the price of all oil. When the Standard raises the price the Independents follow be cause they want to; when the Standard reduces the prices the independents follow because they have to.

At the conclusion of the meeting the following resolutions were adopted and signed:

Resolution.

Whereas, the producers of food on the farm are compelled to buy the necessities of life and the equipment necessary to produce food at a price set by the seller, and

Whereas, the farmer is dumping his products on the market and selling them at price set by the buyer and far below production;

Now, therefore, we, the farmers and business men of the Dawson community, in meeting assembled, do hereby endorse the organization of a nation-wide co-operative selling agency, to the end that the farmers may control their product and sell it in an orderly and business-like manner and set the price in harmony with the price paid for labor and the equipment necessary to the operation of the farm, and that such price be set by the growers.

And we further urge and ask our neighbors and our businuess men of the rural towns in this and other states to assist in the establishment of co-operative marketing under the laws now in force, and as successfully conducted by cotton, tobacco, rice and fruit farmers in other states. Let these resolutions be published in the Dawson Sentinel as an expression of our sentiments here today.

Editor's Note:

Among the businessmen and farmers who signed the foregoing resolution will be found the name of Theodire Christianson, one of the most active and prominent men in Minnesota. He is editor of the Dawson Sentinel, a member of the Minnesota legislature and active in the support of co-operative marketing both in the legislature and his newspaper. He is also an active farmer and operates considerable land in Lac Qui Parle county.

Can You Beat This?

The oldest member of the North Dakota association is Hans Hanson, Greene, North Dakota, age 83 years. He told Mr. R. J. Bonin that he believed no one should be asked to sign. He thought that every intelligent wheat grower ought to come to town and hunt up an organizer and insist on signing. Mr. Hanson was sawing rafters for a barn, when seen, and was following the pencil marks without glasses. Any member who can beat this, please contradict our statement, and furnish particulars.

SOUTH DAKOTA DRIVE ON

Looking toward the next crop year the South Dakota Wheat Growers association will launch a drive to enlist at least 65% of the grain raisers of this state in its co-operative marketing association. —Aberdeen Daily News.

Pool Saved Him $1,542.

Allen "Kid" McManus, a prominent farmer of Grand Farks county, delivered 7,710 bushels (seven carloads) of wheat to the association. He figures that he has already received 20 cents more per bushel for this wheat, than if he had sold to the local elevator. The bulk of this wheat was of poor quality as regards color and weight, but its richness in guten brought good prices. As a result Mr. McManus is $1,542 to the good. No wonder he can afford to "set 'em up to cigars!"—North Dakota Wheat Grower.

150 in Three Townships.

In three townships in northern Lac Qui Parle county 150 farmers have signed contracts with their association, one township sending in 49 agreements, one 50 and one 51. The drive in Chippewa recently started with a local farmer in charge, and already one township has filed 48 contracts in the Thief River Falls office.

In that county, according to the Montevideo News, Ed. Hagen of Big Bend township is in charge and meetings were recently held in Milan and under the auspices of the Community club in Watson, in the Commercial club rooms in Montevideo and a representative of the association addressed 250 farmers in the Montevideo opera house. A co-operative market speaker also addressed the Chippewa bankers association meeting there.

Other States Making Progress

News from other states show that good progress is also being made in every wheat state. The grain grower is fast taking ahold of his marketing and in a short time the wheat farmer will stand on an equal footing, controlling his own market, alongside the tobacco, cotton, rice and fruit farmers of the nation.

CROPS AND POULTRY SHOW ENDS AFTER FOUR BIG DAYS

Exhibits in Crops Division Far Exceed Expectations of Management, and Poultry Section Surpasses Any Previous Year—Demand Is General That Crops Show Be Made Permanent Feature of Exhibition.

The seventh annual poultry show and the first annual crops show, held in conjunction last week at the Thief River Falls auditorium, came to a close last Friday evening in a blaze of glory. In every respect the combined show far exceeded the expectations of the most optimistic of its boosters, both from the point of attendance and the number of exhibits in evidence.

The general committee in charge of arrangements, as well as the superintendents of the various departments, are entitled to special commendation for the able manner in which they handled the work assigned to them. Much care was taken in providing an abundance of decoration for the interior of the auditorium and the effect produced in this way proved very pleasing indeed.

While everything connected with the show was exceptionally good, the outstanding feature proved to be the alfalfa exhibits. In this department was a generous showing of high class samples of alfalfa seeds, roots, plants and hay, of the several varieties grown in this section. These exhibits should convince any fair minded man that alfalfa can be grown here and that it is destined within the near future to become one of the staple crops of local farmers. One exhibit in the alfalfa section created a great deal of interest. A healthy growing alfalfa plant was shown growing in a jar, into which it had been transplanted by Anton H. Jensen. The seed was planted on September 4 and on the third day of December it was transplanted into the jar. The size which the plant had attained in this short time astonished all who viewed it.

Another exhibit which created a great deal of interest and occasioned much surprise was the corn section. People from Iowa and other distant points who visited the show expressed wonder that such corn can be grown in this latitude and especially during a season when conditions everywhere were considered unfavorable for the development of first class corn.

The miscellaneous section showed many interesting exhibits. The showing of ensilage and balanced rations for livestock created a great deal of interest among visitors, and many farmers were heard discussing the various phases of this important part of the farming business. The display of vegetables in this section also was deserving of especial mention.

The exhibits in the grain department were of a better quality and more numerous than anticipated by the management. The interest shown in the first show was little short of remarkable and presages continued success should the show be made a permanent affair. The demand for the show next year is very pronounced and present indications are that the combined poultry and crops show will in the future be a regular annual affair in Thief River Falls. The financial end of the show was easily taken care of and the committee in charge states that a small balance will be left in the treasury after all expenses are paid. Experience this year brought to light several details which should be changed for future shows, but considered in a large sense the recent exhibition can be classed as a complete success.

The poultry show was without question the largest and best ever put on under the auspices of the Pennington County Poultry association. More birds were on exhibition than ever before, and the average quality of poultry exhibited was higher than in the past, according to judges and experts. Especially fine was the exhibit of turkeys at the show last week. Judge Stanfield, noted expert who presided as judge, is credited with the statement that it was the best and largest display of turkeys he had ever seen in the state of Minnesota.

The various meetings held during the week in connection with the show were without exception largely attended and very successful. The Lyceum theatre and Commercial club rooms were used for these meetings, both during the afternoon and evening. Prominent men addressed the gatherings and spoke on subjects which are of especial interest to farmers and poultrymen at the present time. The meeting addressed by Commissioner of Agriculture J. H. Hay, a former resident of Thief River Falls, drew the largest attendance. A large crowd also listened to C. R. Hutcheson of the Northwest Farmstead when the subject of alfalfa was under discussion. Musical numbers were furnished at these meetings by the boys' and girls' glee clubs of the high school, Noper's chorus, and others.

All exhibits in the crops division winning first, second and third prize will be preserved and sent to the Crookston winter shows next February as a Pennington county exhibit. This arrangement should place Pennington well in the lead among valley counties having exhibits at the Crookston show.

The Tribune was unable to secure a list of prize awards for publication this week, but the complete list will appear in these columns next week.

T. R. F. CLUB'S ANNUAL DINNER GREAT SUCCESS

Spend Pleasant Evening Renewing Acquaintances and Events of Yore.

The annual dinner given by the Thief River Falls-Twin Cities club on December 5 at the Minnesota Union on University Campus, turned out to be a great success from every point of view. About 85 people were present at the banquet, and it proved to be a veritable reunion of former and present residents of Pennington county.

Dinner, consisting of fried chicken, mashed potatoes, cranberries, peas, salad, rolls, butter, ice cream, cake and coffee, was enjoyed at 7 o'clock. Glenn Anderson officiated as toastmaster and during the dinner a number of short and interesting talks were delivered. Lee Ihle made the speech of welcome to old and prospective members of the club, explaining the purpose of the organization an dthanking the members for their co-operation in making the banquet a success. Miss Effie Hamrey spoke a few words, expressing her pleasure at being able to be present and for having the opportunity of meeting such a large number of home people. Hon. D. P. O'Neill then told something of old Thief River Falls. He was followed by Miss Goodwin, a former instructor in the Thief River Falls schools. Miss Goodwin told of how she enjoyed the time spent in Thief River Falls and the pleasure of meeting old friends on such an occasion. Hon. J. H. Hay concluded the speaking program by telling of his recent trip back to Thief River Falls and of hiw he had looked forward to this event. Mr. Hay suggested that more parties be held by the club during the winter months.

Dancing followedl the dinner and a splendid five-piece orchestra furnished music for a program of 16 dances.

It was the unanimous opinion of all present that the banquet was a greato success. Fifteen more were present at the banquet this year than last. Out-of-town visitors were Leland Knight, Lloyd Lonson and W. A. Hall, Jr., of Thief River Falls. They expressed themselves as being very much interested in the club work. Anyone wishing to communicate with the club may do so by addressing Roy M. Barzen, 604 Corn Exchange, Minneapolis.

KILLER OF FOUR NEARLY ESCAPES

Kelliher Murderer Is Caught Digging Hole Through Bemidji Jail.

The timely arrival of the court house janitor early yesterday morning frustrated an attempt to escape by Lenardo Pirritano, slayer of four persons at Kelliher, November 15 last from the county jail at Bemidji.

Given an hour more Pirritano would have made good his escape through a hole in the brick wall, Sheriff Johnson said. The man had removed a number of bricks from the wall derictly under the window sill of his cell on the second floor and if given a little more time the hole would have been large enough to permit his freedom. The prisoner started to work for his freedom some time after 2:30 a.m. according to the sheriff who visited the cell at that time.

Flames Destroy Clothing and Cause Slight Damage to Barth Home on Duluth

A fire which destroyed a considerable quantity of clothing occurred last Thursday afternoon in the home at 509 Duluth avenue south, occupied by C. A. Barth. Some damage also resulted to the building from the flood of water employed by the firemen in checking the blaze.

The fire was started in a peculiar manner. Bobby, the five-year-old son of the Barths, had been playing with matches and paper. When an ignited piece of paper became too hot for him to hold, the boy threw it into a closet in an effort to conceal the proceedings from his mother's watchful eye. Mrs. Barth became suspicious, however, and instituted a search which disclosed the fire in the closet. An alarm was immediately sent in and the fire department responded promptly. The exact extent of the damage to house and contents has not yet been estimated.

DEDICATION OF NEW G. N. DEPOT TO BE HELD SOON

Next Monday Set as Date For Formal Acceptance of Structure.

Dedication Exercises to Be Held at Rooms of Commecial Club.

Next Monday will be a big day in Thief River Falls. That date has officially been decided upon as the day for the dedication of the new Great Northern depot, which has been in process of construction for the past several months.

A message this afternoon to Dr. H. W. Froehlich, president of the Commercial club, from the head office of the Great Northern in St. Paul, contains the information that a delegation of Great Northern officials, seven or eight in number, will arrive in Thief River Falls on the 11 o'clock train that day to inspect the depot and to take part in exercises which the Commercial club may wish to arrange for the occasion.

Dr. Froehlich announced this afternoon that a special meeting of the club will be called for Monday noon and that a regular luncheon will be served. Among the speakers will be Vice President Countryman, Chairman Louis W. Hill and possibly President Ralph Budd of the Great Northern, who will be included in the visiting delegation.

Making arrangements for this important occasion will constitute the principal order of business at tomorrw's meeting of the Commercial club, and President Froehlich urges a large attendance so that this very important matter may be properly disposed of.

Frank Harrison, Pioneer Engineer, Leaves at End of Forty Years Service

Frank Harrison, who has been an engineer on the Soo Line since 1884 is retiring from the service.

Mr. Harrison is really a pioneer of the railroads, having spent forty years with the Soo Line and having had prior experience on the Chicago, Northwestern, which was known as the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha line when he worked with it. His run being from St. Paul to Duluth. He had worked on other railroads before this time, however.

Since coming to the Soo Line, he has been almost continuously in the passenger service and has had the Glenwood-Thief River Falls run ever since the extension was built in the early nineteen hundreds. He had the 111 and 112 trains and is said to have never had an accident.

He is a vary valuable citizen, very patriotic and democratic in his disposition. He owns a rich farm in Wisconsin, another near Glenwood and his home no doubt will be made in that city as he has lived there for a number of years. He is seventy years of age but is as spry as a man of fifty-five according to his friends and they are quite proud of his achievment as very few men have run passenger trains so long.

Y. M. C. A. Quarters Open Four Nights During Week

The Y. M. C. A. quarters in the basement of the library are now open on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, Clarence Pope, high school instructor, and Dreng Bjornaraa, of the Times staff, being in charge. The rooms are open from 7 to 10 o'clock. Various activities will be sponsored by the organization during the coming winter season, it is planned, and an effort will be made to secure a larger membership. The local unit at present includes about 50 members.

BAD CHECK MAN FLEECES LOCAL PLACES HEAVILY

Affable Stranger Buys Merchandise Freely and Issues Bogus Checks.

Nearly $200 Worth of Goods Secured in Operations Lasting One Day.

Business places in Thief River Falls like to wait on customers and like to sell goods for cash. But when the cash is in the form of a check and the check turns out to be absolutely worthless, then the situation is not so pleasing. Because of their faith in a stranger who looked like a farmer and who casually mentioned the names of several well known Pennington county people in his conversation, local business men were defrauded out of about $200 worth of merchandise last Friday. This man, who carried a check book on the First National bank of this city, walked into one store and the other, bought a bill of goods and tendered a check in payment therefor. He filled out the stubs carefully and numbered each check, and in each instance used the same name, F. M. Kuehn.

The goods purchased by the stranger included about everything from a new suit of clothes and a pair of $10 shoes to a $40 diamond ring and a fine leather traveling bag. In the evening when it developed that Mr. Kuehn had no account at the First National, a search was instituted but he could not be located. It is presumed he made his escape on a freight train over the Soo. Sheriff Ihle and the city police immediately sent descriptions of the man to police in all directions in the hope that he might be captured.

Mr. Kuehn evidently landed in Detroit the following day and lost no time in starting a campaign there similar to the one just closed in Thief River Falls. The police there, using the description furnished by local police, nabbed the stranger and lodged him in jail, but not until he had succeeded in passing about $130 worth of his bogus checks. He is held in the Detroit jail awaiting trial for the work done there. After he is through with the Detroit folks it is likely he will have to face the music for the indiscretions committed here. It is said Kuehn has served time in prison and was released from Stillwater last July.

When captured in Detroit the man was in possession of none of the merchandise secured here, a fact which leads officers to believe that he carried on his operations in connection with a partner, who relieved him of the goods shortly after he left Thief River Falls.

Erie Man to Fergus.

After an eamination before Judge of Probate Lars Backe on Monday afternoon, Bennie Rustad of Erie was adjudged insane and ordered committed to the Fergus Falls hospital for treatment. The young man, who is about 30 years and single, was not violent and it is thought that a short term of treatment should effect a cure. Sheriff Ole L. Ihle took Rustad to Fergus Falls Monday evening.

DEC. 15 MARKS QUINTET DEBUT

City Team Will Fight High School Squad Saturday Evening.

The first game of the season between the City basket ball team, composed of some of the cleverest players in the county, and the Lincoln high team will be played at the auditorium Saturday evening, December 15 at 8 o'clock. This should be a really spiffy game as the fighting qualities of the high school quintet are known and with such names on the city list as Roy Brown, "Chuck" Herron, Stanley Sorenson, "Slim" Wilson, Ray Kiland, "Chuck" Warner, A. Thune, M. Bye and "Kip" LaBree a scrap may be anticipated that will sink the slight admittance of 10 cents for children and 25 cents for adults out of sight entirely.

PREUS WILL NOT QUIT.

Governor Preus of Minnesota yesterday denied the report that he would resign as governor to enter private business. He said he had no intention of leaving Minnesota until he had completed his term, but after that his plans were somewhat indefinite.

Car Turns Over; Two Men Severely Hurt in Mishap on Bridge Street Monday

Ole J. Westman of Viking, Emil Skogland of Roseau and Ole Skogland, brother-in-law of Mr. Westman, narrowly escaped death on Monday in an automobile spill which occurred on Bridge street in this city. The car in which the men were driving suddenly became unmanageable and turned over, pinning the occupants underneath. The injured men were immediately taken to the Swedenburg hospital and placed under the care of hospital physicians.

An examination disclosed that Mr. Westman had suffered a fractured skull and other injuries, which makes his condition at this time very critical. Emil Skogland suffered internal injuries but his condition is reported very satisfactory this morning. Ole Skogland received a severe shaking up but escaped without injury.

FINAL ROUND OF SIRES CAMPAIGN SHOWING SPEED

Battle for Credits Continues Unabated in Every Corner of County.

Tribune's Campaigners Increase Speed as Closing Date Approaches.

The Better Sires campaign is now nearing its close, with a majority of the campaigners holding back credits so as not to expose their exact standings to their competitors until the closing date. Therefore there is not much change in the standings of the candidates this week although some of them have been sending in very nice reports. The following have increased their credits since the last issue:

Polk Center, Alpha Vedum, 20; Bray, Victor F. Johnson, 138; Silverton, Lawrence Letnes, 128; North, Kittel Rynestad, 40; Star, Louis Hruby, 40; River Falls, Edyth Malmquist, 236; Reiner, Arnold Aakre, 50; Deer Park, Emil Singer, 56; Mayfield, Edna Nelson, 40; Norden, Delbert Kron, 24; Wyandotte, Zella Huddleson, 112; Black River, Hildegard Kitzrow, 24; Kratka, Jul Kilen, 314.

As will be noted, this leaves Mr. Kilen in the lead as last week with the high score for the county. This week finds the following as leaders in their respective sections:

Sec. 1—Victor F. Johnson, Bray, 138.

Sec. 2—Edyth Malmquist, River Falls, 236.

Sec. 3—Jul Kilen, Kratka, 314.

Sec. 4—Emil Singer, Deer Park, 56.

Through an error in The Tribune's mechanical department last week, Sections 3 and 4 were run together as one item. This irregularity caused the reports of some of the campaigners to be ignored entirely. In order to right this injustice, the omitted campaigners and their credits are given below:

Albert Holmen, Cloverleaf, 44; Lawrence Letnes, Silverton, 104; Emil Singer, Deer Park, 48; Nobel Urdahl, Goodridge, 52.

Marshall County Section.

Only one report has been received from this section since last week, Oscar F. Anderson increasing his score to 58 credits. The remaining campaigners have evidently been too busy to report, or perhaps they are holding back with the intention of springing a surprise later in the game.

Rules For Closing Date.

Saturday, December 22, at 9 p.m., has been decided upon as the closing date for the campaign as far as Pennington county is concerned. Letters bearing remittances and postmarked Saturday will be credited. At that time all campaigners must arrange to have all duplicate subscription receipts, together with all cash remittances and notes, in the hands of the editor of The Tribune. A committee of disinterested men will be chosen to count the credits and make the awards. Credits cannot be counted unless the above rules are complied with.

Only one more week to make a record for your township! Work as you have never worked before! Do not let the residents of your township feel that you have not done your very best in getting them the honors. Be a leader! Be a better livestock booster! Show the folks that you are worthy of your selection to represent your township in this campaign.

An Error Corrected.

In its story last week about the fine new team now serving the fire department, The Tribune made the statement that the team had been purchased by the department. This assertion was erroneous, as the team was purchased by and is the property of Theodore Lee, driver of the fire truck. Mr. Lee is very proud of the team and desires to be recognized as owner of the prancing steeds.

COUNCIL DEFERS ACTION ON COAL DEAL TO FRIDAY

Witness, Upon Advice of Attorney, Refuses to Give Testimony.

Disappointment greeted the large number of citizens who gathered at the council rooms last evening, when it was expected the charges against Alderman John Dahl alleging irregularities in the delivery of coal consigned to the city would be sifted to the bottom. Afer some discussion of the matter, one of the witnesses who had been subpoenaed was asked to give his testimony. After conferring with his attorney, the witness declined to testify on the ground that the proceedings had been improperly brought. Mr. Dahl, who two weeks ago made the motion asking that the hearing be held, was not represented by an attorney.

This move tied up the proceedings temporarily and action in the case was postponed to Friday evening, when an adjourned meeting of the city council will further consider the matter. At the present time the case is in a somewhat muddled state, with both sides jockying for position. The meeting Friday evening will no doubt be attended by a large delegation interested in the outcome of the case.

The remainder of the time at Tuesday's meeting of the council was occupied in attending to routine matters and passing for payment a number of bills against the different departments of the city.

JUNIOR PLAY IS NEXT ON BOARDS

"Daddy Long Legs" to be Presented at Auditorium Next Friday.

The Junior class of the Lincoln High is to be very much commended on the play, "Daddy Long Legs," which they will put on Friday evening, December 14, at the auditorium. It has been lauded in New York and Chicago by the critics with such words as, "charming," "exquisite," "beautiful," and had a two year run in the former city. Those who have seen Mary Pickford in the movie based on the play will have some idea of the simple, honest fun they will be in for; especially in the orphan home scenes.

The cast has been letter perfect for some time and Miss Keyes, who has had the coaching in her hands, is highly satisfied with the way they are taking the characterizations upon their shoulders. The parts are in the most, quite long and though very entertaining to hear, involve quite a bit of headwork on the part of the students who have not only the play to carry, but also their daily studies. Especially long are the leading parts, taken by Arthur Penney who plays the hero, "Jervis Pendleton" and the heroine, "Judie," played by Lucille Roark. For those who might not know what the name stands for, it might be well to mention that the play turns on the fact that a shadow of Judie's unknown friend appears on a wall as samething mostly consisting of legs, so she promptly nick names him after the friendly spider all children have used to point out the direction from which the cows will come home.

Tickets for the play are now on sale at Lambert's drug store at 50c for adults and 35c for students and children at the evening performance. However, there will be a matinee given in the afternoon for the grade children, the admittance being 10c. It should be kept in mind that reserved seats are reserved seats and the quicker you get yours the better choice you will have to pick from.

Legion Auxiliary Elects Officials on Eighteenth

The Legion Auxiliary will hold a meeting at the Legion club rooms next Tuesday, Dec. 18. There will be an election of officers and all members are urged to be present.

Mrs. L. J. Cerney, who had been confined in a Werren hospital for several weeks following a serious operation, was removed to her home in this city the latter part of the week. Her friends will be glad to learn that she is now on the road to recovery and prospects are bright that she will soon be enjying the best of health.

MINNESOTA AUTO TAX BELOW REST

Owners in Other States Paying More Though Roads Are Poorer.

Minnesota automobile taxes are lower than those of the average state in spite of the big trunk highway program being financed wholly with auto taxes and federal aid and of the good roads reputation already won by the state.

The statement in a state highway bulletin this week is based upon figures for all the states as reported on a survey by the American Association of state highway officials. The Minnesota tax on the average automobile is $2.18 less than that in the average state, according to the available figures. Total taxes on automobiles are used, however, the personal property, state license, gasoline and other levies being included in each instance, against the lieu tax in Minnesota. The figures are carefully compiled, the bulletin adds, and regarded as accurate, the general survey being by an unbaised organization, and Minnesota figures official.

A further showing held of interest is that an average of $18 as agreed upon under good roads amendment No. 1, if levied here, would be no higher than that of the average state.

Representative cars in different classes are used for comparisons. Four-cylinder Fords and Dodges and the 6-cylinder Buick of the 5-passenger touring models are the first three. Other models are the 8-cylinder Cadillac and 12-cylinder Packard, both of the 7-passenger types.

Gasoline taxes where levied are figured on 4,500 miles a season at 15 miles a gallon for the Ford, 13 miles for Dodges, 12 miles for Buicks, 8 miles for Cadillacs and 6 miles for Packards, as on the national tables reported. Personal property tax rate averages are 60 mills in county and 170 mills in cities on 60 per cent of list prices, and the registration fees are actual amounts collected.

The Minnesota taxes are figured at new 1924 rates on 1921 cars, rated in the motor vehicle registration department as giving the fairest average. The bulletin points out that the averages for all the states are similarly rated. On the basis of 1922 models, the Minnesota taxes are lower on the whole, although higher on the more expensive models. They are Fords $12; Dodgs $19.36; Buncks, $26.29; Cadillacs, $36.47, and Packards, $84.70. This emphasizes that in comparison with those on other states, Ford owners and others paying the $12 minimum are fairly treated, and they form more than half of the car owners in the state.

Gasoline tax figures from the same source show that a 2-cents-a-gallon tax as provided in Minnesota, would cost car owners as follows: Ford, $6; Dodge, $6.92; Buick, $7.50; Cadillac. $11.24, and Packard, $15. But it will mean, according to the bulletin, the use of approximately $3,500,000 of extra road betterment every year to reduce gasoline consumption, tire wear and general car expenses. Further, it will allow tourists from other states covering large mileages here to contribute toward the better roads program.

There are thirty-four states in which motor vehicles are taxed as personal property, either in lieu of a flat license rate or in addition to some other fee. In practically all these states city owned cars, because of higher city tax rates pay a higher tax than country cars. In Minnesota the tax is the same for both city and country but none of the proceeds is used in the three large cities which pay probably a third of the whole tax.

TRAVELERS GIVE KIDDIES PICNIC

Commercial Men Act As Hotss To Children At Fine Banquet.

The local order of the U. C. T. entertained the children last Saturday afternoon in a very interesting manner, at the Masonic hall. The wives and children of the members of the order met at the club rooms in the afternoon and the time was spent in entertaining the "kids." John Ward officiated for the occasion as chief entertainer. The children were presented with toys and goodies and at 5 o'clock they were guests of honor at a chicken dinner, which included all of the necessary trimmings.

After the children had been served, members and their wives enjoyed their evening meal, which was prepared by the committee in charge with the assistance of the ladies of the order. That the kiddies had a good time goes without saying, and the U. C. T. is to be commended for giving them a real treat.

The local order of the U. C. T. has at this time nearly one hundred members, 75 of whom live in the city, and they are all boosters from the word go.

The sole consolation of those in prison, is that they are surrounded by the only bars left in the country.

Advertising and Soups.

The famous Campbell soups offer a good illustration of lowered production costs resulting from advertising. The result would be the same in the cost of Holsteins or soup. In a recent article in Printers' Ink monthly, Rolland Cole says the total output of this company was 500,000 cans during the year 1898. At the present time their output runs as high as 18,000,000 cans in one week. In 1898 their expense for advertising was 14 per cent of the entire cost of each can of soup. Today this has been reduced to less than 3 per cent and the cost of advertising on one can is only seventeen-hundredths of one cent.—Northfield News.

EDUCATION WEEK PROVES SUCCESS

Schools Receive a Great Amount of Fine Publicity in Venture.

The observance of American Education week this year surpassed all previous years in effectiveness, according to an announcement of the Department of the Interior through the Bureau of Education. The movement swept the entire nation, from the largest centers of population to the most remote villages and hamlets.

Churches, clubs, newspapers, theaters, and other organizations joined in with the schools in a way they have not co-operated before and made the week an actual intensified campaign for better knowledge about schools. Some states put on a statewide program, and most of the cities had their own plans, though all of these patterned their observance upon the national program.

President Coolidge's proclamation was printed in whole or part in practically every newspaper in the country and was given much prominence outside the daily press. The press responded with special educational editions, editorials, and information in their columns based largely upon facts sent out by the Bureau of Education.

More than a million sermons and addresses were delivered upon the subject of education during the week. The response of the churches was much greater than has been the case in previous years. Clubs of all kinds, particularly noonday luncheon clubs, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, and others, were notably active in the campaign. A feature of the week's observance this year was the active participation of the motion picture theatres of the country who were liberal in permitting information about education on their screens.

Take Warning From Kansas.

Reports from various parts of the state indicate that an extensive drive by the centralized creameries against the co-operative creameries is under way. At the recent annual meeting of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association strong warnings were sounded against this attempt. From points as far apart as St. Louis county and Douglas county come reports of an insidious price war against the co-operatives.

Representatives of the Blue Valley creamery at Sauk Center, according to one of these reports, are offering farmers in that section 64 cents per pound for fresh cream and 60 cents for cream partly soured—approximately 10 cents per pound more than the cream is worth.

It is to be hoped that the members of the co-operative will not fall for this palpable trick. The Blue Valley company has practically driven the local creameries from several states by this method of overbidding them in prices to the producers. The large private companies can do this because they can afford to lose money in one community while they are making money in hundreds of other communities. They make the farmers of one section pay for freezing the farmers of another section out of business. After they drive a farmers' creamery out of business they invariably lower prices.

Kansas affords a sad example of a whole state that has been victimized by these methods. Kansas once had hundreds of local creameries. Now there are only three farmers' creameries in the whole state. In Kansas today, we are told, butterfat brings at least ten cents less than it does in Minnesota, the leading co-operative state.

Can Modern Girl Safely Shatter the Moral Code?

Is the modern, up-to-date minute, emancipated, unfettered and untrammeled girl overdoing it? Can she carry her own latch key, smoke cigarettes, keep late hours, ignore the conventions, smash the old ideals without at the same time smashing herself?

Or, in another way of putting it: Is the so-called "bold girl" necessarily a "bad girl?"

A great many women leaders are beginning to suffer uneasy qualms and ask themselves this question. What is the answer?

In "Prodigal Daughters," a Sam Wood Paramount production with Gloria Swanson as the star, which comes to the Princess theatre next Sunday and Monday, the answer is a smashing surprise that will make the audience gasp.

G. N. EMPLOYES TO GET SHARES

Dividend Paid in Full While Purchase Is Being Made.

Ownership in the Great Northern Railway company is opened to employes by the partial payment route as a result of an arrangement explained in a statement by President Ralph Budd. By means of the plan, which requires only a $5 initial payment and a monthly installment of $3 to be deducted from wages, Great Northern employes now are enabled to purchase the preferred shares of the capital stock of the big transcontinental railroad.

The Great Northern is the first Northwest railroad to make the purchase of stock by its employes available under the partial payment plan.

With the payments thus extended over a long period, a large number of the 32,000 members of the Great Northern organization, track laborers, clerks and officers, are expected to buy the preferred shares.

All the capital stock of the company now is in the hands of the public, there being 45,000 share holders, so the company has no stock to sell but will purchase the stock in the open market, at the prevailing price, for the employee as it is ordered under contract.

It is emphasized by President Budd that the status of the employee remains unchanged whether or not he takes advantage of the partial payment purchase plan.

"The Great Northern is extremely proud of its organization, comprising so many loyal and efficient men and women, and the directors felt that the employees will benefit greatly from this arrangement," said President Budd.

"The par value of Great Northern stock is $100 a share and the present rate of dividend $5 a share, payable semi annually. Neither the company nor anyone else can tell whether the market price will go up or down so the price of the stock to the employee cannot be guaranteed. Nor can there be any guaranty as to the future dividend rate as the amount of the dividend paid necessarily depends on the net earnings of the company.

No employee shall be urged to buy stock but they shall be informed as to what the return on their investment will be at the time of purchase. For example, at the present price (53) and the present annual dividend rate (5%), the investment will pay more than 9% and employees will get the benefit of the dividend on all the stock ordered while they pay only 6 per cent on the unpaid balance."

Provision is made for the suspension of payments during absence because of disability or under authorized leave: for the termination of the purchase contract and the return of the amount paid, less interest and selling expense, in instances where the employee leaves the service or desires for any reason to cease purchasing, or in the event of death.

Appalling Waste.

Short school terms and poor attendance in the rural schools represent an appalling waste. Statistics compiled by the Bureau of Education show that the average rural school term is approximately seven months and that the average daily attendance is but 72.2 per cent of the enrollment. Even this poor showing is bolstered up by including as rural all places of less than 2,500 population according to the census classification. If we count as rural only the population of the open country and the smaller villages the situation appears much worse. Because of the poor enforcement of the school laws in the open country many children of school age are not enrolled in the schools and because of unfavorable rural conditions the attendance is reduced. In these regions the average school term is about six months and the average daily attendance is hardly 65 per cent.

Short school terms and poor attendance waste the farmers' money, reduce the future earning capacity of children and permit coming citizens to be handicapped by illiteracy. The whole nation was made ashamed by the high percentage of illiteracy revealed by the examination of recruits for our army in the World war. So long as we permit short school terms and irregular school attendance in the rural districts, just so long will we continue to produce thousands of men and women unfit to perform their duties as citizens in a republic.

Pessimists Capitalize Blue Feeling.

Oratorical pessimists have been talking a blue streak. That is their best stock in trade. They capitalize the blue feeling that they create, for political purposes. But the light is breaking in Iowa. The crops are good. Prices are picking up. Frost has been delayed. Iowa has been feeding more beef cattle than any other state, and has the fodder for them. Spring pigs are fat and shining. Bank deposits in Iowa are growing. Industries are in full swing. Unemployment has reached low ebb. Merchants report good fall business. Thanksgiving day is approaching and the people of Iowa cannot help but see that things in general are much brighter than they were and will be still brighter by another month.—Cedar Rapids (Ia.) Gazette.

MULRY'S BAZAAR

THE TRIBUNE

Published Every Wednesday at Thief River Falls, Minn.

J. S. ARNESON - - - - - Editor
M. A. MATTISON - Associate Editor

It has often been stated that women cannot take a joke. Judging from what many of them have drawn in the matrimonial fish pond, we should say they can take a joke.

The suicide of two prominent and wealthy young men down east last week indicate that all the desponddency and unhappiness in the world is not due to the lack of money.

There are people foolish enough to believe they can violate the laws of Uncle Sam and get away with it. As a rule they wind up with a term in jail where they can reflect and think it over.

The Tribune does not care to publish communications which are directed against co-operative marketing of farm products. We feel so sure the principle is right that to publish such articles is a pure wast of space and effort.

A certain newspaper collected a lot of money on subscription when it stated one day that unless a certain married man who was kissing the hired girl paid up his subscription at once, his name would be published in the next issue.

In the absence of party organizations in Minnesota there is little use of talking about party responsibility. Some day it will be discovered by the people that the destruction of party organizations was accomplished by corporations unfriendly to their interests and then will come the day of reckoning.

The writer saw the collection of moonshine manufacturing utensils which were sold last week by the sheriff of Hennepin county—and likewise got a whiff of the stench from the jugs taken in some of the raids. We are quite sure few people would drink the filthy stuff which is now being sold as whisky could they have been present at the demonstration in front of the Hennepin county jail.

The Republican party in Minnesota needs a traffic policeman. It looks as if Jacobson, Sageng and Christianson could all have clear sailing if a mixup does not occur.

There are very few tough or hard boiled boys. They just think they are tough. One of them was sentenced to five years at hard labor at Stillwater the other day in a St. Paul court. This young fellow had defied the laws of the country. When his mother pleaded with him to quit his bad companions he only laughed in her face. He said he liked his pals, their moon parties, their revels by night, the life of ease. However, when he faced the judge the other day he cried and whimpered like a child in distress. Five years on the rock pile is a long time—but perhaps this young man needs that much time in which to think it over.

DEATH VISITS J. H. HAY HOME

Cameron Hay Dies Suddenly; Funeral Today in Minneapolis.

Early Monday morning at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hay of 1623 Selby avenue, St. Paul, occurred the death of Cameron Hay. The boy had been in poor health all his life and the end, though unexpected, came as a relief.

Cameron Hay was born in Sandstone, Minnesota, on May 19, 1901, and resided in this city with his parents until they moved to St. Paul several years ago. Asked about his son when in this city last week, Mr. Hay said he was getting along fine; but late Monday, C. A. Nason received a telegram carrying the news of Cameron's death. The funeral was held in Minneapolis on Wednesday at 2 p. m. He leaves to mourn, his parents and sister Jean who is living at home.

Church Men Serve Supper At Trinity Next Friday

A Lutefisk and Goose Supper, with accents on the lutefisk, and the whole mode sweet with lefse in the good "old country" style will be given by the Trinity Lutheran church on Friday evening, December 14.

This should prove a big drawing card and the fact that supper is to be served from five o'clock until the last of the stragglers has puffed his way home, should not keep anybody away until late in the evening. The fact that it is the men of the church who are responsible for the lefse and lutefisk should prove a greater attraction for it is not often that the men of a church feel their dignity equal to the task of serving a big supper. It is almost always one of the numerous things that are left entirely i nthe hands of the women and the men concerned are to be congratulated for their willingness to undertake a task of this sort.

LINCOLN HIGH TEAM SCORES

Thief River Boys Again Show the Results of Good Training.

The highschool basketball team won from the Middle River team with a score of 16 to 10 Tuesday night. Arthur Penny leading the team in scoring with five field goals. The team played rather ragged at times and was unable to score alweys because of lack of teamwork. The short pass., stop and turn and pivot were featured in the/Thief River play.

Middle River's players showed a lack of offensive tactics and altogether most of their points were the result of freak shots rather than the result of head work and teamwork. The lineup is as follows:

T. R. F.	Position	Middle River
W. Larson	F.	Kramer
Penny	F.	Johnson
Parenteau	C.	Sandberg
Sorenson	G.	Gullickson
Barzen	G.	Nordlum

Mr. Connell made an excellent referee.

With more eperience, with the wonderful practice floor they have in the auditorium to work on, and the excellent coach they have in Albert Thune, the high school should be represented this season by one of the fastest and cleverest teams in the northwest.

ALUMNI MEETING ON DECEMBER 28

If everything goes according to present plans of the committees in charge, the reunion of the Thief River Falls Alumni association, to be held at the Sons of Norway hall on the evening of December 28, will be the most enjoyable occasion of the kind ever staged in the city. An interesting program is being arranged and it is expected that a large crowd will be present.

Invitations will be sent to all graduates of the Lincoln high school who can be reached, but any who do not receive such an invitation should not let that fact prevent him from taking part in the festivities. The party is for the benefit of all graduates of this institution of learning and all of them are urged to attend. It will be a real get-together meeting in every sense of the word and any alumni who misses it will have something to regret.

The present officers of the association are Oscar Paulson, president; Roy Brown, vice president; Dreng Bjornaraa, secretary, and Sybil McGinn, treasurer. Further particulars concerning the party will be given in these columns next week.

Scenes From Old Norway To Be Shown Wednesday Evening, December 19th

All residents of this section of Minnesota who are interested in Norway and desire to see "de fagre bygder med sine solbakker i ly af de skjermende fjelde og omkring paa de hjemlige gaarde" should make it a point to be present at the Sons of Norway hall next Wednesday evening, Dec. 19. A program consisting of three hundred lantern slides made in Norway and portraying some of the most beautiful and most interesting scenes in that country will at that time be thrown on the screen.

For those who were born and raised in Norway, as well as those who though their parents or other relatives have interests there, this entertainment should prove a rare treat. Don't forget the date, next Wednesday evening, December 19, at 8 o'clock.

Two Trappers Haled Into Court; Judge Tarrant Warns Forgetful Hunters

F. J. Kreckekfj and Frank Srnsky, both of Highlanding were haled before Judge Tarrant Tuesday on a charge of trapping without a proper license. They were promptly fined $10 each as a chastisement.

In order that others might not be tempted to do the same thing through ignorance of the law or forgetfulness, the Judge said that licenses must be secured before it is legal to do any trapping and it would be better to pay out the small sum necessary than to be caught with nothing to show but the game. It is also imperative that a license be had before shooting cottontail and show-shoe rabbits by all over eighteen years of age. Jack rabbits, however, may be hunted freely.

A license may be had for $1 upon applying to the county auditor, or if a small game license is possessed, of course that will carry you through in hunting rabbits. The big thing is to have a license and be sure it is the proper one when starting out trapping or hunting.

In the Philipine Islands there is a bug whose bite gives a man a jag which lasts for an hour. As soon as this is generally known there will be a new boat line to the islands.

Give Yourself a Christmas Present

That is more wise than selfish, if the present be a Savings Account in this strong bank. It is a present that will not only last but will grow. Next Christmas it will be worth more than this, and in ten years it will have doubled. Some present!

A growing savings account means independence, freedom from worry and power to take advantage of opportunity.

This bank means absolute safety and helpful service.

Again we say, some present!

Which Kind Are You?

Every citizen should be actively interested in community betterment—first for the good of the community; and second on the theory that what benefits the community is of equal benefit to the individual.

Some people are aggressive and work continually for the welfare of the community in which they live.

Some hold back through modesty, some through timidity, and others through a disinclination to "neglect their private affairs."

The modest man is respected, although it is to be regretted that his modesty keeps him so much in the background.

The man who is timid is to be pitied, for his timidity is a serious handicap—yet a handicap that, happily, is often overcome.

The modest man and the timid man should assert themselves. The community needs their efforts, just as it receives the co-operation of their more aggressive friends and neighbors.

But what of the citizen who is averse to "neglecting his private affairs?"

Is he the kind of man who makes a community, or is he merely one who profits from the community that others make?

The man who is "too busy with his own private affairs" to aid in community betterment may be possessed of many of the good qualities usually found in mankind. He may be highly respected by his neighbors, and his honesty and integrity may be beyond question.

But no community can thrive on neighborly respect and honesty and integrity alone. Aggressiveness is required if a community would not slip backward instead of pressing forward.

Every man owes a duty to the community in which he lives, and that duty should be performed, even though it entails an occasional personal sacrifice.

No man should consider himself "too busy with his own private affairs" to aid in community betterment. He should not expect others to do all of the community work while he reaps his share of the benefits.

He should respond in kind.

The Curse of Moonshine

"Moonshine is the curse of this country. It is filling our prisons and asylums. When a man gets full of moonshine, he will commit any crime."—Warden John J. Sullivan.

Moonshine takes any man's reason. It leaves them depraved, dangerous maniacs, unsafe to mingle with sober people.

The man who sells or drinks moonshine, or traffics in it, is a potential murderer, and should be treated as such. Fines, no matter how heavy, will not safeguard the public against the moonshine pestilence. Put the malefactors in jail—let them stay there and rot, if need be. Better that the public should be safe than to allow a single moonshiner his liberty.

If you are a good citizen, you will tell the officers all you know about moonshine in Martin county—even if it hits close to home. It may be the means of saving a life.—Fairmont Sentinel.

How differently men respond to the call of the dinner bell and the call of the church bell.

No man can be your enemy unless you let him.

A farmer near Holt still comes to town in a single buggy drawn by an ox. He plows and does all his work by means of oxen. The old man does not owe a dollar and has heaps of money in the bank. We have often wondered whether the fast tractor had it on the slow moving oxen. Here is a good subject for a winter debate.

No man ever achieved much fame by working merely for himself.

If it wasn't for worry the doctors would have many more idle days.

Two pints make a quart—and a quart these days often makes more work for the undertaker.

Branch of State Price Stabilizataion Association Established Here.

Local Men Placed in Charge of Organization Work in Section.

Another "price stabilization" meeting was held in Thief River Falls on Tuesday of last week, a considerable number gathering at the court room in the court house during the afternoon to consider the question. The call for the meeting was sent out by G. Halvorson of this city, with the purpose of ascertaining whether or not Pennington county should at this time organize a price stabilizing association to take its place in the state organization which was launched some time ago. Mr. Halvorson has been requested to look after organization work in this section of Minnesota and decided t begin the wrk in his home county.

A. K. Lockrem was selected as secretary of the meeting and the following extracts from his records will serve to explain in detail what transpired and what plans were formlated for the future. The minutes follow:

"The Price Stabilization association of the state has set it as its object to organize every county to join in a campaign of propaganda to obtain through national legislation some way of fixing a minimum price on the three greatest crops of the United States, namely, cotton, corn and wheat.

"The meeting promptly organized by choosing M. O'Leary as chairman and A. K. Kockrem as secretary. It was decided to have a local committee of five members in each township to act as spokesmen for the great cause for which we organized. Next to improving farm methods there is no greater question to decide at present than how to market agricultural products so that the American farmer can realize a fair and reasonable profit from his labors. At present this matter is in a chaotic condition. Theories for improvement there are aplenty; much talk and much advice to the farmer is given free of charge, but results are still somewhere beyond the clouds.

"To gain results, this organization will try by all fair and just means to crystallize public opinion on one theory, namely, to prevail on congress to enact some kind of legislation by which a minimum price be fixed on the three principal agricultural products of the country. It is generally believed that it is best not to demand too much to start with. After some years, when the plan has been tried out and found to work well, the price fixing by a government commission could be ex-

"This price stabilization theory is strongly opposed by many of our big newspapers. The general objection is that a committee of seven members In a later article I shall try and dehorn this objection, if the editor permits.

"To return to the minutes of the meeting of last Thursday, will state that a cimmittee of seven members was chosen to act as executive committee for the county organization. The members are G. Halvorson, chairman; S. V. Patton, J. W. Denhart, M. O'Leary, P. C. Wold, A. J. Sumner and A. K. Lockrem. Mr. Denhart resigned because he had too many duties to attend to at home to be able to serve on the committee.

"It was decided that Mr. Halvorson appoint the chairmen of each local committee and that these chairmen appoint the other four members. The following were appointed: S. V. Patton, Sanders; J. W. Denhart, River Falls; Ed. Kittelson, Rocksbury; M. O'Leary, Mayfield; P. C. Wold, Highlanding; T. K. Rynestad, North; A. J. Sumner, Numedal; and John Sjolsvold, Norden.

"As the remaining townships of the county were not represented, Mr. Halvorson was requested to appoint a chairman for a local committee in each township."

Mrs. Thea Hornseth Called Home.

On Thanksgiving day the village was saddened by the news that "Grandma" Hornseth had passed away. She was one of the sturdy Norse pioneers of this county of whom so few are left, well loved by all who knew her. Following is the obituary:

Thea Otnes-Hornseth was born at Rendalen, Norway, Oct. 4, 1841. Her youth was spent in that country where in 1961 she was united in marriage with Peter P. Hornseth.

In 1866 the young couple emigrated to America making their first home in Wisconsin. In 1870 they moved to Fillmore county, Minn., and a year later came to Renville county, taking a homestead in Bandon township.

Here, at that time forty miles from any market town, the young couple settled down to the serious business of making a home on the wild prairie. They experienced all the hardships and vicissitudes of the early pioneers, but withal also experienced many joys in their side hill dugout home which the winter storms often hid from sight.

Their second home was a two-room log cabin, and its final successor, a commodious farm house; in these three homes built within a few rods of each other in their successive stages of hard won prosperity, they raised a sturdy family of boys and girls and enjoyed the company and association of old time real friends and neighbors.

They continued to reside on the old homestead until the death of Mr. Hornseth in 1911, since which time Mrs. Hornseth has resided with her daughter, Mrs. Frank W. Doney, of this village.

To Mr. and Mrs. Hornseth were born six children, two of whom preceded their parents to the great beyond. The four living are Tollef P. and Peter Hornseth and Mrs. Oscar Williams of Thief River Falls, Minn, and Mrs. Frank Doney of Hector, Minn.

Grandma Hornseth, as she was known to all, was a peaceful and levtly character, always a faithful and practical Christian even more thoughtful of the welfare of others than of her own. Her last days were a fitting finale for a life of love, service, and kindness, for as time laid a heavy hand upon the physical life she fell gently asleep with final words of faith in a better spiritual life to come.

At her death on November 29 she had reached the age of eigthy two years, one month, and twenty five days. She is survived by the before mentioned children and one sister, Mrs. Gunerius Peterson of Hector, all of whom were present at the funeral. There are also sixteen grandchildren and six great-grand children and other relatitves.

The funeral was held on Sunday, Dec. 2, at Palmyra Evangelical Luth. church after a short service at the home of F. W. Doney, Rev. Rognlie of Franklin, Minn., her pastor for over thirty years, officiating.

Many beautiful floral tributes were received from sympathizing friends, and expressive solos were sung at the home and church by Miss Katherine Rognlie. Interment was made in the church cemetery beside her husband and son Richard.

As perfect as a human life could be,
He path on earth she trod,
Departing with a true and sincere trust
In Heav'nly home with God.

Newest Picture Furnishes Laughs, Thrills and Tears

If you want to langh, thrill and grow tender all at one too brief evening see "Are You a Failure?" which comes to the Princess theatre Friday and Saturday. For good, clean, fast action he has seen nothing so far to equal it this season.

The hero, portrayed by Lloyd Hughes, is a failure; humiliated before everyone, he is made to feel his lack of pep and go the more because of the reputation of his father as an intrepid river boss.

The love of the girl, played by Madge Bellamy, and an advertisement seen by chance and headed by the pertinent query, 'Are You a Failure?' decided his fate. He sends for the course of instructions and immediately things begin to happen. He is caught in a log jam, he quells a riot, whips his worst and most bullying enemy, and is almost carried over a falls on a log before his course is complete. Without spoiling your pleasure it may be said that the conclusion leaves nothing to be desired.

Vol. 23. No. 39 THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 12 1923 $2.00 a Year in Advance.

RED RIVER VALLEY DAIRYING

(From The Farmer, St. Paul, Minn.)

Back in 1895, the Red River Valley was one vast ocean of waving grain, according to T. A. Hoverstad, at that time the superintendent of the Northwest Experiment Station at Crookston. In 1897, the first co-operative creamery was organized in the Valley, at Gary in Norman county. In 1903, the Red River Valley Dairymen's association was organized by a mere mandful of enthusiastic admirers of the dairy cow. In 1914, an organization of livestock men was organized. This was known as the Red River Valley Livestock association and this association as such owns a livestock pavilion and buildings valued at more than $70.000.

In 1923, all these organizations are intact and hard at work to carry out the dreams of which the early pioneers dreamed for the future of agriculture of youth, has joined in this movement of the Valley. New blood the blood to promote a more profitable agriculture in the Red River Valley. And with the efforts of all this forward moving throng, progress in agriculture has kept pace.

This leads up to the question, where will the Red River Valley stand as an agricultural section in 1933? Judging from the accomplishments of the past, and in spite of the somewhat discouraging conditions of the immediate present, the future for the farming industry in the Red River Valley is indeed bright.

Reviewing Valley History.

On November 21 and 22, several hundred dairy farmers, creamery operators, educators and others interested in dairying in the Red River Valley, met in the twentieth annual convention of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association. There they conducted the business of the associataion, talked over old times and got acquainted with some of the early pioneers in the dairy movement in the Valley. There they saw a historical pageant picturing the development of the dairy industry in this section during the last 30 years, with many of the original characters in the life drama carrying the parts in the play.

There was a large list of speakers on the program. Many of the people of the Valley who are connected with the dairy industry, as well as authorities on dairy matters from a distance, were speakers. Among the latter were Dr. C. H. Eckles, head of the dairy department of the University of Minnesota; A. J. McGuire, manager of the Minnesota Co-ojerative Creameries' association; Chris Heen, of the State Dairy and Food department; H. R. Searles, dairy extensionspecialist of the University of Minnesota and N. J. Holmberg, J. R. Morley and others. A. J. Kittleson, district leader of boys' and girls' club work told of the progress of club work in the Red River Valley.

St. Hilaire Creamery, Pennington County, an Evidence of the Advance of the Dairy Industry in the Red River Valley

Among the pioneers in Red River Valley dairying, who were guests of honor at this convention, were T. A. Hoverstad, the first superintendent of the Northwest Experiment Station at Crookston; Col. R. A. Wilkinson, one of the early farmers of this section; O. C. Gregg, father of farmers' institute work in Minnesota; M. J. Cort, who helped to organize many of the co-operative creameries in the Red River Valley; Halvor Lee, buttermaker of the first co-operative creamery in the Valley, located at Gary; A. K. Strand, Ada; O. O. Estenson, Climax; J. J. Fosse, Fertile; J. Lade, Fosston; Peter Engelstad, Thief River Falls; H. P. Wieland, Fisher; and others, all dairymen in the Red River Valley.

T. L. Haecker, to whom much of the credit for the successful start of the early co-operative creameries of Minnesota is due. could not attend the convention on account of poor health, but the convention expressed its regrets on account of his absence by passing a resolution recognizing his great contribution to Northwestern agriculture.

Creameries from all over the Red River Valley and a few creameries from other sections of Minnesota entered the contests which this dairymen's association promotes among the local creamery associations. These contests are centered around exhibits of creamery butter, the judging of butter, the keeping of dairy records, the purchasing of dairy sires, the building of silos, and the buying of cream coolers on the farms of the creamery patrons.

Butter from 76 creameries was entered in the butter contest. Of these entries, not one scored below 90 per cent and all but eight scored 92 or better. Sixty of the creameries competing in this contest are Valley creameries and 16 are located in other parts of the state. The 60 Valley creameries are all entitled to a share of a $100 prize which is to be prorated to the creameries whose butter scored over 88 per cent.

The first prize, a silver trophy, went to Henry Werbes, of the Ottertail creamery in Ottertail county. A tub of butter from S. S. Sorenson of the Dawson creamery, scored the highest, but inasmuch as this creamery is not located in the Valley section it was only given a complimentary score. William Kelzenberg, Verndale, and J. J. Harms, won second and third prizes, which were also silver trophies.

The following won gold medals for making the highest scoring butter in each of the districts of the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' association: Harold Olson, Thief River Falls, Dist. No. 3; B. J. Ommodt, Flom, Dist. No. 4; L. J. Thompson, Barnesville, Dist. No. 12; C. H. Markuson, Henning, Dist. No. 13; and L. R. Kartak, Menahga, Dist. No. 18. Hange, Bagley, won the first prize,

In the butter judging contest S. L. a gold butter trier; O. C. Peterson, Hazel, won second prize, a silver trier; and S. Loveid, Middle River, won the third prize, which was a nickel-plated butter trier.

The prize of $25 to the farmer who kept the best records of his feed and production of his dairy herd in 1923 was awarded to Ingeborg Brothers, of Hendrum. Second prize of $20 went to Albert Dunham, Pelican Rapids. Otherwinners in order were J. J. Fosse, Fertile; Myrtle I. Heimrun, Lake Park; Oscar Drotts, Viking; Otto Fosse, Pelican Rapids; C. I. Rude, Viking; Fred Cuno, Grygla; Anton Honer and Floyd Jamieson, both of Dent.

Prizes for Dairy Efficiency.

The creamery winning the first prize for having the largest percentage of patrons who keep dairy herd records is Hendrum with 13.6 per cent. Pelican Rapids was second and Olga third. The Pelican Rapids creamery had the largest number of patrons, they took second on their percentage. Other winners were Viking and Grygla creameries.

First prize for the largest percentage of patrons who bought purebred sires went to Pelican Rapids, with Halstad second and Hendrum third. Thief River Falls, with13 new silos, won first prize for the highest percentage of new silos, with Pelican Rapids second and Olga third. First for the largest percentage of patrons with silos in use went to Ottertail ing 88 silos. Pelican Rapids was creamery, which has 135 patrons having 88 silos. Pelican Rapids was second and the Hendrum creamery was third.

First prize for the largest percentage of cooling tanks went to the Lengby creamery. Grygla was second and Eddy third.

Special prizes of three silver trophies, valued at $50, $40 and $25, were ogered to the three creamery associations having the largest number of patrons registered at the convention. The Halstad creamery won first, Fertile second, and Holt third.

The convention re-elected its officers of last year. They are as follows: Stuart McLeod, Goodridge. president; A. R. Knutson, Pelican Rapids, first vice-president; Marius Waldal, Plummer, second vice-president; Leonard Houske, Halstad, secretary; and E. E. Thorson, Hendrum, treasurer.

The convention authorized the sending of a telegram to the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association and the St. Paul Association of Public Affairs recommending that these organizations get behind the co-operative potato marketing organization work in a financial way to insure the completion of the campaign.

Marius Waldal, a member of the potato campaign executive committee and vice-president of the dairymen's association, explained that the growers are not able to bear the expense of organization work at this time, hence the request that business interests of the twin cities give the campaign financial support.

A resolution was passed endorsing the program of the Minnesota Cooperative Creameries' Issociation, Inc., for the marketing of Minnesota cooperative creamery butter, and for the protection of the co-operative creameries through the adoption of long-time binding contracts.

The "Pageant of Progress," written and directed by C. G. Selvig, superintendent of the Northwest School of Agriculture, showed the struggles of the early pioneers in the Red River Valley, pictured the organization of the first co-operative creamery, and the starting of the Red River Dairymen's association. All through this dairy pioneers, many of whom were present in person.

T. A. Hoverstad describes the organization of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association as follows: "One night in June, 1903, I was conducting a farmers' institute at Crookston. When the meeting was over, I asked all who were present that were interested in starting a dairymen's association to hold up their hands. Quite a number responded and the next day was set as the time of the meeting. Just three of us showed up —Levi Steenerson of Crookston, E. Estenson, Climax, and myself. We held a meeting. I was elected president, and Levi Steenerson, secretary. That was the start of the present Red River Valley Dairymen's association."

Warren, Minn., has invited the association to meet there next year.

GREAT NORTHERN

Favors Reducing Your Taxes

The cost of government has been increasing for years with great rapidity, and this increases the cost of what you produce and what you consume.

This cost of government must be met by taxation. Even when governments borrow the money they spend, they must impose taxes to pay the debt with interest.

In 1912 .... $3,804,924
In 1922 .... $8,097,725

Great Northern taxes for 1922 were two and one-seventh times greater than for 1912.

Great Northern taxes for MINNESOTA in 1922 were $1,970,936,

These heavy increases in taxes show that your government costs need careful scrutiny. These costs should be kept as low as is consistent with good government. You pay them—all of them.

Unnecessary governmental expenditure is a burden on production and consumption. It is to your interest to do everything in your power to encourage honesty, economy and efficiency in all forms of your government—federal, state and local—so as to reduce the taxes you pay. It is just as important to you to reduce the taxes your railroads pay, since they become part of the charge for transportation, and so of your cost of living.

All money expended by the state must be collected ultimately from the producers of wealth within the state. The public must invariably foot all tax bills, including railroad axes. It is to your interest even more than to that of any railroad to make and keep them low.

Talk No. 10.

LOUIS W. HILL,
Chairman of the Board.

A Cheap Northland Silo

(The Northwest Farmstead.)

Here is a cheap silo for the northland farm, a cheap one, and apparently a good one. It is built of 2x4's, cut out of any timber on the place. Almost anybody who is handy with the saw and hammer can build it. The lumber doesn't need to be planed, in fact, some prefer to have it as rough as possible. Some of them in northern Minnesota have stood for 10 years and have kept silage in good condition every winter.

Here is the method of building it as outlined by E. W. Smith of Ramsey county:

"All the pieces for the cribbing are sawed exactly alike. To make a pattern for them use a piece of board 4 inches wide and 7 feet long if the silo is to be 12 feet across, or 6 feet in length for a 10-foot silo. Lay a carpenter's square on the board as shown so that the measurement on the blade of the square from edge of board to corner of square is 6 and 15-16 inches, and the corresponding measurement on the beam of the square is exactly 12 inches, and mark for sawing off the corner as shown in illustration. The same thing is done at the other end of the board as the illustration plainly shows. This method will give the proper angle so that when six of the pieces of cribbing made from this pattern are placed together a perfect hexagon will be formed. It is a good plan to build a frame of several thicknesses of the cribbing to be used as a form in laying out and constructing the foundation.

Pit and Foundation

"Where the drainage and the nature of the soil will permit, it will be economical to dig a pit for the lower part of the silo. It should be kept in mind, however, that silage is heavy material to life and it will not be economical of labor, as a rule, to have the pit deeper than 6 feet. It will usually be found best to build a regular concrete wall from the bottom of the pit to some distance above the surface of the ground or the floor line of the stable. It will be noticed that the wall shown in the diagram extends up on the outside of the first layers of woodwork. This method serves to anchor the upper structure firmly to the base.

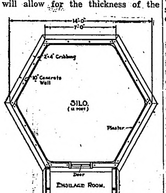
Building the Silo

"In placing the 2x4's on the foundation, each alternate layer is laid so that joints are broken as shown, and each piece is fastened with four 20-penny nails; the nail at each corner passing down through the next lower piece on the adjacent side of the silo. By this method of nailing the whole is securely and rigidly held together.

"It must not be supposed that full length pieces only may be used. On the contrary, short pieces may be worked in to advantage, as all joints will be covered by the plaster coat which is finally applied.

How Doors Are Made

"The doors in the side of the silo are 2x2½ feet in size and placed 2½ feet apart. The door frames should be made of 2x5½-inch lumber as shown in the diagram. The frame should be set in place as the silo is being built and should project three-fourths of an inch both inside and outside of the 2x4's. This projection will allow for the thickness of the plaster and make the frames flush with the finished surface. The doors are 2x10-inch planks sawed 2 feet long. Three pieces just fill the door frame. A cleat is nailed on the door frame the right distance from the inner edge so as to hold the inside of the door planks flush with the inside of the frame. The silage will hold the doors from falling in and the cleat keeps them from falling out.



Ground Plan.

"When the frame work is complete, place the main rafters, one at each of the six corners pointing toward the center, where a fence post 8 inches in diameter and sharpened at the top is used for a center piece. Use one comomn rafter between each two main rafters.

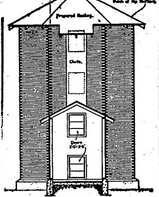
Anchoring

"When the pit wall is being constructed it will add strength to the structure if one end of a piece of fence wire about 30 feet long is cemented securely into the pit wall at each corner. This can be done by fastening any old casting to the end of the fence wire and cementing casting into the wall. These wires should be left in the pit until the rafters are on, then should be brought up in the corners over the rafters at the plate and drawn down for at least 4 to 6 feet and stapled securely to the woodwork. This arrangement will securely anchor the roof to the main structure. A 4-light window frame should be placed where the blower from the cilage cutter is to enter the roof and the rest of the roof should be covered with prepared roofing.

Any Kind of Timber

Speaking of the silo on his place in Beltrami county, J. F. Johnston says, "I used 2x4's from the foundation up. I used mixed timber, poplar, basswood, birch, elm, oak, tamarack and even cedar. It has 10 angles and is 10 feet inside. Last year I put in the concrete foundation of 10 feet, about 8 feet being below the level of the ground. I have now added 6 feet, making the entire height 24 feet. Eight feet of the silo is cribbing. I had no lining or roof last winter and the silage kept fine and was well preserved.

"My first plan was to plaster the 2x4's, but a Park Rapids farmer had tried this and said it cracked and fell off. He sheeted it inside with shiplap running up and down and has made a success of it, and at slight expense. As my silo is 14 feet above the concrete, I tarpapered the walls and then put on shiplap. I will do the same with the outside. This will make the silo appear like a stave silo but it will cost much less and will be warmer.



Front View.
This is an architect's drawing. The completed silo, built by home carpenters, may not look quite so neat. But this is

Works Well Unlined

"A friend of mine here steel-lathed his inside and out and had it plastered both inside and outside and it looked well this fall, no cracks or injuries of any kind from the extremely cold winter we had last season. Naturally, this cost a good deal more and will not keep the silage any better. A silo built here 10 years ago of 2x4's has no lining of any kind and has kept silage in good condition every winter.

"I would advise, if it is possible, to size the 2x4's as it will make a neater job of the work, although rough stuff will do. It is true that the outside of the silage will be spoiled a little where there is no lining.

"As we have stones, gravel and lumber of our own, my cash outlay was small. I did the work with the help of one of my boys. I paid for sawing and finishin gthe lumber, bought cement, nails and tar paper. The cash outlay was for cement, $5.25; 2x4's, $7.00; planing, $6.00; nails and spikes, $4.00; tar paper, $6.00; roofing, $3.50; total, $31.75. The silo was valued this week at $200.00 by an insurance man. I asked him to cut it down to $175.00.

Likes Wood Lining Best

"I noticed this fall that where the inside was plastered it was harder to get the silage to slip down while in my silo, lined with smooth lumber, the silage packed casier and slid down better. So I am in favor of the wood lining for this reason, also. My neighbor's silo, built 10 years ago, does not show the least sign of decay, inside or out. A number of us inspected it last year before we built ours. This was also built of odds and ends, but it was sized.

"By being able to do the work and furnish the material I saved a cash outlay of more than $125.00 so I have just figured up if I had hired masons and carpenters at even $7.00 per day it would have cost me $120.00 more, outside of the excavating and if you should pay city wages for the mechanics you would have to add another $50.00.

"For sawing the 2x4's, we rigged up a sliding table to our saw rig, set it at the correct angle and cut up the lumber in less than an hour's time."

Prefers Plastered Interior

Mr. Smith advises plastering on the inside. In this regard his idea is to begin plastering at the top and work down. He says the first coat should be made of one-fourth lime and sand and three-fourths cement and sand.

He says, "To prepare this, first mix the lime and sand into a good, rich plaster in the usual way. This plaster should contain some plaster hair. About one bushel of hair should be enough for an ordinary silo. Next mix dry 1 part cement with 4 parts of good sharp plaster sand, then wet it enough for plaster. Use about 1 part of the lime plaster with 3 parts of the cement plaster, mix thoroughly and apply to the wall. The lime helps to make the plaster spread better as well as stick better and it will have a greater tendency to give and take with the swell and shrink of the wood than would the cement alone. The first coat should be one-half inch thick. The second coat should be applied at once and should consist of 1 part cement and 2 parts sand. This should be put on one-fourth inch thick and should be finished with brush and trowel. The surface should now be perfectly smooth and when it has dried will be as solid as a stone.

"In putting on the first coat the corners may be filled rather heavily thus rounding them somewhat.

Finishing the Outside

"To finish the outside, one of several coverings may be used. Flooring put on perpendicularly or boards 12 inches wide with battens over the cracks are sometimes used. A cheap, but not durable, covering would be one thickness of prepared roofing fastened with lath. The most durable covering is stucco or plaster, the same as that put on the inside. I have known some of these crib silos to be used for five years before any outside covering was put on."

Mr. Smith suggests that it is not advisable to build the type of silo less than 10 or more than 12 feet in diameter or more than 24 feet high.

Build Higher as Herd Grows.

He suggestts, also, that the man who has a small clearing and a small herd could build his silo on the installment plan and build up his silo as high as he can the first year, but not put on a roof. Then add a few feet the following year and, if need be, not finish it for 3 or 4 years.

In addition to Mr. Johnston and Mr. Smith, other farmers who have this type or silo are William Beeman and H. B. Gilbert of Todd county, August Cederburg of Beltrami county and R. V. Smith of Otter Tail county. According to County Agent Devoracek of Beltrami county, quite a number of these silos have been constructed in his territory.

The plaster is applied directly to the cribbing—no lath being used. In silos in northern Minnesota, for that reason, waney edged pieces, knot holes and lumber sligstly uneven width will serve even better than perfect material. So favorably did this plan strike University Farm folks that they issued a special bulletin on it. It might pay you to send for it. It is Special Bulletin No. 78 to which Northwest Farmstead is indebted for the illustrations herewith.

ALFALFA GROWS IN FAVOR HERE

Farmers in Vicinity to Plant 5,000 Pounds of Seed Next Spring.

That the farmers in this section are rapidly turning to alfalfa as the basic crop is evidenced by the fact that 5000 pounds of alfalfa seed will be shipped in and used by farmers in the vicinity of Middle River this spring, according to C. H. Hutcheson, alfalfa expert, who has spent the past two months investigating the alfalfa situation in this territory.

One of the most hopeful signs for the future prosperity of this section is generally conceded to be the new interest in this phase of farming.

The enthusiastic reception accorded Mr. Hutcheson and Mr. Arneson by four hundred farmers and business men at Middle River recently, and the large number who have indicated their intention of growing alfalfa next year, point to the fact that our section is facing a new era in agricultural devepolment.

Mr. Hutcheson has summed up the case for alfalfa n the following statement: "I never advise farmers to get into live stock until they arrange their farming plans so as to produce the feed and the right (sweet clover for pasture and alfalfa for hay) kind, before they get the live stock. This saves big feed bills. Bankers should help farmers get the right kind of seed and then their farmers will not be begging for more money to buy winter feed.

"Alfalfa hay will give your cows a feed for the winter months that is as near like June grass as anything that can be grown. Alfaifa of the right variety—either Grimm or Cossack—when properly put in will be successful for the grower and many times easier to get started than red clover. You will get twice as much feed per acre from your alfalfa and this is especially true during dry years.

"Many old grain farmers in the Red River Valley who changed to alfalfa instead of all grain a few years ago are prosperous today. If you have no alfalfa on your farm see your banker about getting some good seed this next spring. Grow the best cow feed that it is possible to get for your cows. A ton of alfalfa is equal to a ton of bran. A ton of alfalfa is worth about four tons of timothy hay for cows, hgs or sheep. It is the best of feeds for young stock, becouse it is high in proteins and minerals."

Basket Shooters Lose to Stephen in Fourth Game For Quint During Season

The local high school basketball team played the fourth game of the season Saturday evening and was defeated by Stephen in a close game on the local floor. This was the first home game of the season for the Middle River boys, the three previous games having been played at Stephen, Argyle and Warren. All in all, it was probably the most spectacular contest of the season. Throughout the game it appeared that the two teams were evenly matched, both centering their efforts on a strong defense. The first half ended with neither side having tallied a field goal. Free throws and a basket each secured three points for Middle River and four for Stephen. The Middle River Boys were outweighed and overtopped by the visitors but managed to hold their own in a most admirable manner. Particular mention should be made of the splendid defense ehibited by Clarence Nordlum the diminutive back guard of the local team. The Stephen players, bewildered perhaps by the small floor, put up a good and hard fought game. From the side ilnes and to the uninitiated it was anybody's game and it would seem that the relative difference in the playing ability of the two teams is comparable only to the width of a cat's whisker. The results of the four games already played will not effect the conference standings of the Middle River team owing to the fact that Warren, Argyle and Stephen are members of the state high school conference while Middle River's rating will be determined by the results of games played against members of the state high school department conference. Mr. Haun, coach of the Newfolden high school team, refereed Saturday's game to the general satisfaction to all concerned.

Road Project Launched.

An important road project will be launched early in 1924 when it is intended to grade and level Trunk Highway 32 from the northwest corner of section 15 in the town of Spruce Valley to the southeast corner of section 8 in the town of Holt, according to I. E. Quist, county engineer. The completion of this work, which means that the road from Middle River to Holt will be straightened, is eagerly awaited by the people of this community. The cost will approximate $50,000. A surveying crew from the state highway department under the direction of Walter Schultz, head engineer, is at present completing a survey of the project.

Selling Christmas Seals.

The annual sale of Christmas seals is being conducted this week by the pupils of the Middle River schools at the request of Nels M. Engen, county superintendent of schools. The proceeds from the sale of these seals go to the Minnesota Public Health association and the money thus obtained is used to carry on the campaign against disease. According to a statement recently issued, $747.62 was raised in Marshall county in 1923. This year, in view of the fact that all the schools of the county are back of the movement, it is hoped to exceed the amount raised last year.

To Stage Pageant.

A Christmas pageant will be presented by the pupils of the Middle River schools Wednesday, December 19. An afternoon performance will be given for the children at 2 o'clock and the parents and general public are invited to attend the evening performance which will begin at 8 p.m.

CHRISTMAS SEAL GREAT BLESSING

Patient at Sanatorium Asks That Seals be Purchased Liberally.

The Christmas Seal is only a symbol of the great work which it represents. The wonderful work which is being accomplished in the prevention and cure of disease will surely repay those generous supporters to this cause for the money which they invest in this work.

If the entire population of America could visit the sanatorium devoted to the cure of tuberculosis during December and could receive in this way first hand information of conditions existing there, especially those children and older folks who are for a time confined there to fight their way back to health, and could realize the length of time necessary to affect a cure or become an arrested case, and the extra precautions necessary to prevent a recurrence of the trouble; if this same group of persons could and would learn for themselves and their relatives and friends the proper way to live and avoid disease; if they could understand the large amount of good which is being done in combating disease, they would not hesitate to subscribe double and in many cases triple the amounts subscribed in former years.

Life is sweet and health is one of its greatest assets but it floats away from our grasp when we forget to take care.

The person who will contribute to this cause which is so worthy, which needs and deserves so much the aid of everyone who is able to assist, if even only a few pennies, will be a real Santa Claus to those thousands of children and older folks as well who are fighting their way to life and health and loved ones and who are needing the cheer he can give, and mankind will be a little better for his having passed this way.

TREASURY NOTE OF NEW SERIES

Local Postoffice Now Has Latest Government Security on Sale.

An offering of Treasury Savings Certificates, to be known as the issue of December 1, 1923, were put on sale at the Thief River Falls postoffice last Saturday, according to Postmaster Daniel Shaw. The new certificates will be issued in denominations of $25, $100 and $1000 (maturity vaue), at the following prices: $20 for the $25 certificates; $80 for the $100 certificates, and $800 for the $1000 certificates.

Apart from the selling prices, the new certificates well correspond, in all essential respects to the certificates now on sale. Each certificate matures five years from the date of issue but may be redeemed at the option of the holder at any time after the date of issue, at the value indicated on the back of the certificate. The certificates are issued only in registered form in order to afford protection against loss and theft, and are exempt from the Normal Federal Income Tax and from all state and local taxation (except estate and inheritance taxes). The aggregate amount of Treasury Savings Certificates of any one series that may be held by any one person at any one time is limited to $5,000 (maturity value), and for this purpose certificates issued within any one calendar year, whatever the issue or the issue price, constitute one series. The new certificates will be on sale at about 40,000 post offices throughout the country beginning December 1, 1923 and they may also be obtained at Federal Reserve banks and branches, or such banks and other agencies as may qualify for the purpose, and mail applications addressed to the treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., will receive prompt attention. This new offering, which is being made in connection with the redemption and exchange of about $60,000,000 of War Savings certificates, Series of 1919, which mature on January 1, 1924, will afford the holders of the maturing certificates an opportunity to continue their investment in an attractive government security, and should further encourage thrift among small investors.

Christmas in the Country.

Christmas in the farm homes and in the rural schools! What memories it brings to thousands of men and women in crowded cities as well as in the open country. The spirit of making others happy is abroad in the land. At this happy time our main objective is to add to the joy of the Christmas season for our boys and girls may we not also take stock of the kind of permanent service we are giving our children in providing for their future welfare and happiness, especially for their education? Houses and lands, money and jewels, may be of temporary endurance. Good health, a trained mind, and a sound, moral inheritance are treasures stored where moth can not enter nor rust destroy. The best Christmas gift any community can give its children is an efficient school, one which assures in so far as it is humanly possible the spiritual and intellectual training that prepares them for the "good life."

School trustees and parents, why not, when you go to a Christmas program at your school house, look abut you carefully, see that the school building is sanitary, comfortable, and convenient for its purpose. Desks must be occupied five hours a day by school children; eyes must be used day after day; sanitary conveniences should be adequate. If these things are not satisfactory the children need a new school building for a Christmas present. The Christmas vacation is a good time to make necessary repairs, to remodel unsuitable buildings, or to arouse sentiment for a new one.

A soft, narrow comforter and pillow to match, made of sateen (or other material) and bound with fancy braid or ribbon, is a lovely gift, especially for old people. Black sateen with cretonne figures appliqued is very handsome.

Did You Ever Stop to Think—

That the farmer is considered our most thrifty citizen?

That he is a close buyer on everything he purchases for home, farm and personal use?

That as a rule he buys the best or that which is represented to be the best?

That he is a great reader of all the merchandise offerings in newspapers and catalogs?

That he likes to read about the new and better things in merchandise and know the goods he buys?

That he feels safer in knowing that his money will be refunded promptly if he is not satisfied?

That over ninety-five per cent of the mail order buying of the country is done by the farmer?

That the secret of the mail order houses' success is simply persistent follow-up advertising?

That this persistent follow-up advertising is the life blood of the mail order business?

That it will pay every home merchant to study the mail order catalog carefully?
turing leaders is one which the home merchant could easily and successfully adopt?

That the home merchant who wants to compete successfully with the mail order house must learn to advertise persistently?

That persistent newspaper advertising, together with good descriptive copy, is the proven means of combating mail order competition in your community?

By a continued use of advertising you keep up a constant acquaintance with the buying public; you popularize your store and the goods you sell; and you can verify the good business judgment of persistent advertising any time you care to look at the figures in your bank book and compare them with the period in which you did not advertise.

Remember: The mail order houses have no better bargains than you have, yet they will make sales by their persistent advertising, as against you who won't if you don't. E. R. Waite.

Rules to Observe.

An important statement is issued this week and given out for patrons of the local postoffice by Postmaster Daniel Shaw, bearing on the mailing of Christmas gifts. First consideration, as usual, is to mail these parcels early so as to avoid the rush of the last two weeks and thereby clog up the machinery of the department, equipped to take care of normal business the year round. The statement of the postmaster, which should be carefully noted by every person contemplating the use of this means for mailing Christmas gifts, is as follows:

In arranging for handling your mail during the approaching holiday season attention is again called to the importance of obtaining your co-operation in the preparation and mailing of your Christmas parcels and other matter. To this end we urge the patrons of this office to observe the conditions enumerated below and emphasize the fact that compliance therewith will not only be helpful to the postal service in facilitating the prompt handling, dispatch and delivery of your mail, but will result in more satisfactory service to the advantage of all concerned.

1. Address all matter plainly and completely, giving street address whenever possible.
2. Place sender's name and address in upper left corner of address side.
3. Pack parcels carefully in strong, durable cantainers.
4. Wrap parcels securely, but do not seal them except when bearing a printed label or indorsement: "Contents: Merchandise, fourth class mail. Postmaster: This parcel may be opened for inspection if necessary," as sealed parcels not so labeled or endorsed are subject to postage at the latter rate.
5. Parcels may be marked "Do not open until Christmas."
6. Insure valuable parcels.
7. Do not enclose letters with parcels, as doing so would subject entire parcels to letter postage.
8. Written greetings such as "Merry Christmas," "Happy New Year," "With Best Wishes," and names, or symbols for the purpose of description may be enclosed with 4th class mail. Books may bear simple dedicatory inscription not of a personal nature.
10. Communication prepaid at first class rate may be sent with parcels prepaid at the fourth-class rate by securely attaching the envelopes containing the letter or other written matter on outside of parcels.
11. Mail your parcels early, and they will be given immediate attention. Do not wait for Christmas day. Mail several weeks before Christmas.

If your parcels are mailed as stated above you will not experience any loss or delay and they will reach their destination on time and in first class condition. This office thanks you for the co-operation you will give, and promises to give you the best possible service.

The world gets most of its trouble from folks who take themselves too seriously. How much better it is to be able to take a joke.

CLAIMS FARMER CUTS THROAT IN LEAVING CO-OP.

Gary Man Shows Farmers Lose by Selling Cream to Centralizers

Says Co-operative Creamery Only Means of Holding Up Prices.

The following communication, written by a Norman county farmer and appearing in a recent issue of the Gary Praphic, contains so much common sense that The Tribune takes pleasure in reproducing it for the benefit of its readers:

Editor Gary Graphic: Kindly permit me space in your paper for the following discussion on Our Co-operative creamery.

A great many complaints are heard every day regarding the prices paid us farmers for our products. Various causes are given for the very low prices paid us farmers for our products but the one most frequently heard is, that, "The prices are 'fixed' or 'manipulated' by 'BIG BIZ' and LARGE CORPORATIONS." Different remedies are offered, such as, government price fixing and co-op. marketing by the farmers.

The latter method has been tried out in the different parts of the country with various degrees of success, depending usually upon how well the farmers will work together. When the farmers will all work together there can be no question about the success of co-op. enterprises.

The co-operative creameries of Minnesota have placed this state foremost in butter manufacture, in the Union, both in quality and quantity of product. The farmers of Minnesota because of our Co-op. creameries have been and are being paid from five to fifteen cents more for their butterfat, than the farmers in states where they have none or few Co-op. creameries.

We, here, at Gary, have one of the oldest if not the oldest Co-op. creameries in northern Minnesota, which has been successful according to the degree of patronage it has receieved at the hands of us farmers.

But, the ONE THING that has puzzled me a great deal and which I am unable to understand (as well as the thing that has caused me to write this article). "WHY ARE SO MANY OF OUR FARMERS TRIBUTARY TO GARY NOT PATRONIZING OUR OWN FARMERS' CREAMERY? But are marketing their butterfat with the Centralizers or the 'BIG BIZ' in dairying.

I have taken the time and pains to investigate a little, to ascertain the prices paid in the Gary cream stations and the number of cans shipped out during the month of July, using the average test of the cream at the creamery as a basis. There were more than 10,000 pounds of butterfat sold by Gary farmers to Centralizers for the month of July alone. The cream stations at Gary paid 33c for butterfat for 18 days, 34c for 5 days and 35c for 3 days or an average for the month of July of 33.4c per pound of butterfat. OUR creamery at Gary paid 41½ cents per pound for butterfat for the month of July or 8 and one-tenth cents more per pound than did the cream stations, amounting to a donation of $810.00 dollars for one month only, to BIG BIZ.

How we farmers, who many of us are almost facing bankruptcy, can afford to donate this large sum of money to the ones, who are reported as responsible for the price fixing and low prices paid the farmers is beyond my understanding.

It appears to me, "That, we farmers are not honest with ourselves or true to our own convictions, when we shout about Big Business robbing us, and at the same time sell our butterfat for $810.00 less, for one month alone than our own business would have paid us. Besides this, had the 10,000 pounds of butterfat which was shipped out been marketed through our creamery, it could have paid at least three cents more for all the butterfat than it did amounting to another $300 dollars on the 10,000 lbs. of fat shipped out, and $257.70 for the fat sold at the creamery making a total loss to the Gary farmers of $1367.70.

Is it at all strange that we farmers are hard up, when we use such business sense in marketing our products of the farm?

What must others think of us when they hear us TALK but see us PRACTICE the very thing we so strongly condemn?

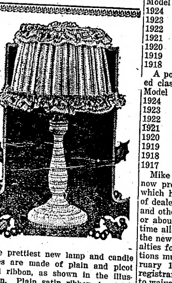
Signed, A. Gary Creamery Patron.

For Dressing Table



The prettiest new lamp and candle shades are made of plain and picot edged ribbon, as shown in the illustration. Plain satin ribbon, in strips set together with narrow beading, and laid in shallow plaits, forms the shade, finished with ruffles of picot and plain ribbon. The lamp standard is also covered with the plain ribbon, scantily shirred and sewed row on row. This is a dainty and elegant gift suited to a boudoir reading stand or dressing table.

On the square now, when you say bitter things about other people, it doesn't leave a very pleasant taste in your mouth, does it?

Job was a patient man—but he never had to listen to a couple of sweet young things talk about their "gentlemen" friends.

Note that a horse named "Barber," running on an eastern track, had a close shave in a recent race.

NEW AUTO TAX; HOW IT WORKS

New Method of Taxing Vehicles Indicates Raise, Says Secretary.

The amendment of the motor vehicle registration law which changes the rate will become effective January 1. The rate is increased from 2 per cent under the present law to 2¾ per cent under the new law. Motor vehicle owners, especially those who have newer models, will notice this change in rate through the higher tax that they will have to pay.

Model	New Rate	Old Rate
1924	$27.50	$20.00
1923	24.75	20.00
1922	22.00	20.00
1921	19.25	15.00
1920	16.50	15.00
1919	15.00	15.00

Model	New Rate	Old Rate
1924	$55.00	$40.00
1923	49.50	40.00
1922	44.00	40.00
1921	38.50	30.00
1920	33.00	30.00
1919	27.50	20.00
1918	22.00	20.00
1917	16.50	20.00

Under the present law a list price of $600 is the highest that will permit a minimum tax of $12. Under the new law $435 is the highest list price that will allow a minimum of $12. This will result in a change of classification for 1924 so that many cars that have carried the "A" number plates this year will next year carry "B" plates.

Under the new law, the 1924 tax will be based on the factory list price in effect November 1, 1923 for all corresponding models similar to those still being manufactured. Thru this change on account of the 10 per cent depreciation allowed for each of the first seven years of the motor vehicle life, there will be a gradual decrease corresponding with the age of the car. The effect is well illustrated in the following tables:

A popular medium priced car:

Model	New Rate	Old Rate
1924	$24.20	$17.60
1923	21.78	17.60
1922	19.36	17.60
1921	16.94	19.70
1920	15.00	19.28
1919	15.00	16.28
1918	15.00	15.00

Model	New Rate	Old Rate
1924	$82.09	$59.70
1923	71.40	57.70
1922	63.47	63.00
1921	55.54	78.80
1920	47.60	59.10
1919	39.67	52.35
1918	31.74	29.70
1917	23.80	22.40

Mike Holm, Secretary of State, is now preparing the 1924 rate book, which he hopes to have in the hands of dealers, bankers, registers of deeds, and others who may apply for one, on or about the 25th of December. The time allotted for re-registration under the new law is reduced. To avoid penalties for delayed registration, aplications must be made on or before February 15. Under the new law the registrar has absolutely no authority to waive penalties and there can therefore be no extension of time. Penalties will begin on February 16 at the rate of 25c a day for the first 20 days and $2 a month thereafter for each month or fraction thereof not to exceed 5 months. This means a total maximum possible of $15 for delayed registration.

The closer some folks get to you the "closer" you see they are.

PEOPLE PLEDGED TO AID ORPHANS

Will Observe "Golden Rule" Sunday by Eating Inexpensive Foods.

Thousands of Minnesotans already have pledged to observe the Golden Rule Sunday by substituting an "orphanage" dinner of inexpensive foods for their regular Sunday dinner—in this way to save money to help swell the orphanage fund of the Near East Relief. Pledge cards from individuals and organizations all over the state have been received in quantities daily in the Near East relief district office, C. F. Jackman, director, announced.

Rotary clubs all over Minnesota have pledged their support to the observance. O. B. McClintock, district governor of the Rotary club, has written all clubs in the northwest territory asking the members to observe Golden Rule Sunday. A. E. Pickard, district governor of the Kiwanis club, has taken the same action to recruit the support of the Kiwanis clubs. Special "Golden Rule" lunches will be served by many Kiwanis clubs including Mankato and Duluth, also by the Lions' clubs of Northfield and Brainerd, at their regular weekly meetings.

The churches all over the state are spreading the evangel of the "Golden Rule dinner" among their congregations. At Racine, the Methodist church has invited its "church members and church friends" to a Golden Rule dinner to be served in the church Sunday evening.

The first pledge card to be signed in Minnesota, promising to observe Golden Rule Sunday as a day of sacrifice, was signed by Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul. Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg will dine on "orphanage" fare Sunday in common with millions of other persons who have pledged their support to the 100,000 Near East orphans supported by world charity.

Augsberg Seminary, in Minneapolis, will have an orphanage dinner for the entire school Sunday evening. The number of students attending will be approximately 125.

All banks throughout the state have been authorized to accept contributions which will be forwarded to the Near East relief office, 100 North Seventh street, Minneapolis.

One of the main troubles with the world today is that there are too many people talking about the main troubles.

Minnesota Wheat Growers Association Making Rapid Progress in Big Campaign

MANY MEETINGS HELD; BUSINESS MEN GIVE THE ORGANIZATION SUPPORT

Recent Meetings in Both Northern and Southern Part of the State Bring Out Almost Unanimous Support of Minnesota Farmer and Business Men For Co-operative Marketing of Wheat.

The Minnesota Wheat Growers Cooperative Marketing association, a unit of the American Wheat Growers Associated, Inc., and one of the organizations which has a drive on to control the 1924 wheat crop, is making rapid progress in Minnesota as evidenced by the marketing agreements which are arriving at Thief River Falls, the home office of the associataion.

Minnesota, with eleven other states, is organizing the grain growers under the new co-operative marketing law, and along the lines of the successful tobacco, cotton and other national commodity marketing associations, with the end in view of signing up enough marketing agreements among the growers to control the 1924 wheat crop. The states in which the associations are organized and lined up in the national drive are Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Colorado, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Minnesota Leading.

Minnesota is leading the other states a fast pace, and at the present rate the farmers are joining, this state will have control of the next year's crop in the hands of its association before a bushel of Minnesota wheat is harvested. It is the aim of the association in each state to secure at least 50 per cent of the acreage before the next harvest, enough to control the price. This will put the wheat grower on an equal footing in marketing of his wheat, J. W. Brinton declared in a recent growers' meeting in Lac Qui Parle county, with the Standard Oil company in marketing oil, the U. S. Steel company in marketing steel and the American Federation of Labor in marketing labor.

"It is not necessary to have all the wheat of the country pooled in order to control the market," said Mr. Brinton who is doing field work for the Minnesota unit. The Dawson Sentinel, of which Theodore Christianson is editor, further quoted Mr. Brinton as saying that, "The Standard Oil company, controlling about one half the production, fixes the price of all oil. When the Standard raises the price the independents follow because they want to; when the Standard reduces the price the independents follow because they have to."

Price To Be Set By Grower.

The man in charge of the national drive, as well as those in charge in Minnesota, expect to dominate the market in a like manner within a year. "Those who do not sign up with the association and dump their wheat on the market will receive only the speculators' price as heretofore, but later on when the national organization sets a fair price, all the speculators and others holding wheat will demand the price asked by the association, just as the small oil dealers ask the same price set by the Standard, and thus a price on wheat will be set by the growers for the first time in the history of wheat growing," said a prominent official of the Minnesota association.

Many Meetings Held.

According to reports from newspapers over the state the men in charge of the Minnesota drive have recently held meetings at St. Vincent, Argyle, Hallock, Lancaster, Fisher, Clearbrook, Twin Valley, Flom, Beltrami, Halstead, Ada, Campbell, Wheaton, Graceville, Chokio, Morris, Clinton, Ortonville, Odessa, Madison, Dawson, Monteviedo, Watsen, Appleton, Milan, Kerkhaven, Benson, Roseau and Greenbush.

At the meeting in Greenbush, Mr. Brinton, who is the principal speaker for the Minnesota drive, presented a resolution to the meeting carrying the endorsement of the association by every business man and bank in Greenbush, which was unanimously passed by the farmers present.

Wheat a Necessity.

At the meeting, according to the Greenbush Tribune, Mr. Brinton said in part:

"There are two fundamental products needed throughout the world, in every human activity—needed by the old and the babe of the human family—they are steel and wheat."

"These products," he said, "are needed in time of war and peace. "The first thing that the Red Cross asks for in time of famine is flour and it is carried to the needy over steel rails, on steel trains, and in steel boats. These products are the foundation of all our activities."

Mr. Brinton pointed out that all iron and metal products are priced and influenced by the price of steel and all grains are influenced by the price of wheat. High priced steel means high priced tin spoons, dishpans, pitchforks and tractors and high priced wheat means higher priced corn, rye, oats and other grain foods.

Wheat Cheaper Food.

"Wheat is the cheapest food to give to the poor, when it is $3.00 per bushel and whole wheat bread will sustain the human body, without other food, longer than any other food known to man. There is only one other necessity which we must buy or give in furnishing the steel and wheat to the world, aside from the land which produces both, and that is labor."

Steel Organized.

"Steel is organized, both as to production and distribution, and the price has been stabilized from time to time by the big men who represent steel at boards of director's meetings and the price has been raised from time to time, and binders, plows, tractors and other equipment needed to produce wheat have gone up in proportion. Even in time of war, the steel men made their demands and secured more profit in a national crisis because they knew that the world must have steel, and, being organized, they set the price to give them more profit."

Labor Organized.

Labor is organized and the price of labor is set by the big men who represent labor; the price of labor is stabilized from time to time by the meeting of labor boards, paid representatives of the different classes of labor and the wages have been raised from time to time. Even in time of war, labor made its demands, raised the price and had congress pass a law —the eight hour law on railroads—in a national crisis when labor was necessary, and the farmers are now compelled to pay a higher wage for labor on the farm.

Farmer Unorganized

"But what happened to wheat?" Mr. Brinton queried. Answering it, he said: "Each farmer is going it alone, unorganized, depending upon his friends, and dumping his wheat upon the market and crying 'what will you give me, what will you give me; protesting, complaining, and calling upon his friends for help while wheat speculators and dealers represented the farmer for 'a dollar a day' at Washington when the price of wheat was knocked down from over $3.00 a bushel to nearly $2.00 a bushel while everything else was going up. That's what your 'friends' did for you."

Help Yourself.

"God helps those who help themselves, as the saying goes, and if you wait for your friends to help you, while you continue to cry, 'what will you give me, what will you give me,' you will soon be down on a level with the peasant farmer of Europe. There are only two roads open to you—one to prosperity, through the 'I will' spirit, organization, taking hold of your own market and price fixing and independence with power on a level with organized labor and organized steel, with $2.00 wheat and at that price producting the cheapest food in the world—or take the other road."

Business Men Assist.

"For a recent meeting at Montevideo," said W. H. Frederick, secretary of the Minnesota association, the business men and banks donated the opera house, three pages of advertising in their newspapers and large posters to get a crowd out, and when our representative spoke there in the evening, following the big afternoon meeting, before the business men's association every business man present signed a resolution endorsing co-operative marketing. The resolution also carried the name of a representative of each of the four banks of Montevideo."

Halls and Advertising Donated,

"This gives you," continued Mr. Frederick, "a good idea how the business men of Minnesota are backing the organization of the wheat co-operatives and what I have just said regarding to Montevideo applies proctically to every town in which meetings have been held. Halls and newspaper advertising to get crowds out to hear the gospel of co-operative marketing are freely donated by the townspeople who see the benefit that will come to their respective communities through proper marketing of farm products and higher price for farmers' crops."

1000 Contracts in Polk.

"We have a thousand contracts signed in Polk county," continued Mr. Frederick, "which is the largest wheat producing county in the state. Big Stone, one of the smallest counties in the state, has sent in about 300 marketing agreements and more are coming in every week. Stevens county, where the drive is still on, is nearing 400 members, Swift county about the same and Lac Qui Parle, with half the county canvassed, sent in over 400."

From Canadian Line South.

The organization, according to Mr. Frederick, commensed in Kittson, Marshall and Polk, and every county to the south through the western part of the state to Chippewa and Lac Qui Parle, where field men are now working south, have responded wonderfully, and the farmers are showing less hesitency as the work progresses. In most cases local farmers are taking the work into their own hands and assisting in getting their neighbors to sign marketing agreements. They see the necessity of getting the work

NATIONAL BANKERS ASSOCIATION ENDORSE COOPERATIVE MARKETING

On October 30th, in national convention, the agricultural commission of the American Bankers Association, after two hours of spirited debate, passed by a unanimous vote, a resolution endorsing the "orderly marketing of crops and the cooperative marketing idea. The resolution was presented and supported by bankers from the southern states where cotton, rice and other southern crops are successfully marketed cooperatively.

"Biggest Farmer in the World" Joins Wheat Pool

Believing that the co-operative pooling movement now developing to the point of obtaining control of the wheat market is the greatest movement now before the American farmers, Thomas D. Campbell, of Hardin, Montana, sends in a letter of commendation and cordial good will to the management of the Montana Wheat Growers' Association. Mr. Campbell is president of the Campbell Farming Corporation of Hardin, and is actively engaged in farming 110,000 acres—with a crop this season of approximately 500,000 bushels of wheat. He is an enthusiastic member of the advisory committee of business men and bankers who will help direct the big drive for control of the wheat market. His letter is as follows:

"Mr. Dwight R. Cresap, president, "Montana Wheat Growers' Association,

"Lewiston, Montana.

"Dear Mr. Cresap:

"I have given considerable thought to the things we discussed at your joint meeting of the Board of Directors and the members of the Advisory Committee and 'am more pleased than ever that you asked me to serve on this committee.

I feel certain it has given me an opportunity to help in the greatest movement now before the American farmer and my trip to Lewiston has convinced me that the Wheat Growers are nearer to a successful national pool than they have ever been before.

"It pleases me to meet your associates and I came home satisfied. There is absolutely no question in my mind as to the integrity and character of the men responsible for the pool operations in this state. Your selling cost of less than 1-2c per bushel is about one-third of the regular commission charge and your total operating expenses of .018c for administration, selling, etc., is very low under present operating conditions and this cost will automatically be reduced as you handle more bushels. I can easily see where you will reduce your direct charges by following out your plan of more terminal storage and better loading facilities, but all members must realize that it costs to store wheat no matter who stores it. I learned a great deal at your meeting, but what pleased me more than anything else was the sincerity of the men and the fair and the reasonable way in which each man expressed himself. By no stretch of imagination could any of them be called a radical. I think this fair attitude toward the other fellow is one of the reasons of your success and will be one great reason why the national pool will succeed.

The more I think of a national pool the more I become impressed that it will not only mean better prices for the farmer, but it will also simplify the marketing of grain and be of equal advantage to the grain buyers.

"With very good wishes for your success, I am, with a great deal of appreciation and sincerity.

Cordially yours,
"THOMAS D. CAMPBELL."

NO REAL SURPLUS

Wheat will keep. Up to date there has never been such a thing as a real surplus of wheat in the world.—Country Gentleman.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS SET PRICE

The Minneapolis Journal recently carried an associated press dispatch stating that the board of directors of the California Peach and Apricot Growers association held a meeting in Fresno, Cal., and raised the price of peaches on all classes three-quarters of a cent a pound, or 18 cents per 25 pound box. Peaches are raised in many states but the Peach Growers association set the price on peaches. In the near future the board of directors of the American Wheat Growers will be doing what the peach growers are now doing—putting a price tag on wheat. The wheat buyer is now doing it. The peach buyer did it once, but not any more.

Has Plan To Present To President and Congress to Assist Wheat Growers of United States In Securing Price For American Wheat.

George C. Jewett, general manager of the American Wheat Growers Associated, representing nine wheat cooperative marketing associations and the biggest figure in wheat co-operative marketing in America, is at Washington on the job in the interests of the American wheat and grain grower.

He is not only the general manager of the biggest co-operative selling agency in America but is also a member of the national or so called Lowden committee which is assisting in the national drive to organize and control the 1924 wheat crop in the hands of the wheat grower.

Millions of bushels of Canadian wheat are pouring into the United States, the American farmer is losing money on his wheat, the Liverpool price, the price set by the biggest wheat speculators in the world is dominating the American market while the organized business industry and organized labor are selling their products on the American market without regard to world prices.

This is the situation which Mr. Jewett has to deal with at Washington and which is bringing forth the protestations of the entire farm population of America. The American Wheat Growers have a plan which will be presented to the president and the congress to put the American farmer on an equal basis with labor and business, and give the wheat grower an American price for wheat, based on an American standard of living, an American cost of production, and an American market without regard to Liverpool.

If Mr. Jewett had back of him 4,000,000 organized American farmers his demands would be met without debate. 100,000 wheat growers are back of Mr. Jewett and if the present congress does not give the assistance to co-operative marketing, Mr. Jewett will be at the next congress as the representative of the majority of the wheat growers of the nation. It is up to the farmers to perfect such an organization as backs up Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor when he appears before congress for legislation to protect American labor. There are 4,000,000 laboring men back of Gompers.

The farmers have still fresh in their mind the demands of Mr. Gompers at Washington which brought to the working man immigration laws which kept out of this country the cheap labor of Europe, which prevents farm and other labor from coming into this country from the countries of the old world.

The farmer is entitled to the same consideration the business industry and organized labor has secured. The only way the farmer can secure this consideration is to organize and take charge of his own business and back up his own representatives. He must employ his own representatives as other organizations do, as the steel industry does, as the clothing industry does, as the labor organization does and as the packing industry and the milling industry do.

Steel has its high prices and Pittsburgh Plus. Clothing has its organization and high tariff. Labor has its high wages and immigration law. The packers have organization and profits. The milling industry have their milling in transit and milling in bond privileges.

The grain farmer is going to have his organization, the control of his product and a profit on his production. And he is going to have the American government give him the assistance and protection that it has given to other groups.

Mr. Jewett is on the job at Washington for that purpose. More power to him and more farmers behind him. The American farmer is going to do the job as the other fellows have done it, and secure a decent American market for his products—which the other fellows have done—without regard to Liverpool, Hong Kong or Argentine.

The grain trade to the contrary nothwithstanding.

About two months ago a committee was organized at Kerkhoven, Minnesota, to investigate all farm organizations entering that county. When the Minnesota Wheat Growers Cooperative Marketing association entered Swift county, the committee called before it a representative of this association with a view of learning first hand the plans and methods of pooling and marketing wheat.

The committee also investigated other cooperative associations organized along the same lines, and after nearly two months' inquiry it made public its report on this and other farm organizations.

"The interests of the farmer, businessman and banker are common and co-ordinate, therefore we recommend that bankers and businessmen encourage and give their active, and if necessary, financial support to the cause of promotion of co-operative marketing enterprises," says the report in part.

And in speaking of the Minnesota wheat association, the report says: "The plan of the Minnesota Wheat Growers Co-Operative Marketing Association is worthy of our support and encouragement, because it fully embodies the sound and practical fundamental principle of co-operative marketing," and to this the committee adds recommendations wherein they believe the association could be made stronger and have a more material influence on the market.

In speaking of the binding agreement which the grower signs, this committee says in part on this feature of co-operative marketing:

In order that a co-operative marketing association may function effectively, it must be governed by iron clad rules and regulations and no wheat grower should hesitate to join such association because of such existing rigid rules and regulations. It is the essential method for a successful co-operative marketing system. It is not a new experiment. The compulsory pooling contract is the one that has proven so successful in California. The wheat growers have merely patterned their organization after those of previous existence for other farm commodities and which organizations have proven successful.

Such recommendations as the committee made regarding the contract and other matters of interest to members of the association will no doubt be a subject of discussion and a matter to be decided by the members themselves, as all matters of fundamental differences of opinion must be settled.

The committee also commended all organizations encouraging and promoting co-operative marketing.

ABBOTT IS PRESIDENT STATE COUNTY AGENTS

M. M. Abbott of Koochiching county was elected president of the Minnesota County Agents' association, at its annual meeting last week. Mr. Abbott succeeds L. O. Jacob of Anoka. E. M. orblan of Steele county was elected vice president and W. E. Watson of Dakota county, secretary. The president, secretary and a number of other agents will attend the International Livestock show and the annual meeting of the national County Agents' association at Chicago next week.

MINNESOTA DELEGATION TO BUREAU CONVENTION

The official Minnesota delegation to the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation at Chicago, Dec. 10 to 12, will be made up of J. F. Reed, president and J. S. Jones, secretary. S. E. Elliott, director of publicity also will attend. President Reed will go in advance of the delegation, to attend a meeting of the national executive board on Dec. 7. It is expected that many Minnesotans will be at the convention, especially those who go to the International Livestock show the week previous.

The wheat co-operatives are financed by two sources. Farmers are advanced 75 per cent of the value of the wheat at the time of delivery. This money is secured from the Intermediate Credit Banks, established by the last congress, and the big banks in the larger cities that make a business offinancing grain on warehouse receipts.

WHAT THE COURTS SAY

Milwaukee Journal.

The unanimous decision of the Wisconsin supreme court upholding the validity of the Northern Wisconsin tobacco pool will be read with interest throughout farming communities. For the decision not only sustains the principle of co-operative marketing by farmers, but it goes farther and by permanent injunction restrains a campaign that the court declared was aimed to create discontent and dissatisfaction among members of the pool and bring about the marketing agency's dissolution.

A court in Illonis has held that a voluntary co-operation association may recover damages from an individual member who jumps the contract he has signed to deliver his commodity to the pool for group selling. Secretary Mellon a few days ago ruled that an association or corporation without capital stock, organized by a group of farmers for the purpose of selling co-operatively, is a separate entity and stands in the same contractual relationship with the grower as any other dealer in leaf tobacco In other words, a co-operative association is like any other business capable of suing members who do not fulfill contracts, and of being sued for failure to live up to its contracts.

So the Wisconsin court now applies the established rule of law that "one who maliciously induces another to breach of contract of a third person for damage resulting from such breach." The third person in this case was a farmers' marketing pool. Co-operative marketing in Wisconsin at least, is put on a firm legal basis. Such organizations must be responsible to laws pertaining to commercial intercourse, and must be protected by these laws if co-operative agencies are to be more than debating forums.

Sen. Magnus Johnson Demands Protective Cooperative Laws

In a recent interview given to the Minneapolis Journal representative at Washington, Senator Magnus Johnson of Minnesota said:

"The farmers expect the government to give them the protection they need from those who are trying to exploit them. I see a good many people down here are promising to give the farmers more credit. We don't need more credit. With the federal farm loan board and the joint stock land banks and the war finance corporation and the credit machinery established by the congress and the state rural credit systems the farmers have more credit than they can use. What we need is a price for what we produce. Give us a fair price and we won't need anything else."

"Do you mean a price fixed by the government?" the senator was asked.

"No", replied Mr. Johnson. "We want to make the price ourselves. What we want is the right to pool our products and hold them for a higher price."

"Co-ops." Need Protection.

The senator was reminded that agricultural co-operatives are enabled to pool products now without violation of the Sherman antitrust act, under the terms of an act of the last congress, and he was asked whether he thought additional legislation necessary.

"Well, perhaps not for that purpose," said Mr. Johnson. "The legislation the co-operatives need is for their protection from their enemies. The grain companies and dairy companies are trying to ruin the farmers' co-operatives right now. They go out and offer the farmers more for their grain and milk than the co-operatives can pay until they can put the co-operatives out of business and have it their own way, when they put the price down to rock bottom again and screw up profits sky high.

"These grain exchange speculators who are swindling the farmers and grabbing off unreasonable profits had better look out," said the Senator.

A Question to Answer

The Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce in a paid advertisement printed in many Minnesota papers says the state cooperative wheat marketing association DOES NOT AGREE TO PAY ANY DEFINITE PRICE for thfie farmers wheat. Therefore, Mr. Farmer, don't sign a cooperative marketing agreement. A pretty good reason for not joining your wheat association. But, let's ask the Chamber of Commerce a question.

QUESTION: What DIFINITE PRICE DO YOU AGREE TO PAY THE FARMER FOR NEXT YEAR'S WHEAT CROP? OR THE NEXT FIVE YEARS?

Please publish the answer in a page advertisement in the same papers that published your "Questions and Answers" against co-operative marketing.

Senator Ladd Pledges Support to Cooperative

"My recent visit to Europe showed me that Denmark is the most prosperous and substantial country in Europe today, and I am convinced that it is due to the system of co-operative marketing, which has been reduced to an exact science in that country." This statement was made by the Honorable Senator E. F. Ladd, in a recent address in Grand Forks, held under the auspices of the local Trades and Labor Assembly.

Senator Ladd had a limited time in which to speak, and he told his audience that the purpose of his visit was not primarily to boost co-operative marketing, but that he would do that first and rather let the rest of his address suffer.

Geo. E. Duis, president of the North Dakota Wheat Growers Association, was also called upon to speak, and when he left the floor, Senator Ladd pledged himself to do everything in his power to promote legislation at the coming session of congress in behalf of the wheat co-operatives.

Acreage Now Under Contract Passes 70,000, Records Show.

The new Minnesota Potato Growers' Exchange, now being organized last week became the largest potato co-operative in United States, in point of acreage signed. Official records show that more than 70,000 acres have been contracted by the association's 4,400 members. The gross acreage is growing at the rate of more than 1,000 a day.

With the 70,000 acre goal passed, the movement leads the Maine Potato Growers' Exchange in acreage signed. The Maine co-operative, up to the present, has been the largest organization of potato growers in the United States, having 3,800 members with 65,000 acres under contract.

In any state, other than Minnesota, 70,000 acres would qualify the movement under the 50 per cent of the commercial acreage clause in the contract, according to S. G. Rubinow, campaign manager. However, the movement still has a lot of acreage to sign up before the contracts can be made effective. To impress upon members the necessity of singing up every acre possible, the general state committee last week sent a special appeal to those interested in the movement and the response is excellent, Mr. Rubinow says.

The movement in North Dakota is making satisfactory progress, according to C. H. Morgan, in charge. A state committee, made up of growers, bankers and business men has been formed and county committees will be at work this week, he says.

Becker county, which ranks with the largest potato growing counties in Minnesota, will be first among those needing more than 5,000 acres, to complete its quota. Farmers in that county are within 200 of their goal of 8,000 acres, according to Walter Oby of Detroit, treasurer of the state committee.

As we talk about law and order let us not forget the second great law of the world: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Directors of Minnesota Wheat Growers Meet and Elect Directors

Two Directors Resign To Make Room For Representation On Board For Southern Counties.—Ed. Hagen and Bert Huse Selected.

The directors of the Minnesota Wheat Growers' Co-operative Marketing association held a meeting in the Thief River Falls office on December 4, for the purpose of electing two directors and transacting such other business as was necessary in the conduct of the association's regular business. Wm. J. Brown, president of the American Wheat Growers and general counsel for the Minnesota association was present at the meeting which was presided over by Jorgen Eide, president of the association.

When the association was organized it was understood that some of the incorporators acting as directors would resign as soon as the membership warranted the selecting of men to represent all territory organized. With this understanding A. P .Bengtson of Warren, and A. E. Blilie of Comstock, sent in their resignations to make room for men from territory not represented on the board.

Bert Huse, of Campbell, and Edward Hagen, of Milan, were elected directors to fill these vacancies and the board of directors now represent all sections of the state where organization work has been done. The present board are:

Jorgen Eide, Thief River Falls.
D. Surprenant, E. Grand Forks.
Ole O. Sageng, Dalton.
F. Derosier, Red Lake Falls.
W. B. Bosworth, Ada.
J. A. Sorum, Helt.
Edward Hagen, Milan.
Bert Huse, Campbell.

These men are all actual or "dirt" farmers. Mr. Hagen, one of the new men selected is a life long farmer of Chippewa county, the owner of 240 acres of land which he farms and resides upon, and is highly recommender to the association by the farmers of his county who have signed marketing agreements. Mr. Huse, the other new man selected as a director is the owner and operator of 700 acres in Wilkin county; he is a county commissioner and director of consolidated school in his county, and during the war was employed by the government as a grain inspector.

After the first annual meeting of the members of the association next June the directors will be elected by the members themselves. The state, or territory organized, will be divided into eight districts and each district will select one director as required under the co-operative market act. In this way the members, or units as they are called under the law, have control over the association, and if any district dislikes the acts of their director after he has been selected, the members therein may circulate a petition and if 20 per cent of the members ask, a special election is held in that district and a new man may be selected or the old director retained, according to the majority wish of the members. Thus the farmers control the association and no outside party or group have any voice in the affairs of the growers' organization.

The control of the national selling agency is in the hands of two men from each state association, selected by the board of directors of the state organization, thus the selling of the growers' wheat, and the grading and price fixing, is entirely in the hands of the grower—dirt farmers, who in turn hire or fire the grain experts who actually handle the grain.

The immense amount of grain handled by the various associations thru one sales agency enables the farmer, at less cost than he is now paying to private concerns, to employ the best wheat experts in America. And their continued employment depends only upon giving satisfaction to the grower—just as other big men serve other big organizations who pay them.

At a meeting held at Greenbush on Nov. 16, the following resolution was unanimously passed. The resolution speaks for itself and shows the solid support given the farmers of that community by the businessmen of Greenbush who see the prosperity that co-operative marketing of wheat and other farm products will bring to the rural towns of Minnesota and other states. The resolution was signed for publicity purposes by the businessmen and farmers whose names appear so that other communities may know how Greenbush feels toward the great national drive that is now being made to control the wheat crop of 1914.

Resolution

Be it Resolved, that we, the farmers and business men here assembled, do endorse the plans and the organization of the American Wheat Growers' association and the state association, and endorse the method of financing the pooling of wheat thru the Intermediate Credit bank, to the end that the farmers of this community, state and nation, may control their product from the time of harvest until sold by them at a price which will give to the grower a fair profit above cost, without paying tribute to unnecessary middlemen who now set the price because of the unorganized method of dumping products upon the market without regard to the demand, at home and abroad.

Unanimously passed at Greenbush, Minn., Nov. 16, 1923, and signed by volunteer resolution committee for the purpose of publication.

Our Creamery

What does this mean to you? Farmers and business men all over the United States know what a local creamery means to the town and country.

It keeps your money at home, it increases the vaule of your land and business, it is the most important line of business in a town from a community standpoint, it stimulates dairying which we know is the foundation of farming, if not life itself, and, more than these, it gives you the last penny for your dairy products.

Why patronize a foreign industry? Better patronize the creamery that is working for you.

Thomas R. Marshall says: "The American people want the benefits of democracy and yet demand the works of autocracy. We want the government to make the other fellow do what we think he ought to do." Pretty much the truth.

Lots of folks believe heartily in the co-operation which means the other fellow joining in with their ideas.

The Wheat Gobble-Uns Have Got You

A Ticker-Made Surplus That Beats Down Prices---By Samuel R. Guard

(Extracts from Article in Country Gentleman.) (Reprinted by Permission of Curtis Publishing Company.)

For reasons all my own, I am going to try to write a wheat story without using any statistics. And also without mention of any leader of these modern movements designed to give the grower something to say about the price of his own grain.

Because it seems to me that most of the wheat statistics have served only to confound us. And I have a very private theory, which I wouldn't care to mention to anyone, that if our leaders had led—just followed their noses—instead of forever turning round to pick a schoolboy's scrap with some other leader, we should have been far forward toward a grower's price for grain today.

Wheat is an international crop. The marketing of wheat is an international problem. A thirty-cent tariff will not solve it. The wheat growers of the world must solve it.

If a man grows nine bags of beans and the world wants nine bags of beans, the man will have something to say about the price of beans. He can set a price at such a figure that he can grow the nine bags of beans at a profit. But let the man bestir himself, as any good farmer would, test his seed, give the crop an extra cultivation, raise ten bags of beans when the world wants only nine, and verily, he is out of luck. Because the world, knowing full well that the farmer has an extra bag of beans—a surplus (Boo! The gobble-uns will git you if you don't watch out!)—will offer him less for the whole ten bags than he might have had for the nine. The extra bag sets the price of the whole crop.

And that, they tell us, is the fundamental law which sets the price of our food stuff. Haven't organized farmers sense enough and strength enough to handle one bag of beans? Why doesn't someone fling it in the teeth of the speculators and tell them that it is only their interpretation of the law of supply and demand, anyhow? Let's get at the bottom of this bugaboo. I used to believe in it, too, just as I believed in ghosts and witches.

Long ago the Board of Traders realized the farmers' fear would work for them. Trained in psychology as they are, they put that fear to work. They dressed it in true scarecrow fashion and it did the business.

Every year at harvest time the speculators, who would buy cheap and sell dear, hang out their surplus scarecrow. The farmer sees the hollow-eyed specter looming over his fields. In the prairie wind he can feel its scorching breath of ruinous prices. The only way to beat it is to sell, sell as quickly as he can, dump ahead of his neighbor in order to beat the surplus demon. The speculator rubs his hands and buys up the grain while the dumping season is on. He buys it cheap.

As soon as he gets the grain he takes in the surplus scarecrow and packs it away in moth balls for another season. He holds the grain until the world is willing to pay for its bread—not on the basis of surplus, but on the basis of demand, a demand from the stomach.

So the prices are high. The farmer plants again, hopefully, expectantly. Comes harvest moon, and suddenly, there it is, lifelike, witch-eyed—surplus.

From the moment that early bird of a neighbor goes to his phone and gives the general ring that the threshers are coming, until the last bushel of grain has been hauled to the elevator, the whole valley becomes a hotbed of fear and fever. Men rush with their teams and their wagons to help their neighbors with the hauling.

There is a tense nervousness from the time the binders' reel sinks into the first stalk until the last shock is capped. Through the shouting of the workers, the hum of the threshing engine, the snap of the whips and the creak of horses' tugs hauling grain away there is that tense fear.

Something deafens the ears and dulls and numbs the mind with its roar. You scarcely feel the dagger beards that stab through the cotton clothes, nor the heat from a red-eyed sky. You see only one thing, an ever-present spector that looms through the dust—and hurry on, hurry on.

It's in the house too. In farm kitchens the housewives work with the same feverish energy, picking young roosters, peeling great dishpans of potatoes, shucking boilers of sweet corn. It is a gala feast, but the harvesters must gulp it down and get back to cutting bands and tying sacks. Little boys carry water, and little girls run errands between garden and kitchen. They, too, feel the excitement. There is a dizziness in the air, their whole world is aquiver—with fear. Fear of what? Fear of being too late. Fear of being too late in driving over the scales and up to the dumping chute at the elevator. Because—

The first farmer to unload gets a certain price. Next day she's off a cent. Next day two cents. Next day five cents. Too much wheat. And the later you dump the less you get. Too much wheat. — now, until it gets out of your hands.

In this mad world of harvesting most of the American wheat crop is dumped. From the fields of Texas, from the farms of Iowa, from the ranches of Montana on into the East comes the wheat. Like a great tidal wave rushing madly on. It grows to an untamed river, merciless. Farmers who have poured their drop into the mighty stream stand back aghast, their ears deafened with its roar.

One word is on the mind of every farmer—surplus. Phantom surplus or not, under the system of dumping it is strong enough to crush us down to poverty. But is it really the surplus crushing us? Or is it the system?

Joseph was a pretty good grain administrator, in his day. Maybe not so good as Julius Barnes, but still, for the advantages he had, pretty good. And for seven years, if I remember rightly, Joseph had quite a surplus to deal with. Howsomever, he didn't advocate restricted production, nor plaster the pyramids with injunctions to eat more pancakes, nor even blame it on the senator from his prize wheat state. He called only one wheat conference! Then he went out and found a market for his wheat. And sold it at his own price. Just supposing he had heard that story of the bag of beans! He'd have been scared stiff!

Is this worth anything as a charm against hants? Take the whole history of the world. Divide it into periods, as Joseph did. There never was any wheat left over. Wheat will keep. Up to date there has never been such a thing as a real surplus of wheat in the world.

You read about surplus of wheat on the market page. But when you turn over to the editorial page there's always a plea for starving children—in Armenia, Poland, Austria, India, somewhere.

Of world surplus over a period of years there is none. It is a phantom to scare us onto the dumping floor.

I don't care how much wheat we produce in America, if farmers offer 70 per cent of that wheat to the buyers within a period of ninety days each year, directly after the harvest, there is going to be an oversupply. By that action they create locally an oversupply, and that oversupply is going to have a detrimental effect on price.

Yes, there is always a big wheat carry-over. But carry-over means what it says. It is needed to carry us over. It is not surplus. It is bread insurance.

If we will all only draw near and look at the bugaboo with an open mind we will find it to be nothing more than the world's bread supply for the coming year—the staff of life.

There is just a bit of suspicion going the rounds today that maybe the price of wheat is not set in Liverpool, after all. Some think it is set in Chicago. And set by "news" and future trades. Certainly not by the actual inflow of wheat.

But give the traders credit. They have built up the most efficient marketing system in the world—for themselves, not for the growers.

It will be a long time before patronage dividend is paid out of savings made in the physical handling of grain. Anyhow, the farmer isn't kicking about the handling charge. He's mad about the price.

Harvest is a shock in more ways than one. What's to be done with all that wheat? Not a day in the year but wheat is being harvested somewhere in the world. This is the speculator's big opportunity. He can control the price level if he can get enough bearish news on the ticket.

Somebody must take that surplus of time and place and handle it. It must be doled out when buyers want to buy. It must be transported to the place where it is needed.

Instead of arranging for these things to happen under his own control, the grower has turned these jobs over to the traders. The traders have worked out a system to handle the grain, and handle it efficiently. But they have also worked out a system to get handsomely paid for it. At the same time some other smart chaps not satisfied with the bulk of the so-called surplus, have multiplied it indefinitely through a system of future trading. This enables them to deal in unlimited quantities of phantom grain, just as if they were buying and selling something. It is a first-class substitute for an upright wheel with numbers on it—nothing more.

When the farmer sees that the way to get a price for his grain is to take back the control of the flow of it—to put his hand back on the mouth of the sack—he will have little use for a grain exchange. The millers will be glad to come and see him outside of a grain exchange and to buy wheat on the basis of its bread-making value.

More than one of the big grain companies would be glad to sell out to the farmers. I know of four at least which have proposed one scheme or another for alliance with the growers. Why? Because they are astute grain merchants and they see the potentiality of the real cooperative grain-marketing system. And if they can't sell they'll give away.

Suppose that Henry Ford or Samuel Vauclain had our wheat to sell, instead of their automobiles and locomotives. Would they run away from the surplus, or would they get out and sell it?

As I write I note that we are not to have so much wheat as some of the wheat conferences thought. That's always the way. Most of it has been sold by the growers at less than a dollar a bushel. Just watch it go up now.

There is no real surplus of of wheat.

Wheat is an international crop. Let us deal with this marketing problem like international merchants, rather than like ingrown isolationists.

Big Stone Man Swallows Grain Trade Propaganda

Some time ago the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce published a page advertisement in the Ortonville Journal advising farmers not to sign up their wheat, nor pool it through co-operative marketing associations. In this advertisement the grain trade publicity man stated that the farmer was contracting his grain and turning it over to the control of others.

Now comes a man in a communication in the Ortonville Star, making the same statement, having swallowed the grain trade argument, in which he says: "I am against any organization that takes complete control of the growers' crop without so much as giving him a voice and vote in what is supposed to be a farm organization. I am openly against such a contract that binds one so firm for a five year period." And thus he agrees with the Minneapolis grain trade. The page ad in the Ortonville paper, paid for by the Minneapolis grain men, has at least gained one supporter for them in Big Stone county.

But the facts are that both this supporter of the grain dealers and the grain men themselves are wrong. The Minnesota association elects the men who control their grain, each district electing one director, and the directors so selected by the members having charge of the affairs of the association. Outsiders have nothing to say what the farmers shall do with their wheat. The farmers sign marketing agreements, binding themselves together to sell their wheat themselves. That's plain enough. The grain dealers understand. That's why they spend money for page advertisements to mislead men like the poor fellow who wrote the communication in the Ortonville Star.

The Minnesota Wheat Growers Co-operative Marketing association signed its first member May 1st, this year. It was two months before field organization work got under way. It did not get as big a percentage of this year's wheat as some may be led to believe because of the inability to get the field organization into enough counties before the wheat began to move to market.

The organization work in Minnesota could not have been started sooner, as the co-operative law was not passed until the late spring. Other states have been in operation for two and three years, so Minnesota will not be able to make as good a showing until next year when the association expects to handle at least half the wheat put on the market. For this reason, members should not expect the association to have an influence on the market this year, nor expect a big return over the market price. Remember the grain buyers still control the market and we must have the state fully organized to make a big showing, and the nation organized to set a seller's price on wheat.

So, we repeat, don't expect too much of your organization the first year.

Notice to Co-operators

If you want a speaker in your community to speak on co-operative marketing, write to Secretary W. H. Frederick, of the Minnesota Association, at Thief River Falls. Whenever possible, they furnish speakers to address community clubs, conventions, annual stockholders' meetings of elevators or creameries, or other farmer gatherings.

Kansas Farmer Gets 22 Neighbors To Join

Down in Sumner county, Kansas, R. E. Taylor, a member who had wheat in the pool last year, wanted his neighbors to enjoy the benefits of cooperative marketing so he started off with a bundle of blank contracts under his arm.

He had only his spare time to devote to the work but during the first week in November he secured 14 contracts.

During the second week of the month he added 8 more. It is hard to find the wheat growers in Sumner county who have not already joined the association but those who have not yet gotten in are as a rule ready and willing to join when they are solicited.—Kansas Wheat Growers Journal.

What Senator Thinks

I belong to the Kansas Wheat Growers' Association and I am well pleased with the results so far. I think the association has done well, considering it being new in this part of the country and having the opposition it had to combat. I would like to see the membership doubled this fall. I belong to the Farmers' Union.

Very truly yours,
R. C. GATES,
StateSenator, 35th Dist.

CO-OPERATION ON SOUND BASIS

The California Fruit Growers' exchange is an example of successful co-operative marketing. Its methods have brought larger returns to the orange growers than under the old system of hit-or-miss selling. But it has not tried to limit production below the point of normal consumption, so as to force extravagant prices, although that state produces nearly three-fourths of all American oranges. In 1899 the total production of oranges in the United States was 6,167,891 boxes. California producers at that time had been grouping for six years in the direction of co-operative marketing. The present method was perfected about 1905. The output of California and Florida in 1909 rose to 19,487,481 boxes. There has been an irregular and gradual increase since then, until in 1921 California alone produced 22,500,000 boxes and Florida 8,200,000.

In 1909 the price of oranges to growers was a little less than a doller a box. It was increased in 1915 to $2.39 and after various wartime fluctuations it was $2.10 in 1921, with the bumper crop up to that time.

The orange growers have not starver the consumers into paying fancy prices, but have practiced supplying the market only as fast as it could absorb oranges at a fair price. The enormous waste of the old dumping system thus has been avoided, to the great gain of the growers and without loss to the public.

Some twenty years ago the orange growers complained that the commission men charged them 5 to 10 per cent for marketing the goods but took no care in distributing the product, which was dumped in a few Eastern markets. The low prices received sometimes did not pay the cost of production and transportation or even freight charges alone. The commission men simply were not earning their pay as agents of the producers. They were hired for a service that was not performed. The co-operattive plan is chiefly a new means of obtaining the service which was needed all the time. In other cases the commission men bought from the growers outright, at prices which gave little or no profit to the latter, who had developed no other customers for their goods.—Farmers Dispatch.

McNALLON PLACED ON CABBAGE COMMITTEE

Dennis McNallon of Kellogg has been named a member of a national committee, appointed under auspices of the American Farm Bureau Federation, to establish a national co-operative cabbage marketing association. The committee was formed at the close of a conference held at Chicago, Nov. 17. Minnesota was represented at the meeting by R. E. Jones of Wabasha. Wabasha county is the heart of the cabbage growing industry of Minnesota. There are 4,200 acres of commercial cabbage in the state.

WHEREAS, In order that the producers of farm products may secure a fair price for their crops, the farmers must control not only their production but their marketing as well to the end that they may control the selling, and place upon the market in an orderly manner, an equal amount each month, as the domestic market demands, and at a fair profit, and,

WHEREAS, All business organizations set the price of their products, based on an American standard and an American market, selling their surplus abroad at the end of the season at whatever the world price may be and at a lower price than is secured for the domestic consumption, and,

WHEREAS, The farmer has been selling his wheat at a price fixed by the purchaser, regardless of the cost of production, the domestic market, or the tariff, and,

WHEREAS, The farmer must, if he is to secure a price for his grain that will give him cost plus a profit, not only market his product orderly but must control his product and set the price on that which he produces, instead of dumping his crop into the hands of speculators and allowing them to set the price far below cost:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, By farmers in mass meeting at WHEATON, Minn., after hearing a discussion of the new Minnesota Cooperative Market Act, and the plans and the method of pooling wheat by the American Wheat Growers Associated, of which Minnesota is now a part, do hereby endorse the Co-operative law, the method of financing the holding of wheat in the hands of the growers, and endorse the association organized by the farmers under the co-operative law, know and operating as the Minnesota Wheat Growers Co-Operative Marketing Association, and recommend that this association, and the national association, take on the pooling and marketing of other grains as soon as the American wheat crop is organized;

$5 Wheat Wanted McCumber Asserts

Declaring that the wheat farmer of the Northwest, to put him on a plane of equality with the semi-skilled laborer of the cities, must obtain a price of $5 a bushel for his product, said mer Senator Porter J. McCumber of North Dakota, in a letter today to President Coolidge.

Prologue to Letter.

As a prologue to his letter setting forth the reasons for the present condition of the farmer and his suggestion for alleviating his distress, Mr. McCumber says:

"I observe that the problem of relieving the wheat growers of the Northwest is again pressing itself on you and you are asking for some way to alleviate their distress. The matter presented to you is a most difficult one and, judging from the quack remedies that have been applied in the past—remedies that are no more effective than a mustard plaster as a cure for an internal cancer—I am quite certain that other equally impotent remedies will be suggested. If press reports are correct they already are being proposed."

Mr. McCumber then enumerates the "fundamental causes of the wheat raiser's distress," the enormous increase in labor cost, the increased cost of transportation, the immense increase in his taxes and the inability of his old customers in Europe to purchase his wheat and flour, resulting in a greater surplus in his home market."

$5 Price Held Needed.

"It would require at least $3.50 per bushel for wheat on the farm to give the farmer, after paying his taxes, the same comforts he had ten years ago," the letter continues after enlarging on the causes for the distress and it would require a $5 per bushel price to place him where he ought to be—on a plane of equality with the semi-skilled labor of our great cities.

"How can he increase the value of his product? There is but one way—combined withholding of his crop from the markets until he can receive his price. How may this be done? It can be done only through an organization that will enable him to withhold from the market every bushel of his grain until he can get a living price for it."

Atlanta, Ga.—Co-operative cotton marketing associations in the southern states have added 69,005 members during the past two months, according to a report given out by the American Cotton Growers' exchange in Dallas.

The report by the states shows that in members signed but since July of this year Georgia leads with 6,625. Texas ranks next to Georgia in the campaign which began on that date with 6,571. Oklahoma ranks third with 6,082.

Leaders of the organization express the optimistic view that this is only the beginning of a campaign that will engulf almost every cotton state in the southland.

Collects Damages for Outside Sales

Damages to the extent of 25 cents a bushel as provided in the marketing contract of the Washington Wheat Growers association have been collected from a member of the association who sold his 1921 crop on the outside. The payment was nearly $300, the sale having amounted to something over 1000 bushels.

The payment of these damages was a voluntary action on the part of the grower after he had been informed by the association that suit would be started. Upon advice of counsel he immediately made payment, thus avoiding the cost of suit which also would have been charged against him.

Market Contract Held Enferceable

The marketing contract of the Pacific Cooperative Wool Growers was held enforcible by the decision just rendered by Judge Kelly in the Circuit court of Linn county in the case of the Pacific Cooperative Wool Growers against J. T. Woody, a member who violated his contract.

The decision in this case is of great importance to the wool and mohair growers of the northwest, as it is the first time that their association contract has been passed upon by the courts.

Who Says Failure

Some of our members get cold feet and listen to dire prophecies that their association is doomed to failure. Who and who only make these predictions? The men who see the handwriting on the wall. The spoilers, who have lived in luxury by merchandising the farmer's products, and see in co-operative

A Matter of Control

CONTROL is the magic word of modern business: the U. S. Steel Corporation CONTROLS the output and sale of steel and fix a price: the Standard Oil company CONTROLS 40 percent of the oil output and fix the price on all oils. The farmers will soon control the bulk of the wheat raised in this country, and when they do—they will fix a price. Just good business that's all. A big job, but Americans have never been afraid to tackle big jobs, and they generally succeed in a big way. —North Dakota Wheat Grower.

President's Commission Declare for Wheat Cooperatives

CRITICIZE GRAIN DEALERS AND OPTION MARKET--SPECULATOR NOW HOLDS KEY TO SITUATION

Make a Trip Into All Wheat States. Attend National Meeting of Wheat Co-operatives at Denver. Interview Grain Dealers. Make Report to President Coolidge.

The much talked about, praised and condemned presidential wheat missionaries sent to the Northwest to investigate the wheat situation by President Coolidge have made their report. It is a frank statement on the wheat situation and the present system of wheat marketing. It frankly condemns the present option market or speculative system. It says it cannot be relied upon. It says the speculator often sells on a falling market and makes the situation worse. It disputes the grain trade who say that wheat cannot be marketed through cooperative associations. It says wheat should and can be marketed co-operatively. It says the grain dealers are prejudiced and the information they give out unreliable. It says the speculator is now the key to the present system of wheat distribution. It says he does not observe the rules laid down in books. It says when the speculator is needed most he is never on the job. It says, however, he is often on the job when he is not wanted, selling wheat when the price is declining. It says the grain thade in Minneapolis is opposed to co-operative wheat marketing. And it particularly says that wheat growers should enlarge the wheat co-operatives and market their own crop and not depend upon the uncertain speculative market.

Eugene Meyers, Jr., managing director of the War Fnance corporation, and Frank W. Mondell, one of the directors of the corporation, were the men appointed by the president who made the investigation and report. They visited every wheat state and every grain market and interviewed farmers, business men, bankers, grain dealers, boards of trade and officials of the wheat co-operative marketing associations. They attended the national meeting of the wheat co-operatives in Denver. They met with special committees and commercial clubs of the larger cities and the smaller towns. They heard all sides. They held conferences in Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Sioux Falls, Fargo, Billings, Helena, Spokane, Portland, Pocatello and Denver. They also visited Pacific coast states, stopping at San Francisco to investigate co-operatives there, and also at Salt Lake City and Cheyenne.

Report Now Printed.

The report is now printed and a public document and can be secured by writing to your senator or congressman at Washington. We print below extracts from the report which will be of interest to everyone interested in the drive now being made to get the control of the American wheat crop into the hands of the growers through their co-operative marketing associations. Where the report refers to the "contract market" it means option market as the contract market is known throughout the northwest among both farmers and grain dealers:

Speculator Now the Key.

"The key man in the present system of distribution is the speculator. He is the man who is supposed to buy the wheat at harvest time as it comes into the market in volume greater than the current consumption demand, and sell it again after the flood is over and when the consumer is gradually calling for his needs. The speculator is supposed to be the master mind, directing and distributing the flow of wheat, adjusting supply and demand, stabilizing and steadying prices.

Does Not Observe Rules.

"The trouble is that the speculator does not observe the rules laid down in books on political economy. No one can foretell whether in time of need, he will be there or not. When he is most needed, he is often least in evidence and, in fact, on a declining market, is as likely as not making matters worse by selling wheat rather than buying.

'Especially since the war, the speculative wheat market has been too narrow and too unreliable to meet the situations.

System Not Satisfactory.

"The European buyer, formerly a factor of great importance, does not place large buying orders in the contract market, because he cannot afford the risk of a fluctuating paper currency. The demestic speculator also has been relatively inactive. As a result the public contract wheat market has not been fulfilling, in a satisfactory way its supposed functions as regulator and distributor of the flow of wheat.

"It undoubtedly has a legitimate field of usefulness. But as the principal piece of machinery for adjusting the price of the great American wheat crop it is, under present conditions, entirely inadequate. It may be good as it goes, but it is not big enough for the task, nor is it dependable enough to be the wheat trades sole reliance.

Co-operative Marketing Best Aid.

"Co-operative marketing associations, organized along sound lines and with competent management and business guidance offer at the present time in our opinion, more promise of helpful results than any other plan or program that has been suggested. They can do what the speculator cannot with safety be relied upon to do. They can by orderly marketing regulate the flow of wheat so that supply is adjusted from time to time by the consumptive demand.

"The cotton grower, the tobacco grower, the rice grower, and the California fruit grower, through co-operative marketing associations soundly organized and properly managed, have been able to achieve favorable results, and there is no reason why the wheat grower, if properly organized, should not be able to obtain similar results by applying the principle of co-operative marketing, on a sufficiently large scale, to the sale of his product.

Business Men Support Plan.

"There is a growing appreciation among business men and bankers in the wheat states, as well as among the farmers themselves, of the soundness and value of the principle of co-operative marketing as applied to wheat. In fact, a number of the meetings we attended concluded by appointing committees of leading business men and bankers specifically for the purpose of encouraging the co-operative marketing of wheat on a larger scale, and of co-operating with the National Wheat Growers' Advisory committee, of which former Governor Lowden, of Illinois, is chairman. Its purpose is to promote the more rapid growth of the co-operative movement in the various wheat-growing states through co-operation with existing agencies.

No Politics Allowed.

"The committee comprises men who have a record of demonstrated success in the practical administration of co-operative marketing organizations. It is entirely nonpartisan, including, as it does, men of both political parties. This committee is capable of great usefulness at this time, and there is every reason to believe that its activities will be exceedingly helpful in promoting the rapid extention of the wheat co-operative movement.

"In Denver we conferred with the representatives of the wheat co-operative marketing associations, who were meeting there for the purpose of formulating plans for the development of their organizations. Members of the Lowden committee were also present, and a basis for harmonious and effective co-operation between the committee and the associations was established.

Grain Dealers Oppose Plan.

"A well-defined opposition to the co-operative marketing movement was evinced by the grain trade in Minneapolis. Their opposition is based on the broad statement (1) that the present method of marketing wheat is the most economical that can be devised and that it is a demonstrated success; (2) that the statistical records of wheat prices in terminal markets over a long series of years indicate that gradual, orderly marketing of wheat would result in no benefit to the producer; (3) that while the principles of co-operative marketing may be successfully applied to fruits in California, to cotton and tobacco in the south, and to other products in other sections, it can not be applied, in a practical way, to wheat and (4) that the cost of handling by co-operative marketing associations is excessive in comparison with the cost of handling by the regular marketing machinery.

Prejudiced and Misleading.

"These statements, it may be said without questioning the honesty of opinion and purpose of those who make them, proceed from a somewhat prejudiced point of view. Furthermore, the statistics of prices over a period of 20 years, or 50 years, or 70 years, which have been assembled for the purpose of proving that the farmer who hastens his grain to an immediate market fares no better than those who market their products in what is termed an orderly way, have little to do with the vital and fundamental changes that have been taking place in very recent years as the result of changes in international markets, exchange, and finance. Not only that, but these statistics usually are based upon the contract market prices and not upon the actual cash prices, ignoring completely the premiums paid for special grades of wheat. Conclusions drawn from statistics of wheat prices which disregard the very large amount of wheat that commands premiums are bound to be misleading.

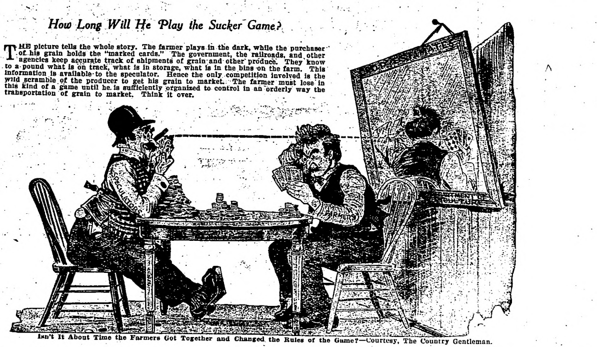
Dealers Unsupported by Evidence.

"A number of gentlemen in the grain trade appear to believe, very sincerely, that wheat can not be organized for co-operative marketing as have other commodities. Some of them have gone to considerable trouble to investigate the matter. Their reports are to the effect that it can not be done, but the verdict is unsupported by convincing evidence. So far as we are able to determine, they merely mean that the production of wheat is carried on in so many different states, under so many different conditions, and involves so many different types, that they can not conceive of successful organization on the scale required. The plain fact of the matter is that the principle of co-operative marketing is being applied to wheat. The scale of operations at present, however, is too small to be an important factor in the situation.

Speculative Market vs. Co-operation.

"We feel, as a result of our trip, that the solution of the wheat problem lies along two lines: First, the adjustment of production to American needs if the world market is oversupplied from other producing countries at lower prices than are satisfactory to the American producer under prevailing conditions; and second, the development of an improved marketing system such as we believe can be brought about by the organization of the producers of the country for the purpose of marketing their wheat under the co-operative marketing plan making it unnecessary to rely so completely upon the uncertain functioning of the speculative public contract market."

How Long Will He Play the Sucker Game?



THE picture tells the whole story. The farmer plays in the dark, while the purchaser of his grain holds the "marked cards." The government, the railroads, and other agencies keep accurate track of shipments of grain and other produce. They know to a pound what is on track, what is in storage, what is in the bins on the farm. This information is available to the speculator. Hence the only competition involved is the wild scramble of the producer to get his grain to market. The farmer must lose in this kind of a game until he is sufficiently organized to control in an orderly way the transportation of grain to market. Think it over.

Isn't It About Time the Farmers Got Together and Changed the Rules of the Game?—Courtesy, The Country Gentleman.

"Does Not Observe the Rules."

"The key man in the present system of distribution," says the report, "is the speculator. "The speculator, "continues the report, "is supposed to be the master mind. The trouble is that the speculator does not observe the rules laid down in the books on political economy."

Dawson Farmers and Business Men Endorse Cooperative Marketing

Success of Pool in Cotton, Tobacco, Rice and Fruit Cited to Show That Co-operative Marketing on Sapiro Plan Offers Only Solution of Agricultural Problem Now Confronting the Country.

(Dawson Sentinel, Nov. 19th, 1923.)

Farmers and business men of the Dawson community listened to a very interesting discussion of cooperative marketing at Torgerson's hall last Saturday afternoon, by J. W. Brinton, formerly of North Dakota, organizer and lecturer for the Wheat Growers association.

Mr. Brinton proved to be a very interesting and forceful speaker. He proceeded to explain the effects of dumping on the market.

If the merchants were to pile their shoes up in the street and ask how much people would pay for them, shoes would be very cheap. The buyers would determine the price. And that is exactly the way most agricultural products are sold. And not only do the buyers determine the price but they determine it under conditions which create the opportunity to beat the price down.

Agricultural products are placed on the market at certain times of the year, far in excess of the capacity of the public to consume. Consequently somebody must buy and hold for speculation until the public is ready to consume. Those buying for speculation, buy as cheaply as possible, and sell at as high a price as possible, creating a spread between what the producer gets and what the consumer pays, that is largely responsible for the plight of the farmer. The speaker proceeded to show that a protective tariff on agricultural products will do very little good unless the farmers are organized to take advantage of the tariff. So long as the farmers sell as individuals for what they can get, the mills and packing plants will buy at a lower price in spite of the tariff wall. If the wheat of the country was pooled, the millers would have to pay the foreign prices plus the duty, because the wheat raisers would be in a position to compel it.

It is not necessary to have all the wheat of the country pooled in order to control the market. The Standard Oil company, controlling about one-half of the production, fixes the price of all oil. When the Standard raises the price the Independents follow because they want to; when the Standard reduces the prices the independents follow because they have to.

At the conclusion of the meeting the following resolutions were adopted and signed:

Resolution.

Whereas, the producers of food on the farm are compelled to buy the necessities of life and the equipment necessary to produce food at a price set by the seller, and

Whereas, the farmer is dumping his products on the market and selling them at price set by the buyer and far below cost of production.

Now, therefore, we, the farmers and business men of the Dawson community, in meeting assembled, do hereby endorse the organization of a nation-wide co-operative selling agency, to the end that the farmers may control their product and sell it in an orderly and business-like manner and set the price in harmony with the price paid for labor and the equipment necessary to the operation of the farm, and that such price be set by the growers.

And we further urge and ask our neighbors and our businuess men of the rural towns in this and other states to assist in the establishment of co-operative marketing under the laws now in force, and as successfully conducted by cotton, tobacco, rice and fruit farmers in other states. Let these resolutions be published in the Dawson Sentinel as an expression of our sentiments here today.

Editor's Note:

Among the businessmen and farmers who signed the foregoing resolution will be found the name of Theodire Christianson, one of the most active and prominent men in Minnesota. He is editor of the Dawson Sentinel, a member of the Minnesota legislature and active in the support of co-operative marketing both in the legislature and his newspaper. He is also an active farmer and operates considerable land in Lac Qui Parle county.

Can You Beat This?

The oldest member of the North Dakota association is Hans Hanson, Greene, North Dakota, age 83 years. He told Mr. R. J. Bonin that he believed no one should be asked to sign. He thought that every intelligent wheat grower ought to come to town and hunt up an organizer and insist on signing. Mr. Hanson was sawing rafters for a barn, when seen, and was following the pencil marks without glasses. Any member who can beat this, please contradict our statement, and furnish particulars.

SOUTH DAKOTA DRIVE ON

Looking toward the next crop year the South Dakota Wheat Growers association will launch a drive to enlist at least 65% of the grain raisers of this state in its co-operative marketing association.—Aberdeen Daily News.

Pool Saved Him $1,542.

Allen "Kid" McManus, a prominent farmer of Grand Farks county, delivered 7,710 bushels (seven carloads) of wheat to the association. He figures that he has already received 20 cents more per bushel for this wheat, than if he had sold to the local elevator. The bulk of this wheat was of poor quality as regards color and weight, but its richness in guten brought good prices. As a result Mr. McManus is $1,542 to the good. No wonder he can afford to "set 'em up to cigars!"—North Dakota Wheat Grower.

done. In some cases prominent farmers have taken charge of the drive in their counties.

150 in Three Townships.

In three townships in northern Lac Qui Parle county 150 farmers have signed contracts with their association, one township sending in 49 agreements, one 50 and one 51. The drive in Chippewa recently started with a local farmer in charge, and already one township has filed 48 contracts in the Thief River Falls office.

In that county, according to the Montevideo News, Ed. Hagen of Big Bend township is in charge and meetings were recently held in Milan and under the auspices of the Community club in Watson, in the Commercial club rooms in Montevideo and a representative of the association addressed 250 farmers in the Montevideo opera house. A co-operative market speaker also addressed the Chippewa bankers association meeting there.

Other States Making Progress

News from other states show that good progress is also being made in every wheat state. The grain grower is fast taking ahold of his marketing and in a short time the wheat farmer will stand on an equal footing, controlling his own market, alongside the tobacco, cotton, rice and fruit farmers of the nation.

Young Folks Take Advantage of Every Remaining Moment in Gathering Credits—Friends Rally to Support of Favorites as Interest Increases in All Parts of Pennington County.

"Pennington county, and particularly Kratka township, is the most ideal spot in this state of ours for the dairy industry to thrive. We have a number of strictly first class purebred herds of cattle already within the borders of our township. Our inhabitants are boosters and workers for better sires and herds. They have appealed to their business and professional friends and all other people in the enterprising city of Thief River Falls to assist in another very worthy project. This is put on by the Thief River Falls Tribune and is known as the Better Sires campaign. All of this has resulted in my success as the campaigner scoring the highest in the county. The Tribune, if you are not already a subscriber and aware of the fact, is known far and wide as one of the best boosters for our farmers and their cause. It strives to give everyone concerned a fair and square deal through its columns. It is a publication that not only states in so many words and sentences that it favors the dairy industry, but it actually helps put across in this campaign.

"The Tribune will at the close of this campaign distribute one purebred animal or bird in each and every township in our county. I am in this campaign, not so much to help myself as to show others what may be done when dairying becomes the principal occupation of our farmers. Kratka township has farmers residing within her borders who are smiling at the future with their pockets lined with cash secured through the sale of alfalfa, clover seed and dairy products this last season. PIONEERS STAGE SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Erickson Hosts to Friends on Anniversary.

A large number of invited guests met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Erickson Saturday evening to celebrate the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of the couple. The most interesting part of the enjoyable affair lies in the fact that Ben Erickson and wife were made one in Thief River Falls 25 years ago and many of the guests who celebrated with them Saturday evening were present at their wedding.

A silver wedding supper was served at a long table set in the spacious dining room. Following the supper the fun and frolic ran fast and furious until the wee sma' hours.

A number of useful articles of silverware was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Erickson by members of "The Hungry Six," a winter club which meets weekly at the homes of a number of people residing on the East Side. On behalf of the relatives of the couple a purse of silver was presented to them, the presentation being made by J. S. Arneson, who reviewed briefly some of the incidents of their married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Erickson were married in this city 25 years ago at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Anna Lonson, who is still hale and hearty and who was present at the anniversary celebration Saturday night. Soon after their wedding the Ericksons moved into their home at 502 Conley avenue south and have resided ever since in the same house. Mr. Erickson is the manager of the Pyramid Oil company and both he and his estimable wife enjoy in an unusual degree the respect and esteem of their neighbors and friends.

More Balmy Weather.

The memory of even the oldest inhabitant in these parts is taxed these days in an effort to recall weather at this time of the year such as has been enjoyed here so far this winter. No snow on the ground to interfere with automobile traffic and a thaw every day is somewhat unusual for this season and this clime. The pessimists say the weather man will make up for it next spring but the optimists are not worrying.

NO MEETING OF CLUB THURSDAY

Next Regular Luncheon To Be Given On Thursday, January 3, 1924.

President H. W. Froehlich of the Commercial club announces that no meeting of the club will be held this week, due to the close proximity of the holiday season.

A big meeting is planned for Thursday, January 3, at which time the luncheon will be furnished by the management of the Thief River Cooperative Creamery association. The big idea behind this meeting is to induce a large number of farmers to attend in order that the matter of signing up contracts for delivery of cream to the local institution can be forcefully brought to the attention of those interested. This is a mighty important meeting and a large attendance is desired by both the management of the Commercial club and the local creamery.

DISTRICT GAME FRIDAY'S SLATE

First of Championship Basket Ball Games To Be Played Dec. 21.

The first district game of the season will be played at the auditorium Friday night at 8 o'clock sharp. This game will have direct bearing on the gaining of the district championship and is bound to be of an etra peppy sort for this reason. Also the opponent in this case is Roseau and that town's team is very exerienced. The fighting ability of the Lincoln High boys is bound to be knocked a notch or two higher on this account and a game is certain to result that will have the audience on its feet in the tense moments.

The preliminaries will be at 7:45 and the game proper is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock sharp, so be on hand with a good shouting throat. A game as important as this one will draw a good crowd, so it will be best to slip the 15 cents and 35 cents admission in early and make sure of a seat overlooking the strategic spots of the floor.

Deputy Commissioner Hay to Broadcast Speech by Radio Tomorrow Evening

Radio fans in Thief River Falls will tomorrow evening be given an opportunity to hear an address by Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture J. H. Hay, according to announcement, received several days ago by John Ward of this city, one of the original fans here and still going strong on the subject.

The letter states that Mr. Hay's address will be broadcasted from the WLAG station some time Thursday evening but does not give the exact hour. For this reason those who desire to hear the address will have to be on the lookout in order to get it. It goes without saying that Mr. Hay's talk will be a masterpiece and well worth listening to.

Remember Thursday evening and be on the lookout for WLAG until you get Mr. Hay's speech.

LEGION BEGINS HEAVY PROGRAM

Skating Rink Promised and a Big New Year's Dance Coming.

Quite a few things were done at the meeting of the Elmer J. Eklund Post, No. 117, last Thursday night. The livest meeting in some time was begun by the election of the following officers: Oscar Smith, commander; Dave Robinson, 1st vice president; P. G. Pederson, 2nd vice president; Ole R. Sande, adjutant; Verner Nelson, treasurer.

At the business meeting it was decidede to make a skating rink on the vacant lots just west of the court house with the co-operation of the firemen, the park board, and other civil organizations. This place is especially adapted for a skating rink as it is as near the center of things as could be wished and it should prove very popular. Oscar Smith has charge of this affair and as he has had previous eperience in this sort of thing, it is expected to go over big.

It was also decided to put on several dances this winter starting with a New Year's dance, and a program was submitted that introduces several very interesting features, each of which would make the dance a memorable affair. Snyder's more than locally renouned six piece orchestra will play and promises the very best in the line of music.

After the business matters of the post had all been attended to, the remainder of the evening was spent in a social way, with whist as the diversion. The session closed with an excellent lunch.

DRUGGIST FINED IN LIQUOR QUIZ

H. B. Newell Pays $100 for Technical Prohibition Law Violation.

H. B. Newell appeared before Judge N. W. Tarrant in municipal court Saturday morning, pleaded guilty to a charge of maintaining a nuisance, and was assessed a fine of $100, which he paid.

The case against Mr. Newell grew out of a search made upon his premises by Sheriff Ole L. Ihle and a federal inspector. No liquor nor anything else out of the harmony with the law was discovered, but an uncanceled liquor prescription was found upon a spindle. The law is very strict with ragard to these prescriptions, and the case in municipal court which resulted in the fine was based upon the irregularity above noted.

Drug stores throughout the country are checked up very closely by federal men, and the greatest care is necessary on the part of every druggist to conduct his business in a manner which leaves no cause for complaint.

CROCK OF MOON IS JOY KILLER

St. Hilaire Man Bound Over For Illegal Possession of Liquor.

A week or two ago Sheriff Ihle had occasion to be in St. Hilaire. Being of a curious disposition he looked around and chanced upon a Ford car in which was parked two gallons of moon. He waited around for a while but nobody seemed inclined to claim ownership to the jitney. The sheriff then took the car and booze back with him to Thief River Falls to await developments.

When Sigrud Vik, several days later, called to claim his property he was promptly charged with illegal possession of liquor and upon appearing before Judge N. W. Tarrant he put up the claim that he did not know how the liquor came to be in the car or anything else in connection with it.

Vik's story failed to impress the court, however, and he was bound over to the next term of district court under $500 bonds, which was furnished and the prisoner released.

NEW GREAT NORTHERN STATION DEDICATED MONDAY AT MONSTER GATHERING HELD AT AUDITORIUM

Two Hundred People From City, Country and Surrounding Towns Enjoy Commercial Club Banquet—Head Men of Great Northern Deliver Entertaining and Instructive Talks.

The new Great Northern station in this city, recently completed by Contractor L. D. McAdams, was formally accepted Monday, December 17th, by Vice President M. L. Countryman, of the Great Northern, who made the principal address at a dinner given in honor of the visiting officials by the citizens of Thief Fiver Falls at the city auditorium.

A local delegation headed by Mayor Bratrud met the Great Northern officials as they stepped from their private car which was attached to the noon train. After viewing the new station from cellar to garret, and expressing their satisfaction with the work of the contractor and approving in every detail the appearance of the structure, the officials were escorted to the auditorium where a banquet was served in the main hall. Including the officials of the Great Northern about one hundred and ninety were accommodated at the tables.

Mayor Bratrud presided at the dinner, introducing as the first speaker E. F. Flynn, assistant to the vice-president. Mr. Flynn is a fine speaker and will be remembered as having delivered an address here at a recent farmers' and business men's meeting. He dwelt briefly upon the general railroad situation and the desire of the men in charge of the transportation companies to bring about a better understanding of the problems which confront them.

The next speaker was Dr. Froehlich, president of the Commercial club, who epressed the felicitations of the people of Thief River Falls over the building of the new depot. The new station is a creditable structure, he stated, and fully meets with the expectations of the citizens of the city.

A brief address was made by Hans Anton, who reviewed the farming situation in this territory, giving it as his idea that the farmers were prepared to do their full share in bringing the country back to a prosperous basis. The last speaker was J. S. Arneson, of The Tribune.

Mike McCann Is Luckiest Man; Gets Fine Overcoat by Picking Right Number

Mike McCann of this city, is sporting a fine new overcoat, awarded this week by the Save-U-Money store in a good-will campaign among its customers. A sealed envelope containing a certain number was placed in a pocket of the coat, and each visitor to the store was given an opportunity to guess what this number might be. Mike played a hunch and took 555, which proved to be absolutely correct. The number placed in the envelope was blindly drawn so that even the proprietor dodn't know what it was until the enclosure was opened. The event created considerable interest and a large number of guesses were made.

POLICE UNEARTH LIQUOR IN RAID

Farr Place Searched Sunday and Evidence Claimed Discovered.

Sheriff Ole L. Ihle, working in conjunction with Chief of Police Ralston and Night Patrolman Krogstad, on Sunday morning conducted a search of the soft drink parlor operated by J. F. Farr on LaBree avenue south. Glenn Farr was in charge of the place when the officers entered.

According to the police, enough liquor was discovered on the premises to constitute evidence and warrants for the arrest of the Farrs were secured. Preliminary hearing was set for Monday morning, but owing to the absence of the sheriff and county attorney, the proceedings were postponed until Thursday at 10 a.m.

The Farr place has been in similar trouble before. Glenn Farr was convicted at the recent term of court and served a sentence at Warren, while his father, J. F. Farr, is under bonds to appear for trial at the next term of court on a similar charge. His case was not tried at the last term of court due to the illness of the defendant.

Park Board Scraping Ice Below Elks' Grounds; To Be Put in Skaters' Care

The local park board has begun the clearing of a large strip of ice on the river just below the Elks' grounds. The snow is all to be shoveled away and a splendid foundation for a full winter's skating will be made by sprinkling the ice with hot water. After it has all been put into first class condition it will be turned over to the youth of the city who skate and because of lack of funds on the part of the board it will be up to the young fellows to club together and keep it in the condition they like to have it. This will not take much labor, once the ice has been conditioned, although it will quickly run down if it is just skated on and no care taken to scrape it now and then and sprinkle it a little.

Treat the skating rink, when it is handed over all smooth and glassy, like a woman does her face. Wash it a little now and then by scraping its surface and use a little hot water now and then for rouge and powder and it will stand the heavy traffic until it's pock marked in the spring.

DR. M. GEO. MILAN GIVEN BANQUET

Large Party Tendered Resigning Oakland Park Superintendent.

A farewell banquet was tendered Dr. M. Geo. Milan Saturday evening at the Evelyn hotel by a large group of local admirers. As was announced in these columns about three weeks ago Dr. Milan has resigned his position as director and superintendent at the Oakland Park sanatorium to associate himself with the Bratrud hospital at Warren. He will sever his connection with the local institution January 1st.

The banquet was a sincere expression of the high esteem in which Dr. Milan is held in this city. J. S. Arneson, who acted as toastmaster, briefly reviewed the doctor's work at Oakland Park sanatorium, pointing out his keen interest in the patients under his care, his sympathetic attitude toward their personal difficulties, how he had beautified the grounds and upon many occasions had provided enterainment and little luxuries which meant considerable personal sacrifice. At the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Arneson presented the doctor with a gold watch and chain on behalf of the guests at the banquet.

Dr. Milan responded with an entertaining address upon the progress of tuberculosis work among the medical profession, pointing out how present methods check and effect cures in cases which in former days were considered hopeless. He thanked the guests for their expression of friendship and promised to keep forever green in his memory the ties of affection made in Thief River Falls.

Among those who responded to the call of the toastmaster for brief remarks at the banquet table were Superintendent Barnard of the Soo Line, Dr. Froehlich, president of the Commercial club; Superintendent Simley, of the Thief River Falls schools, Dr. A. W. Swedenburg, of the Swedenburg hospital; E. O. Mogensen; H. A. Brumund, president of the city council; and Senator C L. Hansen.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Eileen Arneson and Master Henry Arneson who played a number of violin solos. Community singing is which the guests joined with much zest was directed by Miss Maude L. Johnson.

The banquet was served in five courses and American Beauty roses were used as table decoratiosn.

TRIBUNE IS MOVING.

This is the last issue of The Tribune to be produced in the old building on LaBree avenue. Tomorrow morning bright and early a crew of men will be on hand to move this newspaper's stock and equipment into its recently completed, fine new home on Main avenue. This task entails a lot of labor and grief and is likely to interfere with service in the job department for a few days, but once the move is made The Tribune will be in a much better position than ever before to give service in all departments. The fact that this newspaper is going into a fine new home of its own is sufficient reward to management and employees for any inconvenience and grief which may be experienced in making the move.

CREAMERIES OF STATE PLEDGED SOLID SUPPORT

Thief River Falls Creamery Joins State Butter Sales Agency.

That managers of co-operative creameries and patrons of these institutions in this section of the state are fully cognizant of the dangers which threaten the farmer-owned creameries through unfair competition of so-called centralizers, was demonstrated at the meeting held last Wednesday at the auditorium in Thief River Falls. The meeting was held under the auspices of the fourteenth district of the Minnesota Co-operative Creameries association, which comprises the counties of Pennington, Marshall, Polk, Kittson, Roseau, Norman, Clearwater, Red Lake, Clay and Mahnomen. In this district are situated 56 creameries with a combined annual butter production of about five million pounds. With two or three exceptions, all of these creameries are members of the state association.

How best to combat the competition of centralizers was the chief topic under discussion at the meeting here Wednesday. These large concerns have a habit of entering the field where a farmers' creamery is in operation and attempt to bring about the ruin of the institution by offering prices for butterfat far above market vaules, making up the difference at other places where there is no competition. A plan has been suggested to sign up patrons of co-operative creameries, using a contract which shall be binding for a period of five years and which provides that all cream produced by the patron shall be marketed at the creamery. Several of these contracts were distributed at the meeting Wednesday and a special effort will be made to secure signature of every cream producer in the district within the next few weeks. If this can be accomplished, the fear of centralized competition will vanish and all producers will find themselves vastly better off in the long run. A J. McGuire of the state association was the chief speaker at the morning meeting and explained the contract in detail, asserting that the drive for signers is being carried to every nook and corner of the state.

The afternoon session, at which more than 500 farmers and creamery men were present, was addressed by J. H. Brandt of Litchfield, president of the association, and H. F. Meyer, sales manager for the body. About twenty creameries in this section, including the local institution, joined the state sales agency and will hereafter use that method of marketing their products. The butter will be shipped to headquarters at St. Paul, to be properly graded and labeled, and thence shipped in carload lots to the consuming centers. Among those who addressed the gathering last Wednesday was L. Jensen of Clearbrook, president of the State Dairymen's association, who pledged the hearty support of that body in the present movement. In the evening the buttermakers of the district enjoyed a splendid banquet at the Brumund hotel.

It is announced that the annual meeting of the association will be held in Thief River Falls on Friday 27. A meeting was also announced of Pennington county members and others interested in the welfare of dairying, to be held in conjunction with the Commercial club in this city on Thursday, January 3. At that time an effort will be made to secure a large number of signatures to marketing contracts.

Sen. Hansen Plans Treat For Kids of Thief River Falls During Xmas Season

Senator C. L. Hansen announces that he has arranged for a real treat for the children of Thief River Falls and vicinity this year. On Thursday afternoon, December 27, beginning at 1:30 o'clock, Mr. Hansen will be host at a party which will be given at the Princess theatre. All children under 14 years of age are invited and will be admitted free. The picture chosen for the occasion is one which the kids will be sure to enjoy—Walter Hiers in "Sixty Cents an Hour."

The romantic adventures of a soda clerk at $7.50 a week is the theme of the picture. He is a believer in Coue, bent on making his pet lines, that every day in every way, he is getting richer and richer, come true. Jacqueline Logan is his leading lady. The supporting cast is composed of thoroughly capable screen players. As an added attraction Baby Peggy will appear in "Tips."

If the kids don't swarm out in surprising numbers—and if they don't have the time of their lives—this newspaper is badly mistaken. It will be a big time for all of them.

Men of Trinity Lutheran Church Prove Real Chefs at Supper Served Friday

The supper in the basement of the Trinity church Friday night proved a complete success. The men of the church served with a dispatch that was a pleasure to all who came down to partake of the goose they had cooked to a turn, of the lefse that disappeared too rapidly from the plates, and the ludefisk that melted in the mouth. Over three hundred people were served between five and seven.

The men have been highly complimented upon the way they attended to details, and so many asked about another supper on the same order that they have finally decided to hold another spread sometime in January, the details of which will be announced in a later issue.

Support Your Creamery.

Dear Editor:

The other day a young man called at my farm, handed me a tag on which was printed the name, "The Blue Valley Creamery Co."

He offered me 62 cents for sweet and 60 cents for sour cream. Then he spoke his little piece that he had well committed to memory at headquarters. I listened to him as long as I could, until I could not stand his sophistry any longer. Then I asked him this plain question. Why do you not pay the farmers 62 cents for cream where they have no co-operative creameries? You well know that 62 cents is about 10 cents above the New York market. He had no answer for my question.

I then took my turn in talking and if ever a representative of the Blue Valley Creamery company got what he had coming I think he got his that day. He evidently had taken me for an old hayseed that did not know much.

It must be clear to any farmer that when these centralized creameries offer them prices for their cream that are even above New York that they do not do that for the good of the farmer, but have an evil mtive in so doing. They want t get him away from his home creamery and then when that is ruined then they will pay the farmer whatever they please to give him.

It is the same old trick they have played in Kansas, Nebraska, S. Dakota and other states where the farmers now get from 8 to 10 cents less per pound then we do here at home.

But says some one, "Is not their money as good as other people's money?"

No! The worst man I ever read about was one that sold our Master for thirty pieces of silver. Then in his remorse and despair did he think that his thirty pieces of silver were as good as any other money?

Indeed not. He brougth it to the chief priests and elders saying that he had betrayed the innocent blood. They said, "What is that to us? Seeh thou to that." And he cast down the pieces of silver in the temple and departed and went and hanged himself.

It took many years of hard and faithful labor by our farmers, their wives and theor boys and girls who all contributed their share in making our local creamery what it is. Would it now be right to accept a temporary gain and thereby ruin our co-operative creamery that is doing an honest and legitimate business?

These centralized concerns are backed by eastern capitalists who have already gouged their millions from the public in any way they could get it.

I hope that every farmer will stand by his local co-operative creamery and support and defend it as ever before.

Supreme Court Favors Local Attorney in Mrs. Elmer Goar Suit.

In the damage suit of Mrs. Elmer Goar against the village of Stephen and the Minnesota Electric Distributing company, which was appealed to the state supreme court after a jury in district court had awarded Mrs. Goar a verdict of $12,500, the higher court finds that the village is liable for injuries sustained by Mrs. Goar and that the EElectric Distributing company cannot be held responsible inasmuch as the electric light plant involved in the case had been turned over to the village some time before the accident occurred.

The damage suit grew out of an accident which befell Mrs. Goar while she was using an electric iron in her home. A short circuit caused by defective wiring burned her severly. Suit was filed in district court against the village and company, and a verdict was rendered by the jury for $12,500, but this was later reduced to $8,500 by Judge Watts.

The plaintiff in this suit is well known to many people in Thief River Falls and the further fact that she was represented by Mr. Chommie of this city adds more local interest to the case.

The world might get somewhere if folks were as anxious about smiles as about styles. Oh, if we had the same enthusiasm for hearts as for hats.

MIDDLE RIVER

Roseau Too Strong.

The Middle River city team journeyed to Roseau Saturday evening and were defeated in the opening game of the season by a score of 8 to 13. The local team was organized two weeks ago and is made up of the following players: Martin Gullickson, Herman Young, Bertil Sollom, E. O. Tandberg, O. J. Scheie, Dr. Snyder.

In the Roseau game Middle River tallied the first counters and kept the lead throughout the first half making the score 8 to 7 at the end of the second quarter. In the second half Middle River failed to find the basket and Roseau nosed ahead with si additional points leaving the score 8 to 13 when the whistle blew.

Due to lack of practice the locals were somewhat ragged on teamwork and passing and considerable difficulty was experienced in attempting to buck the Roseau defense which was exceptionally strong. The defense of the Middle River team was equally good and both sides were forced to resort to long shots.

With more practice the locals bid fair to develop into a whirlwind team. All the players have had considerable basketball experience and it should be only a matter of time before they develop into a winning aggregation. Herman Young and Bertil Sollum, guards, and Martin Gullickson, center, are former members of the Middle River City team. O. J. Scheie, E. O. Tandberg, and Dr. Snyder, forwards, are experienced college basketball men.

Dr. Brandt, who officiated at the Roseau game, proved a most able referee.

Turn Tables on Roseau.

The Middle River high school boys broke into the winning column last Friday evening when they defeated the Roseau high school team by a score of 22 to 8 on the local floor.

The lcal team displayed the best brand of basketball they have shown this season and demonstrated a remarkable improvement since the first game when they held the Warren high school team 18 to 12 score. In the Roseau game the improvement in floor work indicated by ecellent passing, pivoting, and teamwork was particularly noticeable.

The Roseau boys have already a string of wins to their credit and in spite of the score at Middle River they put up a stiff fight and displayed considerable ability as basketeers. The visitors proved themselves a bunch of clean-playing, hard-working fellows who consistently gave their best efforts to the game. There is no question but that the Roseau boys were at first bewildered by the small floor in much the same manner as the local boys were upset by the large floor during the first half of the game at Thief River Falls last Tuesday evening when the score stood 10 to 1 in favor of Thief River Falls at the end of the first half until the Middle River players found their bearings and counted ten points to their opponents' six during the last two quarters.

The games played so far by the Middle River boys have been practice contests preliminary to the regular conference schedule which opened Tuesday when Middle River clashes with Badger on the local floor. Friday's game was refereed by Coach Thune of Thief River Falls.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

This is the gladsome Yuletide when all humanity turns to thoughts of Christmas cheer. We may have suffered financial losses during the year, our plans of a year ago may have gone awry, but if we have our health and strength we have much to thank the Savior of mankind for.

Let us then enter upon the scene of Christmas cheer with grateful and happy hearts, considering the needs of those who are worse off than we are. There is much spiritual and material comfort in the idea of service to others. If we cannot give much to our less fortunate neighbors and friends let us at least, remembering the lowly Nazarene, give solace and comfort to others by our cheerful example expressed in words of sympathy and encouragement.

THE NEW G. N. DEPOT.

The banquet tendered the visiting Great Northern officials upon the occasion of the dedication of the new Great Northern depot was a correct expression of the feelings of the people of Thief River Falls. While the depot is not an imposing structure, as was well stated by Vice-President Countryman, it is about all that could be expected when railroad companies are so hard pressed for funds, and it is large enough and roomy enough to care for the present needs of the city.

The cost of the depot is approximately $20,000. When the city and the Great Northern decide to join hands in effort to remove from the front yard of the new depot some of the old barns and landmarks of former days which now obscure the view of the new depot from every direction, and place a neat little grass plot where it ought to be, the city will be still more proud of the new Great Northern depot.

We are inexpressibly proud to have had the pleasure of entertaining Mr. Countryman and his associates and we trust they will find many opportunities to get better acquainted with our people.

The Thief River Falls group which meets every once in a while in the Twin Cities to enjoy a social evening consistts of loyal sons and daughters who have not forgotten the scenes of their childhood. Here they enjoyed life to the fullest, while in the cities things are more crowded and congested. We doubt not that the only consideration which makes them satisfied to reside temporarily in Minneapolis or St. Paul is the fact that some day they will be back in good old Thief River Falls.

Doc. Milan is as sorry to leave Thief River Falls as we are sincerely sorry to have him leave. We all hope he will like his new surroundings at Warren, but if homesickness should overtake him he will always be welcome to abode with us again.

This is moving week for The Tribune. Next week this great family journal will be issued from its own home on Main avenue and it gots without saying that we are a little chesty over the fact. The patronage accorded this newspaper during the past year has been most gratifying and has made possible the rapid expansion of the plant until today it ranks with the largest newspaper plants of the northwest. In the near future The Tribune will print a photograph and general description of its splendid new home.

POOLED WOOL SELLS AT 46 TO 50 CENTS

The Wabasha sales department of the Minnesota Co-operative Wool Marketing association reported its third big sale of the season. A consignment of 8,000 pounds was sold at prices ranging from 46 cents for quarter blood to 50 cents for three-eighths blood.

The sale disposes of all these grades in the state pool and the management is now making a cut-off, preparatory to sending a final statement and settlement to growers.

There now remains in the state pool a small amount of fine half blood, low quarter blood and some rejects. The season has shown, says R. E. Jones, manager of the Wabasha pool, that too many farmers are amateurs in the profitable production of wool. A special effort to correct this evil will be made by the state association during the coming year.

FARE AND ONE HALF TO BUREAU MEETING

All arrangements have been completed for persons attending the annual convention of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, Jan. 8, 9, and 0, to make the round trip for a fare and a half, says J. S. Jones, secretary. All that will be necessary for persons attending to do, Mr. Jones says, is to obtain a certificate when the fare to St. Paul is paid. This certificate will be validated at the convention and will enable the holder to a return for half fare.

"We must have 250 certificates," continued Mr. Jones, "so it is important that all attending should get their certificates, for the failure of one might result in losses by all attending." Tickets may be purchased from Jan. 5 to 11. The rate is effective until Jan. 16.

Great Northern Extends Season's Greetings

While in volume of traffic the year 1923 has been the largest in the history of the Great Northern Railway, the net results of the year have been less profitable to the owners than in some former years, owing to the fact that increases in the cost of things, which compromise transportation, its sole product, have been greater than those in freight and passenger rates.

The Great Northern thanks the people who so liberally patronized it in 1923 and at the same time extends its thanks to those faithful, loyal and efficient employees who made it possible to handle this large volume of business. The Great Northern has great faith in the men and women who serve it, in the fairness of those whom it serves and in the ultimate prosperity of the territory it traverses. It has endeavored to render good service to its patrons and hopes to continually improve that service and to merit further patronage.

To all—patron and employee alike—in the spirit of the season, the Great Northern Railway wishes a joyous Christmas and a Happy and successful New Year.

LOUIS W. HILL
Chairman of the Board.

An Income Paying Investment

MANY PEOPLE habitually think of income paying investments as something beyond their reach. If they only knew how simply they, too, could accumulate property, they would start immediately to become financially independent.

Those who get ahead in the world use part of their earnings to buy productive wealth.

The door is open to you the same as to every one else—whether you earn $100 a month or ten times this amount. Are you willing to admit you cannot save $5 a month?

Nowadays you can become one of the owners of a great business institution, and put that organization to work for you.

Dividends that have been paid promptly on time for many years—not those merely promised—are the kind you want.

CLASS DELIVERS GOODS IN PLAY AT AUDITORIUM

iss Keyes Shows Superior Directing Ability In First Play.

Once again it has been proven that Thief River Falls is adequately provided for in the way of dramatic talent, and once again has it been shown that the old adage, "You never know what you can do until you have tried," is the very essence of truth. "Daddy Long Legs," is over and it has proved to be all that could be expected of it—a good cast, a good director, and chuck full of fun plus the the generous heart throb that everyone likes.

Arthur Penny as, "Jervis Pendleton," started slow and worked his part to a climax that showed a real understanding of and appreciation for light drama. Lucille Roark's "Judie," was a lady "passing fair," especially in the transformation from a scrubby orphan to a well known novelist. Attention should be called to the little scene between the butler, played by Francis Ohm and Judie in the last act. Her little moment of embarassment over the fact that she did not know her guardian's name, just before she asked how "the old man was getting along," was really worthy of a professional. The other parts were taken care of very capably. If they had not been, a hole would have appeared that the acting of the leads would never have been able to cover, so when the leads are congratulated it means partly because those in the lesser parts played up to them with such strength. Mention might be made of Ersyle Anderson as "Mrs. Lippet," e demon of the orphans; of Ruth elby as the orphan "Gladiola"; of nna Wedul os "Mrs. Semple," the dy who was addicted to listening ver the phone as some people are addicted to drugs; of Lloyd Bennes as Cyrus Wykoff," the "perfect" trustee; the mooning puppy lover that Thomas Melgaard became when he put on the clothes of his, "James McBribe," and so on down the list until at last mention would have to be made of the fellow who set the scenes, which was very well done, in order to do simple justice to all concerned.

The quoted adage above does not have to do with the players, however well it would fit them, but Miss Elinor Keyes, the teacher who coached these young people. Will it be believed, now that a sample of her handiwork has been before the public, that Miss Keyes never attempted anything in the dramatic line before, never has had so much as an amateur part in an amature play? She has done exceedingly well with this play and she is not only to be congratulated very highly, but also to be thanked for being kind enough and generous enough to undertake such a task under these conditions.

Mention must also be made of the music furnished before the show and between acts by the high school orchestra under the direction of Miss Maude L. Johnson. It was very enjoyable. The musicians played with a unison and spirit that was proof of the capable instruction she had given them.

For those who do not know why the play was put on, it might be stated that all money received above expenses will be used for the banquet such as is given every year by the Juniors for the Seniors.

Council Meeting Fails to Get Quorum; No Business Until Dec. 26th Meeting

The large crowd which gathered at the council rooms last Friday evening to be present at the adjourned meeting of the council, was doomed to disappointment. Only three aldermen—Messrs Brumund, Dahl and Brandon—showed up at the meeting, which was insufficient for a quorum and consequently there was nothing to do but postpone all business until the next regular meeting, which takes place on Wednesday evening, December 26.

Further investigation of certain alleged irregularities in delivery of coal, instituted upon motion of Alderman John Dahl at a previous meeting, was to have been the principal business last Friday evening. This matter is what brought a considerable number of citizens to the adjourned session which did not materialize.

Lady Foresters Conclude Drive for Members Which Adds to Order's Strength

The recent drive for new members inaugurated by the Lady Foresters lodge has been concluded, with very gratifying results. A class of 22 new members will be initiated into the order on January 7, at which time a big meeting and banquet is planned. The drive was carried on by two teams from the lodge, one consisting of married women and the other of unmarried ladies. The latter lost the race and as a result will be required to make all arrangements for the banquet to be given January 7.

Local Creamery Reports Fine Business for Month

The month of November was a very satisfactory one for the Thief River Co-operative Creamery association according to the report issued this week by Secretary T. H. Bjerke. A total of $15,697.24 was paid out to patrons during the month, which is a very gratifying showing for this season of the year. The report shows that nerly 70 patrons drew checks in excess of $50 during the month, and of these 14 were for more than $100. The Tribune has in type a list of these patrons, but due to lack of space its publication will have to be deferred until next week.

QUINT SPRINGS SURPRISE GAME

Saturday's Basketball Game Hard Fought to Very End of Play.

The high school players sprung a big surprise on the veteran city players last Saturday night by keeping the play tight as to score and uncertain as to outcome up to the very last whistle, the game ending in a score of 25 to 21 in favor of the city team. The lineup for the evening was as follows:

City	Position	Lincoln High
Kiland	F	Parenteau
Paranteau	F	Olson
LaBree	C	Penny
Wilson	C	Sether
Brown	G	Sorenson
Herron-Bye	G	Barzen

Roy Brown was the individual star of the evening, scoring three field goals from the middle of the floor. The high school play was characterized by short passes and pivoting. There were no individual players scoring high in flash plays, but rather all of the players worked together as a solid unit and in their team work and the different plays they featured in their game, the high school quintet were a credit to their coach, Mr. Thune.

No Delivery This Year on Rural Routes Out of City

Postmaster Daniel Shaw requests The Tribune to announce that there will be no delivery of mail on the rural routes out of Thief River Falls on Christmas day—next Tuesday. The rural carriers have been making their trips faithfully without interruption for a long time and the kindly postmaster feels they are entitled to a rest on Christmas day. Most of the patrons no doubt will agree with him.

Dorothy Mackaill, James Rennie and Other Famous Stars in Great New Film

"When you dance you pay the piper," but the crooks in the new Edwin Carewe production, "Mighty Lak' a Rose," to be shown at the Princess theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday, never dreamed what they would have to pay because of the music of the innocent young girl they tried to make one of themselves. This Carewe picture is said to be a powerful story of the charms of music. He has worked his story into a thrilling photodrama. Curtis Benton, author of several big screen plays, wrote the tale for Mr. Carewe. It is a First National release.

Dorothy Mackaill, who plays the role of the young violinist, is an eighteen-year-old English girl, who came to this country two years ago and almost immediately went into the Zeigfeld Follies as a dancer in the chorus numbers. So clever was she that in a very short time she was made leader of these numbers. James Rennie, who wooed and won the heart of Dorothy Gish, is still very active on the stage. He was leading man for Frances Starr this season in "Shore Leave," a Broadway success. Sam Hardy was also on the stage in a Broadway success while working in "Mighty Lak' a Rose." He and Lenore Llric were practically the "whole show" in "Kiki."

Special music has been arranged for this occasion, including violin selections by Henry Arneson with Mrs. Thelma Erickson at the organ.

Mrs. Harvy McLain of Hansboro, N. D., accompanied by her little son George, returned yesterday morning to that place, after visiting relatives in this city and attending the silver wedding celebrated by her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Erickson, which was held last Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. David Evenson arrived last Monday noon from Crookston to remain at the home of Mr. Evensn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Evenson, for an indefinite time.

Great Northern Station Is Dedicated Monday

this week a photograph of the new station, but the cut failed to arrive on time and will appear next week with a complete description of the depot.

Great Northern officials who attended the ceremony last Monday were: M. L. Countryman, vice president and general counsel of the Great Northern railway; P. F. Keating, general superintendent Eastern Division; Edward F. Flynn, assistant to vice president and general counsel and director of Bureau of Public Relations, all of St. Paul; E. A. Mills, general master carpenter; J. H. Griffin, division freight agent; J. E. O'Brien, superintendent; E. McNulty, master carpenter, all of Grand Forks; John Laughlin, division roadmaster, of Crookston; George Winney, master mechanic, Crookston; and R. E. Carter, traveling freight agent, Grand Forks.

Mr. Countryman's address was a thoughtful analysis of the situation in which the railroads find themselves at the present time. His remarks were accentuated by a number of pointed stories which fairly convulsed his hearers with laughter. He prefaced his general address with an expression of confidence in the territory which surrounds Thief River Falls.

John D. Rockefeller doesn't have to worry about spending his money, for in a short time it all comes back to him.

Saturday Marks Close of Better Sires Campaign

the campaign. He had been so busy soliciting that he had entirely forgotten the other campaigners. He did not think of his strongest opponent, Miss Edyth Malmquist out in River Falls township, with her support in the village of St. Hilaire rolling up a list of subscribers giving her the lead with points numbering 360 to his 346. This is the prettiest contest in the entire campaign, with each maintaining a lead in the home section and fighting every inch of the way for supremacy in the entire county.

The campaign is now nearing its end. Every campaigner is working harder as the closing day approaches. Some have apparently been snowed under in their sections, but still maintain that no one knows the results as they are holding great numbers of subscriptions ready for Saturday, December 22, at 9 p. m., the closing hour.

Scores have been increased by the following through reports since last week:

Edyth Malmquist, River Falls	360
Jul Kilen, Kratka	346
Zella Huddleson, Wyandotte	116
Emil Singer, Deer Park	72
Arnold Aakre, Reiner	62
Albert Holmen, Cloverleaf	56
Lewis B. Hruby, Star	52
Delbert Kron, Norden	32
Anna Rindahl, Hickory	30

Since the Marshall county campaigners were a week late in getting started, they have been given the privilege of continuing the campaign for an extra week if they so desire. Whether or not the contest there closes next Saturday depends upon the replies received from that section within the next day of two. The whole proposition has been put up to the campaigners themselves.

The closing rules of the campaign were announced last week. All subscriptions turned in by 9 o'clock in the evening of next Saturday, December 22, will be counted. All letters bearing subscriptions and carrying the Saturday postmark also will be credited. This latter arrangement is made for the benefit of campaigners who find it impossible to be here in person and therefore find it necessary to use the mails in getting their credits to this office.

Three judges outside of The Tribune force will be chosen to count the credits and make the awards. The entire proceedings will be public and all campaigners are invited to be present when the count is made. This newspaper will do everything within its power to see that all of the young folks who have so faithfully been working during the past several weeks get an absolutely fair deal. Their efforts are fully appreciated and The Tribune's only regret is its inability to award each and every one of them a first prize.

Salvation Army Xmas. Program.

Next Saturday night, December 22, 1923, at 8 p.m., the Salvation Army will give their annual Christmas Tree program for the children of Thief River Falls. The program will consist of recitations, solos, dialogues, and duets. After which the children will receive a gift and some candy.

Don't forget the date. Saturday night, December 22, at 8 p.m. at 317 Main avenue north. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

TRIBUNE SIRES CAMPAIGN ENDS WITH COMPLETE SURPRISE WHEN FINAL COUNT LINES UP VICTORS

Nobel Urdahl of Goodridge Township Turns in High Score For County, With Edyth Malmquist of River Falls a Close Second—Victor Johnson and Lewis Hruby Win First Awards in Respective Districts.

With every moment of the last week adding interest and pep, the Better Sires campaign conducted by The Tribune during the past five weeks, came to a close last Saturday evening at nine o'clock.

Many surprises were sprung during the campaign, but the biggest surprise of all came Saturday when Nobel Urdahl of Goodridge township came to Thief River Falls to submit his final report. Nobel had apparently not been going very strong during the early part of the campaign and at no time had he been considered a contender for first place. But Nobel had been working all the time and it was very evident when he reported on Saturday that he had been getting results. He turned in enough credits to nose out by a small majority Miss Malmquist of River Falls, who led the field during the week previous. There was a difference of only five cents in the reports turned in by Mr. Urdahl and Miss Malmquist, which is little short of remarkable. Jul Kilen, who made such a fine record throughout the campaign, finished third in the county and second in his own district. If he were located in any other district than his own or Miss Malmquist's, his credits would have entitled him to first place in his district. Mr. Urdahl and Mr. Kilen both hail from District No. 3.

A number of campaigners were present Saturday evening when the closing hour came and the judges took up the task of counting the credits. Messrs. J. J. McCann, Geo. W. Werstlein and Albert Lonson acted as judges and officiated in a manner highly satisfactory to all concerned. Nearly two hours were required in making the count.

Following is given the standing of the candidates in the various districts according to the findings of the judges:

District No. 1.

Victor F. Johnson, Bray	162
Delbert Kron, Norden	108
Alpha Vedum, Polk Center	20
Wm. Newman, Sanders	8
Hilda Bugge, Numedal	4

District No. 2.

Edyth Malmquist, River Falls	529½
Zella Huddleson, Wyandotte	160
Kittel Rynestad, North	44
Hildegaard Kitzrow, Black River	20
Arnold Gunderson, Rocksbury	8

District No. 3.

Nobel Urdahl, Goodridge	530
Jul Kilen, Kratka	446
Lawrence Letnes, Silverton	237
Martin Wiken, Smiley	152
Albert Holmen, Cloverleaf	60

District No. 4.

Lewis Hruby, Star	178
Arnold Aakre, Reiner	130
Emil Singer, Deer Park	72
Edna Nelson, Mayfield	40
Gilman Homme, Highlanding	34
Anna Rindahl, Hickory	34

Mr. Urdahl, turning in high credits for the county, was declared entitled to the special Holstein sire offered by M. T. McFarland. Being a breeder of Guernseys, he kindly turned over to Miss Malmquist the privilege of choosing this particular sire, and the McFarland animal is therefore declared the property of the courageous little worker from River Falls. A Guernsey of acceptable color and type will be delivered to Mr. Urdahl.

It is the wish of The Tribune that all winners of prizes make their wants known at the earliest opportunity in order that the animals and birds may be secured for them. The winners have choice of breeds and nothing can be done until each and every one of the campaigners designates a preference.

The Tribune wishes to take this opportunity of thanking the campaigners for the work so well done. This newspaper has made many new friends in the county through the venture and hopes that its efforts in the direction of improving the county's livestock may prove successful. The winners of prizes will be checked up at stated intervals during the next year and those taking the best care of their animals or birds will be suitably rewarded. Further details of this plan will be announced in a later issue.

The campaign for Marshall county closes next Saturday evening but as only one district was formed there the competition and interest have not reached the white heat noticeable in Pennington. The Marshall campaigners have been working faithfully, however, and will be given the best consideration and treatment of which The Tribune is capable.

A SMALL TRIBUNE

This week's issue of the Tribune in size and other respects fails to measure up to the usual standard. But there is a reason. The office and equipment have been moved into new quarters during the week, and in addition the Christmas holidays made it necessary for the management and employees to spend a few extra hours at home. By next week it is hoped that everyone connected with the production of this newspaper will be all through moving and observing holidays so that a creditable edition may be issued.

Error Corrected.

The Tribune reporter got things balled up last week in making mention of the druggists who paid fines for technical violations of certain federal rulings relating to dispensing drugs in a certain manner. This paper stated that F. J. Stebbins of this city had paid a fine, which was entirely untrue. The violation was committed by Milford Sorenson, clerk employed at the Stebbins drug store, and Milford paid the fine imposed. The Tribune deeply regrets the error made in reporting the case, as well as any unpleasantness which may have resulted to Mr. Stebbins because of the misstatement made in the news story last week.

LINCOLN QUINT CAPTURES GAME

Thune's Men Whip Roseau in First District Contest of Season.

The basketball boys came out ahead once more last Friday when they whipped Roseau to the tune of 34 to 5. This, in spite of the reputation Roseau brought to this city.

The visiting team played very well, but was unable to get through Thief River's defense. The local quint's offensive worked as fine as always and, although it was not a very fast game, yet it was a good clean one. The star of the evening, as before, was Arthur Penney. The Thief River lineup for the evening was: Sether, center; Paranteau and Penney, forwards; Barzen and Sorenson, guards.

The game was one of the set the boys must go through in order to get the district championship and that they have won the first one on the list will go a long way in supplying the confidence that will be needed in future tussles.

CITY DEBATERS PROVE ABILITY

Last Thursday night the Thief River Falls debating team won from the Red Lake Falls team with a score of 3-0.

The Red Lake Falls trio presented a nice debate, but showed no certainty in the rebuttal at which Mr. Mickelson's team was very strong. Sometime before January 19, there will be another debate on the same subject with Roseau. That city has a much stronger team and quite a battle of wits may be expected to take place. The subject as on last Thursday, will be, "Resolved that European immigration into the United States should be prohibited by law for a period of five years." It is not known as yet just which side of the subject will be assigned to the Thief River Falls team.

The judges for the contest on the 20th were Supt. John Nystul of Middle River, Miss Bena Eikeness, the teacher of English at Middle River, who was called upon when Supt. Holmquist of Warren failed to arrive; and Supt. Anderson of St. Hilaire.

The Thief River team was composed of Hazel Krause, May Ballingrud and Margaret Melgaard, and the Red Lake Falls team had Lillian Patteneau, Peggy Ives and Lloyd Paul as its force.

Spread Christmas Cheer.

A number of the members of the local W. C. T. U. visited the poor farm last Sunday afternoon for the purpose of spreading Christmas cheer among the inmates of that institution. It was a very thoughtful act on the part of the ladies and was much appreciated by the less fortunate people who are dependent upon charity for the necessities of life.

J. F. Farr Bound Over to District Court on Charge of Liquor Law Violation

J. F. Farr, whose place of business on LaBree avenue was raided on Sunday, December 16, by Sheriff Ihle and the city police, appeared in municipal court for hearing Saturday morning on a liquor charge. Sheriff Ihle and Chief of Police Ralston both testified that a pint of moon had been discovered in a coat hanging on the wall near the bar, but Farr claimed he knew nothing of it being there.

Judge Tarrant, after hearing the evidence on both sides, decided it was a case requiring the consideration of the district court and accordingly bound Mr. Farr over to appear before Judge Grindeland at the next term. Bonds were placed at $500 and immediately furnished.

A warrant has also been issued for the arrest of Glenn Farr on the same charge, but the young man is absent from the city and the warrant has therefore not yet been served.

JUDGE DECLARES RAMBECK CHOSEN

The judges of election who declared O. A. Rambeck the duly elected alderman from the Fourth ward were upheld at the hearing held before Judge Andrew Grindeland of the district court last Thursday. Andrew Ness, present alderman defeated for re-election by the narrow margin of three votes, brought the contest and asked for a recount.

The ballots cast in the Fourth ward were recounted at the hearing, and Ness gained one vote in the process. This makes the final official count 137 for Ness and 139 for Rambeck, a difference of only two votes.

This officially brings the matter to an end as far as the election in the Fourth ward is concerned, and judgment is being entered this week declaring Mr. Rambeck duly and legally elected to serve as alderman from that ward for the next two years.

Canadian Traveler First At Window for Ticket in New G. N. Railroad Depot

In Kipling, Saskatchewan, Canada, a man by the name of G. A. Brothen, decided to take a trip, so he left his native country and came to Thief River Falls. Apparently this was not quite far enough so he decided to try again and in buying ticket number 35255 which guaranteed a safe landing in the town of Holt, he also possessed himself of the honor of having bought the first ticket passed through the wicket at the new depot down on the lower end of Main avenue.

The star under which he was born is not known to date, nor the date of his birth, nor what kind of a horseshoe he threw over his shoulder at the time of his leaving home, but honor has certainly attended him, or at the very least, great good luck. Here were speeches made, a monster banquet given attended by men of high position, and all done to open the smart little station; but what really opened it to the public was a little ticket traveling from one hand to another, because a certain Mr. Brothen away off in Kipling, Saskatchewan, came to Thief River Falls and then decided to take a journey to Holt.

Old Resident, After Many Years Service in Behalf of Others, Dies From Age

On Christmas night, Mary M. Vesey, familiarly known as Grandma Vesey, died after having been confined to her bed since Thanksgiving.

She was born in Maine 90 years ago and came to this county with her husband and children and has resided here ever since. Her husband died in 1908 and of the six children born to them, all but two sons who live in Minneapolis are also dead. The two who still live are Martin and George. She had one son, William, in the Boer war. He disappeared when the transport on which he was sailing to England sank on the high seas. She is also survived by twelve grand children. Of these, Francis and William Midderigh live in this city.

Grandma Vesey was very well known in this neighborhood and everyone who came in contact with her was attracted by her kindliness and the loveliness of her mind.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

During the recent "Better Sires" camptign a large number of new subscribers were added to our subscription list. Some confusion inevitably results during such campaigns and we ask all subscribers to assist us in correcting mistakes. Some will receive two papers, some none, and we will appreciate a card from any so aggrevated in order that we may put our house in order.

SILVERTON BOY FACES SERIOUS CHARGE BY GIRL

Charged With Assaulting School Girl Only Eleven Years of Age.

Frank Danda, 18 years old, son of a farmer residing in Silverton township, was arrested last Friday and brought before Judge N. W. Tarrant in municipal court, on a charge of attempting to rape little Gladys Gordon, eleven-year-old daughter of A. P. Gordon of the same township. After hearing the evidence in the case, Judge Tarrant bound young Danda over to the district court under bonds of $1,000, which were furnished and the young man set at liberty.

According to the story told in court, the little girl was on her way home from school and in passing a tract covered with brush she was attacked by a man wearing a black handkerchief tied over his face. The assailant quickly dragged his victim into the brush and attacked her, but apparently was scared away before being able to accomplish his fiendish purpose. The little girl's clothing was badly torn, however, and she suffered severely from fright and nervous shock. She was able to appear in court and described her assailant so accurately that there appears little doubt as to Danda being the guilty party.

The Gordon family formerly resided in Thief River Falls, and moved onto the Silverton farm several years ago. The warrant for young Danda's arrest was sworn to by Mr. Gordon, who naturally is much incensed over the brutal attack upon his little daughter.

ALUMNI GATHER FRIDAY NIGHT

Many Old Time Grads Meet At Sons of Norway Hall for Reunion.

On December 28, the alumni will gather at the Sons of Norway hall, bringing back scenes of which the Lincoln high and the old high school, now called the Washington, were the backgrounds for. Many of the long ago classes promise to show up, even to the one of 1904, or thereabouts.

The program has been whipped into shape by the entertainment committee and holds as much of pleasure as it well can and still be kept within certain time limits for cards and dancing are to be indulged in. A lunch will also be served.

No one should feel hurt because an announcement failed to arrive. There are so many graduates and they have been moving around so often, or settling down and practically ceasing to be one of the old gang, that numbers have been totally lost track of even though they may not live for away. Some of these may be in Thief River Falls for Christmas, perhaps some have even lived in town for some time and have not been notified. If these things are so, come anyhow like the good sports all Lincoln grads are and leave present or future addresses with the secretary so that no one will be mislaid next year.

As to admission: The present seniors, and husbands and wives of the alumni will be admitted for 50c, and old Lincolnites for the regular price of one dollar.

A couple of days ago, Harold and Christ Berg, who have a farm northwest of this city received notice that their brother, Joseph Johnson was lost.

Mr. Johnson, who lives near Kenora, Manitoba, had left home on the 3rd of December to go over his trap line. This operation should take about ten days, but when he failed to appear up to the 20th his family became alarmed and notified his brothers. Harold Berg left immediately for Canada to look into the disappearance.

Joseph Johnson has many acquaintances in this part of the country as he lived in this vicinity with his parents, the Johnson-Bergs, since 1882. At one time he ran one of the steam boats up the Red Lake river to Red Lake. He moved to Kenora about fifteen years ago and spent his time in the summers running boats on the Lake of the Woods, in the fall he became a hunter and hunters' guide, and later in the winter generally established a trap line. He was engaged in this venture at the time he disappeared.

FLAMES DAMAGE BUSINESS BLOCK

Cosgrove Building on Main Ave. Damaged by Fire Last Evening.

Fire of unknown origin which started last evening about 7:30 in the basement of the Cosgrove building on LaBree avenue caused damage variously estimated at from $1,000 to $1,500. Most of the damage was caused by smoke and water.

Just how the fire started is not known, but it is generally believed that spontaneous combustion caused the conflagration. When first discovered, the flames were located some distance from the furnace in the central part of the building and the fire department was successful in confining the blaze to this locality. The floor of the first story was flooded with water which prevented the flames from burning through and spreading to other parts of the building. Vast clouds of dense smoke were produced by the fire and for a while it looked as if the entire structure were doomed.

It was a close call and the fire department is entitled to credit for the efficient manner in which the fire was brought under control. Business is being carried on in the building as usual today but the stock, walls, ceiling and fixtures are pretty badly discolored and saturated from the smoke which filled the structure last evening.

Golf Club Plans Indoor Lessons For Enthusiasts During the Cold Months

The Thief River Golf club has secured the Commercial club rooms to be used in giving indoor golf lessons during the winter months. It is hoped that members of the club will take sufficient interest in the matter to receive instruction so that next spring when playing is started, all will have a working knowledge of the game.

Any member who desires to receive instruction is requested to communicate with W. A. Barnard, D. P. Gamble or H. O. Chommie, so that the necessary arrangements may be made.

North Dakota Farmer Buys Pennington Guernsey Bull From O. N. Olson's Herd

George P. Johnson of Fullerton, N. D., made a deal last week whereby he purchased from O. N. Olson, prominent farmer residing near Thief River Falls, the registered Guernsey bull, Clovercrest Taurus 77034, at a cost of $220. This bull carries 40 per cent of the same breeding as the great cow, Lady Bruce of Clovercrest, now owned by F. J. Conklin, which made a record of 720 pounds of butterfat in one year.

The bull sold by Mr. Olson won first prize at the Pennington county fair last fall. The animal was shipped on Monday and the express charges alone amounted to $52, whch was paid by the purchaser. Fullerton is located west of Bismark. The bull should prove a valuable addition to Mr. Johnson's herd, and the fact that this breeder came all the way to Pennington county in order to find an animal which suited his purpose proves that local breeders possess a quality of Guernseys of which they may well feel proud.

LONG GOLF SEASON

As proof that this section of the country has recently enjoyed real California weather may be cited in the fact that on Saturday, December 22, 1923, a number of local golf enthusiasts gathered on the course and proceeded to play the game in regular summer fashion, minus coats and mittens. Dr. O. F. Mellby wah one of the players and he states that conditions were ideal in every way for enjoyable golf. This should prove that there's really nothing the matter with Northern Minnesota climatic conditions.

CAR OF ALFALFA SEED TO ARRIVE IN NEAR FUTURE

Thirty Thousand Pounds of Grimm Seed Coming From Idaho.

Pennington Growers Plan Certified Alfalfa Seed Growers Association.

Alfalfa growers in Pennington county are very anxious to establish a Certified Grimm Seed Growers association. With this thought in mind, the Bankers association, the Farm Bureau and the Commercial club have made an extra effort to assist the growers in getting the best seed possible. As a result of this co-operation of the several organizations, a carload of 30,000 pounds of alfalfa seed will arrive in Thief River Falls some time during the second week in January.

This seed is coming directly from A. B. Lyman, the originator of Grimm alfalfa, and is grown in Blackfoot, Idaho, from his own Carver county stock in Minnesota. Growers planting this seed will be admitted into the association the first year, as there will be no question as to the origin or quality of the crop grown.

By taking a carload of seed, the Pennington county alfalfa growers are able to secure it at 45 cents per pound laid down in Thief River Falls. If the same seed was secured in small lots it would cost between 55 and 60 cents per pound.

Growers belonging to the association will have no difficulty in getting rid of their seed at a fancy price as the market demands a seed whose origin is strictly Grimm and which traces back to the Lyman stock. An affidavit and certificate of certification will accompany each man's order.

Most of the seed which will arrive in the carload has already been ordered by local growers, but a small allotment is still left and growers who have not yet spoken for seed should avail themselves of the opportunity to get some of the best seed from this shipment.

KILLS HERSELF IN MOROSE FIT

Mrs. Wm. Krueger of Red Lake Falls Found in Clearwater River.

After writing a brief note to her husband saying that she was leaving him forever because she felt herself too much of a burden, Mrs. William Krueger left her home near Red Lake Falls late last Wednesday night and committed suicide by drowning herself in the Clearwater river.

Worried over continued ill health and brooding over troubles, Mrs. Krueger, who was 42 years old, was not entirely in her right mind and had threatened to end her life before and now apparently thought she could stand things no longer. When found, the body was completely clothed, even to overshoes and overcoat, and a hat. Besides her husband, she leaves three daughters, Leora, 19; Irene, 15; Elizabeth, called Betty Lou, an infant of only four months.

Mrs. Krueger is also survived by her aged mother, Mrs. Johanna Gerlach, of Wylie, one brother, Chas. G. Gerlach, of Wylie; and by five sisters: Mrs. Herman Wolf of Park City, Mont.; Mrs. William Leherer of Brown's Creek; Mrs. Henry Giese, of East Grand Forks; Mrs. Arnold Zutz of Red Lake Falls and Mrs. Harvey E. Pray of Lake Pleasant.

Mrs. Krueger's maiden name was Louise Gerlach. She was born in Calumet county, Wisconsin, in 1881 and came to Red Lake county with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gerlach two years later. They settled on a farm near Wylie, where Mrs. Krueger lived until she married William Krueger in 1901. For many years the Kruegers ran the Grand View hotel in Red Lake Falls, but with the opening of the Lincoln hotel in 1919, the Grand View closed and they have since lived on their farm in Louisville.

Many From County Attend Crookston Aggie School

The first term of the school year at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, closed December 21. The second term will begin January 2. New students may enter for the second term and will be enrolled in special classes provided for them. It will be possible for them to complete a course of study during the three months. A number of courses are offered such as engineering, dressmaking, high school subjects, music, agriculture, business training and domestic science.

This county was well represented at the Northwest School during the first term. The attendance there was larger than for the last two years. A number of young men and women from this county expect to attend the Northwest school during the second term beginning January 2.

Campaigner Thanks Friends.

I take this means of expressing my deep appreciation and gratitude to my friends and neighbors for the splendid support given me in The Tribune Better Sires campaign which closed last Saturday evening. These friends were largely responsible for the very creditable showing I was able to make, and I trust each one will feel repaid through the fact that River Falls wins the vaulable Holstein sire, together with acquiring the reputation of being the home of people who thoroughly appreciate the value of better livestock upon the farms.

Considerable excitement has been stirred up over the arrest last week near Milaca of Deputy State Auditor Matt Desmond and R. J. DeLury, attached to the State Land Department, on the charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated and transporting liquor. The officials who have borne a good reputation in the past were on their way to Hibbing to attend a convention of county auditors, so they stated to the deputy who arrested them. The sheriff of Mille Lacs county evidently placed a literal construction upon the action of the enforcement conference held in St. Paul last week, heeding the advice of Governor Preus to get the higher-ups first.

Geo. Breitsprecher, who resides southeast of St. Hilaire, has a rather hard name to pronounce but he snaps his fingers at old man hard times every morning and all because he has 400 hard working hens who keep the wolf from the door. He has been marketing from four to fourten cases of eggs every week this past summer. He has two big hen houses which represent but a small investment and will have eight hundred hens next summer. George paid $70 per acre for his land three years ago and he is getting there with with both feet but he is doing it with cows, hens, hogs and alfalfa.

The present congress might do worse than make a start in the direction of abolishing tax-exempt securities. So long as the idle rich may invest their money in such securities the interest on farm loans will continue to be high and it is a debatable question whether the system now in vogue will not seriously impair the safety of the smaller banks of the middle west and place this section more than ever at the mercy of the eastern money centers. Sure it is that very little money will find its way into the legitimate channels of business so long as tax exempt securities may be had which will yield a return of 5 per cent on the investment.

We saw a pretty tough letter the other day written by the secretary of a loan company to a farmer threatening foreclosure of the mortgage if the interest was not paid forthwith. The letter was shamefully abusive according to our way of thinking. And yet the money which this loan company was handling belonged to an insurance organization which is largely dependent upon the support of the farmers of the country. What would this upstart of a secretary say if the farmers should tell the insurance companies to go to Halifax, start an organization of their own and make their own loans at reasonable rates and employing men to handle their affairs who had some sense of justice?

Again we hear the clamor for a state-wide police system. We want none of it in ours. If the cities will quit harboring all sorts of crooks the smaller towns will feel perfectly safe. There are thousands of people living in the Twin Cities who have no visible means of support, and they constitute the vast army of yeggs, pickpockets and porch climbers who prey on the smaller towns of the state. Put these people in jail or make them go to work and the demand for a state constabulary will go glimmering over night. So far as Thief River Falls is concerned we have no crime situation to contend with except an occasional bootlegger and we are perfectly able to take care of them without outside assistance.

The Farmers Co-operative Creamery in Thief River Falls deserves the active support of every dairyman in the vicinity. Co-operation means standing together, and only when farmers learn the lesson which big business has practiced for many years, of upholding prices upon their product, can the men and women who till the soil hope to have a dividend producing business. Any movement which threatens the creamery should meet with the most determind opposition of the farmers, and we honestly believe that no better step could possibly be devised than to secure the signature of every farmer in the vicinity to a contract which would bind them to deliver their cream to their own institution for the next five years.

A pretty good story of what knockers and pessimists may do for a community comes from Wadena. An Iowan looking for a farm came to Wadena and put up at the hotel for several weeks without disclosing his purpose. He met many people who told him the farmers were all broke, most of them were leaving the country, the town was no good and the people of the community were all crooks and robbers. He heard so much pessism and knocking that he went back to Iowa and rented a farm, wisely deciding that a community which harbored so many knockers had something radically wrong with it. The moral should be plain to every man of average intelligence.

Thief River Falls has every reason to feel proud of its splendid Commercial club; and it is sincerely to be hoped that local business and professional men, and in fact all who have the best interests of the city and community at heart, who are not now active members, will enroll themselves with this live organization. The Tribune has heard many complimentary remarks over the manner in which the Commercial club has taken hold of community interests during the past year, and President Froehlich and his official staff are entitled to the sincere gratitude of the city for their progressive spirit and energy.

From its new and extremely pleasant quarters on Main avenue The Tribune hereby issues its best wishes for a Happy and Prosperous New Year to every man, woman and child in the community.

Minnesota has been more prompt than any northwestern state in repaying to the government its war finance loans, the unpaid balance being now slightly in excess of four millions. The record shows that the corn growing sections have met their obligations with greater promptitude than the grain growing sections. Which brings us to say that Pennington county will lead next year in the production of alfalfa and will increase its corn acreage to proportions which will open the eyes of the entire state.

The recent crop and poultry show brought into bold relief the fact that Pennington county is now the poultry center of the northwestern section of Minnesota. Such men as Olaf Neset, Theo. Thronson and County Agent McCann, who bore the brunt of the burden of putting on the show, are not to be found in every community, and they deserve a vote of thanks for the manner in which they handled the best show of its kind ever staged in this section of the state.

The pot-bellied congressmen and senators of every political stripe who were so concerned this summer over the election of Magnus Johnson to the United States senate have only to get in front of a looking glass to find the reason. If these pin heads will forget their party differences and pass measures for the relief of agriculture they may play Ma Jongg for the balance of the winter for all the people of the country gives a whoop.

The members of Eklund Post are to be commended upon the spirit which prompted them to establish a skating rink for the use of young and old in this city. Those soldier boys are a good bunch of unselfish boosters for the community and whether they are digging trenches in time of war or making skating rinks in times of peace, they are there with the pep and that's what counts.

It should not be necessary for the grain farmers of the northwest to ask government loans for the purchase of livestock. The farmers will be "sitting pretty" if the government will just return that $58,000,000 which the wheat corporation operating during the period of the war took from them by unfair manipulation of grain grades.

More than 200 people have died recently in San Francisco from drinking moonshine and "synthetic" gin, according to the statement of physicians who claim the cause of death has generally been given as heart disease. Come to think of it there has been a noticeable increase in casualties resulting from heart trouble.

It was Sherman who said, "war is hell." Sherman, however, lived in an age preceding the automobile and we rise to remark that his statement carries with it little significance when one contemplates the horrible list of killed and maimed which is now the annual toll of the new engine of death which operates freely upon the public highway of the country. If war is hell then the automobile is hell and repeat.

Alfalfa is the best feed in the world for every domestic animal. With this idea firmly fixed in the minds of the farmers of this section, and the further fact that this country is in all respects the ideal alfalfa raising section of the northwest, rich in lime and other elements so necessary to the successful cultivation of legumes—no one need worry over the future prosperity of the country.

Bemidji is having a heck of a time with their city water supply, and are faced with the proposition of a $100,000 bond issue for new water mains, according to the Sentinel. It seems that no one has taken a bath in Bemidji for weeks, since the water has taken on a green hue something like creme de menthe and smells like all sin.

The Roseau county bankers have been bitten by the alfalfa bug and have purchased eight tons of seed for local distribution. It is the best move ever undertaken by the bankers and, like bread cast upon the waters, will come back to them a thousand fold in increased prosperity all around.

Henry Ford's statement that he will favor the candidacy of President Coolidge next year comes as a distinct surprise inasmuch as many believed the automobile manufacturer would surely be in the race next year on his own account. Prsident Coolidge is sure to be nominated by the Republicans and the support of Henry Ford will go a long ways toward securing him the election.

A sneak thief stole twenty turkeys from a Greenbush woman while she was visiting neighbors with members of her family. We have under suspicion as the guilty party a man who took The Tribune for two years and then marked it "refused" at the postoffice without paying for it.

The Oklee Herald states that six hundred new acres of alfalfa will be planted near Oklee this coming spring. We believe the estimate is too low but even that much will be a start which will put Oklee on the future alfalfa map of the state.

Every intoxicated person who takes an automobile out on the open road ought to be sent to jail, with no option of a fine. Unless this method of punishment is strictly adhered to the time will soon be here when it will be utterly dangerous to travel upon the public highways of the nation.

The human heart can withstand a good deal of rough treatment but it is too much to expect such a delicate organism to keep a thumping away in an effort to keep life in a carcass which insists on being full of moonshine. Moonshine would stop a clock.

Judge Peterson sent an Albert Lea man to the penitentiary last week for selling moonshine to young boys. We hope the next legislature will add a public whipping post to the penalty for such offenses.

A Granite Falls newspaper records an accident in which an automobile ran into a cow without lights. Tail lights were out, presumably.

IS PRICE FIXING ECONOMICALLY UNSOUND?

The objection, "economically unsound," means simply, that price fixing on farm products is not a good business principle. Well, let us see.

To start with, we will ask a question or two. Who makes the objection that price fixing on farm products is economically unsound? We read it in some of the big newspapers. Who controls these big newspapers? In most cases they are owned by very rich men in our big cities who conduct the kind of business that is more or less dependent on politics. They keep these papers going in order to control public opinion and the politics of the state and nation. They hire editors to do this work for them.

An enormous amount of capital is invested in the kind of business that buys, handles and sells the products of the soil and earth, be it grain, cotton, meats, coal, iron, lumber, etc.

Do the farmers fix a price on their products when they sell? Not yet.

Do the big buyers of grain, cotton, meats, etc. set a price when they sell? Yes, they have always done that. They claim that to succeed in business a person must figure out very closely the expenses involved, and then sell for a price that will exceed the cost, and we all agree that this is an economically sound business principle. So far, we have nothing to complain on the big business that buys, handles and sells farm products.

In order that big business can have power to fix a price on farm products that will give them a profit, they organize openly or secretly, (as the case demands) into co-operative societies. Thus we get the Association of Boards of Trade, which is a nationwide organization of local boards in the grain-buying centers, namely, Duluth, Minneapolis, Chicago, New York, and other big cities. Representatives of these boards meet at the headquarters of the association and figure out approximately how many bushels of the different kinds of grain will be harvested when fall comes. While the crops are growing these representatives of the boards decide just about what the price shall be. This price fixing on farm products they call the market price.

At the daily sessions of the local boards, grain of all kinds is bought and sold partly by speculators, who try to make money. (I know of men in Thief River Falls who have tried their luck that way). Millers and manufacturers of cereal food stuffs sometimes buy grain at these sessions. What the grain sells for at the close of these sessions is called the market price until the next day to about the same hour, and that price is telegraphed and telephoned to all buyers of grain in all states.

When there are few and slack buyers the price usually drops; when buyers bid over one another, just as at an auction, the price rises. When many and financially strong buyers combine to abstain from bidding on grain they can easily cause a drop of prices. (Many a fool speculator has lost all he had this way).

This process of buying, selling and price fixing on farm products is held to be economically sound by the big newspapers.

But is it economically sound for the farmers?

He is absolutely barred from having anything to say about the price for which he has to sell his grain. The big buyers never ask about his expenses. He works hard the year around to produce as much as his circumstances permit and then, when selling time comes, he finds that he is caught in a trap set by the above mentioned economical trappers.

The prices are usually kept quite high, while the crops are growing, but as soon as grain begins to be sold the prices drop.

The economical trappers blame it to the big crop that is being dumped on the market. They say, "The big supply naturally forces the price down." We ask, "Why should it do that?" Are not the expenses of the farmer just the same when the big buyers have a big supply of grain on hand? Shall the farmer be punished for raising a good supply of grain?

This price fixing by the big buyers is what ruins the business of farming. The farmer is the only kind of business man that has absolutely nothing to say about the price for which he must sell. This situation is America's calamity at present.

When the dry goods merchant, the grocer, the hardware man, the clothier, the boot and shoe dealer, the dealer in machinery of all kinds, the lumberman and all other kinds of merchants order goods for this business, they are told beforehand what they are supposed to sell it for and they mark their goods to show what they cost and what they shall sell for. We farmers do not blame the merchants for their methods. (It is only when we are all convinced that someone of them has an unreasonably high price on certain things, that we getg angry and send to Sears Roebuck for it). But we ask, why should not we have the same right to have a little to say about the price on farm products, as the merchants have to have a central organization somewhere to fix a price for them?

When we go to the hardware man and ask him for something he happens to be out of he takes the catalog of the house where he buys and shows us what that thing will cost. The price is fixed for him. The same method prevails at the grocer, at the drygoods store, at the clothiers, at the shoe store, etc.

We do not complain on this method, but we ask why can't we just as well have someone somewhere to set a price on our products that will stay there the year around? Give us the same right to run our business as the merchants now enjoy and we shall become more prosperous and better customers for our local towns and cities. We will now demand a national government commission to set a price on farm products and that price to stay there one year at a time, so we do not have to be caught by the economical trappers every time we sell our grain, etc.

More next time if the editor permits.

MIDDLE RIVER

Initial Conference Game .. Annexed by Home Players

Playing to the largest turn-out of the season, Middle River high school won its first conference game Tuesday evening by defeating Badger '22 to 5 on the local floor. The one-sided score proved a surprise in view of the fact that Badger recently defeated the strong Warroad aggregation.

The locals showed good form and played a consistent game, showing great improvement in teamwork and speed. William Krueger scored the first field goal for Middle River with a clean shot from about the quarter line. A free throw by Badger netted the visitors one point. Harold Gullickson added the second field goal for the locals by caging a long one from the center of the floor. The first quarter ended 4 to 1 in favor of Middle River.

Early in the second quarter Sulo Sandberg caged a close-in which was followed by another under-the-hoop basket by Waino Johnson. A nice pass to Kramer gave Middle River two more points and just before the end of the first half the Middle River boys brought the enemy's zone by some very clever passwork and Sulo connected for a basket in the prettiest play of the entire game. With Middle River having added 8 points to their score the second quarter ended 12 to 1.

Badger displayed a spurt of speed and passwork in the first few minutes of the second half. A bad opening in the Badger defense gave Middle River two additional baskets. Kramer scored in one out of two free throws and added another point for the locals. Badged gained the ball and broke through the Middle River defence for the first field goal. Foul on Badger and Middle River gained another point. A clever series of passes and Kramer again connected for a close shot. In the next few minutes Badged displayed some excellent passing but was unable to score. A free throw gave both teams an extra point. In the last quarter Henry Johnson went in for Waino Johnson. Both teams slowed down and except for a free throw by Badger no points were gained. The final score was 22 to 5 in favor of Middle River. Thune of Thief River Falls acted as referee.

Bad Blaze Averted.

A blaze which for a time threatened to destroy the Nelius Nelson building and the frame structures next to it, broke out Wednesday evening and was checked only by the efficient work of the local fire department. CHRISTMAS DAY BIG EVENT FOR CITY CHURCHES

Pageants, Tableaux, Song, and Story Hours Play Their Part.

Many Programs Given In Observance of Messiah's Lowly Birth.

Many very splendid Christmas entertaniments were given by the churches of Thief River Falls for their congregations and the general public. Not only the regular programs of dialogues, recitations, and songs given by the children, but in many cases tableaux were given, songs with lovely backgrounds for illustrative purposes were sung, and pantomimes with large casts were presented in honor of the Holy Child's birth.

On Friday evening at the Swedish Ev. Mission church, a Christmas program was given for the children with dialogues, songs and recitations with such a large crowd present they were hardly to be accommodated. On Saturday night the Salvation Army gave its yearly Christmas entertainment for the children of the town, presenting each child with candy and nuts and apples at the end of the evening. On Sunday night a large program was given before a packed audience at the Methodist church. It consisted mainly of a cantata called, "The Magic Star," with a very large cast composed mostly of children, and towards the end of the evening, an offering was taken up for the recent earthquake sufferers in Japan. The Scandinavian Ev. church also gave a program by the Sunday school class at which a great number were present. On Sunday evening too, occurred the entertainment given by the classes of the Presbyterian church. This consisted of a tableau presenting the prophesies of and the birth of Christ. On Monday evening the regular Christmas tree program of songs and recitations was given with Santa Claus and his pack of nuts and candy for all of the little tots. On Monday night St. John's Lutheran church gave a Christmas tree with over 75 children taking part in the program. A collection was taken up for the benefit of the Lutheran orphan home in St. Paul.

On Tuesday night, at the Zion Lutheran church a Christmas tree program was given before a very large audience and candy, fruit and nuts distributed among the children. At the auditorium on the same night, the Trinity Lutheran church gave an immense program before an audience that packed both balcony and main floor and left little standing room anywhere.

Two christmas trees were on the stage and the Sunday school, which numbers in the hundreds, gave a miscellaneous program of recitations, quartets, solos, dialogues and little scenes, after which candy and nuts were distributed.

HORSE DEPICTS TEMPERAMENT

Temperament is a contagious disease.

Even the animals around the "lot" of a moving picture studio are apt to catch it.

An unexpected bit of realism occurred in the making of the film version of "The Hottentot," Thomas H. Ince's screen version of Willie Collier's popular play, when the horse which wins the steeplechase in the picture had a fit of temperament. In the play which will be shown at the Princess next Tuesday and Wednesday, the animal is supposed to be a fiery, highstrung brute whose favorite delicacy is fresh meat. The horse "actor" did its part so well that it nearly broke the neck of Douglas MacLean, who plays the leading role in the picture.

MacLean has the part of Sam Harrington, a yachtman who is scared to death of horses but who rides in a steeplechase to win the girl he loves and to save his own self-respect. In real life MacLean is not much fonder of horses than is Harrington whom he impersonates.

During the filming of the steeplechase a beautiful horse, rented at an enormous figure, was provided for MacLean to ride. The horse suddenly went "loco" during one of the scenes. It began to buck and leap around like mad. MacLean is used to animals with pleasant, home-loving dispositions, and he was taken by surprise by this sudden display of temperament. The girth [illegible] his saddle broke [illegible] stick on until the [illegible] olled.

[illegible] s the big climax [illegible] one funny situation into another even funnier. [illegible], who had endeared himself to the public in many roles, does some of his cleverest work in the part of Sam Harrington, which was created on the stage with tremendous success by William Collier. Dainty Madge Bellamy is the winsome girl of the story whose love for horses leads the yachtman into many appalling situations. Raymond Hatton, as the freakish butler, gets one laugh after another.

Resident of Grand Forks Since Early Days, Peter Stoughton Dies Suddenly

Peter Stoughton, the father of Mrs. J. E. Robinson of this city, died suddenly Wednesday evening, December 18 in Grand Forks, N. D. The immediate cause of his death was a heart attack, but the 81-year old man had been ailing for some time previous. The funeral was held last Saturday at the Masonic Temple in Grand Forks and the body was buried in the Memorial Park cemetery.

Mr. Stoughton was born in Ontario, Canada, in 1842; was married there when 21 years old and came to Grand Forks county with his wife and six children in 1876. He took up a homestead a little to the north of Grand Forks and except for a few years spent in Grand Forks, the family lived on the farm until the death of Mrs. Stoughton in 1912. Since that time Mr. Stoughton had spent most of his time traveling around in his car, spending his time chiefly at the home of his married sons and daughters. He was quite well known in Thief River Falls, especially among the railroad people, and was very well liked and respected.

The surviving relatives are: William, and Mrs. George Stead of Manvel, N. D.; Edward of Fordville, N. D.; Mrs. W. E. Robinson, of Oslo, Minn.; Mrs. J. E. Robinson, of Thief River Falls; James M. of Swan River, Man.; Peter M. and Bruce of Portland, Oregon. The last three named were unable to attend the funeral. There are also John Andrew whose whereabouts are unknown, and V. N. Stoughton who died some time ago, besides twenty-two grandchildren and thirteen great grandchildren.

Daughter of A. Anderson Marries Ohio Collegiate at Home of Parents Here

On Saturda yevening, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderson, of 605 Main avenue north, occurred the marriage of Ruby Anderson, to Williard B. Stone, of Springfield, Ohio.

The bride is very well known here, having been brought up and having begun her musical career in this city. She graduated from the Lincoln high school with the class of 1919, and having shown much talent in music since her childhood, she decided to continue it. Not long after her graduation here, she took up the study of piano and harp at the Oberlin conservatory at Oberlin, Ohio, from which she graduated in 1923. During the present year Mrs. Stone has been engaged in teaching in the Muskingum college conservatory at New Concord, Ohio.

The home of the groom is in Springfield, Ohio, and he is a graduate of the Dennison university. He is at present the physical director in Muskingum college at New Concord.

The wedding was very simple, with Rev. Charles Gerlinger of the Presbyterian church officiating, and with Phyllis Curtis and Bernard Barzen as attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Johnson of Lake Park arrived here last Saturday and visited over Christmas at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Rustad. They expect to return to their home in the morning.

Water scenes filmed on the Thames river at New London, Conn., where many university boat races have been held, will be of exceptional interest to all who see Thomas Meighan's new Paramount picture, "Homeward Bound," at the Princess theatre next Sunday and Monday when it will open a two days' run.

With a staff of nearly thirty assistants and players, Director Ince spent several weeks in and about New London where the yacht and dock scenes, shipping yards, and ocean storms were filmed. The sea shots by Ernest Haller, are said to be remarkable in many respects, while the ingenuity of Director Ince in devising terrific storm scenes with unexampled realism, was fully tested. The photographing of the water scenes was watched daily by hundreds of spectators who often manifested their approval by salvos of cheers.

The story deals with a sailor and the daughter of a ship owner, who are the principals in a thrilling love romance. The various characters are admirably portrayed. Lila Lee as the heroine playing opposite Mr. Meighan. The supporting cast is wholly adequate and includes Charles Abbe, who played in support of Mr. Meighan in "Cappy Ricks;" Hugh Cameron, also of the "Cappy Ricks" cast; William T. Carleton, Gus Weinberg, Maude Turner Gordon, Cyril Ring and others.

Notice.

There will be no meeting of the Daughters of Norway on January 1 as previously mentioned; but an installation meeting will be held on January 8.
